The report of the president showed that the State Association, because of active organization work, had a deficit of over $500 in its funds. A suggestion was made that the different organizations be called on for subscriptions to meet this deficit and supply enough money to warrant the continuance of the work. A list was at once opened and in a short time $1400 was contributed. The largest amount, $250, came from the Dallas Grocers' Association.

Experience had taught the grocers of Texas that it was impossible to run their organization effectively on dues of 50 cents. The annual per capita tax for the State Association was therefore raised to $1 per year per member.

It was decided to separate the office of secretary and organizer and put a special organizer in the field.

Among the resolutions passed was one declaring the Association opposed to jobbers, wholesalers or manufacturers selling direct to any hotel, restaurant or boarding house, when by doing so they were in any way conflicting with the business of a member of the Association. Another resolution favored the passage of a pure food law containing a guarantee clause to protect the retailer.

The resolution also passed asking for a law against box car merchants The movement of the National Association to secure the suppression of premiums in cereals was approved and promised support. The organization entered its protest against a Parcels Post.

IMPORTANT OPPORTUNITY.

FOR SALE—One of the largest and best established wholesale grocery and commission houses in the Northwest, located in the center of a rich productive fruit and farming country. Will take an investment of about $75,000. This will bear thorough investigation. Reason for selling will be given to interested parties. Address C. W. P., Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Clerk's Corner

Story With a Moral.

The elderly proprietor with the Uncle Sam whiskers and shrewd, kindly eye, was especially busy on the Monday between a hot Sunday and a noisy Fourth. The new housekeeper still new enough to be something of a quiet joke in the store—entered in the midst of the rush to receive, check and place the new goods.

The little lady was not required to wait, however, a clerk leaving a sack of potatoes on the scale to attend to her wants. She started to give him her order and the clerk, hastily wiping his fingers upon his trousers leg seized a pencil, bit an end from it and after wetting it in his mouth began scribbling. The little woman's face was a study as she observed the streaks of dirt which followed the clerk's hand as he shifted from one line to another of the order blank.

"I'll take the butter with me," she concluded, as the clerk placed the order upon a file.

The young man started toward the refrigerator, but met the proprietor half way.

"Wash up and put on a fresh apron," said the latter, in a low voice.

"She's in a hurry—so am I," returned the clerk.

"She will have to wait long enough for that," was the answer. The proprietor laid down his invoices, took the order, copied it upon a clean sheet of paper in plain view of the customer, talking to her pleasantly as he did so. When the clerk returned wearing a fresh apron and proceeded to weigh out the butter with clean hands the little woman was smiling again. The other clerks took the hint. When one was called to attend a customer he laid aside his soiled apron and donned another, glanced at his finger nails and settled his necktie before presenting himself to the visitor. It did not take many seconds of time, once the habit was formed.

Gathering the clerks, delivery boy and cashier together at the noon hour the proprietor referred to the subject again.

Importance of Being Clean.

"You have noticed that the health authorities insist upon our goods being protected from the dust of the streets," he said. "The newspapers and others are constantly talking of supposed impurity of goods. Popular sentiment has been wrought up to a high pitch upon the subject of absolute cleanliness of goods. This is only a manifestation of the natural wish of people to be sure that their food is in every way cleanly. You all know how quickly you lose your appetite if your meals are served upon dirty dishes or a soiled table cloth. I believe that more good business is spoiled in a grocery store by untidy people and unappetizing goods than by any other one thing. You see another evidence of that in the increase of package goods.

"I don't like to keep customers waiting unnecessarily, but I believe that any buyer would rather wait long enough for me to clean up than have me serve them with unclean goods or hands.

"I furnish you all with aprons and caps to wear at work and the supply is always sufficient. I look after that as religiously as I watch the change.

"On your part I have a right to expect neat clothing, clean shoes, careful attention to hands and face and abstinence from any habit which might be suggestive of the unpleasant things of life. Some people are naturally more neat than others, and I am paying for the neat ones. Remember, it is not an agreeable thing for the average consumer to think that his food must be handled by other people before they receive it. Our part of meeting that sentiment is to give our customers no reason to think of it. Let the goods and the merchant—or his representative—bear no suggestion but what will encourage the appetite."

Dealers who sell wines should instruct the consumer in the proper temperature at which wines should be drunk. White wines, Rhine wine and sherry should be served moderately cool. Champagne should not be allowed to lie long in the ice-box, but instead should be chilled quickly and served at once, very cold. If allowed to lie in the refrigerator a day or two its flavor suffers. Burgundy and all clarets should be served at a temperature of about 70 degrees, and the same temperature will agree with port, angelica, Madeira and Tokay.

HIGH GRADE PROVISIONS.

Products That Require Care, Capital, and Special Knowledge.

Hams and bacon should be given special attention by the grocers in the summer time, because they are about the only meat that many people eat in hot weather. The best of these products should be carried in stock, because satisfaction to his customers is the first thing that should be considered.

Hams and bacon in their most perfect state cannot be produced in a haphazard fashion. The curing of hog meat is a business in itself and requires special attention, energy and capital. A fine product cannot be made from ordinary material. The finest products can be made only from the finest material.

These facts account for the preeminent quality of the Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Co. The animals from which those goods are made are chosen carefully from the immense droves of hogs received daily in the Chicago market. The finest animals are separated from the herds. The meat is trimmed with special care and is put into special pickle.

To the curing is given special attention. A pickle, different from that used for ordinary meats, is employed and the time the hams and bacon are left in the pickle is watched with jealous care. Because of this, the dealer can rest assured that Diamond "C" meats will always be mild cured and of delicious flavor.

The smoking of the meat is also a subject for special attention. Shell bark hickory wood is used exclusively in preparing Diamond "C" meats. This gives them a rich tint not found in other meats.

Each piece of Diamond "C" ham and bacon is wrapped in parchment paper, is neatly tied with red ribbon and finished with the Diamond "C" trademark and government inspection mark on each piece. These details add materially to the fine appearance and saleability of the goods.

It is the boast of the Cudahy Packing Co. that Diamond "C" meats are the best that experience can offer or money can buy. The company is receiving daily letters from the largest dealers on the Pacific Coast assuring them that their trade has been largely increased through their handling Diamond "C" products.

Human Fallibility.

Infallibility is not included in the human make up. But by what strange gift of nature does fallible man invent and construct infallible machinery? Man makes his own superior!

Neither in railroad systems nor in grocery stores can man be depended upon for exactness, and both institutions have to employ machinery if absolute accuracy is required.

Hand weighing means overweight. The Bond Automatic Weigher cannot overweigh because when the right amount is on the scale the material ceases to flow. What is in the air is allowed for also. It saves its cost in accuracy alone.

L. M. Walter has found that his move to the new store on the opposite corner to his old place at California and Devisadero streets was very advantageous. The new store has many advantages over the old and he is not subject to arbitrary changes in rent.

H. E. Momyer & Son have moved from 3399 Sacramento street to 233 Clement street.

THE LIFE OF GASOLINE

The vital element of gasoline is the gas. If this gas has been allowed to escape, the gasoline is "stale" or "flat" and your customer becomes dissatisfied.

THE REMEDY

Buy a high quality gasoline and store it underground and thus keep it at a uniform temperature, using the

Bowser Long Distance Gasoline Storage Outfit

It is absolutely evaporation proof and so retains the high quality of your gasoline.

It is absolutely safe and is permitted by the Insurance Companies.

It is convenient, gasoline being pumped and measured directly into your customer's can without the use of measure or funnel.

It is economical, as it prevents loss thro' evaporation and spilling.

Points to Watch

SNIDER'S DEAL.
The free deal on Snider's Catsup has been on more than six weeks now. In past seasons it has continued from six to eight weeks. As it will be withdrawn without notice, dealers would be wise to anticipate their wants.

MARTIN'S CHEESE—
The price of Martin's cheese has already advanced and still higher prices are regarded by importers as certain in the near future.

COFFEE—
The market is firm and authorities predict advances. The probability of a duty tends to strengthen conditions.

RICE—
Holders insist that stocks will be so depleted before new comes in that there must be higher prices.

CANNED FRUITS—
The hot spell has advanced the ripening of fruit so that the canners will not be able to take care of it. As a result, the pack is expected to be shorter than was anticipated on many lines. Some prices have already advanced.

CANNED PINEAPPLE—
Higher prices and short packs are reported from Singapore and Porto Rico.

DRIED APPLES—
A short crop is reported throughout the East, the Middle West and Oregon.

AMERICAN SARDINES—
Are being sold at a loss by the packers owing to severe competition.

AN IMPORTANT MATTER.

The retail grocers of San Francisco should awaken to the fact that their interests are vitally affected by the primary election to be held next Tuesday.

In the Forty-second Assembly District the Hon. G. A. McGowen, the Assemblyman from that district, heads the ticket of the regular Republican Club, which is backed up by the county committee. Mr. McGowan was one of the warmest advocates in the interests of the grocers at the last Legislature. He held the leadership of the San Francisco delegation, and while one of the busiest men at Sacramento, yet he was ever ready to use all his influence to further the ends of the grocers. Among those upon the ticket with him are representatives of the best element of citizenship in San Francisco. Without exception, they are men who would not seek to curtail the freedom of others to suit their own prejudices. Don R Dunbar, president of the California Liquor Dealers' Association, is one of the number, and his election will also be of great benefit to the grocery trade who have bars attached.

A VALUABLE MEETING.

State Convention Promises To Give Valuable Results.

SPECIAL RAILROAD RATES.

Indications That Many Cities Will Be Reppresented.

All California grocers who can get to Stockton on Monday and Tuesday, August 21st and 22nd, will find that they will be amply repaid.

There will be representatives at Stockton from many different communities. These men will discuss the best means of helping themselves on the following matters.

Concentrating their influence so as to make manufacturers feel that it will be worth while to consider the rights of the retail dealer.

Perfecting plans so that dead beats may be followed up throughout the State and bad bills collected.

Increasing the scope of the organization so that the Legislature of 1907 will give the grocers even more consideration than the Legislature of 1905.

Deciding the plans for the abatement of various trade abuses, such as wholesalers selling direct to consumers, etc.

These and various other problems will be discussed by the merchants who are present, and advantage will be taken of the existing associations to secure effective results.

An Attractive Program.

The Convention will show a very interesting program. The details will be arranged at the August meeting of the Directors of the State Association, which is to be held on Thursday evening, August 3d. The idea of the directors is to secure as complete an exchange of ideas as possible upon the subjects in which the grocers are interested.

The time of the Convention will be given up largely to discussions by the delegates present and the formulation of plans.

The grocers of Stockton have raised a very considerable fund for the entertainment of the delegates. This entertainment will include a ride up the San Joaquin River in one of Stockton's crack steamers, with stops at various points of special interest. There will also be an elaborate banquet.

Special preparations are being made to entertain the ladies of the delegates. The delegates may be sure that the ladies will have a delightful time.

The program as decided on at Thursday night's meeting will be printed in next week's paper.

Many Will Attend.

The Convention will probably be the most largely attended of any yet held by the State Grocers and Merchants' Association. There are many new organizations in the State, and many individual grocers are taking an interest in Association work who never gave a thought to it before.

Special Rates. Delegates should get a certificate from the agent when buying their tickets to Stockton, and they will be able to return for half fare. This holds for both Southern Pacific and Santa Fe lines.

San Francisco will be represented by some of the best grocers in the city.

Southern California will be represented.

Sacramento will have a strong delegation.

Alamedy County will have a strong delegation; Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley will all send men.

During the past week, the office of the State Association has received the following communications:

Ceres—"You may expect me to attend the Convention." G. E. Archambeault, of the Archambeault-McAllister Co.

Redding—"Will be in Stockton, August 21st and 22d." F. F. Dustin, president Nash Mercantile Co

Rocklin—"I shall take pleasure in attending the State Convention if possible." J. C. Ford.

Chico—"I may possibly attend." F. W. Miller.

Oakdale—"Will be there if reasonably convenient." S. M. Sampson.

Interested Merchants.

From numerous communities come letters expressing interest and wishes for a successful Convention. Among them are the following:

Eureka—"I have notified some of the grocers about the Convention and the work to be done. I am sorry that I cannot attend myself." A. M. Nessler.

Duarte—"As we are so far away I fear that none of our members will be able to attend the Convention." J. Fowler.

Danville—"I should like very much to attend the Convention, but owing to trouble I am having with my eyes I will not be well enough to be out." John Conway.

Riverside—"I fear I cannot attend the Convention at Stockton, but should I be anywhere in that vicinity I will take great pleasure in dropping in." E. Michelbacher.

Bolinas—"We are sorry we cannot attend your Convention. This is our busy part of the season. We trust you will have a successful meeting." Bonaiti & Petar.

Covina—"We will not be able to send a representative to the Convention." Warner & Whitsel

ILLEGALITY OF STAMPS.

Arguments Presented to Establish the Constitutionality of Grocers' Anti-Trading Stamp Law.

Briefs in the case to prove the constitutionality of the law regulating trading stamps and premium coupons have been submitted to the Supreme Court. The following list of attorneys appears upon the brief filed in the interest of the law. Louis F. Byington, John Barber, Allen G. Wight and Chas. A. Sun. The briefs of these attorneys were filed after the attorneys for the trading companies had filed their briefs. This gave them an opportunity to answer the arguments brought by the Trading Stamp Company.

The chief contentions against the Trading Stamps were that

1st. They develope and encourage gambling.

2nd. They inevitably tend to encourage fraudulent and deceitful practices

Law Regulates Premiums

The constitutionality of the law was held on the ground that it did not prohibit the premium sale system, but merely regulated that system.

Chief Justice Shaw has said: "Rights of property, like all other social and conventional rights, are subject to such reasonable limitations as to prevent them from being injurious and to such reasonable restrictions by law as the Legislature may think necessary."

The United States Supreme Court in Champion vs. Ames, 188 U. S. 321, has held that regulations may sometimes appropriately assume the form of prohibition

In regard to the element of chance involved in the handling of trading stamps the brief says

"We do not contend it is a lottery There are, however, innumerable forms of gambling that no one would think of describing as lotteries.

Invite Gambling Instinct.

"To offer a purchaser for a fixed price a known thing is an appeal to an economic want of such purchaser. But to offer a purchaser for a fixed price an unknown thing, is to appeal to his gambling instinct, to invite him to getting more than his money's worth, or, in other words, to get something for nothing. The courts that have passed on the subject have declared this to be gambling, and no court has said it is not gambling."

In State vs Dalton, 27 R I 77, 48 L R A 775, holding unconstitutional a statute prohibiting altogether premium sales and trading stamps as incidents thereto, the court said

"If the act had prohibited the giving away of any stamp or device in connection with the sale of an article which would entitle the holder to receive either directly from the vender or indirectly through another person, some indefinite and undescribed article, the nature and value of such were unknown to the purchaser, there would then be introduced into the prohibited transaction enough of the element of uncertainty and chance to condemn it as being in the nature of a lottery."

Similar Law Constitutional.

In State vs Hawkins, 97 Md 133, a statute exactly similar to the Califor-

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Don't slight the windows.

Push dried fruit put up in packages.

Give summer drinks a strong push.

The cleaner the store the fewer the flies.

Lemons are not at all likely to go lower.

Don't neglect the upper part of the window.

Hard weather on the refrigerator. Keep the door shut.

Holland herring are very scarce and command high prices.

Dates are among the cheapest of the dried fruits at present

Pearl barley has advanced about fifty cents per hundred.

White corn meals and hominy have been very scarce of late.

Lima beans are scarce and the market is an advancing one.

Don't fill a sunny window with goods that the sun will discolor.

Don't let the window stand too long. A week is about the limit.

Don't put groceries that are easily spoiled in the hot window.

Olives and pickles must not be overlooked these summer days.

Don't skimp on elbow grease in cleaning the window glass.

Say, how is your candy department, anyway? Keep an eye on it

Don't be afraid to try something new in the way of a window display.

Condensed soups now that the weather is too warm for much cooking.

Demand for fruit jars ought to be good now. Wake up business on this item.

A cool store will attract more trade than a hot one—other things being equal.

Why don't you demonstrate iced tea some of these hot days? That would be a winner, sure.

A way not to build up the cheese business: Leave the cheese out in the open at all times.

Jelly tumblers, glass jars, rubbers, etc., will sell freely now if pushed a little.

Don't be afraid to spend a little money on the window trim. It will come back.

Don't leave the grocery window bare over Sunday. Better put in a pyramid of canned goods.

Of all dried fruits apricots alone can be carried over to a second year without deteriorating.

Don't be a hog. Give the other fellow a chance, and you will have a better chance yourself.

The show window will go a long way toward making the success of the bakery department.

Don't fail to call the local newspaper's attention to each nice window trim that you make.

Jobbers report a good demand for sardines, deviled ham, canned meats, oysters and similar lines.

Certain preserves, like Worcestershire sauce, grow richer the longer they are kept, up to a certain limit.

There is a firmer market for lemon cling peaches owing to a belief that the pack will fall short of early estimates.

A raw egg dropped into a glass of lemonade and the mixture shaken quickly in a shaker, makes a fine summer drink.

Don't try to do too much in your window. Better a simple trim changed often than an elaborate one that stands two weeks.

Doing any advertising now? What, no! You ought to always be doing some sort of advertising. Oh, yes, it pays to advertise.

The domestic crop of walnuts is 50 per cent short of last year's. The French crop is very short. Chili walnuts are also a light crop.

The currant market in Greece has been stimulated by the bill in the Greek Parliament to give a monopoly of the sale of currants to a company.

Even with a very heavy pack of sockeyes, experts think that red Alaska and pink salmon will not cost less than at the present time, and will probably cost more.

The salt fish department is a good talking point all the year round. Advertise or display a list of the kinds you carry. Don't expect customers to find out for themselves.

This is not particularly good syrup or molasses weather, but the stock should not be neglected. Goods in tin pails is a pretty steady seller in the country districts where the pails are very useful utensils after being emptied.

Shelled walnuts are very strong and have advanced about three cents within the last thirty days. It is expected that both foreign and domestic walnuts will be a short crop this fall and the prices are likely to remain firm.

The biggest failure, in a business way, is that man whose enormous wealth is stained by the ruin of thousands of his fellow-creatures; nor churches, nor libraries, nor medals, nor drinking fountains will wash out that stain.

Extra fine granulated sugar is sold by some grocers. Some people prefer it to powdered for use on fruit, as it is almost as fine and does not cake like the pulverized product. It costs about ten cents a hundred more than the standard granulated.

The more simply a business is conducted the more likely it is to succeed. Make or buy your goods honestly, be industrious, be truthful, be polite, be accommodating, gain and deserve the confidence of your patrons, and your business success is assured.

More than two hundred grocers in Peoria, Ill., have signed an agreement not to buy goods from wholesalers who sell to consumers. The blow is aimed at the commission men who, it is alleged, have been selling to consumers for a long time, at the same prices that they have charged the grocers for goods.

There are many people in every locality that are not acquainted with all the various summer drinks that the grocer sells or should sell. A demonstration of the whole line might prove profitable some Saturday. Have some one to explain carefully how to make each one and have plenty of stock right there to sell.

The biggest successful man is the man who has a little business in a little town, and strictly attends to it; he works reasonably hard, pays as he goes, lives comfortably without frills, enjoys his home, performs the duty of a citizen, is respected by his neighbors, and puts away each year a couple of dollars for that old age he is quite certain to reach.

Once it was said business could not be both honest and profitable, but this statement was probably never true. Certainly it is not true now. A truly successful business is successful in at least two directions, first, in establishing a good reputation, second, in securing a comfortable surplus. These should be in partnership. If choice must be made, choose good reputation, comfortable surplus alone may land you in jail with Mrs. Chadwick.

STRONG SELLING TALK.

Points on Snider's Catsup That Help Move the Goods.

An interesting circular is being sent out to the trade by the Spohn-Patrick Co., in which they give the strong selling points of Snider's Catsup. In this circular they say:

Dear Sir:—

Most merchants are, or should be, interested in the wares they handle. In order to talk intelligently of the merits of the article, you must know of what it is made, and how. This letter is for the purpose of placing before those who are not thoroughly posted on Snider's Catsup, the following pertinent facts:

Snider's Catsup is made from fresh, ripe, meaty tomatoes, without fermentation, and seasoned with the best spices.

Snider's factories are equipped with every modern and sanitary device for making a pure, high-grade article.

Snider's process is a very expensive one, but this is essential to insure pure and wholesome food.

Snider's Catsup is put up in strict conformity with the Pure Food Laws of every State.

Snider's factories are open at all times for your personal inspection.

Snider's name on a bottle of catsup is an absolute guarantee of its purity.

Snider's factories have grown to their present large proportions, because they have merit for their foundation.

The wise merchant protects the health of his customers, and gains their trade and confidence by offering them the best—Snider's is by far the best.

Are you one of the wise ones? Then rank with the majority and indicate your future needs on the enclosed order blank and return to us, before it is too late.

A VALUABLE NOVELTY.

In these days of wireless telegraphy and horseless carriages, it is not surprising to find that housewives are given an opportunity to make their own maple syrup from the contents of a bottle they can buy from their retail grocer.

The Spohn-Patrick Co. have secured the agency for such an article. It is "Mapleine" and is manufactured by the Crescent Manufacturing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

"Mapleine" is a concentrated flavoring extract and gives the maple flavor to cakes, candies, bonbons, ice cream, etc., and when added to ordinary syrup, gives it the flavor of maple syrup.

These goods will be advertised to the consuming public by means of demonstrations and liberal distribution of samples. When the buckwheat cake crop is ready for harvest, the newspapers will also be called in. Its success in the Northwest, where it was first introduced, has assured its success in the larger markets.

ILLEGALITY OF STAMPS.

nia statute was held constitutional. The court said:

"If the vender holds out as an inducement to purchase his goods, wares or merchandise, the giving of a stamp which will thus entitle the purchaser to something which is uncertain, undetermined and unknown to him at the time of the purchase, the transaction is certainly one bearing some 'semblance to lottery or gambling' and 'involving the element of chance.' . . . It would seem clear that if purchasers from the merchant always paid full value for the goods purchased and for the article obtained from the Trading Stamp Company, there would be but little inducement for them to make purchases in that way. But when they are lead to believe that they have a chance of getting something in addition to their purchase, and especially when they do not know what it is to be, then it is unfortunately true that there are many persons who would be thereby induced to make purchases where they would not otherwise have done so. The uncertain, undertermined and unknown is what attracts a large class of people in every community, and the tendency to thus deal is one of the evils of the present day.

Regulation a Public Need.

"Numerous statutes have been passed to prevent transactions which, while not technical lottery, are so akin to them that they have some of the same evil results. If the inducement for the sale was a stamp which would enable the holder to get something that was uncertain, undetermined or unknown to him at the time of the purchase, it would seem to be clear that the transaction involved the element of chance referred to in Long vs. State, 74 Md. 565, and therefore not only cannot be justified by that decision, but is by implication, at least, condemned by it."

Either the article sold is not full value for the seling price, and consequently the seller falsifies both his representation that he gives full value and that the stamp (or premium) have cost the purchaser nothing; or else, the system is a gambling device. One alternative or the other (perhaps both) is in the essence of the premium-sale system when worked with unknown premiums. If it is the former, a statute to regulate it is not unconstitutional, but highly necessary to prevent a public swindle of far-reaching proportions. If, however, it is not the former, it is gambling and each sale is a gambling transaction.

Trading Stamps Condemned.

In Landsburgh vs. District of Columbia, 11 Appeals Dist Col. 526, the court condemned trading stamps in the following language:

"Although one of the most shrewdly planned of the many devices to obtain something for nothing, and one apparently entirely novel, it could hardly have come more clearly within the statute had it been well known and expressly in the contemplation of Congress at the time of the enactment.

"The Washington Trading Stamps Company and its agents are not merchants engaged in business as that term is commonly understood. They are not dealers in ordinary merchandise engaged in a legitimate attempt to obtain purchases for their goods by offering fair and lawful inducements to trade. Their business is the exploitation of nothing more or less than a cunning device."

Numerous decisions are cited to prove that the anti-trading stamp law does not make unlawful discriminations and is not an invasion on the constitutional right of contract.

In making it clear that the statute was not special legislation directed at a certain class of persons arbitrarily selected, the brief recited.

Some Schemes Are Legal.

"It cannot be said of this statute that it is aimed to drive the stamp-using merchant out of business for the benefit of the merchant not using stamps. Our statute is not directed at stamps or coupons. It recognizes that trading stamps can be used for a perfectly legitimate purpose as well as for a harmful purpose. It permits the former (known premiums). It forbids the latter (unknown premiums).

"It may be argued by petitioners that under the guise of prohibiting unknown premiums, the real intention of the statute is to prohibit the trading stamp business by making it unattractive or unprofitable. That would be a confession by the petitioner that the trading stamp busines could not be worked profitably with known premiums, but only with unknown premiums. And when we come to ask what is there in the nature of unknown premiums that is not in the nature of known premiums, which allows the trading stamp business to be profitably conducted in one case and not in the other, the answer could only be that the unknown premium allows the trading stamp companies either to gamble or to use fraudulent or deceitful methods, whereas the known premium does not."

Irrelevant Cases Cited.

Numerous cases cited by the opposing counsel as holding anti-trading stamp legislation unlawful were shown to have no bearing on the case. In the case of the State vs Dalton in which the Supreme Court of Rhode Island declared a law unconstitutional which forbade the sales which entitled the purchaser of some other property than that actualy sold, the Court said:

"If the act had prohibited the giving away of any stamp or device with the sale of the article which would entitle the holder to receive directly from the vender or indirectly through another person some indefinite and undetermined article the nature and value of which were unknown to the purchaser, there would then have been introduced into the prohibited transaction enough of the element of uncertainty and chance to condemn it as being in the nature of a lottery."

Concluding the Court said: "We deem it proper to say that we do not approve of the trading stamp business. What we do decide is that the statute in question is so broad as to interfere with the right of an individual to deal with his property in his own way so long as he observes the rule –that his use of it shall not be injurious to the community."

Judge Garber's Arguments.

In a separate brief, Hon. John Garber argues at length the right of the Legislature to restrict contracts of sale by requiring identification of the subject matter In this regard he says:

"If it were understood that the value of the premium was to be added to the price of the goods sold, the method would never have been invented or employed."

Criminality Requires Suppression.

Referring to the statement of the opposing council that "all the Courts have held that the premium gift scheme is not subject to the police power and that uncertainty is a lawful adjunct to it," Judge Garber replies:

"This is a serious error. On the contrary, it may be said that all the cases are the other way. In other words, there is not even a conflict of authority."

Referring to another statement on their part that: "The act on its face is clearly an attempt to suppress and thus destroy the trading stamp and coupon business," Judge Garber says:

"If this were so, which would mean that their business when conducted on the lines and in a manner condemned in the decision, it would constitute no object on even could the Courts go behind the act and consider motives. But it is not, on its face or otherwise, such an attempt. It is what is purports to be, a salutary, moderate and beneficial regulation, involving no hardship to any one wishing to engage in any legitimate and proper use of the trading stamp device."

In condemning the applicability of certain decisions quoted by the Trading Stamp Companies, Judge Garber says

The Massachusetts decision cited expressly draws the distinction between the trading stamp cases relied on by the petitioners and cases like ours which reguiate offers of bargains which appeal to the gambling instinct "and induce people to purchase what they do not want, by the promise of a gift or a prize, the precise nature of which is not known at the moment of making the purchase." (42 N E p. 559)

NECESSARY AS SCALES.

The careful retail grocers will be much interested in the folding delivery boxes described on the first page of this cover. These boxes are very light, being made of pliable boards wired together. At the same time they are very durable the agent guaranteeing the boxes for two years if subjected to only ordinary wear.

Grocers who have used these boxes say that they are as necessary adjuncts to the modern grocer. They are not only a great convenience, but effect a saving [illegible] for the use of both wagon and store room, and make it impossible for the clerk to overlook the delivery of any packages.

Grocers interested in these boxes should address W A Hawley Pacific Coast agent. Also is located at 578 Mission street.

GOING SOME.

Reports Come in of Record Breaking Sales of Carnation Cream.

The month of July proved a record breaker for the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co The sales of Carnation Cream were the heaviest of any month in the history of the company. As a matter of fact, the sales for the month, through the Spohn-Patrick Co., exceeded the sales of the first twelve months that the account was in the hands of that firm some five years ago.

The month of August has opened auspiciously. If the sales for the rest of the month keep up to the record of the first three days, the sales for July will be doubled.

The enormous demand for Carnation Cream is the result of quality coupled with judicious advertising. The manufacturers have realized the full value of publicity, and their advertising appropriation has been constantly increasing in every territory they cover.

Contracts have just been closed for painting permanent fence signs in conspicuous locations in San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. If these signs were all put togother they would make a fence 1000 feet long. The work on these signs is very striking and artistic.

A similar campaign of advertising will be carried on in Southern California.

GUM BY THE CAR.

A carload of "Chiclets" is now en route for San Francisco to supply the jobbing trade. The Spohn-Patrick Co. report that their salesmen throughout the entire Coast are billing large orders, as the generous advertising space used in all the leading daily papers hone created a very strong demand. The "Chiclets" people will shortly erect large and striking signs on the bill boards of all the large cities of the Coast, and will also continue their newspaper work. The peculiar excellence of these goods and the big campaign of advertising will unquestionably interest consumers here, as has been the case in the cities of the East. The splendid margin of profit for the retailers will interest the trade.

Attracting Trade

Window Display Rules.

1. It pays because it samples the goods in an attractive manner. Were the same goods placed in the same windows without any regard being paid to their attractiveness, just tumbled in haphazard fashion, no attention whatever would be paid to them by passers-by, consequently they would be worthless in an advertising sense.

2. For advertising purposes always exhibit the genuine article; never put forth any "doctored" wares. And never display goods that you have not got in stock. If they are called and you can't fill the order, don't make matters worse by prevaricating, but immediately order them or take the sample from the window.

3. Change your window display often so as to sample as many different articles in a given time as possible.

4. Elaboration is unnecessary; still, if the merchant has the time and inclination, it will do no harm, and under certain conditions it will pay for itself in the satisfaction it affords as an aesthetic display

5. Make it a point to have the labels show up conspicuously.

6. Do not place ordinary pastboard signs in a displayed window, nor have goods or miscellaneous rubbish stored or placed in front of same.

7. Never display one window and leave the others with scant attention.

Carelessness Don't Pay.

"The Business Management Man," in "Printer's Ink," has a friend who drinks beer with his dinner every night. He buys it at the corner grocery, on alternate nights, and always the same quantity—three bottles. The proprietor and the same clerks have waited on him long enough to know what he wants almost without being told, yet he tells me that with one exception his order has had to be repeated at least once, and on that exception he reached home to find that he had two bottles of light beer and one of dark, though he asked distinctly for three bottles of light beer.

He invariably has to wait until the clerks have finished their personal conversation or until some part of their routine work is done, and as a result of the general indifference and inattentiveness all around he has transferred his entire grocery trade, which amounts to a good deal, to a store whose stock offers nowhere near as many trading advantages, but whose service is prompt and efficient.

Maybe the careless groceryman, with his still more careless clerks, who of course take their cue from him, is making money. If he is, he is making it in spite of poor service and he could easily make a great deal more by halfway attending to business

This is by no means an exceptional case; you find more or less of it in all kinds of business. In big stores it is practically impossible to make every clerk render the proper service; but in a store where only half a dozen clerks are continually under the eye of the owner it would seem a very simple matter to make certain that every customer gets the prompt and careful attention to which he is entitled. Even the owner of the only store of its kind in a small town cannot afford to become careless in the matter, because the big mail order houses are reaching out into his field every day with all sorts of attractive propositions, and he no longer owns his customers.

Study a Customer's Peculiarities.

The man behind the counter who has learned to quickly size up a customer and estimate his peculiarities has taken a long stride on the road toward successful salesmanship.

Practically every man has his own individual peculiarities, which should be met in different ways. One man may like to be served in the most expeditious manner possible, with as little talking as may be necessary on either side, while another might resent it unless he were served in a more leisurely way, with a liberal allowance of conversation on the side.

One customer may regard it as presumption upon the part of the clerk or dealer if they manifest the slightest interest in his personal affairs, while another might welcome such a show of interest, and encourage it most heartily.

The man who has the happy faculty of recognizing the little peculiarities of different customers, and respecting them, can do much toward winning and holding trade, while the man who lacks this faculty is bound to unintentionally offend many people.—Tobacco.

Value of Uniform Courtesy.

Uniform courtesy and politeness will do more to make a store popular with the best class of customers than a daily cut price sale.

There are stores that rarely cut the price of their goods and yet manage to hold together a steady clientele of customers, who continue to patronize them year in and year out

The secret of this will usually be found in the fact that customers are invariably treated with so much courtesy and politeness that they find it a positive pleasure to patronize that particular store, and it would take a much stronger inducement than a cut in prices to lure them away.

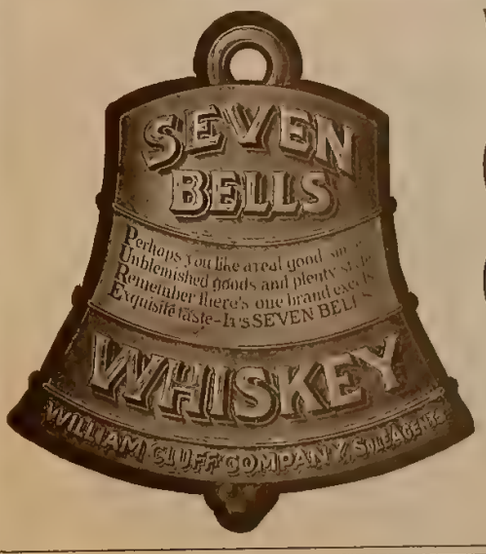
A QUALITY PROBLEM.

Retail grocers from time to time face the problem as to whether they can afford to sell high-priced goods relying upon the quality to hold trade for them.

Results usually prove that it is quality, and quality only, that carries weight with the most desirable class of trade.



While there is a large body of people who are influenced particularly by cheapness, these customers are usually shoppers whose trade is carried from place to place as cut-rate offerings are made. The consequence is that the trade is not of particular value, since it cannot be relied upon and the margin of profit on what is sold to this class of customers is always light.

It pays better to cater to those people who want the best and are willing to pay for it. For this reason the grocery trade finds it profitable to handle the Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Co. From the letters that have been printed from time to time on page 4 of the Advocate, it can readily be seen that the best grocers of the State consider the Diamond "C" products as trade winners.

The quality is always satisfactory. At the same time the margin of prices over inferior goods is not so great as to make a marked difference in the retail seling price, although the grocer is able to secure a better margin of profit on Diamond "C" goods than on the cheaper lines.

A STRONG ACQUISITION.

The trade throughout the Northwest and in Montana and Idaho will learn with interest that the Porto Rico Coffee Company has engaged the services of F. D Stephenson. Mr. Stephenson is a veteran traveling man and is thoroughly posted on coffee. He is known and liked by the grocers throughout the Northwest, and will unquestionably increase the business of the Porto Rico Coffee Co. materially in that territory.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

United States Department of Agriculture reports for California:

"Hay crop is the best for several years. Beans and hops doing well. Yield of deciduous fruits is below the average. Walnut blight has quite seriously affected many orchards."

SUGAR.

An advance of 10 cents per 100 was announced by the Western Sugar Refining Co. on Tuesday, August 1st. The market is strong, although there is not much buying.

New York, July 27th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—Have shown a firmer tone than for some time past as a result of an advance of 1-16 cent per lb. on a limited number of transactions. Offerings have grown less daily until it is difficult to say that any parcels of sugar are actually offered at specific prices.

Refined—The refined market is unsettled. This is the result of the cutting of prices, allowing of special rebates by refiners and also the freight rate war of the railroads. Although the raw market maintains a firm and steady tone with light offerings, and shows an advance, and the weather has been ideal for consumption, these favorable points are lost sight of in the competition for business.

New York, July 25th—M. G. Wanzor & Co. report.

"Raw sugar market is strong. We do not look for any rapid advance. But the better tone that now prevails makes the present price a good basis to start from. Refined seems still a trifle too high, and to-day's market gives room for a little too much manipulation in the shape of special privileges. Both the refined and raw markets look better to us to-day than they have for some time."

New Orleans, July 22d—G. Schwartz reports:

"There has been no improvement in conditions and disappointed holders are taking their medicine and have become free sellers."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Bellefontaine, O., July 18th—F. N. Johnson & Co. report:

"Canada maple syrup is a trifle lower. This article is largely used in making a flavored maple syrup. As the enforcement of the pure food laws has curtailed the consumption of mixed goods, there has resulted a less demand, and, therefore, lower prices."

TEA.

New York, July 25th—John B. Brown & Co report:

Ping Sueys—The earliest samples did not reach here until the 17th inst., 17 days later than last year. The prices secured showed a reduction of about 7 tels per picul compared with last year's opening rates.

Formosas—Prices hold firm. We do not expect lower prices during this current season than now quoted on Formosas.

COFFEE.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The coffee market displays a very strong tendency."

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"The coffee market is very firm with many strong transactions reported. The rumor that the Government is likely to put a 2½-cent duty on coffee has had a marked influence on the situation and is causing the roasters to buy more freely than hitherto.

"We advise manufacturers to keep their stock well up, as, if the duty is put on, prices will go materially higher, and if not, prices are so low that they cannot lose.

"There are only small stocks in the hands of importers—between 50,000 and 60,000 bags—whereas the monthly consumption in this market is about 20,000 bags. It will be seen, therefore, that we have about three months' supply on hand, and as the new crop does not begin to come in until January or February, there is not sufficient to last until that time.

"Prices are certain to continue firm, with upward tendency."

New York, July 27th—Willet & Gray report:

"Supplies have declined heavily in the past crop year. The interior trade has considerably less coffee than a year ago. Yet some people have been cherishing the weak hope that the advent of the new crop and larger receipts would result in much reduced prices and allow of the replenishing of stocks just as desired. It is now reported that the current crop has been overestimated. Under circumstances like this, it is foolish to expect Brazil to give way in prices when knowing too well the necessities of consuming markets. The moment any general buying occurs the coffee trade will be forced to recognize the true merits of the position, and they certainly warrant a higher level of values."

New York, July 25th—Volney Green & Co. report:

"The tone of the market is very firm, and there has been an advance in prices in both actual quotations and options. Rio 7's are quoted at 8¼ cents, but it is impossible to buy good roasters at this figure. Holders of desirable coffee are requiring a premium over quotations for graded. The conditions favor a continued firm market. There is a renewal of talk regarding the duty to be placed on coffee at the special session of Congress. This will have some bearing on the course of the market for the next few months."

RICE.

New York, July 25th—Dan Talmage Sons Co. report:

"Quiet condtions still prevail. It is well that this is so since a large general demand would clearly show how small is the supply at all points of distribution."

Goldsboro, N. C., July 24th—Carolina Rice Mills report:

"There is a much more active demand than usual for this season of the year, owing to the strong tone of the market and the fact that the trade realizes that higher prices will rule."

Portland, Ore., July 19th—The Portland Rice Milling Co. say:

"Locally jobbers are pursuing a hand-to-mouth policy. Their stocks are low in most cases, but they seem to prefer cleaning up to taking on a fresher supply."

SPICES.

Baltimore, July 20th—McCormick & Co. report.

"From the present outlook, prices are likely to advance rather than remain steady."

CANNED FRUITS.

The intense heat of a few weeks back resulted in the rapid ripening of fruits of all classes. As a consequence, the canning season will be somewhat shortened and the canners will not be able to put up as much of the different grades as they would had the season been normal. Already the Association has withdrawn prices on 3 lb. Standard Royal Ann Cherries; 2½ Water, White Cherries; 2½ Water, Black Cherries; all grades of White Health Peaches; gal. pie peeled peaches. Advances have been noted on Water Lemon Clings to $1.15; Second Lemon Clings to $125, and Standard Lemon Clings to $1.40. Prices are firmly held with the prospect of advances in other lines.

Baltimore, July 22d—H. H. Taylor & Sons report:

"We predict that the pack of peaches will be the lightest for many years, and will run mostly to seconds or pies, as the higher rate of fruit will be too expensive to compete with California peaches at the present low prices for the latter. It would not be surprising if the conditions would warrant considerably higher quotations on peaches in a very short time."

San Jose, July 31st—The canneries of Santa Clara, Berryessa, Los Gatos and Campbell are working to their fullest capacity. They are finishing up on apricots and running into peaches. A few Bartlett pears are also being canned.

Suisun—The canners here have been offering $60 to $75 per ton for choice pears for export shipment. The output this year will show a marked decrease compared with last year's shipments.

Pomona—It is estimated that the local canneries have packed 1,600,000 cases of apricots. One hundred and fifty cars of peaches have been contracted for from the growers. This will be the largest season this cannery has ever known.

CANNED PINEAPPLES.

New York, July 24th—Paul Taylor Brown Co. reports:

"Advices this week note another advance in the Singapore market, which makes a difference of 37½ cents per dozen all along the line. Singapore informs us that the pack is practically over for the summer and has been much lighter than expected. Owing to dry weather and the high price of green fruit, the pack in Porto Rico has not been as large as expected."

CANNED TOMATOES.

The local demand for tomatoes is strong, owing to the prospects of a light crop both in the East and here.

At the Tri-State convention of the Tomato Packers of Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey, the fact was developed that the acreage planted to tomatoes this year was only about 34,000 acres, as against 54,000 of last year.

Perryman, Md., July 22d—Jay F. Towner reports:

"Spot tomatoes in this section are well cleaned up. The acreage is about half of last season's. Buyers are slow to appreciate the situation. They are apparently waiting for a 75-cent market."

CANNED PEAS.

In Wisconsin it seems to be agreed that the output will not be over 40 per cent of last year's. The recent hot spell had a bad effect on peas.

DRIED FRUIT.

The following circular of a Chicago broker sheds considerable light on the situation:

Chicago, July 22d—Herbert W. Smith reports:

"The local market is steadily improving, owing to authentic reports of crop damage not only from the Pacific Coast, but from New York, Michigan, and other Eastern sections. As a consequence there are few low price offerings on those varieties on which there is a carry-over.

Prunes—40-50's and other small sizes are actively inquired for at very satisfactory figures.

Raisins—Stocks in the Central East are being cut down all the time, and values firmly held wherever goods show proper keeping qualities. It is probable that during August and September the spot demand will be strongly felt on the Coast.

Figs—California fruit held in the East are, we think, practically gone into consumptive channels. The trade are placing rather liberal orders for the new crop.

Apricots—The quality of the new fruit now arriving is steadily improving. We hear of no accumulations or concessions in prices thus far.

Peaches—The new fruit is coming onto a market very nearly bare. The Eastern crop is fairly large and of excellent quality. As the Eastern peaches are not dried to any extent, dealers are taking hold of the new crop California futures fairly well at a price slightly higher than first opening quotations.

Evaporated Apples—Are firmly held at a substantial advance. Prospects have grown less favorable from day to day through nearly all the Eastern districts. It is not likely that the new crop will sell any lower than is asked for the small carry-over stock now held in cold storage.

PRUNES.

San Jose—W. S. Clayton says: "The rate of production and the crop on the trees are diminishing. We shall never have such a crop again as that of 1900." Mr. Clayton thinks there will not be more than a one-third crop this year, as the hot spell caused considerable loss. He reports that about 600 tons of prunes have been sold on a 2¾-cent basis.

Los Gatos—A few offerings at a 2¾-cent basis have been received for French prunes during the last few weeks, but have been turned down by the packers. The packers expect a 3-cent basis.

The Dalles, Ore.—The hot spell has badly damages prunes and apples.

RAISINS.

Hanford—Vineyardists complain that in some cases the crop seems to be entirely destroyed by mildew. In others, the condition is so serious that it will not pay to pick the crop.

Yuba City—Acording to all reports, the Thompson Seedless grapes in this county have been damaged from 25 to 50 per cent by the hot spell.

Fresno—The California Raisin Growers' Association have selected M. F. Tarpey, W. B. Nichol, A. D. Jordan, C. M. Blowers and A. W. Goodfellow as their five directors for the combination with the raisin packers. The packers are to appoint five directors, and the ten will decide upon the eleventh man.

Malaga, Spain, July 3d—United States Consul D. R. Birch writes:

"The Malaga raisin crop of 1905 promises to be considerably in excess of last year's yield. Consular figures show that last year's sales in the United States exceeded those of 1903 by one-third."

DRIED APRICOTS.

San Bernardino, July 28th—Buyers are offering as high as 6 cents for apricots. Owners are holding off for 6½ cents. They feel certain figures will reach that point.

Santa Ana—T. J. Alexander says the crop of apricots throughout this valley has been about 50 per cent of the normal, but that it was unusually good quality.

DRIED FIGS.

New York, July 22d—The following opening prices for California figs were announced yesterday: Choice, 50 cents; Extra Choice, 55 cents; Fancy, 60 cents, in one-pound packages. No large transactions were reported at these figures. The situation in Smyrna has not developed yet. This will have a strong influence on the sales of California fruit."

DRIED APPLES.

Appleton, N. Y., July 22d—J. G. Swigert reports:

"Evaporated apples are open to advance. The apple crop in Western New York is nearly a total failure, and is light throughout the United States. The holdover of the 1904 crop is only about 25 per cent of that of previous years. This fruit is in the hands of very few firm holders."

Sodus, N. Y., July 22d—A. P. Williams reports:

"The apple crop looks more unfavorable every day. I doubt if there will be 20 per cent of last year's crop in this State. Considerable inquiries from the Middle West indicate a shortage there. Few future evaporated apples are being sold, as it is doubtful whether they can be bought from the producers at a price that will permit of delivery without loss at prevailing prices."

"Apples are not over 40 per cent of a crop."

DATES AND CURRANTS.

New York, July 22d—The Hills Bros. Co. report:

Persian Dates—Stocks are unusually light. They will in all probability be very scarce before the arrival of the first direct steamer.

Currants—On account of the strong cables received from Greece, local markets show a further advance of ⅛ cent on all grades. Fine Amalias now offered at 4 7-8 cents; Wedding Cake at 5 cents. Reports from Greece indicate a good size crop of excellent quality. As soon as the new law is in full operation and the market adjusts itself to the new business, higher prices will prevail.

WALNUTS.

Grenoble, France, July 5th—United States Consul C. P. T. Mason writes:

"Owing to the unusually cold spring and long continued rains, walnuts have ripened slowly. The trees look well and promise a normal yield. We believe the nuttage for 1905 will be well up to the average as to quality, and we see no reason why it should not be so in quantity. Should the weather continue normal, the prospects are favorable for a normal crop."

ALMONDS.

Suisun—The almond crop in this valley is estimated at about half a crop. The growers are talking of forming an association for disposing of their crop.

Malaga, Spain, July 3d—United States Consul D. R. Birch writes:

"The Jordan almond crop is now secured and a large yield is expected. The indications are that the output will probably exceed that of last year. The Valencia crop will be as plentiful as usual. There is only a small holdover stock."

PECANS.

St. Louis, July 27—The P. E. Funston Dried Fruit and Nut Co. says:

Reports from Texas indicate a small yield of pecans. A strong active market can therefore be looked for, as the carry-over of 1904 crop was unusually light."

PEANUTS.

Petersburg, Va., July 22d—E. A. Hartley & Bro. report:

"There are no Spanish peanuts left except in the hands of two or three cleaners. We expect a firm market with further advances since there will be no new goods until about November 1st."

LIMA BEANS.

J. K. Armsby Co. report:

"The market is very firm. Limas are selling at from $5.65 to $5.80 in San Francisco, and $5.50 at Southern points. In the East they are selling at 6⅛ cents. The entire spot supply will be wiped out by the time the new crop arrives, and next year will probably see a duplication of this year's experience."

Santa Barbara—The damp weather that has prevailed lately has been very beneficial to the crop.

Santa Maria—Beans are doing nicely. If no exceptionally hot weather is had to hurt the bloom, a big crop should be harvested.

Los Angeles, July 19th—Holmes, Stockard Co. report:

"There will be no spot stocks of Lima beans either in the East or West at the opening of the new season. Should the 1905 crop even reach 800,000 sacks, which is the utmost claimed, there will be only 725,000 available since 75,000 will have to be deducted for seed, damage, etc. Contracts and other sales should take 450,000 by December 31st, since that much was taken in 1903 during the same period, although the conditions existing in July of that year did not promise the big demand that is clearly indicated now. This will leave a supply on hand, January 1st, 1906, of 275,000 sacks, which is approximately the same amount of stock that was available January 1st, 1905. We all know what happened about the beginning of this year. The puzzling question is: 'Will history repeat itself?' The growing crop is doing well and indicates a yield, barring contingencies, of 700,000 to 800,000 bags."

WHITE BEANS.

Chelsea, Mich., July 22d—J. P. Wood reports:

"Spot beans firmly held by the farmers, who expect $1.50 in the rough. The growing crop looks fine. The acreage is about the same as last year. Advices from other parts of the State indicate a shortage of 15 to 20 per cent less than last year."

CANNED SALMON.

The big run of sockeyes continues. Prices will not be made till a definite idea of the pack can be secured, since this year's pack will have to furnish a large part of the supplies for 1906, 1907 and 1908.

A ridiculous story was printed in the "Examiner" that canners were packing putrid salmon. The folly of packing spoiled fish when the canneries had more supplies of good fish than they could handle is very apparent. At the same time, canners do not put money into unsalable goods.

Seattle, July 27th—Already cannerymen are commencing to figure on the prices that will prevail at the opening of the market on the new pack. Nearly all packers think the pack will fall short of the estimates that were made in the early part of the season. Estimates were made ranging from 900,000 to 1,200,000 cases for the Sound. The more conservative packers now place estimates at from 500,000 to 700,000 cases. Figuring on this basis, they expect the market on the new pack will reach the highest mark that has been known for years before Christmas.

Seattle, Wash., July 29th—The "Trade Register" says:

"In past years the great bulk of sales was booked in the first week after announcement of prices. This season sales have been small. The Eastern buyer is making the mistake, because the market is in entirely different condition.

"The cheaper grades have been well cleaned up, and their pack will be small this year.

"The choice grades, even with a heavy pack, will not warrant lower prices and should command higher."

"The largest packers of sockeye will be in a better position to hold stock over for the next lean year, even at higher prices, and, with a better European market and growing demand in other countries, the home jobbers cannot look for such weakness as was shown when there were heavy carry-overs and one of the big interests started a bitter fight that resulted disastrously all around.

"A capacity pack of sockeyes cannot be figured on this season, as the run is late, and should the pack fall below the most conservative estimate of 500,000 cases, there would be several more packers go to the wall at the end of the season."

Seattle, July 26th—The salmon now running are said to be in unusually ripe condition for the early part of the season. This is taken as an indication that the run will be short. The fish as a rule remain in the Straits until they are nearly ready to spawn and then make for the Fraser River. If they remain in the Straits longer, they make for the spawning grounds with greater rapidity. As a result the run is shortened.

Bellingham, Wash., July 30th—So great is the run of sockeye salmon this season that the traps are literally overrun with them. The fish are packed in so tight that many are smothered before the traps are lifted. Thus the fish are dead before they leave the water and are sometimes dead twenty-four hours on account of the traps not being lifted every day, as is required by law, and the fish are allowed to remain in the traps until the scows are unloaded at the canneries.

Bellingham, July 26th—Fish Commissioner Kershaw has appointed twenty-five deputies to guard the traps on Sunday next. He insists that he will see that no fish are wasted this year. There have been twenty arrests for violating the closing law last Sunday.

Blaine, Ore., July 25th—All the plants to-day have as many fish as they can handle, some more than they can put up.

Anacortes, Wash., July 25th—It is estimated that there are fully 250,000 sockeyes in the cannery traps to-night. All the canneries are running at fullest capacity and all who can secure help are putting on night shifts. Porter Fish Co. have 500,000 fish in their traps waiting until they can be handled before the lift is made.

Anacortes, Wash., July 27th—If the present run of sockeye salmon keeps up it is expected the pack for the season will foot up 500,000 cases. The total daily pack is about 13,000 cases, notwithstanding the canneries are handicaped by the lack of sufficient help to handle the catch.

Victoria, B. C., July 26th—The run of salmon appears to have begun in earnest.

Vancouver, B. C., July 25th—The run of salmon at Bella Coola and also on the Skeena River has been so great that the canneries have had to shut down temporarily for lack of tins. The run has broken all records in the North.

Astoria, Ore., July 27th—The prospective pack of the canneries on the Columbia River has already been placed at satisfactory prices. Prices will not be influenced materially by the reported big run of sockeyes on the Sound and in British Columbia waters unless there should be a phenomenally big run here.

SARDINES.

Boston, Mass.—The "New England Grocer" reports.

"The present outlook in the sardine business is a dark one for all those packers who have not already sold future orders sufficient to take the season's pack, the recent slump in the sardine market making it impossible to pack sardines other than at a loss. The high price paid for oils, mustard and other ingredients used in packing this class of goods brings the price of a case of sardines to an actual cost of $2.23. With the market quoting $2.20, there is not much to encourage the packer to invest money. Many of the packers have future orders sold which will take them some little time to fill and all are hoping that the market will advance before the fall pack begins. If there is no change in the price it is stated by packers of experience that the factories will close early."

New York, July 25th—Jed Frye & Co. report:

"There has been a continued improvement in the sardine market owing to the great scarcity of fish and the approach of the active buying season throughout the Cotton Belt. The last sales of ¼ oils for guaranteed immediate shipment were at $2.30 to $2.40, and ¾ Mustards, $2.10 to $2.25, f. o. b. Eastport.

MACKEREL.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Norway mackerel, bloaters, No. 1 and No. 2, are very scarce, and $1 per barrel higher than last quotations."

Philadelphia, Pa. — The "Grocery World" says:

"On account of extreme scarcity the finer grades of shore mackerel have advanced at least $1 per barrel and Irish mackerel about 50 cents per barrel. The cause of the increasingly high prices in salt mackerel is the unusual demand for fresh mackerel, which takes the bulk of the receipts at a price substantially more than even the advanced market for the fish salted. Irish mackerel have advanced during the week about 50 cents per barrel. The cause of this is not so much an actual shortage in Irish fish as it is the extra demand that comes to the latter because of the shortage in shore mackerel. Even at the advance offerings of Irish mackerel are not free. The extent to which the receipts of mackerel are going into consumption fresh may be seen from the fact that one of the largest Gloucester, Mass., concerns has a present stock of 250 bar-

Cigars and Tobacco

The Esberg-Gunst Cigar Co. has closed a deal whereby it acquires the four Portland (Or.) stores of B. B. Rich.

Lex Ehrman of Ehrman Bros. & Co. is expected home next Monday from the Yellowstone Park, whence he went a couple of weeks ago with his wife.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. find the demand for their leaders, the Optimo, of their clear Havana line, and the Henry Miller, of their nickel line, rapidly and gratifyingly on the increase.

W. B. McIntosh, Pacific Coast representative of R. A. Patterson & Co., is making a tour of Oregon and Washington in the interest of his firm. B. C. Korn, who recently came down from the north, is doing some excellent work locally in behalf of the Patterson goods

J. H. Newbauer & Co. have secured the agency for the Sherlock Holmes five-cent cigar, manufactured by D. Neuman & Co. of New York. The Sherlock Holmes is a fine piece of goods, put up in the bulldog shape, and is sold at the rate of $32.50 per thousand in less than thousand quantities; 1000 at $33.50, and 2500 at $32.50 per thousand. Messrs. Newbauer & Co have just received the first shipment of these cigars, and are busy placing them with the trade.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco, under date of July 15th, says:

"A. Santaella & Co. made 102,000 Optimo cigars Wednesday. Their pay roll for the week will amount to about $12,300. The work on the 100-foot addition to their factory is well under way. Senor Santaella left for Havana Sunday."

Philadelphia—Local cigar dealers are much elated over the ruling of Judge Porter, of the Pennsylvania State Superior Court, in an opinion handed down this week reversing the Delaware County Court, and thus practically setting aside the obnoxious and antiquated Blue Law of 1794, regarding the strict observance of Sunday, which forbade the sale of goods on that day.

Something over a year ago N. Venezia & Co. began the manufacture of high-grade clear Havana cigars in this market, paying particular attention to the quality of their goods and the requirements of the trade. The result of the venture has been beyond the most sanguine expectations of the firm. In less than one year the demand outgrew the facilities for manufacturing here, and at the suggestion of the trade the firm was induced to remove its factory to Tampa, where better facilities for manufacturing obtain. The fact that competent cigar makers are few here and hard to obtain was the controlling factor in the situation. Mr. Venezia remains here in charge of the local office of the company, which is now located at 402 Front street, and his associates, I. Cacciatore & Brother, have charge of the Tampa factory. The leading cigar of the firm is the La Venezia.

Clarksville, Tenn., July 16—Suit has been brought by a committee of the Executive Committee of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association against the American Tobacco Co., and buyers who are alleged to have boycotted the association, for $250,000 damages. The suit is brought on behalf of 7000 planters who are members of the association, and is based on alleged action of the defendants in trying to break up and destroy the association, in restraining competition, and for the alleged boycotting of the association's tobacco in the Clarksville market and in foreign markets

The retail tobacconist is responsible for the growth of the idea that color is an indication of the strength of the cigar. Go into a cigar shop, and unless you are a regular customer whose choice is known, you will, nine times out of ten, be asked, "Light or dark?" Naturally, by this question the buyer is continually led to believe that there is a world of difference between the "light" and the "dark," and he, of course, thinks the difference is in strength. If the retailers would end the foolish habit, and instead of thus being continually false educators of the public, have neatly printed signs about the shop, reading, "The color of a cigar is no indication of its strength," they might be able, in time, to induce the customers to leave the false path into which they have led them.—Cigar and Tobacco World, London.

During May of this year the United States shipped to Alaska 2,226 pounds of leaf tobacco, valued at $613, which was an increase over May of 1904, when the shipments amounted to 1,602 pounds, value at $423. During the eleven months ending with May of this year we shipped 8,402 pounds of leaf valued at $2,451, whereas during the same period of 1904 the shipments amounted to only 7,371 pounds, valued at $2,515. During May of the present year America exported to Alaska $28,086 worth of cigars, $704 worth of cigarettes, $8,660 worth of plug, and $12,534 worth of other kinds of tobacco, a total of $49,984 worth of manufactured tobacco, while in May of 1904, the total exports of manufactured tobacco from this country to Alaska were valued at $44,116. During the eleven months ending May, 1905, America's total export of manufactured tobacco to Alaska was valued at $365,376, while in the same period of 1904, the value of the exports of manufactured tobacco was $259,930.

During May, 1905, the United States exported to Hawaii $22,466 worth of cigars, cigarettes and plug tobacco, a heavy decrease as compared with May, 1904, when they were valued at $52,223. There was a slight loss in the exports during the eleven months' period of 1905 as compared with those of 1904.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—J. A. English has filed suit to dissolve the partnership existing between himself and C. F. Cooney under the name of the Costa Rica Tea and Coffee Company, doing business at 1908 Mission street. English alleges that on the 24th inst. Cooney made the claim that he was the sole proprietor of the business and tried to sell a half-interest therein to Annie Weinstein. English asks that the court put him in sole possession of the business for the purpose of liquidation.

Covina—E. A. Rich, the grocer, has moved to the store room in the A. O. U. W. block

Fresno—A man who is believed to be Harry Carson, an escaped convict, successfully carried out about the smoothest game ever worked in these parts, at least by a criminal in the guise of a horny-handed son of toil. Carson, flat broke, reached Fresno a few days previously on a freight train. The following day he passed himself off as a farm hand and one day later he was speeding away from this city with $75 of ill-gotten money clinking in his pockets. Under the name of Frank Russell Carson secured work as a grain hauler from W. T. Williams, a farmer near Lanes Bridge. After delivering 160 sacks of barley to the Fresno Milling Company, he called on a local grocer, carrying a sample of the grain. He represented himself to be a rancher and secured an order for eighty sacks to delivered the following day. Carson delivered half his load to the mill and half to Charles Chalup, the grocer. To allay suspicion he ordered a $9.70 bill of groceries, took the grocer's check for the difference, $74 75, put the eight-mule team up at a stable, cashed the check and disappeared.

Long Beach—An attempt was made recently to burglarize the Mission Grocery of Barnes & Hillary, 132 West Third street. The front lock was broken, and then an attempt was made on the back door, but the thieves failed to gain an entrance.

Los Angeles—T. M. Grosvenor, a Downey avenue grocer, thought O. L. Kezer, who made frequent trips to the grocery for soda water was a spy sent by a rival merchant and thrashed the customer, for which act he was fined $20 on a battery charge.

Oakland—Thomas Cook, the Fruitvale grocer, who was murderously attacked the night of July 22d, regained consciousness early last Friday, and made statements directly implicating John Schneider and George Blaker in the assault and hold-up. Mr. Cook was robbed of $250.

Pizmo Beach—J. R Swett of Porterville, has purchased a lot at Pizmo beach, and will immediately commence the construction of a substantial building for the grocery business.

Redlands—J. J. Suess, proprietor of the Star Grocery, gave the annual picnic to his employes at Urbita Springs on the evening of July 19th.

San Diego—Frederic Rapson, who was formerly manager of the Rochdale store here, has recently purchased the La Mesa Springs grocery from Mr. McMillian.

San Jose—Articles of incorporation of the U and I Grocery Company have been filed. The incorporators are J. F. Valpey, F. M. Garrison, C. H. Edwards, Elisha L. Corbin and M. D. Knobel. The capital stock is $50,000, of which $27,200 has been subscribed. The company is formed to do a general merchandise and grocery business in San Jose.

San Jose—Louis Garcia, a pioneer grocer and fruit dealer of this city, passed away recently at Guadalajara, Mexico. Mr. Garcia was born at Colima, Mexico, in 1835, but came to this country in 1848, settling in this city. He is said to have sold the first apples produced in this country. He lived here until four years ago, when he went back to his native land. He held a number of important positions during his well-extended life, and was esteemed as a man of business ability and honor.

Santa Barbara—A. J. Gulck, one of the proprietors of a small grocery store on State street, was taken to the hospital recently with an attack of appendicitis. Since then he has been somewhat improved, but an operation may be necessary.

Santa Barbara—George E. Hunt, long a trusted employe in the grocery of Show & Hunt, was married recently to Miss Florence Dilworth, a popular teacher in the kindergartens of this city.

ALASKA.

Nome—G. P. Goggin, grocer, was in Seattle recently buying furniture, crockery and other wares to add to his stock, and in future will conduct a general store. He will improve his store building and add another story thereto.

MONTANA.

Bozeman—Casey & Colgan, grocers, have dissolved, T. J. Casey continuing.

Helena—LaChapple & Fredericks have succeeded L. H. Schafler, grocery

OREGON.

Falls City—W. B. McKown is reported succeeding the Ford-Tyson Grocery Co.

La Grande—E. Polack has purchased Wm. McFarlane's grocery and bakery.

Montavilla—R. H. Greene, of the firm of R. H Greene & Co., grocery, was fined by Judge Frazer recently for selling a package of tobacco to a boy fourteen years old. The law forbids the sale of tobacco to minors under the age of eighteen. Mr. Greene says he is not guilty, but paid the fine of the cheapest way out of the difficulty.

UTAH.

Prove City—The Hines-Kimber Grocery & Meat Company has filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock is $10,000, in shares of $1 each. Fred C. Kimber is the president and manager; Mrs. Kitty A. Hines, vice-president and treasurer; Arnold S. Hines, secretary, and with Margaret M Kimber and Grant C Bagley, constitute the board of directors.

WASHINGTON

Buckley—O. L. Leak has bought the grocery stock of W. L. Baker's general store.

Dayton—James Black has succeeded Tweedy & Black in the Model Bakery and Grocery. Gus Gerkin has opened his new grocery store occupying quarters in the Dantzscher block.

Deer Park—Olsen & Son have bought Martin Johnson's grocery and meat market.

Ostrander—George Smith has recently started in the grocery business

Seattle—Corey & Williams have bought the Maple Leaf Cash Grocery and Meat Market at Green Lake. H. W. Stinson has succeeded Stinson & Turner, grocers.

Spokane—H. B. Morgan has recently purchased the grocery store of M. Crowe. A. E. Berry of the Columbia Grocery, corner of Nora and Division, has moved to a new location at 1121 Baldwin.

Tacoma—O. N Johns, groceries and meats, has sold his meat market to R. E. Henneman. F. K. Whiting has purchased the business of the Wright Grocery Company in Old Tacoma.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Ladysmith—The grocery stock of A. Berg reported assigned to A. E. Plantix. W. T. Heddle & Co., grocery at Nanaimo, have sold their branch at this place.

Vancouver—Mills & McGovern are starting a grocery.

NOTED CIGAR MAKER.

Palmetto in Tobacco pays A. Santaella, head of the firm of A. Santaella & Co., maunfacturers of the Optimo cigar, the following deserved tribute:

One of the most notable and conspicuous members of Tampa's coterie of successful clear Havana cigar manufacturers is Senor Antonio Santaella, of A. Santaella & Co., the firm that has made the Optimo cigar famous throughout the United States, and whose phenomenal growth in business may be traced to the popularity of their Optimo cigars.

Born and nurtured in the romantic atmosphere of Seville, Spain; trained in the school of richest experience in Cuba and the United States, a stalwart in physical proportions, of keen foresight and judgment, sound in his opinions, ambitious along lines of honorable dealing and progressive methods, generous in impulses, of refined and cultivated taste, Antonia Santaella stands out with great prominence in the Tampa cigar colony, a remarkable specimen of the Hispano-American gentleman and successful business man.

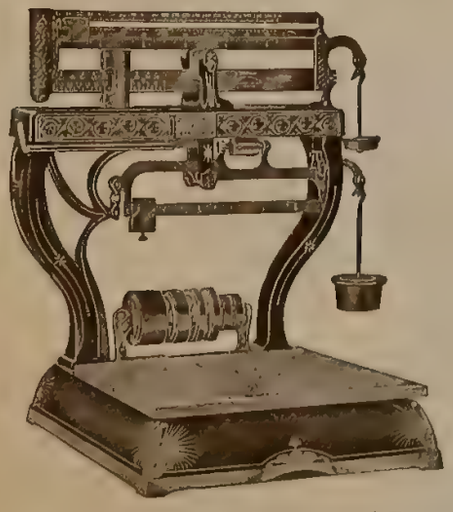
In a contest for fine physical proportions and strikingly attractive personality, Senor Antonio Santaella would easily win the blue ribbon.

The Optimo cigar is this firm's special pride; an appropriate factory setting for manufacturing, their optical delight. The best there is and all the time, and "the best we can do for our customers all the time." are Senor Santaella's leading ideas of a properly conducted cigar business, and they might be profitably applied in all lines of business.

One of Senor Santaella's friends perpetrated a couplet on the famous Optimo, which made a hit, and he has dubbed the writer with the cognomen of Optimo They're singing it to "Maryland, My Maryland." It runs:

O Optimo, My Optimo!
What joyous smokes thou'st brought me;
Your stylish shape, the aroma, too!
Pure Cuban leaf I've found thee;
I've smoked cigars, some good, some bad;
Some made me sick, some made me sad—
An Optimo just makes me glad.
A San-ta-el-la Optimo.

The growth of this firm's business has been phenomenal. They came to Tampa less than five years ago, with forty cigar makers. They have built four cigar factories to increase accommodations, and have been twice burned out.



They are now adding 100 feet in extension to their latest and largest factory, and are working 600 cigar makers, and making close to 100,000 cigars a day, while their pay roll is close to $15,000 a week. The enlarged factory will accommodate 1,000 cigar makers, and will have a setting of spacious grounds richly embellished with semi-tropical verdure.

FAVORS HOME-GROWN COFFEE.

President Roosevelt has issued instructions to the various commissary departments of the country that in their requirements for coffees they should give preference to those grown in the new island possessions of the United States. The President recognizes the value of the Porto Rico coffee and that grown in the Hawaiian Island and Philippines. As a consequence, a very considerable amount of American-grown coffees are being used by the army and navy where foreign coffees were used before.

GOOD BUSINESS SENSE.

The matter of what the grocer sells should not be affected by feeling.

The grocer is in business to make money, and his sympathy and assistance should go out to the firms who show him sympathy by making it profitable for him to do business with them.

The grocers asked the flour mills of San Francisco to take this step for the grocers of the cities about Son Francisco Bay. With one exception the mills refused to do so, since they felt that if they required their flour to be sold at a fair price, they might have trouble with one or two of the large cutters.

Because of this position on the part of the San Francisco mills, the trade about San Francisco Bay have been seling Sperry, Port Costa, Del Monte, Crown and Colonial flours without a fair margin of profit. A few grocers get 10 cents per sack, the majority get 5 cents only.

Such a small margin means a loss.

One firm, the Globe Milling Company, immediately agreed to the requests of the grocers.

They issued cards stating prices at which their flour should be sold and let the trade understand that they did not want the business of retailers who would cut the price and would refuse to supply any firm who did cut below the prices set by them, which left 15 cents profit for the retailer.

It is needless to state that the position taken by the Globe Mills won numerous friends for their flour.

This was particularly true of their "A-1" flour, which had to be sold at $1.40. This flour, because of its high quality, was used by many retail grocers to displace other brands on which they made almost no profit. Owing to this high quality, the families to which it was sent were greatly pleased with it and willing to pay the somewhat higher price.

The "Silver Star" flour, which sells at $1.25 per sack, has also proven a winner.

To further assist the grocers in establishing a demand for their goods, the Globe Milling Co. allowed them to "money back" their flour. In this way the grocers are safe in recommending this flour and can assure their customers that if it should prove unsatisfactory in any way, they could return it and would be charged for flour they might have used.

THE PREMIUM PROBLEM.

National President Green Reviews the Situation as it Now Stands.

Editor Advocate:—Two months have now elapsed since the decision of the cereal companies was to have been announced, as to whether they would agree to keep out of all cereal packages, letters, missing words and all other premium devices.

The Great Western Cereal Co., in their letter of July 8, say that they will modify their present plant after about September 15.

The American Cereal Co. say "Wait!"

The grocers' associations all over this country have taken a decided stand in this matter; they have said "No premiums." Every State convention has said "No premiums," and the national association at San Francisco and again at Cincinnati said "No premiums."

The officers of the national association have done all that they can do without again appealing to the grocers.

On April 12, a meeting was called of all cereal companies to meet the national officers and discuss the proposal to do away with all premiums. By request the larger companies were given till June 1 to consider their answer. It is now almost August 1, and no decision has been announced, the ruling proposal being to continue as in the past.

The manufacturers of H. O., Egg-O-See, Malta Vita, Mapi-Flake, the Natural Food Co., Ralston, Cream of Wheat, and, in fact, all companies other than those named have declared their willingness to discontinue premiums of all kinds just as soon as an agreement can be made with the Great Western and American Cereal companies.

There ought to be no compromise. The trade has said "No premiums." Let us back up our position by action, for by action alone can we accomplish the end sought

John A. Green, President.

GROCERY MARKETS.

rels of salt mackerel, as against nearly 4000 barrels this time last year."

New York, July 25th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Scotch Herring—The catch in Scotland is about 100,000 barrels behind last year.

Holland Herring—None have arrived yet. The catch is unimportant and prices are too high for our market.

Imported Oil Sardines—Very little has been caught on the French Coast. Prices are therefore very firmly held and stocks are unimportant.

COD FISH.

Alaska Cod Fish Co. report:

"No more arrivals with cod fish are due until the latter part of August. We have a steady trade at home and sufficient inquiry from export markets to give us sufficient business for the present time to dispose of stock. It would seem we have favorable prospects for fair prices in the near future. This market is in sympathy with Eastern quotations, and prices will depend mainly on the catch from the Eastern bank fleets."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's cheese has advanced in price, and a further advance is expected. The statement in the last Advocate that prices had reached bottom is thus substantiated."

OLIVES.

New York, July 21st—Marc M. Michel, president Seville Packing Co., reports:

Queen Olives—Demand for bulk fruit is quiet, with prices firm. New crop conditions are poor, the intense drought throughout the olive district causing the fruit to drop from the trees. It looks like a very small crop of merchantable goods.

Manzanillas—In fair demand at ruling prices. New crop: This crop started with good prospects, but climatic conditions have affected it badly, and the result will be practically the same as in queen. Prices for bulk fruit of last crop are advancing in Seville market.

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, July 20th—Aspegren & Co. report:

"If the demand remains as poor as it is at present, the bears can manipulate the prices down unless the long interest in September is transferred to a later month. If the demand from abroad and from domestic consumers in August sets in as usual this year, the September and October options will advance considerably on account of the scarcity of offerings and no cotton oil available at anything like the present figures.

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"Large quantities of have have been sold, but as there are not sufficient hay teams in San Francisco to remove the hay as fast as it arrives it naturally accumulates on the markets, thus creating a very bad state of affairs. All regular handlers of hay are so crowded with shipments that they are unable to buy from the commission men, hence there are many cars on the market for which there is practically no sale.

"Even the choicer grades of hay are feeling the weakness occasioned by heavy shipments, while poorer grades are dragging at even lower quotations.

CONSISTENCY A JEWEL.

Manufacturer's Agent—"I see, Mr. So-and So (member of one of the largest wholesale concerns in this city), that you objected to the manufacturer selling direct to the retailer."

Mr. So-and-So—"Certainly I do."

Manufacturer's Agent—"Well, the firm I represent have never sold to retailers—always to the wholesaler, and I have for the last four years been calling on you, but could never get any business."

Mr. So-and-So—"Of course not; how could you expect to do business seeing that we are manufacturers of the same kind of goods?"—Retail Grocers' Advocate of New York.

TROUBLE IN PORTLAND.

Press dspatches tell of grievous troubles that are besetting the jobbers of Portland. According to the newspapers the wholesale grocers of San Francisco are butting in and selling package coffees way under list. As canned tomatoes, canned corn and canned fruit are being sold at jobber's cost, the retailers are buying goods very cheaply now.

ALCAZAR.

White Whittlesey has been receiving a tumultous welcome all this week. In "The Fortunes of the King" Mr. Whittlesey plays the role of the romantic lover and was at once taken back into the hearts of the patrons of this house, with whom he has always been a favorite. The cast is a strong one and the performance is very satisfactory in every respect. Next week Mr. Whittlesey appears in Henry Miller's great success, "The Only Way."

MAJESTIC.

A dramatization of "Dora Thorne," a favorite sentimental novel, is being presented at the Majestic with Ola Humphreys in the leading role. Miss Humphreys is a very clever actress with a fine appearance and splendid stage presence. She is strongly supported. The theatre has been well filled all the week and the audience have been thoroughly well pleased.

TIVOLI.

"Rob Roy" is concluding its third week. The pretty opera still draws large houses.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Glickman's Yiddish Players are concluding their fourth week. On Friday and Saturday "Jacob and Esau" will be presented, and on Sunday "King Solomon," with "The Little Rabbi" for the matinees of Saturday and Sunday. Denis O'Sullivan is to follow at this theatre on August 20th, with a new play, "Peggy Machree." O'Sullivan has carried the fame of San Francisco all over the English speaking world and his wonderful voice will once more delight the audiences of this city with a number of new and interesting Irish ballads.

CENTRAL.

The "Wild West" is being exploited this week with "The Cattle King," in which Herschal Mayall earns thunders of applause in every act in the title role. Genevieve Kane, an old favorite, is once more with the company and was warmly greeted. The piece is full of spectacular effects. In one act, a trained horse is introduced, who unties the hero, Mr. Mayall, from a stake to which he has been tied by enemies who have decided to roast him to death.

FISCHER'S.

There is a long line of vaudeville artists at this theatre. The program has several short dramatic sketches, a clever contortionist, some musical artists, together with a couple of very clever dancers, an illustrated ballad, which, with some new pictures on the biograph, make up a program that is very interesting. There are two performances every evening and one each afternoon.

CHUTES.

There is a splendid program at the big free theatre at the Chutes. Shepp's dogs and ponies, that scored such a success at the Orpheum recently, are one of the chief attractions. The program is a varied one and has been well patronized during the week. The numerous concessions about the grounds, and the big Zoo contain many other popular features.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Spokane—The Retail Grocers Association elected ten delegates to the Washington State Convention that meets at Tacoma in September. They were allowed $25 each for their expenses. The delegates chosen were Secretary Cory, E. E. Parmeter, S. A. Bishop, C. B. Crandall, P. Nelson, C. Anderson, U. G. Allen, D. Hollingsworth, Ben Davis and J. C Hix. Alternates: R. M. White, C. A. Nickum, C. F. Siegler and C. Jacobsen.

Salt Lake City, Utah—The grocers of Utah have formed a State Merchants' Association. A per capita tax of $1 per member, with a charter fee of $2.50 was fixed on for affiliating associations. The officers chosen were: J. M. Marriott, Salt Lake, president; A. E. Weatherby, Ogden, first vice president; Arthur Townsend, Murray, second vice president; James Kirkham, Lehi, third vice president; H. G. Hayball, Logan, fourth vice president; T. B. Evans, Ogden, secretary; W. J. Donellan, Salt Lake, treasurer; A. Hudson, L. Jensen, C. J. Foulger, C. M. Lees, W. H. Strong, William Wood, Salt Lake; D. R. Langlois and James Ballard, Ogden; Joseph Lindsay, Taylorville; S. I. Goodwin, Lehi, and James Quayle, Logan, directors, W D. S. Harrington, State Organizer.

Toledo, Ohio—The Retail Grocers' Association wants a better attendance at its meetings. It was decided that each member be given a number, and that for the next four meetings the numbers be placed in a box and that the thirteenth drawn out be good for $5, providing the member was present. If he was not present the money is to be retained in the treasury.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Grocers' Association is discussing the formation of a "rating exchange" whereby members can secure information about dead beats. Twenty delegates were appointed to attend the State Convention which is to be held at Syracuse on August 7, 8 and 9.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Grocers' Association has secured the arrest, so far this summer, of twelve men who have been caught peddling without a license. The result has been very beneficial. The secretary is informing members as to goods condemned by the Food Commission.

A TEA POT TEMPEST.

Owing to purely local differences, the California Fruit Canners' Association sold its goods direct to the local trade in Portland, Ore., this year. This action on their part is entirely opposite to their established policy, and would not have been taken had there been any other step left for them. The Canners' Association has always sold its fruit through the medium of the jobbing trade, and proposes to continue doing so.

FOR RENT—A corner store suitable for grocery and bar, N. W. corner 22nd and Howard; 2 living rooms, a basement and a store room included. Lease will be given.

IMPORTANT OPPORTUNITY.

FOR SALE—One of the largest and best established wholesale grocery and commission houses in the Northwest, located in the center of a rich, productive fruit and farming country. Will take an investment of about $75,000. This will bear thorough investigation. Reason for selling will be given to interested parties. Address C. W. P., Retail Grocers' Advocate.

New Pack California Fruits.

It is evident that the trade is not taking hold of the new pack of California fruits to the extent that the canners would like. For one reason the jobbers have good stocks of the old still on hand and they see nothing in the situation to cause them to rush into the market. The prices at which the new fruits are offered are not particularly inviting.

ESTABLISHED RETAIL PRICES.

We give below the articles on which the manufacturers have established a retail price.

These prices are for common points like San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, and all terminal points.

Where freight is paid it is should be added to prices quoted if the nature of the goods will permit.

Every Association on the Coast has the privilege of listing these goods, as the manufacturers thereof have bound themselves to see that these prices prevail in California, Oregon and Washington.

We would urgently request grocers to notify us promptly of any instances where the above prices are not being maintained.

BORLINI A DADDY.

Popular "Billy" Borlini, of Wheaton, Pond & Harrold's force, is celebrating. It is a fine, bouncing boy. Mr. Borlini's friends, and they are very numerous, have been keeping him busy responding to congratulations. The Advocate wishes him "Many Happy Returns of the Day."

SEEKING UNIFORM DELIVERY.

Santa Barbara—The Commercial Club has recently taken up a matter which is of vital interest to all the merchants in Santa Barbara—that of regular schedule delivery of goods. Walter C. Show is the chairman of the committee appointed by the club to look into the question, and already the committee has held one meeting, which was productive of general discussion and suggestions for rectifying the present abuses.

What the Commercial Club is attempting to bring about is a uniform delivery of goods, a stated number of trips being made each day from all the stores at the same time. Patrons will know just when telephone orders sent at a certain time will be delivered, and both dealer and consumer will be benefited by the arrangement.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

PACIFIC AMMONIA BOTTLING CO.,

GEO. HERRMANN, Pres., 310 Sacramento St., San Francisco, Cal.

CAUTION—As there are numerous brands of impure and weak washing ammonia offered to the trade imitating the style of our label, be careful to see that our signature Trade Mark is on each bottle.

SHREDDED WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

SARDINES—
The French sardine pack is reported a failure to date.

CANNED PEAS—
The shortage both East and West makes the market very firm.

CANNED PINEAPPLE—
There is a decided shortage in Singapore and Porto Rico pineapples.

ALMONDS—
Growers in Malaga, Spain, have formed a combine to control the industry.

HERRINGS—
The catch of Holland herring up to July 15th was less than last year at the same time.

DRIED APPLES—
Reports indicate shortages in the apple crop of all the apple raising States except California.

COFFEE—
The comparative short supply with the much larger demand makes the coffee market very strong.

TEAS—
Importers are paying more in producing countries for teas than the same grade can now be bought for in the local markets.

CANNED FRUITS—
Higher grades of fruit will be scarcer than was at first anticipated, and prices must go up. This is particularly true of apricots and the early variety of peaches.

LOCAL JOTTINGS.

G. A. Thenner, who had a store at 3502 Mission street for many years, has opened a new store at the corner of Bush and Buchanan, with a neat little bar. Mr Thenner is a careful business man and has the faculty of making friends. He will undoubtedly succeed in his new location.

Nick Fick has been back at his old stand, 1901 Devisadero street, for some time now. He has been busy re-arranging his store and looking up his old-time customers.

W. S. Stone, formerly of Petaluma, is conducting the fine store at 3041-3043 Sacramento street. Mr. Stone has a fine stock and is a hustler.

H. Gaetjen, an up-to-date grocer, has purchased the store at Bush and Pierce streets formerly conducted by J. A. Hegerborst Mr. Hegerborst will open at Ninth and Harrison streets about September 1st.

TWO FINE STORES.

In another column will be found a notice of two fine stores that can be bought on easy terms. They belong to the widow of the late Eugene E. Geisel. Mr. Geisel made money in the grocery business for the past twenty years and the stores offer a fine opening for the right party.

A BIG CONVENTION.

INTERESTING PROGRAM PROMISED.

Discussion on Trade Problems Will Be Made a Special Feature.

STOCKTON MERCHANTS ACTIVE.

All Pacific Coast Grocers Will Be Welcome to Attend the Meetings of the Convention.

As the time for the convention of the State Grocers' and Merchants' Association draws near it becomes more evident that the meeting will be of great value and interest.

Every grocer on the Pacific Coast will be welcome to attend the Convention.

Every association of grocers and merchants in the State is invited to send lelegates.

Every grocer in the State will be able to become a delegate and have all the privileges of the floor, etc., by joining the State Association as an individual member if there is no association in his town or if the association there does not affiliate with the State Association.

Every important commercial center in the State will be represented at this convention and many important matters will be discussed fully.

Cheap Railroad Fares.

Secretary Connolly took the matter up of a special rate for the delegates to the Stockton convention with the Southern Pacific and Sante Fe companies. His request for a special fare was favorably received by both companies. Their answers were as follows:

Southern Pacific Company—"On account of California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association sixth annual convention at Stockton, August 21st and 22d, necessary arrangements have been made whereby your delegates will be accorded a rate of one lowest first-class fare and one-third on the receipt certificate plan to Stockton and return. Yours truly, T. H. Goodman."

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company—"For the sixth annual convention of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association at Stockton on August 21st and 22d, I beg to advise that the Santa Fe Company will authorize rates on basis of one and one-third fares for the round trip, receipt certificate plan, viz: Delegates from points on our line can purchase tickets to Stockton at regular rate, the agent furnishing them a receipt certificate, and this certificate, when properly signed by the secretary of the Association, will enable the holder to purchase tickets at our office in Stockton, returning to their homes, at one-third the single trip rate. H. K. Gregory."

Important Notice—Delegates' wives will be granted the same special rates as is accorded to the delegates themselves.

Stockton Merchants Active.

The Stockton Grocers' Association has a hustler of the first calibre in its secretary, Mr. W. E. O'Connor. Mr. O'Connor is proud of his Association and is proud of Stockton and he is glad to have everybody know it. The merchants of Stockton are co-operating with the grocers not only to give the visiting delegates a good time at the convention, but to show them the splendid advantages of the city of Stockton. In a letter to Secretary Connolly asking for the names of the State officers, Mr. O'Connor says:

"I wish to get into communication with each association as early as possible. Our association is rounding things into shape for the State convention and will give you our outline within a short time.

"From present indications it looks as if we would have a big convention and a very important one. We are desirous of having dispelled from the minds of our fellow merchants at a distance the idea that Stockton is only a little 'burg,' and instead give them a true idea of the commercial importance of our city and community, with the assurance that a trip to Stockton during convention week will repay them."

A Valuable Program.

The program for the convention is one of great value and interest. The first day will be spent in organizing the convention and in hearing reports of the officers so that the delegates will know the position of the organization. The work of the convention will be divided up among many committees in order that the matter submitted to the convention shall be carefully pre-digested. These committees will have a chance to get together and do a great deal of their work during the excursion on Monday afternoon.

In the evening there will be a session, at which some of the most successful business men of the State will address the delegates upon matters on which they are thoroughly informed. These addresses will possess special interest for the delegates.

There will be two features of special value on Tuesday. In the morning a delegate from each community represented at the convention will be requested to explain trade conditions in his city with special reference to organization work. Those associations that have achieved successes will explain how they secured their results and the representatives will be prepared to answer questions from the delegates of other communities. In the afternoon, the various committees will make their reports. The value of these reports will be increased by the fact that no resolution will be voted on, except those purely complimentary, until at least three delegates have spoken upon the subject. This action will unquestionably result in the bringing out of many valuable ideas.

The program as prepared by the Association managers is as follows:

MONDAY, AUGUST 21st, 1905.

Morning Session.

9:30—Call to Order by President Wakefield of Stockton.

Sends Letters of Condolence to Mrs. T. J. Parsons.

Oakland, Aug. 8.—The prospect of doing politics brought a large number of grocers to the Association meeting last evening. For there is one thing that the Alameda County Association is particularly noted for—its loyalty to those who have spent their time and efforts in furthering the interests of the Association.

Their chief interest was to elect a strong delegation to the State convention, to work for and obtain the election of L. Warnke to the chair of the State Association.

Alameda County believes that no one is more entitled to this position than Mr. Warnke. Not only has he served as director and president of the local Association, but he has spent two years of earnest effort in behalf of the State Association as its secretary. It must be remembered also that he worked strenuously during the legislative campaign of 1902-3 for the laws the grocers were successful in having passed, viz:

The law enabling the garnishment of public officials salaries.

The pure food law.

The mutual fire insurance law.

There is no doubt but the delegates to the convention will be glad to reward Alameda County for its staunch support of the State Association since it was first organized.

The secretary reported that he had written to President J. Salomon of the San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association, the following letter:

Mr. J. Salomon, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir—The Alameda County Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association appointed a committee at its meeting last evening, July 17, to pay your Association a fraternal visit and confer with your members on subjects both associations are mutually interested in. The committee will be present at your meeting Wednesday evening.

Trusting that this will cement the good feeling that has existed between the two associations in the past, I am, yours truly,

The secretary submitted the above letter as an answer to a claim that had been made that the Alameda County Association was discourteous to the San Francisco Association in visiting them without any notice.

The following letters of condolence were ordered sent to Mrs. T. J. Parsons, and the Del Monte Milling Company:

Letter to Mrs. Parsons.

Mrs. T. J. Parsons, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Madam—We, the members of the Alameda County Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, heard with deep regret, at our meeting Monday evening, July 17, 1905, of the passing away of your beloved husband, T. J. Parsons. We feel we have lost a warm-hearted friend, and extend to you and your family our most profound sympathy in your bereavement.

We know you will find some compensation in the thought that the work of your husband will be a constant reminder of the generous and warm-

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Be a "booster."

Push summer drinks.

The "booster" succeeds.

Picnic goods are selling satisfactorily at present.

How would a coat of paint look on the delivery wagon?

Cables note an advancing tea market in Japan; better buy.

Picnics are not over yet. Keep the lunch goods at the front.

Don't let the coffee trade dwindle during the summer months.

Keep the fly paper moving. It won't be long until nobody will want it.

How is the trade in dampfnusse and basler lebkuchen? Is the spitzeguln moving?

How much have you made on the empty boxes and barrels since the first of the year?

California new crop prunes show increasing strength, as actual conditions develop.

Dig out the shoe blacking and the stove polish and put them to the front for a change.

Advertise your "picnic groceries." Show the goods and put out cards and prices on everything.

There is a good demand for all sorts of canned and potted meats as the picnic season is still on.

These are days when a good refrigerator is a paying piece of furniture and a pleasure to have.

Make a good, strong push of fruit jars, caps, rubbers, etc. This is the time of year to sell them.

A good lot of pipes and smokers' articles is a nice little department that can be made to pay a profit.

Save your "empties." Careful retailers often make a good thing out of selling their boxes and barrels.

Summer's a good time for window displays. Fruit, vegetables, etc., make a dandy display if well arranged.

Keep the candy stock cleaned up close this season. Some lines of these goods do not stand the hot weather.

Jelly tumblers are in large demand and the call will increase until well into the fall. Fruit jars are also moving.

Lemons are still high and there is little chance of a much lower range unless the weather becomes decidedly cooler.

Package cereal food is a good seller this hot weather. Mention it in your advertising, providing you do any, as you ought.

Short deliveries of the new pack of asparagus have been made to the jobbers. A high price level is anticipated for the next year.

Olives, canned sardines, cheese, pickles, salad dressings, etc., are sellers in the summer. How's your stock? Also potted meats?

Computing scales are as much improvement over the old method of weighing as the cash register is over the money drawer.

Rice is a very firm commodity and as soon as the full demand begins to take hold there is little doubt that prices will still further advance.

A good glass counter which displays the goods in full sight is a silent salesman that never wants a day off or asks for a raise of its wages.

Canned salmon is a strictly summer article; at least, summer sales greatly exceed the winter demand and consumption. Talk salmon.

Coffee sells in hot weather as well as at other times.? Summer doesn't mean a cessation of coffee demand, and don't you think so.

Get a spraying machine and keep the vegetables and green stuff nice and fresh. Make it look crisp and fine and it will sell all the better.

Crackers should be ordered frequently in the hot weather. Nothing is worse than an old cracker, and there is no need of selling that kind.

Canned tomatoes hold firm in a way that would indicate a steady market at least until the size of the coming pack can be closely estimated.

Lima beans are scarce, but the demand is not heavy at this season of the year. When the fall demand starts up there may be an advance in prices.

In judging teas, the body, color, strength, flavor and aroma of the liquor should be considered. The tea that has all these points in greatest degree is the best.

Some fruit does not keep well in the refrigerator. Strawberries and raspberries are better in a moderately cool place where the air can circulate on them freely.

According to advices from Smyrna the coming crop of Sultana raisins is estimated at 50,000 tons, which is about 28,000 tons in excess of the output last season.

A well-known Eastern soap firm has placed a naphtha soap on the market in competition with the Fels naphtha. It is put up in the same style cartons.

The cheese market continues firm. Use every means at your command to keep the store cool on hot days. Better have it a little dark than to have it blistering hot.

Look through the store and see how the stock is standing the hot weather. There may be some lines that will pay to work off as soon as possible, and even at a slight reduction.

Coffee and tea can be moved out with premiums, but the premiums cannot give flavor and fragrance where they are missing. The premium is all right when the goods are all right.

Now is the time to push the sale of those ready cooked breakfast foods that have been up on the top shelf for some time. Better cut the prices a little on those packages that have been held too long.

Prospects for new crop Valencia and Jordan almonds are reported good, but opening prices on future have yet to be made. Spot stocks are not heavy and are generally held steady at quotations.

Between brandy and cognac there is a great distinction. Cognac is the product of a distillate of wine grown in the Cognac region, which comprises the department known as the Charente and Charente-Inferieure.

Private advices from France give a discouraging outlook for the French sardine fishery. Stocks of last year's sardines are nearly all used up, there being little else but remnants of old packs and brands to work on.

Increasing strength has characterized the market for salt mackerel. While the catch has been quite large the demand for the fresh fish has been so heavy that the packers have had to pay more than usual for their supplies.

The Japan Tea Exporting Co., Ltd., writing from Kobe, say of Japan teas: "The Yokohama market for fine and lower grades is in a similar condition to that at Kobe; small arrivals, coupled with a fair demand, have sent the price up some 2 yen or 3 yen."

Recent reports from the apple producing sections of New York State indicate that the crop will be reduced at least one-third, and possibly more, as compared with last year. Michigan, on the contrary, reports a possibility of a bumper crop. New England will have a short yield.

Cable advices from France report a further slight advance there on future Cornes walnuts. Reports of a short crop of walnuts in France are not generally confirmed. A number of usually well posted interests here state that it is too early to figure with any certainty on the crop prospects.

At this season of the year, when there are so many stories of damage to crops and other things tending to advance the market floating around, the retailer will do well to keep cool. Do not rush off and buy a large line on the strength of a short crop report. There may be nothing in it.

Judging by the sale of fruit jars and sugar the preserving and canning by the housewife this year is larger than ever. There is no doubt that the agitation as to pure food has some effect on this. Families are putting up their own fruits so that they will "know what they are eating."

SPOHN-COOK COMPANY, Los Angeles, Cal.

Salt has been for ages and is to-day universally employed as a preservative. It is used in the meat industry for the seasoning, curing and packing of all kinds of meats, preventing decomposition by absorbing moisture from the flesh and tissues, and at the same time imparting a flavor which is not possible with any other agent. Not only is it invaluable as an antiseptic, but it has the advantage of being also a tonic, a certain amount being necessary for health. Used in its natural state or in solution, as in brine or pickle, it is an ideal preservative. Without the use of salt, there could not exist the vast packing industry which we have to-day. Its use in the dry-salt department, with the enormous range of the products dependent upon its curative properties, is sufficient evidence of its value as a dry agency and in its solution as a pickle. The absolute dependence upon salt alone, to preserve for future consumption, such unlimited quantities of perishable goods attests its unequaled importance as an antiseptic and a preservative.—National Provisioner.

RUEF MAY CONTROL.

Possibilities That Are Shown by Present Political Conditions.

On the night of August 8th Ruef had 168 delegates. These men were in one solid phalanx with one recognized head.

In opposition were 231 delegates, the control of which was divided up among at least fifteen bosses, each of whom claimed his following, and nearly all of whom were jealous of the others.

There was only one man who had a delegation of any real strength, and that was Ruef.

While they were jealous of each other, the opposition leaders were more jealous of Ruef. They all recognized his cleverness and his power, however, and before August 9th was over, 22 delegates had been enrolled under the Ruef banner without solicitation on his part.

In the beginning, it only required the addition of 32 delegates to give Ruef control of the convention. It is not hard to understandstand how, before this paper will be in the hands of its readers enough delegates will be allied with Ruef to assure him the unquestioned leadership of the Republican party in San Francisco.

A Four-Year Fight.

Ruef has won this position after a fight of more than four years. It began in 1901, when, with the backing of all the daily papers, Ruef planned and organized the Republican Primary League of which Eugene E. Schmitz was one of the directors. Both these men were lauded to the skies then as the representatives of the best Republican sentiment in the city.

A series of mischances prevented the triumph of reform at the time, and Martin Kelly, Phil Crimmins and their friends won the convention. Ruef in opposition to these men, elected Schmitz as Mayor, and he has outmaneuvred his opponents ever since.

Wins Against Many.

The showing at the primary election of Tuesday was remarkable. Three great daily papers, the Merchants' Association, the Grand Jury and the Citizens' Alliance, together with about $100,000 which was put at the disposal of politicians whom he had defeated in various fights, were banded together to fight one man. There can be no question about the issue. It was "Ruef."

Yet the "Bulletin" admits that Ruef brought the Regular Republican, the Opposition Democrat and Union Labor votes out to the primaries, amounting in all to 20,407 votes, while the allied forces arrayed against him were able to muster only 19,029 votes in the League, Regular Democratic and Opposition Union Labor tickets. That one man arrayed against so many should produce such splendid results is truly remarkable, and shows a strength that is worthy of careful consideration.

Politicians want results. The practical politicians allied with the San Francisco Republican League will, with a few notable exceptions, probably find Mr. Ruef glad to accord them recognition commensurate with their strength, since Mr. Ruef is a shrewd politician and will know that a strong and permanent machine can only be built through mutuality of interests.

The grocers of San Francisco have always found the present administration friendly to their interests, and, as a rule, they gave their influence and votes to the Regular Republican nominees.

A one-time grocer is the kind that gives his Customers something he would not give them if they knew better.

They soon find out.

Schilling's Best

OVERCOMING LOW PAY.

The low pay that prevails among the majority of stores is the great drawback to the desirability of a career in a store. The young man about to choose a life vocation quite properly wants to begin by making as much as he can, provided the place holds out to him the offer of a future. The average store, whether large or small, does not hold forth any high pay for the beginner.

Right at the start is where the majority of young men who begin work in stores make their big mistake. They refuse to consider the work of a store in the light of a profession or trade. But the man who is in the store manager's chair got there by taking the business of the store seriously and by learning it while he was drawing small pay in a minor position.

How long before the clerk will experience his first promotion will depend entirely upon himself. He may be a salesman for three or four years Then, if he is the right man in the right place, he will find that there are plenty of other places where a good man can be used to advantage in a store besides behind the counter. As he rises his pay will grow proportionately larger and his opportunities for showing what kind of stuff there is in him will increase.

Not that success is to be had for nothing in this line any more than in others. But it is a fact that most of the men in high positions in large stores and most owners of smaller establishments came up from the ranks of salesmen and other employes. They want good salesmen, and as salesmen they received the training that makes them good business men now. The man who will make a good salesman will, without further training, make a good, active business man.

A THANKFUL READER.

In a letter of the 6th inst., in which J. J. Ryan of 1800 Fourteenth street, Sacramento, informs us of his recent disastrous fire, he says:

"I am thankful for the information I received from your Advocate, for which I have subscribed for so many years."

Under the Minnesota pure food laws the manufacturers say that their largest sales are of cheap "flavors" instead of "extracts." The law requires extracts to be made of nothing but alcohol and the essential oil taken from the lemon, vanilla bean, or whatever it is. Extracts must have a specified strength, also. The law does not prescribe the substance to be used in making flavors. The lemon flavor does not have to contain any genuine lemon oil. The only thing the law objects to in these is artificial colorings. Whatever the substance used to produce the flavor, so long as it is not injurious to health, it may be sold, but it must not be colored with dyes or any foreign substances.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

St. Louis—The Retail Grocers' Association is agitating a movement to have the wholesalers discontinue selling to consumers. The St. Louis grocers passed a resolution through the State convention that the legislature be asked to put a license of $5,000 on trading stamp companies similar to the law now in force in Louisiana, which has recently been declared to be constitutional.

Indianapolis, Ind.—A food show is to be given under the auspices of the Retail Grocers' Association by a company which makes a specialty of this kind of work. The retail grocers of Indianapolis found the Standard Oil Company was selling to their customers through a dummy company. This company cut the price of oil to within a cent or two of the wholesale quotations. The grocers turned their business to an independent company and the manager of the Standard Oil Company then took up the business of the dummy company and discontinued the selling to consumers.

Cleveland, Ohio—The Grocers' Association and the bakers are conferring in order to secure a satisfactory basis upon which the bread business can be conducted. There has been much dissatisfaction owing to conditions due to advance in the price of flour, which upset the plans of the bakers, who refused to take back stale bread. The recent picnic of the Grocers' Association was a great success.

Rochester, N. Y., July 27th—The Association grocers have caused the arrest of twelve independent grocers during the past few days on a charge of selling goods on Sunday. The Association grocers only number 60, as against 200 not in the association. The first man arrested was acquitted, the Judge holding that a grocer could not be found guilty for the act of his clerk unless he had specifically ordered the clerk to do certain things.

Huntsville, Ala.—The Farmers' Club of Madison County has declared war against the Retail Grocers' Association of this place because the latter have influenced the wholesale grocers not to sell to any but retail stores.

Minneapolis—Through co-operation with the Merchants' State Mutual Fire Insurance Company of North Dakota, the State Grocers' Association received an addition of about $75 per month to its income. The insurance company allows the State Association 25 per cent on all premiums received.

Illinois—The Retail Grocers' Association Mutual Fire Insurance Company has paid an annual return dividend of 20 per cent since its origin. This means that it has lessened the cost of insurance to its policy holders about one-fifth.

A KIND LETTER.

A Well-Known Grocer Expresses Gratitude.

The Bond Scale Co. are in receipt of a letter from the J. R. Newberry Co. expressing their satisfaction with the benefit derived from the use of the Bond Automatic Weighers they have installed, and signifying their intention of adding several more.

Many letters from small dealers have also been received, showing clearly how well it pays even the small or medium sized store to use these wonderful machines.

The Bond Automatic Weigher is undoubtedly the coming apparatus for weighing all free running materials.

MADERA WANTS PROTECTION.

Madera, Aug. 4th—The business men of this town are planning to form an organization similar to that which has been in just successful operation at Modesto for the past two years for the purpose of shutting out dead beats.

COMMERCIAL CONGRESS.

Important Meeting of Business Men to Be Held at Portland Next Week.

The sixteenth annual session of the Trans-Mississippi Congress is to be held at Portland on August 16th and 19th, inclusive.

This Congress will be a meeting of the business men from the states west of the Mississippi, which will have for its chief purposes the following:

Development of the Oriental trade by every means consistent with the integrity of the United States as a nation.

Trans-Mississippi States, through Gulf and Pacific Coast ports, to supply the Oriental markets.

Just transportation rates as a means to promote inter-state commerce.

Liberal government aid for river navigation.

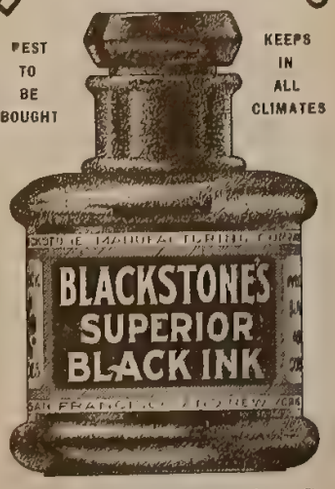
American dominion over the Isthmian Canal as a guarantee that the commercial interests of the American republic are properly safeguarded.

The governor of each state interested has appointed men to represent their respective states. Among those from San Francisco is Mr. Andrew R. Patrick, who is well known to the trade of the Pacific.

Through the efforts of this Congress many important public works have been instituted by Congress. In California the Laguna dam will soon be started to cost $1,000,000. In Nevada, Colorado and Arizona large sums of money will be spent in restraining waters for the reclaimation of arid lands. This work will add materially to the values of Pacific Coast property.



AN ACCOUNT REGISTER.

Cash registers have established their value with the retail merchants of the state so that now no store is considered complete without one. W. A. Hawley, with offices in the Jas. Flood building, is now presenting to the trade the McCaskey account register, for which a great deal is promised in the matter of keeping track of account sales by a simple and effective system.

TALKS ON SUNDAY CLOSING.

The Knocker in Inter-State Grocer Gives Some Ideas Worth Considering.

I believe I have learned at last why the saloon-grocers object to the lid being on on Sundays. I used to think like everybody else, that they regretted the loss of their Sunday receipts. But that don't trouble many of them. What they don't like about it is the fact that they can't work on Sunday. They actually have to take a day off. Yes, sir, the poor fellows, they can't work It's a shame. They don't know what to do with themselves. They are like fish out of water. They are lost. And that's the reason they have those remorseful signs behind their bars: "Don't blame Folk, blame me—I voted for him."

This is no joke. Make the rounds as I do and prove it for yourself. They will tell you: "I lay around the house all day and don't know what to do with myself, and when Monday morning comes I am more tired than if I had worked in my store all day Sunday."

Just think of it! Don't know what to do with himself. With the most beautiful parks in the world all around him, an abundance of free concerts by first-class bands, and the many summer gardens where one can go for recreation for self and family. No wonder these men have the store like "the man with the hoe." They don't appreciate the beautiful sunshine, the green fields and the many other blessings bounteous nature provides for them outside of their store. To them the world is bounded by four walls. In the front is their grocery and in the rear the saloon. All the people in the world are those who come for business. The only music they know is the song on the cash register. The only book they read is the cash book. Their most firm belief is that a hundred cents make a dollar and seven pounds of beef makes a good soup.

The only recreation they take is when they go to a funeral, and most times they combine business with pleasure even then.

Now let us analyze their position. If they would tell one of their clerks that in the future he could have a holiday every Thursday and that clerk would refuse on the ground that he felt better working, and consequently stayed around the store all day Thursday, this clerk would most likely be considered a ripe subject for a lunatic asylum.

And yet they are exactly in the same position as this clerk—the law says to them: You must close your saloon on Sunday; you can have a holiday. And they, like the clerk, object to it. They can't plead the old excuse that their competitor might get their trade if they chose. Their competitor has to close also

What is the good of making money if you can't enjoy it? Witness John D. Rockefeller. With all his millions he lacks the capacity of enjoying one single dollar of it. What he wants now, I understand, is sympathy. I would like to sell him about a million dollars' worth of mine, if his money wasn't tainted.

Money is only good for the comfort and enjoyment it affords. If we become slaves to money, if we strive till old age accumulating more and more till we have passed the time when we are physically and mentally no longer able to enjoy it, what good is it then? We are put into this beautiful world to enjoy it. But we can't enjoy it as it is intended we should, behind the four walls of a grocery seven days in the week, year after year.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." That means you and me. Get out on Sundays. Take your family for an airing. Enjoy the music and watch others enjoy themselves Try this next Sunday and note on Monday morning how refreshed your feel. Such is genuine rest. Even though you may be physically tired when you return home Sunday night you will notice that your appetite is improved, the cobwebs are brushed from off your brain, your mind is clearer and you will pursue your duties with a renewed energy and vim that will well repay you for the day your business was closed.

Besides, your business associates, your friends, even your customers will have a better opinion of you. You will become optimistic and will learn that this is a kind, good old world for even a grocer.

ONLY FOUR DAYS MORE.

Contest of Porto Rico Coffee Company Will Soon Be Closed.

Retail grocers have only until midnight on Monday, Aug. 14th, in which to have their orders counted in the contest instituted by the Porto Rico Coffee Co., to reward those dealers who might sell the most Ponce de Leon coffee The two retail grocers in San Francisco who have handled the most Ponce de Leon from April 15th to August 15th, will each be awarded a gent's solid gold Waltham watch, valued at $60. There are four other watches of similar value to be distributed to the four retail grocers outside of San Francisco who have handled the most Ponce de Leon coffee.

Many dealers have made a specialty of the goods and have succeeded in building up a splendid trade on them. The Porto Rico coffee is recognized in the coffee world as being of extraordinary merit. The "Ponce de Leon" brand is the highest class of Porto Rico coffee.

A GREAT SAVING.

When the grocer buys a good refrigerator he has effected a great saving. The refrigerator not only keeps goods fresh and saleable that would otherwise dry out, but they also prevent great loss in weight.

The grocers should be careful to get a good refrigerator Examination will satisfy them that the McCray Refrigerator, of which the Beck-Wakefield Co., of 122 Market street, are the agents, is the best of its class and will prove a paying investment. These refrigerators are sold on easy payments.

Attracting Trade

Pushing Trade Builders.

When recommending a certain brand of goods to his customer, the dealer should have two things in view. The first of these is the profit the goods pay. The second is, the satisfaction the customer will get out of them.

It is poor policy for the dealer to sell a customer something with which he knows the customer will not be satisfied no matter how large the margin of profit may be.

At the same time, it is just as foolish for the dealer to sell articles that carry no profit just because his customers happen to call for that particular brand, especially if there is some other as good or better on which the retailer gets a fair profit. When a piece of goods combines both advantages of profit and satisfaction the dealer is on the right path to success.

Must Have Quality.

It is folly for a dealer to believe that he can build up his business by pushing goods that are absolutely devoid of quality, no matter how lavishly they may be exploited upon the billboards or dead walls, or in the columns of the daily newspapers.

Tens of thousands can be led through curiosity to try a certain article that is lavishly advertised, but if it is lacking in quality they will not continue to buy it, and such a brand is a poor thing for a dealer to push in the expectation of building up his trade, and increasing his list of regular customers.

Of course, it does not always follow that a brand that is extensively boomed on the billboards and in the daily newspapers is altogether destitute of quality. But that is a matter concerning which the dealer must exercise greatest care, good judgment and knowledge of quality.

The dealer who would be permanently successful must push goods that give genuine satisfaction to customers. Those are the kind that build up his business.

A Striking Window Display.

Dealers in search of some unusually striking means of attracting attention to a special window display might try the device here described, which was recently utilized with success by a dealer in a large Eastern city.

A four foot, 2x8 plank has been taken and a triangular piece sawed from one end, so that when the square end was propped inside the window and the plank inclined against the plate glass at an upward slope of 45 degrees, the sawed end rested plumb against the inside surface. The triangular piece that was sawed off was then glued upon the outside of the glass, in such a manner that it appeared as if the end of the plank had been shoved clear through the window.

The apparent break was then made more real by gluing numerous slender pointed strips of really broken glass, in the shape of an irregular many pointed star, on the inner surface of the pane, the center of this star being, of course, the apparent hole.

The result was realistic in the extreme. When a person caught sight of the window they began to wonder how the plank happened to have dropped against the glass. Then they switched to wondering if the plank had been left as it fell to save the shattered window from completely capsizing.

Many persons crossed the street for a nearer inspection. Even after they reached the window it was half a minute before the truth dawned upon them. Then, when they saw that the whole thing was a scheme to draw their attention, they couldn't refrain from taking a look at the goods in the window. It certainly was a good idea for attracting attention.

A Thirteen Sale.

A cleverly conceived sales scheme employed by a Western firm which brought very satisfactory results was as follows:

Small bills were distributed a few days before the sale with nothing but the name of the firm and the number thirteen upon them. This aroused the curiosity of the people in general; everybody wanted know what they meant.

The sale took place on the thirteenth of the month.

Every thirteenth customer got his money back, whether $1 or more.

The lucky slips were placed in the show window on a suitable card with the customer's name and address on the bottom of it. This sale brought in many people who had never been in the store before, but who have traded with this firm ever since

The results of this sale were surprisingly good, especially as an advertising medium.

Pimento is sometimes called allspice, from a supposed resemblance to a mixture of nutmegs, cinnamon and cloves. It is a very useful spice, and as it is usually the cheapest member of the spice family, ought, one would think, to be preferred by consumers much more than it is. It is seldom adulterated—another sound reason why it should be used more often in the kitchen.

Packers of cereal foods, as well as retailers of the same, should see, as far as they can, that old and stale goods are not foisted upon the public with detriment to their reputation. The packer who owns the label and the retailer who has the goods on his shelves cannot hope to escape part of the blame if, through long keeping, the crushed oats become bitter or if weevils find their way into the corn, wheat or barley foods.

Ichthyosaurus is a name much jested with because it rivals the mastodon as a most widely known fossil, dating back to its discovery by Sir Edward R. Home, between 1814 and 1819, in the marine deposits of Lyme-Regis, England. The name, signifying "fish lizard," shows that this animal impressed Konig, its describer, as having a fishlike backbone combined with a shoulder girdle of the lizard or saurian type. This term could not have been more happily chosen, because, while retaining the skeleton of an atavistic and extremely ancient lizard, the ichthyosaur evolved a most strikingly modern external likeness to certain very familiar animals of the sea.—Henry Fairfield Osborn in Century.

A Fine Opening For a Young Man.

"Yes," said Mrs. Malone to the old friend who was picking up the threads of family history, "my Bobby, he's traveling with a circus now."

"Pretty hard work, isn't it?" inquired the interested caller.

"Never a bit of it," returned the proud mother of Bobby. "He's living like a gentleman, he is—hands in his pockets, as ye might say—for it's a handsome salary he gets, and every blessed thing he has to do is to lay his head in the lion's mouth a matter of some two or three times a day or thereabout."—Youth's Companion.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

United States Department of Agriculture weekly report for California says:

"Hay, barley and oats reported below average in nearly all parts of the State, except certain parts of Southern California where the yield is the best for several years. The yields of deciduous fruits are better than anticipated in many sections, though generally below the average."

SUGAR.

New York, August 3d—Willett & Gray report:

"Raws—The week opened firm and gained in strength on sales at an advance, the top price being equal to 4.15 cents for 96 degree test. Improvement did not continue long owing to the heavy failure of operators in Paris who had endeavored to corner the August delivery of beet sugar, and quotations returned to the basis of 4 7-16 cents. Holders of raw sugar seem content to sit still until their sugars are wanted.

"Refined—The list was advanced 10 points early in the week owing to the increased demand. Buyers were bare of stocks and wished to take advantage of the combination of cheap prices and low freight rates. The trade secured fully 30 days' supplies on contracts with the usual guarantee before the advance. We may now look for a quiet period until a good part of the sugars bought are absorbed."

New York, August 3d—M G. Wanzor & Co. report:

"The raw market is firm. A few sugars can be bought to-day at 4⅛ cents, although the refineries are not in the market at this figure. Beet sugar prices are recovered somewhat this morning (Wednesday). Raw stocks at refining points are small, but the purchases made lately have strengthened and fortified the refiners' position. Refined market is unsettled in the past week. Business steadily increased in spite of this fact. Competition for business has been keen. Prices yesterday were advanced 10 points. It appears that the refiners have got together."

TEA.

New York, August 1st—John B. Brown & Co. report:

"The trade seems more disposed to purchase, since teas in producing countries are costing importers from one to five cents per pound more than the same grade of goods can be bought for in our local market. Holders are therefore firm in their views and disposed to wait for their price."

COFFEE MARKET.

New York, August 3d—Willett & Gray report.

"Compared with August 1, 1904, the world's visible supply of coffee to-day is 1,200,000 bags smaller. Brazil coffees this season are probably less than 10,500,000 bags. Mild crops are about 4,500,000 bags. Official delivery shows consumption to be about 16,500,000 bags. It is more significant, however, that only small stocks are held in the interior of this country and Europe, and these stocks must soon be replenished. There is steady inquiry for new supplies in this country. If buyers refuse to pay prices ruling to-day, it cannot be concealed that they must come into the market sooner of later to keep going. The stocks in European sea ports are nearly 2,000,000 bags less than a year ago. This tone necessitates the buying in Brazil soon. Holders are, therefore encouraged to remain firm. Altogether the outlook is good and the trade will do well to take in supplies."

New York, August 1st—Volney Green & Son report:

"There has been a decidedly better demand for spot goods at full prices. Low grades continue scarce, and the trade, as a whole, think well of the market, and jobbers here are stocking up freely."

New York, August 1st—Henry Norddinger & Co. report:

"The question of the import tax is coming to the fore again. We understand that it will be presented to the public in an authenticated manner at an early date."

Boston, Mass., July 29th—W. S. Quinby Co. report:

"All grades of roasted coffee are very firm. Cheaper grades are advanced ½ to ¾ cent. Mild grades have not been advanced, but are very firmly held."

RICE.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The rice market is very firm with free buying."

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"The situation in the rice market is a very firm one. Jobbers are selling at from ¼ to ½ cent under parity with mill prices. Stock on hand is rapidly going into consumption."

New York, August 1st—Dan Talmage Sons Co. report:

"Demand shows some slight improvement over previous weeks. Values are firm on sightly parcels of Honduras of all grades. Japanese sorts are quiet at the snarp advance realized some weeks ago.

SPICES.

New York, August 1st—John Clarke reports:

"The market is strong and active, with general upward tendency owing to the short crops or pepper, ginger, nutmegs, pimento and maize."

CANNED FRUITS.

As the fruit canning season progresses it is becoming more evident that the higher grades of canned fruits will be scarce. This is particularly true of apricots and the early varieties of peaches. Prices are likely to be advanced on the better grades and possibly on late peaches, as buying competition among the canneries is becoming so great that the fruit canners will advance prices to an almost prohibitory figure. The acreage devoted to tomatoes is smaller than ever and a light pack is expected. Future tomatoes are strong, and not many canners are offering goods.

San Jose, Cal., August 7th—The Fruit Canners' Association is working on peaches, apricots and Bartlett pears. In general, they report a light pack this year. A number of their thirty canneries are not operating. The pack of peaches will be heavy, of pears light, and apricots good. The pear crop will be better than estimates two months ago. Tomato packing will begin about September 15th. A heavy pack is expected if frosts and rains do not interfere

San Jose, August 3d—The local branch of the California Fruit Canners' Association has found the apricot pack poorer than was expected.

San Jose, August 1st—The Campbell Fruit Growers' Union have canned 560 tons of apricots to date. This is not up to the record of some years. The work on cots has eased up a little, and work has been begun on cling peaches received from Marysville.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, July 31st—Paul Taylor Brown & Co. report:

"The situation in Singapore pineapple has made a very decided jump during the past week. The summer pack is practically over. It was not so large as was expected, and the demand from Europe has taken the greater part of these, leaving little or nothing for the American market. With the winter pack not proving at all satisfactory to the trade, the price must advance materially until offerings are made for next summer's pack."

CANNED VEGETABLES.

Baltimore, Md., August 28th—The "Trade" prints the following from its New York correspondent:

Tomatoes—The market has advanced 2½ cents to 72½ cents for standard Maryland 3s. Futures still remain at 70 cents, with occasional holders asking only 67½ cents. The market has a shade upward tendency.

Corn—No interest is shown by anyone.

Peas—The reduction in acreage through New York State and the West, and the further reduction by reason of unfavorable weather have contributed to make the pack considerably less than was originally deemed possible. The corry-over was 200,000 to 250,000 cases. When business starts, prices are quite likely to go higher under the stimulus of reduced production.

Asparagus—The market continues firm on light trading. Business, even as it is now, promises to consume substantially everything in sight.

CANNED TOMATOES.

Salt Lake City, Utah—D. C. Adams, an authority on tomatoe canning, says: "The blight covers all of the Utah producing districts. The percentage of loss is already 60 per cent, and is increasing. It is my opinion that the blight has been growing slightly every year for the last five years. There are, perhaps, enough carry-over tomatoes in stock to bridge over until the crop of 1906 with what we can can this year. The canners are running short time."

Baltimore, Md., July 29th—H. H. Taylor & Sons report.

"The higher market has realized in a reaction in demand. With the advent of the regular season next month, when prices are settled for new crop, there ought to be good business done in this line."

Thaxton, Va., July 29th—J. W. Gillespie reports:

"The tomato crop will not be over half of what it was last year. Bedford County produces 100,000 cases with an average tomato year. There is a prospect that it will only put up 30,000 to 35,000 cases this year. There are no spot tomatoes left in this county."

Bridgeville, Del., July 29th—H. T. Cannon & Co. report:

"Rains have caused tomato blooms to fall off, and there are not nearly so many tomatoes on the vines as the growers and packers would like to have seen. The acreage is quite short compared with 1904."

Aberdeen, Md., July 29th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"As the market seems to strengthen daily, there are but few sellers and these sellers are inclined to offer only a percentage of their holdings at advanced figures, anticipating still better prices for the balance of their holdings. We quote both spot and futures at 72½ cents."

CANNED CORN.

West Poland, Me., July 31st—B. N. Fernald reports:

"The severe draught has commenced to affect the corn very materially. We still expect a full crop of corn this year. The packing season will commence at least two weeks earlier than it has for the past two years. There is no reason why there should not be a pack of excellent quality. Prices are well maintained with the reputable packers, and, in fact, most of the larger concerns have withdrawn from the market."

EASTERN CANNED PEAS.

New York, July 31st—The situation in peas is considered as becoming acute. It seems from conservative estimates that the pack will fall 40 to 45 per cent below estimates in nearly all packing centers. Wisconsin packers are represented as saying that they cannot deliver more than 45 per cent of their contracts, while New York packers say that they will be unable to deliver more than 40 per cent of theirs. In New Jersey conditions vary. It seems reasonable to say that the total delivery will not exceed 50 per cent, and it may possibly fall below that figure.

PRUNES.

San Jose, August 7th—At the Dried Fruit Promotion Association yesterday it was reported that many sales were being made on a 3-cent basis, and that some sales had been made in the last few days on a basis of 3¼ cents. The opinion was expressed that the present prices might be maintained unless growers rushed the crop on the market in haste to realize. Members stated that the present price of apricots was 7 cents.

San Jose—The Luerhing Co. states that prunes on a 3-cent basis are not taking quickly with their Eastern buyers. On the other hand, the California Canners' Association says that price is satisfactory to many. It is stated that the total yield will be one-third less than last year.

Salem, Ore., August 5th—Reports are coming in that all varieties of prunes are falling off the trees badly and the yield will fall at least one-third short of the earlier estimates of 300 carloads. The present indications are that the prune growers of Oregon will receive a remunerative price for their products, as the demand is growing and inquiries are frequent and encouraging.

Santa Rosa, August 3d—It is expected that prunes that were not handled at all last year on account of their size will bring $15 per ton this year.

Vancouver, Wash., July 24th—A. C. Burdick reports:

"About half of our small crop of Italian prunes has been sold at 2½ cents to 2⅝ cents, with ⅛ cent premium on the 30-40's. Many growers are refusing to sell expecting higher prices, as our crop is only one-third the normal. The quality promises to be excellent.

RAISINS.

The local market is much firmer because of the completion of the combine between the Growers' Association and the Commercial Packers.

Fresno, August 7th—The Raisin Growers and Raisin Packers have completed the formation of their organization. Henry T. Crocker, a San Francisco capitalist of high repute, has been chosen as the eleventh director. He will be president of the company. The five directors chosen by the packers are C. W. Griffin, D. J. Guggenheim, L. L. Gray, A. Gartenlaub, and Geo. M. Armsby. M. F. Tarpey, the vice-president, will act as practical manager of the joint company. Outside firms are reported as offering from $65 to $70 per ton for raisins in the sweat box. A price of $35 was secured last year. Few raisin growers are willing to accept this price, as there is a general feeling that the market conditions warrant a price of 4 cents or more this season.

DRIED APRICOTS.

Fresno, August 6th—The "Republican" to-day says: "There has been a great scurry in dried fruit the last few days. Many packers sold dried apricots in May at a 5½-cent basis. In the early season they bought quite a quantity of fruit at that figure. Of late, however, the market began to advance and the buyers began to scramble for goods. Some of the growers have received as high as 7½ and 8 cents.

DRIED APPLES.

Lockport, N. Y., July 29th—Wm. E. Schaeffer reports:

"Crop prospects range from 10 to 12 per cent of the average yield. Even the bears admit that there is not the crop they had expected."

Sodus Center, N. Y., July 31st—E. B. Mather reports:

"Most of the best judges now place the crop in Western New York at from 15 to 25 cents of last years's crop. Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia report poor apple crops. This would indicate that the present market is none too high. I think a little buying would certainly advance it."

Portland, Ore.—E. H. Shepard, manager of the Hood River (Oregon) Fruit Growers' Association, says that the Oregon apple crop will be only about half of what it was last season. Orchards in the Hood River Valley will only produce about 20 per cent of the 1904 crop.

Kansas City, Mo.—The "Packer" says: "The apple crop will be fully 40 per cent short of last season's crop, if not more. The New England States will yield about half a crop. New York State will raise about 40 per cent of last year's crop. In Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Virginia the crop will not be up to the average. In Ohio, Indiana and Illinois there is less than an average crop. Michigan will have from 35 to 40 per cent of a full crop. Missouri will yield 15 to 20 per cent of a full crop. In Arkansas and the two Territories, the crop will be very light, not exceeding 15 per cent. On the Coast, California has a good crop, while Washington and Oregon crops will be short. Taking the reports of the apple growing States together, the crop will be the smallest raised in many years. The home demand promises to be very good. Already European inquiry for American fruit promises a good outlet for all the fall and winter apples raised."

DRIED FIGS.

New York, July 29th—The Hills Bros. Co. report:

"Opening prices are certainly moderate. Reports from Smyrna continue favorable. The crop will be about the same size as last season."

CURRANTS.

New York, July 29th—The Hills Bros. Co. report.

"Cables from Greece advise us that the bill by which the Bank of Athens secured a monopoly of the currant business has passed. Spot goods immediately showed an advance. Present quotations are on a similar parity with the Greek market to-day."

ALMONDS.

Malaga, Spain—United States Consul Birch writes:

"An almond trust has been formed by seven principal Malaga exporters, and they undoubtedly will control the market. The syndicate will have to do only with the purchase of almonds from growing districts, and will not intervene in sales to American and European buyers. The purpose of the trust, the organizers admit, is to reduce the first cost and eradicate certain abuses practiced by local speculators and brokers. The price of almonds and the cost of freight to New York for the season beginning next month will not be materially affected, though the selling price of different local houses is likely to be more uniform than in other years."

BEANS.

Detroit, July 29th—H. E. Botsford & Co. report:

"Beans are scarcer now than they were a couple of weeks ago. We do not believe the market will go much lower, since the few cars in Michigan are held in strong hands. The outlook for the new crop has improved somewhat. The crop will be later than ever and a smaller acreage was planted."

Sebowing, Mich., July 29th—John Liken & Co. report:

"Continued heavy rains for the last two months have done much damage to the bean crop in low lands."

New York, July 28th—Sneekner & Quinby report:

"Stocks are light with the exception of pea beans. The small acreage and ate planting seem to indicate no more than 75 per cent of last year's crop, even under the most favorable conditions."

Ridgetown, Ont., July 31st—Thos. Steel & Co. report:

"Old beans are about all in. The coming crop will be late and some of them are likely to get frosted. With the most favorable weather, we will have little more than a half crop on account of the rains."

HONEY.

Denver, July 25th—The Colorado Honey Producers' Association reports:

"Indications are that Colorado will have the lightest honey crop ever known. No new honey was offered this year until July 25th, although usually it can be secured about July 1st."

New York, July 28th—Hildreth & Segelken report:

"Reports indicate that the crop of white honey in the East and Northwestern States will be somewhat short and not as large as last year. California new crop honey is arriving freely. Quality is exceptionally fine. Very little is coming from the South."

CANNED SALMON.

Portland, Ore., August 8th—Reports from Astoria state that the big run of salmon has entered the Columbia River. One catch of ten tons is reported.

Seattle, August 5th—The second and final spurt of the sockeye salmon run on Puget Sound is now due. The "Post-Intelligencer" says: "The first half of the season, as the last ten days may be termed, was fully up to the expectations of the packers, and the number of cases of sockeye salmon packed on the Sound to date is estimated at 300,000. On this basis, if the second run should prove to be the heaviest of the season, as now predicted by trap operators and cannerymen, the total pack should reach the 800,000 mark. This is the opinion that is being expressed by local parties interested in the fishing industry, and some of the more sanguine are even estimating the total pack at 900,000 cases.

"It is generally conceded that more fish will pass through the waters of the Sound on the way to the spawning grounds on the Frazer river in August than were recorded for the past ten days. It is thought that the run will be bunched to a greater extent and that the canneries will not be able to pack a great many more cases than on the first spurt.

"Of all the different estimates that are now being made on the pack, none has been heard that gives a smaller figure than 700,000 cases."

Seattle, July 27th—P. J. Brady, president of Brady & Co., reports:

"The trade are buying sockeye liberally at open figures. Prices on Red Alaska are at a low notch, and it is reasonable to expect a stiff advance should the sockeye pack not materialize. Even should the sockeye pack be large, if it is held at firm figures, it will tend to keep Red Alaska prices where they now are. The world is preparing to buy a two years' supply of sockeye if the prices should not be too high. Strong financial arrangements have been made for gradual distribution. This will cause the prices to be maintained. The talk as to prices ranges from $1.25 to $1.35. The United States will take from 300,000 to 400,000 cases, at $1.35. Should the big sockeye pack materialize, we look for much weakness in red Alaska, since prces to-day are lower than what packers can make a reasonable profit at. Should the sockeye pack not exceed 400,000 cases, red Alaska, spot and futures, will jump to $1.10. Chums are practically sold out at 65 cents, and the market is now 70 cents. The pink market is 75 cents for future delivery, the same prices at which spots are held."

Seattle, August 5th—The "Trade Register" says:

"While the run is expected by some to slack up this week, others think it will keep up till August 10th. The canners are hopeful of a still bigger run the latter part of the month, and the season thus far has turned out in a manner to warrant such optimism. Should they not be disappointed, the season's pack will be highly satisfactory and run above the 800,000 cases figures, while a second big run would beat the record pack figures of 1901. While there is na prospect of the highest guess of 1,500,000 cases total of some a few months ago, it looks as if the sockeye pack will be much greater than the majority of packers expected until a few days ago.

"A bumper pack should not give any warrant for expecting lower prices as a result. In our Salmon Annual of last March we said we did not expect the Sound pack total to reach 1,250,000 cases, and that opening sockeye prices were expected to be at least $1.25, though a few thought a bumper pack might lead to a price as low as $1.15, and this price may be named. The majority are now talking the former figure, and, considering the quality of this grade and its commanding $1.40 to $1.50 two years ago, a lower price should not prevail.

"Prices will be made in a few days, say next Thursday, and then the market should respond with orders so long withheld."

Bellingham, August 5th—When the traps were lifted last night they contained practically no fish. There is merely a temporary lull in the run. The big salmon that trail in the rear of the big run have not yet appeared. Although the traps on the banks made small catches, 140,000 fish were brought to the Pacific-American Fisheries. As the cannery was not able to handle all these fish, about 50,000 of them were sent to Anacortes. Every cannery has been working to its utmost limit, and yesterday was a record breaker. The deficiency of help has been largely corrected.

Seattle, August 4th—The first spurt on Puget Sound has been gradually falling off. The second and final spurt is expected within the next few days. The first half of the season was fully up to the expectations of the packers. The number of cases of sockeye salmon packed to date on the Sound is estimated at 300,000. If the second run should prove to be the heaviest of the season, as is now predicted, the total pack should reach the 800,000 mark. Some of the more sanguine are even estimating the total pack at 900,000 cases.

Anacortes, Wash., August 3d—The local canneries still have all the salmon they can handle. A Blaine cannery took several scow loads of surplus from one of the canneries here this week.

Anacortes, Wash., July 31st—Never in the history of Fidalgo Island was there so many salmon being packed as now, and if the run continues the output will reach 500,000 cases. Already 100,000 cases have been put up, and the six canneries are filling cans at the rate of 13,000 cases daily.

Anacortes, July 30th—The Fish Commissioner reports that the trap men operating in this vicinity are not now attempting to violate the Sunday closing statute. A strict patrol is being maintained.

FISH.

New York, August 1st—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report.

Scotch Herring—Shipments just about cover demand. Prices are holding up nicely.

Holland Herring—None have arrived yet. The catch is small and prospects for a large catch are good.

French Oil Sardines—If the catch does not improve very materially, we cannot look for any low prices this season.

MACKEREL.

New York, July 27th—Thos. Woodward & Co. report:

"Prices are advancing. Supplies are not large enough to take care of the demand. Receipts from Ireland have been very disappointing. Mackerel is being held back there, and the 250 and 300 count will be held at firm prices. Holders of mackerel in Nova Scotia are also demanding higher prices, since the fishing in many parts there has been a big failure."

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Vlaardingen (Holland) reports say that the catch of herrings up to July 15th was far below that of last year."

SARDINES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Reports from France indicate that the sardine catch so far has been a failure."

OYSTERS.

New Orleans, July 24th—Ahrons- Seibert Co., Ltd., say:

"Southern packers have named prices at which no one need fear to buy. They are below the cost of production, and are guaranteed up to date of shipment."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Martin's cheese is firm at present quotations, with higher prices in view."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, July 27th—Aspegren & Co. report:

"With the European demand as poor as it is at present, the bears claim that no heavy advance can be thought of. On the other hand, the crop output is poor, and the bulls claim that because of the heavy advance in cotton, we cannot dream of low prices for oil. Conditions are likely to change at any time."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"There is nothing new in the way of outside demand. Strictly fancy grades of wheat are doing well, but other varieties are lower. Tame oat hay, most of which shows a little rust, is not in good demand.

"We quote as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay, $12.50 to $13.50.
Other grades, same, $9.50 to $10.50.
Other grades wheat, $7.50 to $9.00.
Wheat and oat, $8.00 to $10.00.
Tame oat, $7.00 to $10.50.
Oat and clover, $5.50 to $8.50.
Wild oat, $5.00 to $8.00.
Barley and oat, $7.00 to $9.50.
Stock hay, $4.50 to $5.50.
Alfalfa, $5.50 to $9.00.
Straw, per bale, 35 to 50 cents."

Passport to the North Pole.

A passport to the north pole was issued some years ago by the governor of the province of Tobolsk, which stretches along the Russian shores of the Arctic ocean. The official was approached by two men who had been engaged to proceed to the north with an English expedition, then fitting out. Their petition was for a passport to the pole itself, but the governor pointed out that the pole was as likely to be in their home province as in any other, that it was extremely unlikely they would reach it and that, if they did, there were no police there to examine their credentials. At last, however, to satisfy them he ordered the issue of a document allowing them to pass without let or hindrance to the north pole.

Cigars and Tobacco

Michalitschke Bros. & Co. report good trade.

Herman Heyneman has called for statements of stocks of Old Virginia cheroots.

Tillmann & Bendel are pleased with the general condition of trade. Orders are coming in freely for all lines of cigars and tobacco.

N. Venezia & Co. are preparing for a very vigorous campaign in behalf of their high grade clear Havana cigar, the Venezia.

S. Bachman & Co. are making a very liberal deal on Renown five cent cigars, 100 free with each 1,000, and 450 with 3,000.

Telephone Private 213.

Major F. S. Burrows reports that business is picking up after the mid-summer quiet. The demand for the Rough Rider cigar is heavily on the increase.

Lex Ehrman of Ehrman Bros. & Co. has returned from a three weeks' sojourn with his wife in the Yellowstone Park, and is talking "Optimo" harder than ever. The Yellowstone appears to have grounded his faith in the Optimo firmer than ever.

Trade with Ehrman Bros. & Co. is even more active than heretofore. The demand for Optimos is still crowding on the limit of supply, while the Henry Miller of their nickel line is catching on in fine shape with smokers of nickel cigars.

Late advices from Porto Riso indicate that the labor troubles which have hampered cigar manufacturers for some months past are far from being settled. On the contrary the strike is spreading and now includes a larger proportion of the cigarmakers on the island, according to one letter.

While trying to evade the payment of internal revenue taxes on stogies, as required by the law, three New York cigar manufacturers were recently trapped by internal revenue officers in St. Louis, who it was stated are systematically evading the tax on their products in an unusually bold manner. Forty-eight thousand stogies shipped to St. Louis by these manufacturers have been seized.

Under date of July 22 the Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" says: "A. Santaella & Co. Well! What can be said of this phenomenal business? They made 110,000 Optimo cigars on Wednesday. The 100-foot addition to their factory is being pushed to meet the overflow from the present workrooms. Less than five years ago they came here with forty cigarmakers. 'The push is in our cigar boxes,' said Senor Santaella. 'We do the best we can for our customers all the time,' he added."

A new scheme to increase competition for the regular cigar dealer has culminated in the incorporation, under the laws of New Jersey, with a capital stock of $500,000, of the National Cigar Stands Co., whose avowed object is to operate cigar stands in drug store, to manufacture and import cigars and tobacco. Those interested assert that the company has perfected plans to begin active operations in New York, Chicago, Boston and San Francisco almost immediately, and that its business will be extended as fast as opportunity offers, until all of the leading cities in the United States are covered.

So far as the facts already gathered indicate, the anti-cigarette law of the last legislature is not a howling success. The law is being circumvented by what appears to be undetectable schemes. The express companies and the mails are carrying tens of thousands of the little "coffin tack" into the homes and offices of hoosiers. In packages marked "Perishable—rush," or "Glass—handle with care," or "Breakable—caution," any one can get a box of cigarettes in "original packages." The things cannot be detected if the smell of the tobacco is covered. As a means of avoiding this cigarettes are shipped in glass tubes, glass bottles, coffee cans and anything that will keep in the smell. Shipments are made even in fruit crates along with the fruit itself. The risk has put up the price of cigarettes, but as the smokers will have them, cost or no cost, the trade goes on, and dealers outside of Indiana who are shipping into this state are making big profits. Another thing the law has done: It has driven boys from cigarettes to cigarros. It is very questionable what good the anti-cigarette law has done, or will do, much as every friend of boys would like to see our youth saved from the evil.—Terre Haute Tribune-Gazette.

TOASTS THE TRUST.

The action of the grocers of the East in regard to the retail tobacco stores of the American Tobacco Co. is the occasion for the following remarks by the "Merchants' Review" of New York:

"A daily commercial paper notes a pronounced tendency among retail grocers to throw out of stock the products of the Tobacco Trust because the trust has opened retail stores. A general movement of this kind would be more than the American Tobacco Co. could stand.

Doubtless the Tobacco Trust can justify its course to itself, but as a general proposition this system of a trust having its own separate distributing agencies is about the most foolish proposition that ever came down the commercial pike.

"It needs but a moment's thought to convince any moderately sane person that a system which calls for a canned meats store, a canned fruits store, a canned vegetables store, a raisin store, a prune store, a rice store, a coffee store, a sugar store, a tobacco store, a butter store, a cheese store, and so on, in place of the present family grocery store, is the craziest system ever dreamed of, much less put to a practical test.

"If the grocers can't undersell and generally knock endwise the competing stores of the Tobacco Trust, they must have lost some of their ancient audacity and cunning."

PROPOSE TO INCREASE CAPITAL.

A special meeting of John Rapp & Son will be held October 2 to vote upon a proposition to increase the capital stock from $50,000 to $200,000.

GROCERIES AND OIL ODORS.

It is but a natural conclusion that grocers' customers should object to having their purchases spoiled by the odors of oil. With the old style oil tanks it was almost an impossibility to prevent the spilling of oil over the hands and thereby tainting all articles handled after the filling of the oil can. You can't always take time to wash your hands when your store is full of customers.

The Bowser Self-Measuring Oil Tank does away with this disagreeable feature of selling oil. The customer's can is placed under the pump or hung under the nozzle, one stroke of the crank, and the accurate measure has been given—not a dot over or under measure—perfectly clean hands, a clean floor and a clean tank. The tank can be placed in between coffee or flour sacks and there would not be the slightest danger of contaminating the groceries.

The advertisement of S F. Bowser & Co., the patentees and manufacturers of these tanks, appears elsewhere on these pages.

PROTECTION PAYS.

The Globe Milling Co. has found that it pays to protect the retail grocers in their profits.

Because they know that no one can sell "A-1" flour cheaper than they do, nearly one thousand retail grocers of San Francisco and the other Bay cities have made a specialty of that brand of flour and are recommending it to their trade and urging their best customers to buy it on the ground that it is something better than anything else on the market. They are safe in doing this because the Globe Milling Co. has authorized grocers to "money back" their goods. As a consequence, the grocer tells the customer that if she finds the "A-1" flour not satisfactory in every way, she can bring it back and she will not be charged for the flour she may have used. The Globe Milling Co. also money backs their other brands of flours.

The policy of the Globe Mills is not to sell to cutters.

They have fixed and strictly maintain a price on their flour which leaves a 15-cent margin per sack for the dealer. The other flour mills could help grocers get a similar profit if they wanted to. If the mills should insist upon it and refuse to supply with flour the cutter who violated their prices, there is not a cutter but would be forced to maintain the prices.

It would be easy for the mills to help the grocers get a price of $1.35 on flour if they wished. Because they fear that a few big cutters might not like it, the mills refuse to protect the other retail grocers. They allow the few cutters to force the great mass of their trade to sell their flower at so low a price that there is not a fair margin of profit.

It is in the power of the grocers to correct this evil if they wish. They should do so and make themselves felt.

AN ENGINEERING TRIUMPH.

The Transporter Bridge Over the English River Mersey.

The Runcorn-Widnes bridge, which has been building for three and a half years, is now completed, says London Sphere. The bridge is of the "transporter" type and in design is precisely similar to an ordinary stiffened suspension bridge, with the exception that the approaches to the bridge are at a level, thus dispensing with the costly high level approaches, and the traffic, both foot and wheel, is carried on in a car suspended from the underside of the bridge. The bridge crosses the river Mersey and the ship canal between Runcorn, on the Cheshire side, and Widnes, on the Lancashire side, by a clear span of a thousand feet, this being by far the greatest span of any bridge in the United Kingdom designed to carry road traffic.

The four towers are constructed wholly of steel, and each consists of four square braced legs, upon the top of which is built a lantern 7 feet 6 inches in diameter and 8 feet high to the eaves, in each of which are placed powerful arc lamps. There are two main cables, each built up of 2,413 steel wires, anchored into the solid rock. From these cables are suspended two longitudinal stiffening girders, upon the lower flanges of which runs an electric trolley about 77 feet long, driven by two 35 horsepower motors. From the trolley is suspended the transporter car, 55 feet long and 24 feet wide, capable of carrying at one time four two-horse wagons and 300 people. On the top of the car is fixed the operator's cabin, in which is placed the controller and other apparatus, by means of which the operator has the car quite at command and can go about, reverse or put on the brakes at a moment's notice.

The time occupied in crossing the bridge is about two and a half minutes, so, with loading and unloading, it will be possible to make nine or ten trips per hour. The cost of the work has been about $600,000, which is about one-third the cost of an ordinary high level bridge with costly approaches.

An Automatic Baby Nurse.

An ingenious Swiss mechanic claims to have invented an automatic baby nurse. The apparatus is attached to a cradle. If the baby cries air waves cause specially arranged wires to operate a phonograph which sings a lullaby, while simultaneously clockwork is released which rocks the cradle. When the crying ceases the wire fails to vibrate, and the cradle stops rocking.—Tit-Bits.

OAKLAND ELECTS DELEGATES.

hearted treatment he accorded us all in days gone by.

Letter to Del Monte Company.

Del Monte Milling Company, San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen—We, the members of the Alameda County Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, desire to express to you our sincere regret at the passing away of your honored president, T. J. Parsons. At our meeting Monday evening, July 17, 1905, we heard of his demise, and the feeling that pervaded us all was that a warm and generous-hearted friend had passed to the great beyond.

We know you who have worked with him, for the years he has been associated in the milling business, will find among us a responsive sympathy for his loss. His work we know will go on, and the compensation we have is the example he has left us of a high, broad-minded interest in the welfare of the retail grocer.

Increase the Dues.

An amendment to the By-laws, increasing the dues to 75 cents for grocers operating one wagon, $1.50 for two wagons, and $2.50 for more than two wagons, was unanimously passed.

The committee appointed to visit the San Francisco Association reported that they had enjoyed a visit with their San Francisco brethren, and over beer and sandwiches had discussed the proposition to maintain uniform prices, and had earnestly talked with them upon the work and importance of the State Association to the local.

The matter of re-organizing the collection bureau was taken up and referred to the committee on re-organization, consisting of Messrs. A. J. Nor, H. D. Cushing, J. B. Hopkins, J. A. Gibson, and L. Warnke.

Committees on membership were appointed for East Oakland, Alameda, West Oakland, Oakland, East, South and West Berkeley.

Delegates Elected.

The election of delegates to the State convention resulted as follows.

L. Warnke, H. Hauch, H. K. Duncan, J. B. Hopkins, George Hoffman, J. S. Wixson, J. Mitchell and G. T. Morris.

As alternates, M. P. Manning, J. A. Gibson, G. A. Russell, H. Hadlen and the secretary.

For the detection of glucose in jelly, a teaspoonful of the jelly may be dissolved in a glass tumbler or bottle in two or more tablespoonfuls of water. The vessel in which the jelly is dissolved may be placed in a vessel of hot water, if necessary, to hasten the solution. In case a jam or marmalade is being examined, the mixture is filtered to separate the insoluble matter. The solution is allowed to cool, and an equal volume or a little more of strong alcohol is added. If the sample is a pure food product the addition of alcohol causes no precipitation, except that a very slight amount of proteid bodies is thrown down. If glucose has been employed in its manufacture, however, a dense white precipitate separates, and after a time settles to the bottom of the liquid.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Jas Neill and Edythe Chapman Neill have been presenting "The Jilt" this week. Neill is at his best as Miles O'Hara, the part that Boucicault created for himself. The story deals with English country life and there are two interesting love stories interwoven with much smart dialogue. Edythe Chapman Neill is cast as the high spirited and noble Kitty Woodstock and appears to splendid advantage in this dashing role. The rest of the company are well cast.

ALCAZAR.

Crowds are flocking to see White Whittlesey at the Alcazar. His presentation of "The Only Way" has been a notable success. There can be no question but that the play could have run several weeks to crowded houses. Whittlesey's Sydney Carton is in many ways an original characterizaton and adds greatly to the already high reputation of that clever actor. Miss Lawton also scores a decided success in the role of Miss Manette. Next week "Prince Otto" will be given with Mr. Whittlesey as the hero. The story is one of the most dainty and fascinating of modern literature It was in this play that Otis Skinner made so great a success. A play by Jack London, "The Great Interrogation," will be presented soon.

A MUSICAL SPECIALTY.

The Royal Hawaiian Band arrives from Honolulu next Monday on its way to the Portland Fair. They will give six concerts at the Alhambra under the direction of Belasco, Mayer and Price, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Popular prices, 25 and 50 cents, will govern both the afternoon and evening concerts. The band includes 35 members, all of whom sing. There are a number of soloists, includng a remarkable native tenor and soprano. The program will be made up largely of the quaint and languorous native songs, but there will be other miscellaneous selections. The band was brought over under government patronage.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

Sunday night will see the last performance of "No Wedding Bells for Her." During the coming week the "Land of the Midnight Sun" will be presented. This play deals with an American adventurer who has deserted a wife and son in Iceland and then marries again in America. He has a second son. The two boys grow to manhood as strangers, fall in love with the same girl and through a series of misadventures are brought together under the most tragic conditions. One of the features of the performance is a volcanic eruption during which the two brothers find their hatred change to the sincerest affection. The scenic effects will be on a vast scale. One scene is said to require a working staff of twenty men.

TIVOLI.

"Rob Roy" still maintains its hold on the public. This theatre is crowded every night and the performance elicits enthusiastic applause. Those who have not seen this opera should make it a point to attend before it is withdrawn, as it is one of the most striking performances of the many given at this theatre.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The Yiddish Players have been presenting a German version of the "Merchant of Venice" which might well be termed rather "The Story of Shylock and His Enemies," for the part of Shylock is the one which receives all the sympathy of the audience. It is played with a great deal of feeling by Mr. Glickman and is without a question the cleverest bit of character work he has done. The piece will receive its last performance Saturday night. At the Sunday matinee "Kol Nidrey" will be sung and on Sunday "Bar Kochba, the Last of the Jewish Kings," will be presented. On August 20th Denis O'Sullivan opens a season at this theatre with "Arrah Na Pogue" and a lot of Irish ballads.

FISCHER'S.

They have numerous clever specialties on the bill at Fischer's this week. Bacon and Vane, the well known local Thespians, appear in a novelty sketch entitled "The Twentieth Century Galatea," which is full of go and well received. The program includes some clever character work, with a long list of acrobats, singers and new moving pictures.

CHUTES.

The big free theatre has a splendid program this week. Shepp's dogs and ponies are still the star attraction. The program is one made up entirely of high class vaudeville. Chas. Bigley continues to make his thrilling dive into a five-foot tank of water from a platform 100 feet high.

NEW SUGAR FACTORY.

Visalia, August 4th.—A beet sugar plant is to be located about one mile south of this city. The deed for 40 acres of land has been made by Mrs. Giles to W. R. Spaulding. The deed has now been turned over to the Pacific Sugar Co.

FOR RENT—A corner store suitable for grocery and bar, N. W. corner 22nd and Howard; 2 living rooms, a basement and a store room included. Lease will be given.

IMPORTANT OPPORTUNITY.

FOR SALE—One of the largest and best established wholesale grocery and commission houses in the Northwest, located in the center of a rich, productive fruit and farming country. Will take an investment of about $75,000. This will bear thorough investigation. Reason for selling will be given to interested parties. Address C. W. P., Retail Grocers' Advocate.

ESTABLISHED RETAIL PRICES.

We give below the articles on which the manufacturers have established a retail price.

These prices are for common points like San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, and all terminal points.

Where freight is paid it is should be added to prices quoted if the nature of the goods will permit.

Every Association on the Coast has the privilege of listing these goods, as the manufacturers thereof have bound themselves to see that these prices prevail in California, Oregon and Washington.

We would urgently request grocers to notify us promptly of any instances where the above prices are not being maintained.

Clerk's Corner

Science of Salesmanship.

At nearly every convention that I have for some time back attended I have heard addresses of an academical character delivered on "Scientific Salesmanship" by representatives of a school that is teaching the art, says a recent writer. These addresses were pretty dry hearing and dryer reading, but that does not change the fact that there is something in Scientific Salesmanship, if it is practiced, and there is just as much possibility of practicing it in a retail grocery store as in selling steel suspension bridges or gold mine stock.

Grocers do not, as a rule, practice salesmanship. They are content to let people come in and ask for things and take them away with them. The grocery store is full of goods that people buy, and that people must have, and that pay a handsome profit, but the average grocer takes a woman's order for a dollar's worth of sugar at a little less than cost and lets her go without even suggesting that she buy something else.

Instructing the Salesman.

If I had a grocery store to run (maybe I would run it into the ground) I would take my clerks to one side and talk salesmanship to them until they would get so tired of me that they would begin to practice it. Clerks, who are nearly always young men, need instruction a great deal more than bossing, and they get too much bossing and too little teaching. The wise grocer is the man who explains the quality of his coffees and teas and canned goods to his clerks so that they know what they are selling and the man who knows qualities talks qualities and enthuses over qualities, and he is the man who sells the goods.

The average grocer does not stop to consider that canned goods have qualities. If he cannot afford to open a can so as to examine it, he should insist upon seeing it opened when he sends it to his own table. When he does that he sees that the peaches he has are in heavy syrup or light syrup, that the cans are well filled or slack filled, that the peaches have a nice bright color, or a poor one, that they are firm or soft, and all of the other things that he ought to know about his cans of peaches, and when he comes to sell a can to a woman customer he can get enthusiastic over a good brand, and enthusiasm makes sales.

This is all there is to scientific salesmanship. You need good goods to begin with, a knowledge of them, personal contact with them and enthusiasm over them and over your business. With that equipment you can sell anything.

The Question of Advancement.

What are the chances for a young man in the store to-day? This is a question you will hear asked almost every hour in the day. There is an old foggy idea going the rounds among the young men of to-day that there is no chance for advancement for the clerks. This is a mistake, for there are just as good and just as many chances for a clerk to advance as there are for the office man. The big positions are there to be won. They are always filled from the ranks of the clerks.

The clerk or salesman meets and deals with dozens—possibly hundreds of people, intimately each day. He is actively a factor in the business world. His business faculties are constantly on the alert through necessity. His experience of the world and business is added to every day of his life. He meets people often in a fashion where a sale is a question of the sharper wits, so he learns aggresiveness and how to sell goods, and generally his business ability is being constantly developed.

BRINGS DUPLICATE ORDERS.

Many retail grocers have been putting the Diamond "C" hams and bacons of the Cudahy Packing Company in stock and find that it has increased their trade in provisions. There is nothing in which quality counts more than in this class of trade. A sweet, tender and delicious piece of ham or bacon will be remembered by the customer and they will go back to the store for more and send their friends as well.

This is the experience of numerous grocers who have put the Diamond "C" products of the Cudahy Packing Company in stock.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

SARDINES.
The French sardine catch to date has been a failure.

CANNED PEAS.
There is now no question but that there will be only about half a pack this year.

TEA.
A shortage is reported in the Japan and Indian tea crops. Indian teas are about 2 cents higher.

HERRING.
The Holland herring catch to August 1st was 45,000 barrels short of that for last year at the same time.

HONEY.
The 1904 Pacific Coast output promises to be large and of fine quality. Prices have a declining tendency in consequence.

PRUNES.
Growers who would have been pleased with a 2½ cent bag basis thirty days ago are now asking 3½ to 3¾ cents.

DRIED FRUIT.
The Eastern shortage of dried apples and peaches will help the sale of California goods. Both apricots and peaches are advancing.

RICE.
The market is very firm. Rice is selling in San Francisco for less money than it can be replaced, as prices at the mills are correspondingly higher than here.

RAISINS.
The new crop is rather short and will be held in strong hands. It comes on a market carrying about 25 cars of old stock as against 1500 cars last year. This promises a strong market for the next two years.

CANNED SALMON.
The big run of sockeye salmon was not nearly so large as was expected. The Association has fixed a price of $1.50 per dozen for talls, as against $1.15 last year. Experts insist that prices of all cheap salmon will be higher soon and still higher in 1906.

TAKING REPEAT ORDERS.

The genial Mr. Hancock who did so much towards popularizing the angel of the 'Old North State" tobacco, is now lending his endeavors to brighten up the kitchens of the housewives of San Francisco by extending the demand for X-Ray Stove Polish. He reports that wherever X-Ray has been placed the grocers are glad to give repeat orders. The X-Ray Stove Polish is the original powdered stove polish. The fact that it is powdered and especially easy to apply, makes it a great favorite with the customers whenever they learn about it, and the splendid margin it carries makes it a favorite with the retail grocer. The splendid success that has been already achieved has pleased the manufacturers so greatly that a very extensive advertising campaign will be opened up in the fall.

RAILROADS MAKE CONCESSIONS

Delegates, Their Wives and Friends Can Proceed to San Francisco After the Convention and Return From Here at One-third Rate.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR LADIES

Stockton Merchants Preparing a Good Time For All Those Who Attend the Sixth Annual Convention of the State Grocers' Association.

Every grover who can be in Stockton on August 21st and 22nd is invited to attend the deliberations of the Sixth Annual Convention of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

The Convention will meet at Jury's Hall.

This convention will be the most largely attended and the most valuable the State Association has ever held.

Secretary Frank B. Connolly has arranged with both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads to extend special courtesies to the delegates of the State Association. Those who may desire to proceed to San Francisco after the convention can do so. The preservation of the buying certificate, properly O. K.'d by the State secretary, will enable them to secure a return ticket from San Francisco to their homes for one-third the regular fare.

Delegates, their wives and their friends are entitled to the special rate for this convention. On buying tickets, those parties who desire to attend the convention either as delegates or as spectators, should secure a certificate from the agent from whom the tickets are bought. This certificate, when countersigned by the State secretary, will entitle the bearer to purchase a return ticket for one-third the regular fare.

Entertainment For the Ladies.

Special attention will be given to the entertainment of the ladies.

Sunday evening, August 20th, there is to be a band concert for the pleasure of the delegates at the Stockton Hot Mineral Baths.

On Monday afternoon, the ladies will participate with the gentlemen in an excursion up the San Joaquin River to the famous dairy farm of Charles D. Pierce. This farm is noted all over the world as a model of its kind and a producer of prize-winning cattle. The delegates will be treated to an elaborate luncheon by Mr. Pierce, who is well known to the grocers of the Pacific Coast as the agent for the Money Weight Scale Co.

In the evening there will be a program of addresses and music that will interest the visitors and their ladies.

Tuesday wil be a very busy day for the delegates. It will be devoted to a discussion of trade matters, the election of officers, etc. The ladies will be entertained by the ladies of the Stockton grocers, who, it is understood, will organize an excursion to show them the interesting sights of that beautiful and attractive city.

On Tuesday evening while the delegates will be entertained at a banquet, there will be a reception arranged for the ladies.

Letters from Southern California announce that the official delegates will consist of Charles A. Mottaz, Los Angeles; J. R. Newberry, Los Angeles; J. F. Paulding, Los Angeles, and W. H. Poston Pomona. Two or the delegates will be accompanied by their wives.

Fresno has elected as its delegate, L. R. Eccleston of the firm of Eccleston Bros. Mr. Eccleston writes that his wife will accompany him.

'Frisco Elects 15 Delegates.

Although the "wet" grocers of San Francisco are feeling very poor owing to the necessity of fighting the proposed high license movement, at their meeting on Wednesday evening, they decided to send their full quota of 15 delegates for 433 members.

The money for the per capita tax and $15 expense money for each delegate will be raised by a theatre party to be given the latter part of October.

The delegates elected were:

Joseph A. Stulz, John F. Schomer, Geo. B. Doyle, Julius Lilienthal, J. Wm. Offermann, R. G. Schroeder, H. C. Burmeister, John P. McGuire, J. M. Sullivan, J. J. Cusack, J. J. Hayes, Henry Wolking, Julius Berendsen, Geo. Alpers, Fred Krueger.

State Secretary Frank B. Connolly was nominated but had his name withdrawn as he is entitled to attend the convention as an officer.

Many of the delegates will be accompanied by their wives.

Many Delegates Expected.

These, with the delegates already noted, promise a big convention.

The following interesting letter has been received from Charles H. Plass of Tacoma:

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 14, 1905.
Mr. Frank B. Connolly, San Francisco.

Dear Sir—Many thanks for your kind invitation to attend the sixth annual convention of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association. Owing to other arrangements, made prior to receiving your letter, I regret to be unable to attend. Nothing would give me greater pleasure than to again meet the California grocers and enjoy their noted hospitality.

Wishing you abundant success and again thanking you for your invitation, I am yours very respectfully Charles H. Plass.

Every retail grocer of Pepperwood, California, is interested in the progress of the growth of the Association movement. George R. Young, the leading merchant of that northern metropolis, writes Secretary Connolly as follows:

Pepperwood, Humboldt Co., Aug. 11.
Mr. Frank B. Connolly, San Francisco, California.

Dear Sir—Nothing would give me more pleasure than to be present at the State convention at Stockton, but it will be impossible for me to be there this time.

There is no association in this part of the State, but if it were possible for Mr. Powers to come up to Eureka, I know he could organize one of the biggest and best associations in California. There never was a place that needed him as badly as Eureka.

We would then have a representative at every State convention.

Please give my regards to Powers, the Advocate, and also to all my old friends in Alameda county. Yours truly, George R. Young.

STOCKTON SENDS PROGRAM.

Secretary O'Connor Outlines Plans for the Entertainment of the Delegates to the State Convention.

An outline of what the Stockton merchants propose to do for the delegates to the State Grocers' Convention to be held at that city on Monday and Tuesday, August 21st and 22d, can be gathered from the following letter:

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 14, 1905.
Mr. Frank B. Connolly,
Sec. of C. R. G. & M. Ass'n.,
San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir: At the regular monthly meeting of the Association, held on Thursday evening, August 10th, the entertainment committee reported the following as the program to be followed:

Sunday evening, on the arrival of the delegates, there will be a grand concert at the Stockton Hot Mineral Baths from 8 o'clock to 10. Those who leave San Francisco at 1 p m will arrive here at 7.10 p m, on either the Southern Pacific or the Santa Fe, and have ample time to get dinner before attending the concert.

Monday afternoon there will be an excursion by steamer to the Pierce Land & Stock Co's Farm on the San Joaquin River through some of the prettiest river scenes in the State.

Monday evening the following musical number will be rendered in connection with the official program for that evening: Prof. V. Clare Blossom, violin solo; Miss Pearl Sackett, solo; Vice-President L. Warnke, solo.

Tuesday afternoon, a sight-seeing trip in and around Stockton for the visiting ladies.

Tuesday evening, a banquet to the delegates and visiting grocers at the Yosemite Hotel and an entertainment and reception to the visiting ladies.

Very respectfully,
W. E. O'Connor, Sec.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.
Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

A short crop of apples this year.

When in doubt change the show window.

There is promise of a large pack of green corn.

Canned tomatoes are advancing. Get in out of the wet now.

Don't advertise without the goods to back your assertions.

Bright advertising has had its value demonstrated in many stores

Salt fish trade has been better this summer than for a long time.

Advertising requires thought—some merchants do not seem to realize it.

The lower the window, the better; the deeper and wider, the more effective.

The window can be beaten as an advertisement, but the grocery window seldom is.

Harvest and fall trade are the next chapters in business hustling. Get the store ready.

Picnic season is in full blast and the wise retailer is pushing sales of olives, pickles, etc.

Cable advices from Sicily noted favorable prospects for the 1905 crop Sicily filberts.

The California honey crop in the southern part of the State will be light in most sections.

With good harvests there should be a fine fall and winter demand for groceries, clothing, etc.

If you have one of those clerks who is too good for his job, it is time you were making a change.

A cool store, a clean store, a sweet-smelling store. These are three summer wants of the public.

There's a humming business done by the trade in potted meats, sardines, canned oysters and lobsters

A cheese trade is worth good money to any retailer. As a starter, keep good cheese and keep it right.

Common sense ideas on store system are always in demand. That is one of the valuable features of this number.

Keep your eye on the desirable grades of canned peas. They are likely to get scarce before the season is half over.

Conditions demand better business men than ten years ago. Men of ideas are necessary to the success of the home store.

Prunes are a strong item at present. Prices have advanced and are likely to climb somewhat higher before they get through.

Make the grocery store an attractive place in August and the sales will show marked results. Don't take our word. Just try it.

To ventilate, keep up a circulation of air night and day. Keep the transom over the door open all night and a rear window as well.

Ask the clerks. They may know more than you do about how the different lines sell or to what direction the trade trends.

The window is intended for other purposes than to admit light and allow the public to see the untidiness of the store interior.

A store that is poorly ventilated makes the clerks listless and stupid. Maybe it is the store that affects your clerks and not their own laziness.

Groceries are not easily stored in hot weather without offense to the sense of smell. Nor is the grocery store the easiest place to keep clean and cool.

The acreage of rice is less than that of last year by about 172,000 acres, or 26 per cent.; and the condition on July 1st was 88, against 88.2 one year ago.

Dried fruits contain much more than the equivalent of fresh fruits in weight, and the fact should be brought out occasionally in grocers' advertisements

Six feet is a good depth for the average show window. More will but take up valuable room inside the store. That is enough for a very good showing.

Proper arrangements for lighting the show windows are a necessity in every well regulated store. Where electric light is available it is probably the best means.

"Money Cheerfully Refunded" is not always a truthful sign. Most merchants do not return money cheerfully. Better say, "Money Refunded if Desired."

Do not be afraid of a free use of clean water on windows and store floor. Keep the latter well sprinkled Screened doors and windows will keep out the insects.

The store front is the thing that makes the first impression on the customer. Be sure this impression is a good one by having an attractive and well-kept front.

The merchant who receives sufficient impulse from his trade journal to reform the window service and make it up to date owes more to that paper than he can repay.

Official returns show a stock of currants in bond of 2,056,633 pounds on July 1st, compared with 4,440,258 pounds on the same date last year. This is a big difference.

To succeed at any business, a man must like the work. If you have become dispusted with retailing, close out as soon as you can and give some other fellow a chance.

A neat and well hung awning is a necessary part of every store front. One that sags and flops about with every breeze as though it were coming down is a poor advertisement.

An exchange says that in hot weather pickles are in order, not jams or jellies. True, yet for camping parties and picknickers jams are among the most useful and highly appreciated of foods.

Ferns and palms add very much to the appearance of the store. They are inexpensive. The popular rubber plants make a very effective background to a display, especially if of fresh fruits

White walls and ceilings aid in the distribution of light. If the store is dark in spite of all that can be done, paint white the ceiling and all of the wall that is exposed and keep it so. That will help somewhat.

There are yet plenty of farmers who think the retail merchant is making money hand-over-fist. The slick writer of falsehoods in the catalogues tells them so. That talk must be patiently met and downed. Set the farmer right.

Private cable advices from Spain report a favorable prospect for the coming crops of Valencia and Jordan almonds. The advices also noted a somewhat stronger market there on old crop Tarragonas for prompt shipment.

Late advises from France give a less favorable prospect for the coming crop of walnuts. Estimates on the prospective output give Marbots as less than half a crop; French as under two-thirds of a crop and Grenoble as two-thirds

The teapot is sometimes at fault when tea fails to give satisfaction, but more often it is the method of making the tea that is to blame. Imagine those cases where the tea is poor, the teapot unfit and the process execrable!

Daily papers from the large cities are bringing another class of competition into the territory of the local merchant, the mail order department of the big city stores. Good methods, which includes good advertising, is the only way to offset it.

The situation in currants is developing interesting features for the reason that it is understood that the agreement with the $25,000,000 trust has been finally perfected and the market will be on a much more satisfactory basis. The arrangement will run for twenty years.

A punch bowl of iced tea, another with iced coffee, and a service at nominal cost of grape juice, will win trade and popularize the store. It is a question whether a nominal charge of two or three cents a glass is not better than a free service. People always appreciate what they pay for.

Make the store look cool and inviting and have the display in the windows, on the counters, and on the floor, of a character to whet the appetite. Don't put cold weather goods on exhibition, they make people feel hot. Pickles are in order; not jams and jellies. Relishes are tempting. A clam cocktail, or the dressing to make one, is more alluring than materials for hot beverages.

STATE CONSTITUTION.

The Existing Sections and Proposed Changes to be Made.

J. S. Wixson of Oakland, a member of the Committee on Changes to Constitution and By-Laws for the State Grocers' Association has prepared the following suggestions.

CONSTITUTION

ARTICLE I.—NAME.

The name of this Association shall be The California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

No Amendment.

ARTICLE II.—PURPOSES.

The purpose of this Association shall be to foster and maintain a better social feeling among the retail merchants of California, and inspire confidence among the members of the trade:

To better the State commercial laws:

To correct excessive and unmercantile competition:

To remove by concert of action such evils and customs as are against good policy and sound business principles, whether it be cutting of prices, selling by wholesale houses at retail, improper house to house peddling, the distribution and consumption of adulterated and unwholesome goods, the use of fictituos labels, dishonest advertising, the use of dishonest weights and measures, or whatsoever the evil may be;

To discountenance all gift schemes and giving of premiums; and

To attain the results which experience has proved are not attainable by individual or divided effort

No Amendment.

ARTICLE III.—MEMBERSHIP.

Any organization of retail merchants or any grocer or other person carrying on business as a dealer in the necessaries of life in the State of California, will be eligible for membership in this Association, providing, that no individual member will be accepted from a town in which there is an affiliating Association.

No Amendment.

ARTICLE IV.—DUES.

Sec. 1. The fee of each affiliating Association shall be $1.00 per year for each member, payable by such Association.

Sec. 2. The fee of individual members shall be three dollars per year.

Sec. 3. Each local Association that may be formed under the auspices of this Association shall pay to the Association two dollars and fifty cents for a charter and copies of constitution and by-laws, and their per capita tax for the ensuing year.

Suggested Amendment. Change Sec. 1 to read:

Section 1. The fee of each affiliated Association shall be $1.00 per year for each member, payable by such Association in advance

ARTICLE V.—OFFICERS.

Section 1. The elective officers of this Association shall consist of a President, three Vice-Presidents, Honorary Vice-President ex-officio, who shall each be a president of an affiliating local organization: Treasurer, Secretary and five Directors.

Sec. 2. The President, three Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, Secretary and five Directors shall constitute the Board of Directors.

Sec. 3. Five members of the Board of Directors shall constitute a quorum.

Suggested Amendment. Change Article V. to read:

Section 1. The elective officers shall consist of a President, three Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, Secretary and five Directors.

Sec. 2. These officers, together with the presidents of all affiliating Associations, who shall, ex-officio, be Vice-Presidents, shall constitute the Board of Directors

Sec. 3. Five members shall constitute a quorum of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE VI.—ELECTIONS.

Section 1. Officers shall be nominated and elected at an annual meeting which shall be held the second Monday in July.

Suggested Amendment. Change Sec. 1 to read:

Section 1. Officers shall be nominated and elected at the regular annual convention and shall hold office for one year and until their successors have been elected and have qualified.

Suggested Amendments. There shall be added to this Constitution Articles VII. and VIII. as follows:

ARTICLE VII.—CONVENTIONS.

Section 1—Place. Conventions shall be held annually at such places as shall be fixed at the preceding convention.

Sec. 2—Time. The time for each convention shall be fixed by the Board of Directors at their pleasure.

Sec. 3—Delegates. (a) Each attending individual member, whose dues may be paid, shall be entitled to vote.

(b) Each affiliating organization shall be entitled to the following representation: One delegate for each ten members up to fifty, and one delegate for each additional fifty members or fraction thereof.

(c) All elective officers shall have all the rights and privileges of elected delegates and may be elected to office.

ARTICLE VIII.—FINANCES.

Section 1. All funds shall be received and recorded by the Secretary and transferred promptly to the Treasurer, who shall give a receipt therefor

Sec. 2. The Treasurer shall disburse no moneys except on warrants drawn by the Secretary and signed by the President.

Sec. 3. No warrants shall be drawn on the Treasurer except by the order of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE IX.—AMENDMENTS.

Any part of this Constitution can be repealed, altered, amended, suspended or annulled at any annual meeting when two-thirds of all the delegates present at such meeting vote in favor of such proposition.

No Amendment.

BY-LAWS.

ARTICLE I.—DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

Section 1. President. The President shall preside at all meetings of this Association and of the Board of Directors, he shall act as ex-officio member of all committees appointed and shall sign all warrants drawn on the Treasurer.

No Amendment.

EGG-O-SEE CO. EXPANDING.

Peoria, Ill.—The plant of the Central City Cereal Company at Peoria has been purchased by the Egg-O-See Company, of Quincy. John H. Linihan general manager of the plant, said.

"The product of the Peoria plant is a substitute for coffee, known as Mocon, which we had expected to manufacture in our mills in Quincy by September 1. But owing to the sales of Egg-O-See, which during the month of July reached 61 000 cases—125 cars—representing the largest month's business in the history of the plant, we will defer starting the manufacture of the new product until next year.

"At that time we also expect to begin in Quincy the manufacture of rolled oats, which will then make three products for the local plant."

SWINDLED C. H. BRUHNS.

C. H. Bruhns, a grocer who does business at 200 Francisco street, procured a warrant from Police Judge Conlan this week, charging John Doe Lang with obtaining money by false pretenses. Lang had often been in the complainant's place of business, always well dresed and prosperous in appearance, so when he purchased a few groceries Saturday and gave the grocer a $10 note Bruhns did not scrutinize the bill closely, but gave him the change. When he deposited at the bank Monday he found that it was a bill issued by the State Bank of Georgia, now defunct, and that it was worthless except as a curiosity.

BARKLEY MAKES PRESERVES.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Sunland Orchard Company, manufacturers of preserves, extracts, etc., has been consolidated with the Thomas J. Barkley Company, who will continue it in connection with their regular lines of coffee roasting, spice milling, etc. Harold H. Stevens, who has been president of the Sunland Company, will be connected with the Barkley Company and will have charge of the manufacturing department.

Southern California Grocers Have a Jolly Outing at San Pedro.

It required three long trains to carry the Los Angeles grocers and their friends to San Pedro on Thursday, August 10th. The day was perfect, and everybody had a good time. Incidentally the grocers made a nice little sum of money. The races were run on the beach. One of the features was a fat men's race in bathing suits. There was also a lemon-throwing contest for ladies that occasioned much sport. A game of baseball between a team of retail grocers and nine drummers resulted in a victory for the retailers by a score of 15 to 7.

Five prizes were awarded to the grocers selling the most tickets. The winners were. Messrs. Forbes (330), Fazenda (139). Patter (106), Humphrey (103) and Finkenstein (96).

The gentlemen who were responsible for the splendid success of the outing were the officers, Messrs. C Mottaz, W. K. Lockwood, E. S. Potter, J. F. Paulding, A. Stirling, D. W. Buck, J. A. Fazenda, L. O Powers, L. D. Hutchinson W. D. Buck, N. E. Wilson, and the following committees:

BY PURCHASING NOW

Grocers Will Save Many Dollars on Their Catsup Trade.

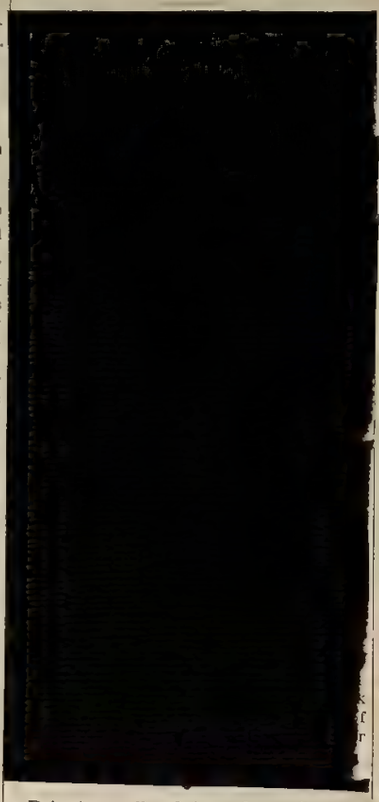
The attention of grocers is called to the fact that the Snider's catsup deal is liable to be discontinued any day, hence those grocers who have not availed themselves of its advantages should do so at once. By so doing they will save a good profit on their season's business in Snider's catsup.

The Spohn-Patrick Co., agents for Snider's goods, have sent out thousands of letters to the trade advising them to get in now, as this is the last notice.

This season's sales of Snider's catsup indicate a most satisfactory increase over the sales for 1904, not only in the aggregate but in the quantity ordered by individual dealers.

LIBRARY PROVED SUCCESS.

Steiner & Co. of Escondido recently put a library of boys' and girls' books in their shoe department, giving each purchaser of a pair of shoes a membership ticket good for a limited time They write that the library became so popular that they have been required to increase th number of books.



In one of its ads., this firm says:

Remember—It is cheap goodness and not cheap cheapness that distinguishes our offerings."

In another place they state:

"You get your money back if you don't get more than your money's worth at the People's Store, Steiner & Co."

PROTECTION APPRECIATED.

Private mail advices from Smyrna referring to the fig crop outlook state: "Prospects are favorable for a good crop, say 82,000 camel loads. Packers report a good seasonable business for Europe, but that the buying from America has been on a moderate scale only. The Sultana raisin prospects are good."

WATCHES AWARDED.

Porto Rico Coffee Company Reward Dealers Who Expended Special Effort on Their Ponce de Leon Coffee.

Two San Francisco grocers and four grocers in the interior will each have become the proud possessor of a $60 solid gold Waltham watch before this article reaches its readers.

The two San Francisco grocers who sold most Ponce de Leon coffee from April 15th to August 15th were:

John H. Tietjen Company, Fillmore and Washington.

Bibo-Newman Co., Polk and California.

Both these firms have high class trade which demand the very finest grade of goods. They are able to handle considerable quantities of Ponce de Leon coffee and have received the reward offered in consequence.

As many of the customers of the Porto Rico Coffee Co. are in Utah, Montana, Idaho and other territtory far distant from San Francisco, the company felt that, in fairness, they should wait until the latter part of the week, in order that their agens who cover the outlaying districts might have time to report any orders received prior to midnight on August 14th. As soon as the decisions are known, the announcements will be made and the grocers will receive their watches.

Here and there you find a man who seems to be always up against good luck. "Born with a silver spoon in his mouth." Money in everything he touches All his ventures successful. He's always lucky. You will usually find that this man has brains; he plans, and executes his plans. He is industrious, he works while the uniucky fellow is watching a dog fight or betting on the wrong horse.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT
RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

CORK FOR POISON BOTTLES.

An Ingenious Device to Prevent Accident In Handling Drugs.

Many clever devices have been patented to minimize the risk of accidental poisoning, but either owing to the difficulties of placing the invention successfully (from the financial point of view) on the market or for some other reason none of these devices has ever yet been taken up.

But at last a possible solution of the problem has apparently been achieved by an inventor living in London.

During a recent interview this individual, Mr. H. P. Miller, showed the Illustrated Mail his invention. The secret of its future success, says the Mail, lies in its simplicity. The device is merely a tiny brass plate fastened to any cork, with two sides indented in such a way that the pressure of its "teeth" on the fingers would remind the most drowsy or the most careless person that the poison bottle was being handled. Fixed between the cork and the spiked brass is a ribbon, which goes around the neck of the bottle. This is to insure the cork not being lost.

Of course the little implement has the great merit over other inventions in that it is simple, cheap and can be fitted to any size or kind of cork bottle now in stock. Being attached to the neck of the bottle, there can be no interchanging, and if the stopper should be left out a reminder is given by a clinking of the indicator against the medicine glass and dangling around the fingers while in the act of pouring out.

A Visit From the Bayleys.

The servant at No. 1 told the servant at No. 2 that her master expected his old friends, the Bayleys, to pay a visit, and No. 2 told No. 3 that No. 1 expected to have the Bayleys in the house every day, and No. 3 told No. 4 that it was all up with No. 1 and that they couldn't keep the bailiffs out, whereupon No. 4 told No. 5 that the officers were after No. 1 and that it was as much as he could do to prevent himself from being taken in execution and that it was nearly killing his poor, dear wife, and so it went on increasing and increasing until it got to No. 33 that the detective police had taken up the gentleman who lived at No. 1 for killing his poor, dear wife with arsenic and that it was confidently hoped and expected that he would be executed, as the facts of the case were very clear against him.—London Mail.

His Deep, Deep Grief.

The Fulton (Kan.) Gazette reports that a minister of that town was moved by the grief of a husband whose wife was to be buried and sought to commiserate him in the following manner: "My brother, I know that this is a great grief that has overtaken you, and though you are compelled to mourn the loss of this one who was your companion and partner in life I would console you with the assurance that there is another who sympathizes with you and seeks to embrace you in the arms of unfailing love." To this the bereaved man replied by asking, as he gazed through tears into the minister's face, "What's her name?"

Display Summer Drinks.

Summer drinks are in season and grocers are able to utilize them to good advantage in dressing their windows. For a midsummer window a good variety of bottles of different sizes and brightly labeled can be used very effectively. A simple trim, quickly gotten up, is arranged as follows:

About the three sides of the window ledge place a row of bottles laid on their sides. On one side place quart bottles of mineral water; on another, bottles of rootbeer; on the third bottles of ginger ale. At intervals of about one foot along this border stand bottles of malt vinegar, upright.

In the center construct a pyramid of boxes of the same goods, so placed as to show the bottles. Place conspicuously on the pyramid a placard arranged in some catchy way like this: Summer Drinks and Some Are Not.

On either side of the pyramid build lower and smaller pyramids of boxes of different varieties. Prices by the dozen or case may be displayed when advisable.

Grape juice bottles arranged in triangles of three bottles each, standing on a carpet of grape leaves add variety to the display.

The form of a window trim of this kind can be changed, using the same materials, two or three times in the course of a week. Small sample bottles of this variety of summer refreshment can be obtained at a trifling cost and if given away to customers likely to buy will serve to create a demand for the goods.

If a standard of glass shelves is available it may be used in place of the central pyramid of boxes and will make a neat appearance.

A small refrigerator, with doors open and bottles shown in the spaces between bits of ice can be used in a low window in place of boxes or standard.

Displays of this kind have the advantage of being easily placed and moved, and not being of a perishable character require less watching than do those of green goods. Summer drinkables are generally profitable, and few articles as quickly attract buyers who would, without the display, pass the door without thinking of purchasing.

The Dollar Sale.

While the dollar sale is not an altogether new idea, it has some features that apeal with force for the August sale, says "The Manufacturer and Merchant."

Odds and ends of various lines made up into lots to close out at one dollar each will arouse interest among the women buyers.

Strikingly good values can be given to increase the attraction of such a sale. It will be a good idea to placard a number of these dollar values and the sale in general in different parts of the store. A poster showing as completely as possible the extent of the offerings and their worth should be gotten out and distributed.

To do this at a less expense prepare a half or full page ad., to appear in the local paper, and use the same form of type for the poster This will obviate the cost of setting the matter up twice and the publisher will be quite willing to make a reduction in price.

Making the Store Salefied."

Displaying a number of the most attractive offerings in the front window will further advertise the sale.

It is a mistake on the part of the merchant to think a sale does not require elaborate preparation. Elaborate in this case does not mean to make the store look pretty, but it does mean not to neglect an opportunity or overlook doing anything calculated to catch the eye and make an impression on store visitors.

A popular idea is to entirely change the appearance of the store by transferring the stock from one part to another and making prominent displays of the goods that go on sale.

The liberal use of placards will help to emphasize the impression that a sale of sales is on at Blank's.

Now, while all this entails a great deal of work and August temperature is not conducive to violent exertion, the clerk should have the interest of the store in mind and realize that the success of the sale depends upon the clerk quite as much as anything else—or everything else.

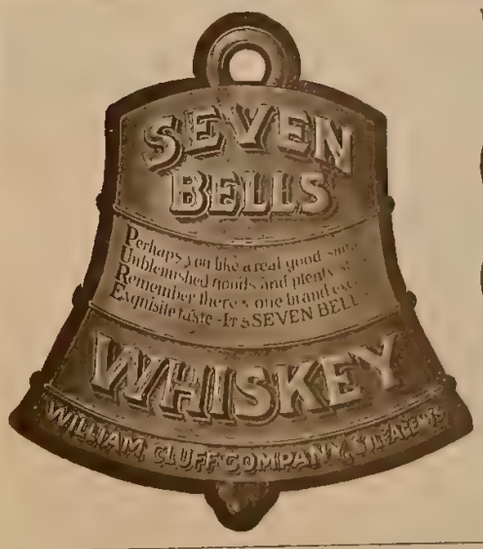
A Sample Sale.

Here is another sale idea that will help to clear the odds and ends in August. It is called a sample sale, and the "Dry Goods Reporter" tells of it as follows:

"You're invited to sample our stock. While you're doing it, we guarantee to save your money. We have thousands of samples which will be sold at about manufacturers' cost. They are samples of goods we carry all the time But hundreds of them are new, just secured from the manufacturers.

"We guarantee the quality to be as represented, in every case, and agree to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied buyer. Nearly all of these samples, by which you may test this store's ability to serve you, are of liberal size—this is especially true of goods sold by the yard.

"Come to this sample sale—you'll save money by it."



That's the way one merchant went after business. Loom End Sales, Mill End Sales, Manufacturers' Outlet Sales, Clearing Sales, Summer Sales—his town had been worked to death by them. They were chestnuts and as familiar to customers as that slang term, "chestnuts," is to you.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Salmon is become a staple food product in its various preserved shapes, yet doubtless there are grocers who are not posted as to the various kinds. Salmon is salmon, but all salmon does not fetch the same price. Prices range from the royal Chinook at the top to the chum or dog salmon at the bottom. These are the varieties: Royal Chinook; Sockeye, Blueback, Tye, or Red Salmon; Silver, Cohoe or Medium Red Salmon; Humpback or Pink Salmon; Steelhead; Chum or Dog Salmon It is not safe to judge canned salmon by its color. The oiliness and flavor are safer tests.

Honey is the only sweet that may be eaten in any quantity and for a long time without interefering with the action of any of the vital organs. Its food value is twice that of pork, pound for pound, and it has been noticed that persisten honey eaters are not nearly so liable to disease of the respiratory organs as those who do not use it at all. It is calculated that the entire honey product of sixty bees during their entire life will not amount to more than a pound of honey, an amount that a man with a good appetite would eat in a day without thinking much about it.

It is well known that liquors and wines are often flat, owing to the fact that the bottles carrying same have been in an upright position for a considerable length of time, thereby permitting the cork closures to become dry. The corks, when dry, as above described, allow the gases contained in the wines, or liquors, to escape, the pores of the cork being open when same is in dry condition. To overcome this it is the custom to store such liquors or wines with the mouths of the bottles turned downward or on the side, so that the liquid contents will have the effect of keeping the cork in the proper condition for making a tight seal.—American Carbonator.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The Weekly Report of the United States Department of Agriculture reports for California:

"The grain yield in most sections is below expectation and is up to average only in a few places. Barley has turned out better than wheat. Beans are doing well, but the outlook is not so good as earlier in the season. Raisin grapes have a high percentage of sugar and a heavy yield is probable. Walnuts are improving and in some sections the crop will be up to the average."

SUGAR.

An advance of 10 cents was made on Thursday afternoon of last week, too late for publication. The market remains firm at the advance.

New York, August 10th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—The market developed strength and activity during the past week. Holders succeeded in obtaining advances on a basis of 4⅛ cents for 96 degree sugar. The demand must continue and further business is possible on the basis of 4⅛ cents, but holders are not inclined to part with more of their stocks except at higher prices. The European and American markets are now nearly on a parity. The outlook is for continued firmness during the month with a tendency in sellers' favor.

Refined—Firmness is indicated for the immediate future. Practically all buyers are well supplied ahead on contracts and they have been taking deliveries rapidly. In view of the oversold condition on refined and of the strength of raws, the next change in refined should be an advance.

New York, August 8th—M. G. Wanzor & Co report:

Raws—The market is strong. A sale of 3,500 bags of Porto Rico in port was made yesterday at 4 3-32 cents. Bids of 4 1-16 cents made by the refiners have been refused. The recent heavy purchase of Cubas by our refiners considerably lessened the unsold stock in the hands of the planters. The planters who did not sell two weeks ago are prepared to carry their suplies well along toward the end of the season. We believe they will get higher prices. Cables received to-day show that European quotations have regained 15 points of the 25 lost recently.

Refined—The consuming trade needs supplies. We think that the dealers who have sugar on hand will now get a profit.

New Orleans, July 31st—G. Schwartz reports.

"Good sugars are getting scarce. The advance of ten points on standard granulated to-day has caused a much firmer feeling."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"There is a reported shortage of about 25 per cent in Congous as compared with last year.

"India reports a shortage and an advance of 2 cents as compared with 1904 on desirable grades.

"Japs continue to come in slowly, and recent reports confirm shortage previously reported. Altogether the tea market is in a stronger position than at any previous period since the removal of the duty."

A. Schilling & Co. report:

"Recent letter advices from Japan say that the third crop is on the market, and is expected to be very short. Prices are very firm, and while some grades are higher and some lower than last year, on the whole they average about as in 1904. Everything would seem to justify the expectation of higher prices as the season advances."

COFFEE.

The Levin-Meyer Co. say:

"The coffee market has been very active during the past two weeks, and higher prices prevail both here and in the East, the advance locally having been less relatively than in the East.

"Coffees at 9 cents and less are now very scarce and hard to obtain.

"Importers at this port now hold about 42,000 bags, about two months' supply, and conditions here are very favorable for further advances here, even if no higher prices obtain at the East than at present."

New York, August 10th—Willett & Gray report:

"More confidence exists, chiefly owing to the disposition to cut down even the moderate estimates of the Rio and Santos crops and also the less favorable outlook of the growing crops. The actual position of coffee is perfectly sound. The current crop in Brazil is not sufficient for the world's requirements of Brazil coffees, so that any climatic conditions that will hurt the growing crop will be taken very seriously. Full values have been paid in every direction here for the working grades of Rio coffees as well as good to fine selections of Santos."

New York, August 8th—Volney Green & Son report:

"Conditions still firm with somewhat higher prices in the near future. The receipts at Brazilian ports are smaller than they were a year ago, and the demand has been very satisfactory. Buyers show more confidence now than they did when prices were lower. Low grades continue very scarce. The mild varieties are firm with prices working steadily upward to a higher level."

RICE.

M. Philips & Co. say:

"The market on Japs remains firm; in fact, you can buy Jap rice to-day in 'Frisco for less money than any place in the United States, "plus freight," and we strongly advise loading up at present prices, as the indication is that the new crop will open up at least one-third higher than the present market.

"Fancy Carolina—Market remains firm. Buyers are waiting for new crop, which this season will not be here until November.

"China rice remains the same as last report. Sandwich Islands rice is 10 cents higher."

New York, August 8th—Dan Talmage Sons Co. report:

"There is a decided improvement in demand. Samples of the first new crop show fine quality, with prices "way up." Offerings are small and sell quickly on a basis of 6 cents for fancy heads. Old crop, nearly equal in quality to the new, is being taken at 5¼ to 5½ cents. Cables and correspondence from abroad note full figures being obtained with small business."

CANNED FRUITS.

All the canners remain firm in their prices. Advances are expected in jobbers' prices on both apricots and peaches. Canners are now busy on peaches and pears. The crop of peaches is lighter than was expected. Heavy demands for green fruits for shipment have forced canners to buy at higher prices.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, August 7th—Paul Taylor Brown Co. report:

"Another advance in Singapore pineapple is recorded for this week. Only parcels of 1000 cases or over have been covered by our office in Singapore for the last ten days. Spot stocks are being closely cleaned up and there should be some interesting developments within the next ten days."

EASTERN TOMATOES.

Philadelphia, Pa., August 11th—The "Grocery World" reports:

"One of the oldest and most conservative canned goods concerns in Maryland in a confidential estimate of the tomato prospects to their Philadelphia agents said: "We do not see how a pack of 50 per cent of that of 1904 can be made. It would not surprise us to see a 75 or 80 per cent market this fall. Packers we represent refuse to take on any business at present.' One of the foremost Baltimore brokerage houses this week said: "Sellers of future tomatoes have apparently disappeared. We are offering 72½ cents, less 1½ for cash, for all the future we can find. Reports from various sections indicate unsettled crop conditions. A factor that indicates the strong ideas of packers is the fact that a number of packers, although they have sold only about one-half of their prospective pack, are offering to buy back their contracts, which they surely would not do if they felt that they were going to have a good crop."

Baltimore, August 4th—The "Trade" reports.

"Tomato packing will begin in earnest before a week has passed. The green fruit is still too high to permit of general packing. The severe hot weather of the last week of July did much damage. Spot tomatoes are gaining strength. No. 3 are now quoted at from 72½ to 75 cents. Holders of No. 2 tomatoes have been showing an inclination to clean up stocks. The result has been a slight decline on that size. The tomato report of the Tri-State Packers' Association, which meets at Washington next week, will have the effect of hardening values."

CANNED GOODS.

New York, August 24th—The New York correspondent of the "Trade" of Baltimore reports:

"Tomatoes—The market is firmer, with a strong tendency upward. On futures a firmer market is developing, with 70 cents f. o. b. factory the lowest quotation. Packers are not anxious to sell at even that figure, and 67½ cents would no longer be considered. In New Jersey, acreage is reduced, and the yield of the reduced acreage will also be less.

Peas—There is a good deal of skirmishing about for peas, more particularly since it became generally known that deliveries would not go over 50 per cent. Western packers estimate their deliveries at 45 per cent. New York State packers say they will not deliver more than 40 per cent. Conservative estimates place the total pack as possibly 50 per cent of expected output. Prices have not advanced, but active buying would probably result in an upward turn. All holders are firm in their views, and cheap goods appear to be wanting.

"A thorough canvas of Newcastle county shows half the acreage of last year planted to tomatoes, with the prospect of 75 per cent of a crop. Reports indicate this same condition prevails all through the State."

Aberdeen, Md., August 5th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"Holders of spot tomatoes are slow to name figures on account of the advance, and it is difficult to obtain sufficient offerings to be able to record the market intelligently. Growers have not sold, making the packers pay top prices for raw fruit. The cost of packing is thus increased considerably over first estimates.

Baltimore, August 5th—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. report:

Baltimore canners have been packing tomatoes shipped from outside points for about two weks. The real season will open in about a week. Reports indicate an acreage of about half of last year's crop with one-third fewer canneries working this year as compared with last. Indications are that the yield per acre will be small. The advance that has been taking place both for spots and futures is based upon these facts. The market is strong and more active than at any time since the advance began.

Colora, Md., August 5th—W. T. Fryer reports:

"It has been entirely too wet this season for tomatoes. The crop is late, and I look for a short pack."

Princess Anne, August 5th—C. W. Dashiell reports:

"The price of No. 3 spot has advanced to 72½ cents, and futures to 75 cents. The conditions of the crop on the reduced acreage fully justifies this price, if not higher."

CANNED CORN.

Delaware City, August 5th—Chas. W. Pancoast reports:

"The corn acreage will be 65 to 70 per cent in this section."

Aberdeen, Md., August 5th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"The pack in this section will be considerably less than estimated a few weeks ago on account of the rapid growth and unusual amount of rain."

Batlimore, Md., August 5th—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"The outlook for the corn crop in this section to date is favorable."

Baltimore, August 4th—The "Trade" reports:

"Crop conditions are good. There will not be as full a pack in this State as there was last year. Values remain unchanged. It will probably be a month before figures are finally settled for the season."

CANNED PEAS.

Baltimore, Mr., August 5th—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. report.

"The closing of the pea-packing season through the country finds a largely reduced pack. The jobbers are becoming aware of that fact. This is evidenced by their increased buying."

DRIED FRUITS.

Prices are stiffening. Packers are now paying more for apricots and peaches than they agreed to sell for earlier in the season. Late advices from New York tell of sales of 40-50's prunes at a basis of 3⅜ cents, Coast. The Eastern demand is growing, owing to the shortage there of apples and peaches. Santa Clara prunes are quoted at 3¼ to 3½ cents, bag basis. Europe has purchased quite heavily at the former figure. The old crop of raisins is well cleaned up and the new crop will be less than last year.

New York, August 8th—J. K. Armsby in an interview yesterday said: "The prune crop was originally estimated at 75,000,000 pounds. Growers are now talking of 65,000,000 pounds as the most that can be expected. The prunes are all on the trees yet, and there is time for the development of conditions that will make the crop even less than present minimum estimates. The most that can be said now is that prunes will be very short and prices will rule much higher, probably reaching a f. o. b. bag basis of 4 cents for Santa Claras and 3¾ cents for outside.

Hollister—The Gilroy Packing Company is short of prunes and its representatives have been ransacking the local market to find stock to fill orders.

Watsonville—The trend of the prune market can be best understood from the fact that three of the largest growers in the Pajaro Valley have sold their prunes on the trees to be delivered after they are dried, something orchardists have not been able to do for some years.

Vancouver, Wash., August 4th—A. C. Burdick says: "Nearly two-thirds of our crop of Italian prunes have already been sold in New York City and London. The few prunes left in growers' hands are held far above the buyers' views. Prices have advanced from 2⅜ to 2⅞ cents. Prunes are dropping badly, which will cut the estimate down 20 per cent.

RAISINS.

The market has firmed considerably under the influence of the new association and the recognized fact that, while the new crop will be considerably short of that of 1904, it will, at the same time, come upon a market comparatively bare. This promises well for the raisin growers not only for this year, but also for the crop of 1906. This year's crop is estimated at about 45,000 tons.

New York, August 8th—J. K. Armsby in an interview yesterday said:

"Old raisins are practically cleaned up. I do not believe there are 25 carloads of raisins all told on the Coast today, as against about 1600 cars a year ago. From present indications it looks like a crop of about 60 or 70 per cent of that of the last year. Since these raisins come on a bare market, and will be all the trade will have to depend upon, conditions would be firmer even without any combination, since last year the supply was larger and included an immense carry-over. The market was uncontrolled last year. This year 80 to 90 per cent of the crop is under the control of a strong combine of growers and packers. Opening prices on the new crop, which will probably be made about September 1st, will therefore be on a higher basis compared with those of 1904."

Hanford, August 10th—Packers outside the raisin-combine are reported as paying 3¾ cents per lb. for old crop raisins. Outside growers are said to have such high ideas as to prices that the outside packers are making little progress in securing contracts covering new crop raisins.

New York, August 8th—Spot raisins are quoted in this market at an advance of ¼ cent over those made last week. They are now held at 7¼ cents for fancy seeded, and 6¼ cents for choice, spot.

Valencia, Spain, July 6th—United States Consul J. L. Byrne reports:

"Owing to the improved methods of cultivating the Muscat vine, the largest crop on record will be produced this year. A yield of 30,000 tons is anticipated, as against 21,600 tons in 1904 and 2,300 tons in 1903. Lower opening prices are generally forecasted. Some even expect to be able to compete successfully with California growers in American markets. As stocks in foreign hands are reported almost cleaned up, the goods may be entirely taken up in European countries."

DRIED PEACHES.

The crop will be only one-half to two-thirds of early estimates. Heavy buying of the canners and shippers of green fruit has kept down supplies. Prices have advanced considerably over early estimates.

Yuba City, August 15th—The price of dried peaches is still advancing, 7½ cents being offered for Crawfords. It is expected that the advance in Muirs will approach 9 cents.

Los Gatos—The early peaches have ripened so rapidly that a larger quantity will have to dried than was anticipated. Peaches are bringing 7 to 7½ cents, with prospects for an advance.

Fresno—The "Democrat" says: "A wild fever has taken possession of the fruit packers in their efforts to secure contracts for dried peaches. The growers, knowing that there is a short crop and a clean market to sell in, are in no hurry to sell. The result has been a scarcity. Packers have been scouring the country in automobiles day and night. Contracts for 7 cents are being freely offered."

DRIED APRICOTS.

The heavy crop of dried apricots promised very low prices until the shortage in other lines made it evident that apricots were good property. Buyers have been offering the farmers as high as 7 cents for fine grade fruit.

Los Gatos—Strong demand for dried apricots by the packers have run the price of good round lots up to 7 cents. Small lots are selling at 6½ cents.

Santa Clara—Buyers are offering 7 cents for average grades of apricots.

DRIED APPLES.

New York, August 8th—Delmarle Bros. report:

"We have had a further advance in the apple market. The growers still continue to withhold offerings, and the market is practically advancing of its own accord."

St. Louis, August 5th—St. Louis Commission Co. reports:

"Present prices are entirely too low. Southern Illinois, Montana and Arkansas will not average over 20 to 25 per cent of a crop at the present time, and apples are still dropping badly. We think that both sun dried and evaporated apples will rule sharply higher when this season opens.

Newark, N. J., August 7th—E. V. Peirson & Co. report:

"At blossom time, a three-fourths crop of apples was expected. The estimate has diminished from various causes since that time to such an extent that we feel safe in saying that we shall fal short of half a crop in Western New York."

Wolcott, N. Y., August 7th.—Johnson & Northup report:

"The apple buyers are paying prices that are much beyond the reach of those wanting apples to evaporate. We think present prices will look very cheap next October and November."

CURRANTS.

New York, August 8th—The Greek Currant Co. reports:

"Cables just received indicate the possibility of either removing last year's crop from the market or forcing the price up to a parity with quotations on 1905-6 growth. In consequence it seems advisable to place business as early as possible on the present basis of price."

WALNUTS.

Ventura—J. M. Sharp, of Saticoy, says.

"The crop in this county will not be more than one-half, or, at most, two-thirds of last season, when between 150 and 160 carloads were shipped out. The walnuts will be of good size and quality. The association will try to establish a 15 cent price, as against 11 cents last year."

Carpenteria—Walnuts are not doing so well as it was thought they would earlier in the season. In many instances they will not be more than half a crop.

Santa Clara, Cal.—J. A. Montgomery, secretary of the Walnut Growers' Association of Southern California, says:

"It looks now as though the crop would be fully up to last season's output. The nuts promise to be of extra fine quality."

New York, August 5th—Hills Bros. Co. report:

"Mail advices from the primary markets indicate that this year's crop of walnuts will be considerably below the average in quantity. The crop of Cornes is estimated at two-thirds of the average with nuts larger and of good quality. Grenobles are estimated at one-third of a crop with big prices intimated in consequence."

Budapest, Hungary, July 14th—U. S. Consul F. Dyerchester writes:

"Severe frosts caused great damage to the walnut crop in Southeastern Europe. Hungary will have to import."

Valparaiso, Chile, July 25th—U. S. Consul R. E. Mansfield writes:

"The walnuts of 1905, which are gathered here in February and March, are estimated at 20,000 to 25,000 bags, as against the normal crop of 30,000 or 40,000 bags."

ALMONDS.

Late estimates of the almond crop are more favorable. It is now estimated that there will be from 60 to 70 per cent of a full crop.

PEANUTS.

Petersburg, Va., August 1st—The "American Nut Journal" says:

"Practically all the stocks of Spanish peanut in Petersburg are in the hands of one firm which is in a position to hold the price of $1.15 per bushel. The coming crop will doubtless be large."

HONEY.

Local commission men report a large crop of honey of fine quality with a weak market and probable declines.

Lovelock, Nev.—A shipment to London of 30 tons of honey was made this week. The shippers received 5 cents per pound, f. o. b. Lovelock.

New York, August 4th—Chas. Israel & Bros. report:

"Reports indicate that our crop of Northern honey will be short. California honey crop is fair. The crop in the South and in the West Indies has been light."

BEANS.

W. C. Barnard & Co. report:

"Probably one-fourth of the growing crop of Limas has already been contracted for. As the farmers seem disposed not to sell beans at a sacrifice, there will probably be a firm market all through September, October and November. Upon the Eastern demand and the ability of the farmers to hold their beans will depend whether there will be a decline in December. As the bean farmers are well to do and are well acquainted with the strength of the market, there is not a very strong probability of the market declining to any great extent before January 1st. The demand for future has been very strong and prices are quoted as follows: September-October delivery, seller's option, $3.50, October-November, $3.40; November-December, $3.35.

White Beans—The acreage of Lady Washington beans is small and the outlook for lower prices is not encouraging. We do not expect any white beans on the market until September 1st. The bulk will not come on until October 1st There is small probability of lower prices before November 1st

Small White Beans—Will probably be a short crop Present stocks are practically exhausted. Beginning of the season should therefore see a firm market.

Colored Beans—The crop is looking well. As these beans are harvested late and are liable to be caught by early rains no prices are being made for future deliveries.

Santa Ana, August 8th—Harvesting of 240 acres planted to beans began on the San Joaquin Ranch on August 7th. Yield is estimated from 15 to 20 sacks per acre. The total acreage of beans on the San Joaquin Ranch is about 6,000 acres, which is more than was ever planted before.

Yuba City, August 10th—A big yield of beans will probably be harvested this fall. The acreage is much larger than usual.

Holly, N. Y., August 7th—Smith, Partridge & Co. report:

"The crop will be very late. Few beans will be in shape to be put on the market before October 1st. At the best, the crop will not exceed 60 per cent. The lateness of the season places beans in danger of early frosts."

Ovid, Mich., August 5th—Chas. Cowan Seed Co. reports:

The coming crop will be about 60 per cent of last year's if weather is favorable. We think beans are good property since the new crop will be late and there are but few spot beans to draw from."

CANNED SALMON.

Prices on sockeyes were announced by the Alaska Packers' Association August 16th as follows, f. o. b. Puget Sound shiping points.

Talls, $1.35 per dozen.
1-pound flats, $1.50 per dozen.
Half-pound flats, $1.00 per dozen.

These prices are 35 cents per dozen higher for talls and for one-pound flats, and 15 cents per dozen higher for half-pound flats than they were in 1901 when the last big run was on.

With seven canneries operating at Bristol bay, the Association packed a little over 625,000 cases this year, as against 565,000 last year, when eleven canneries were operating. The Association canners south of the Alaska peninsula report an average pack. As packing is still going on, no definite figures are yet available. The packing on the Columbia River is still less than one-half of what was packed at the same date last year and the season closes by law on August 25th. The sockeye pack seems to be about over in British Columbia and Puget Sound. It is estimated that the pack will be about as follows:

Northern British Columbia, 200,000; Fraser River, 625,000; Puget Sound, 650,000. Total, 1,475,000 cases, as against 2,250,000 cases in the season of 1901.

The high price of sockeye salmon this year is due to the absolute dearth of old stock chinook and sockeye canned salmon and to the further reason that chinooks are largely oversold. The total Coast pack of this season is not likely to be much over 4,000,000 cases, as against 5,100,000 cases in 1901. Stocks in jobbers' hands are low, they having waited for the outcome of the sockeye pack. The general outlook for the salmon business is favorable.

Seattle, August 10th—Philip Kelley, of the Kelley-Clarke Co., in an interview said that the salmon canneries had planned to reserve 500,000 cases of this season's pack of sockeyes to carry them

Cigars and Tobacco

Chas. Mattheas & Co. have not discontinued the manufacture of cigarettes as was reported.

Louis Brownstone is on the road in the interest of the Tuxedo cigar, made by S. Miller & Co.

W. T. Marshall has secured the agency for Al Fields and Nat Wills cigars, which are meeting with gratifying success.

W. B. McIntosh, coast representative of the R. C. Patterson Tobacco Company, returned Saturday last from a successful business trip through Oregon and Washington.

E. D. Marshall of Theobald Offenheimer & Co. of New York leaves for Honolulu on the 19th inst. in the interest of his firm. He will be absent about three weeks.

N. Venezia, of N. Venezia & Co., has been spending a few days in Monterey and Santa Cruz, pushing the sale of the high grade clear Havana cigar, manufactured by his firm, La Venezia.

H. L. Polack, coast agent for El Modelo cigars, made by the Cuban-American Mfg. Co. of Tampa, reports trade in excellent shape. He is receiving some good country orders these days.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" says: "Sanchez & Haya are steadily improving, adding almost daily to the factory force. They are now making 45,000 cigars a day, and will continue to add workers until the day's output reaches 55,000. Senor Haya is still in Cuba finishing his pack of tobacco, which will probably reach from 5,000 to 7,000 bales."

Tillmann & Bendel report large shipments of light colors of Sanchez & Haya clear Havana cigars, which are finding favor with the trade. They report increased sales of Recruits, and large orders for Cremo cigars packed in humidors for export trade. Trade in plug and smoking tobaccos in conjunction with Sledge plug is good.

R. H. Douglass, who has had charge of the cigar and tobacco department of Tillmann & Bendel for the past year, will retire from that position on Saturday to take the management of a large hop ranch near Ukiah in which he has been financially interested for some time. C. H. Schmidt, vice-president of Tillmann & Bendel will take personal charge of the cigar and tobacco trade for his firm for the time being.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" says: "At the factory of A. Santaella & Co. the things are congested. With two floors packed with cigarmakers no further move can be made till the new factory addition is completed. Still the orders for Optimo cigars are coming in by wire and mail, and would keep a much larger force steadily employed." Ehrman Bros. & Co., who are the local representatives of the progressive firm, who take a very large portion of the output of the large factory, says the business was never better. "The call for Optimos is the biggest ever."

Recent statistics show that Cuba's tobacco crop for the season just closed was valued at more than $30,000,000, compared with $26,046,431 in 1903, and $25,400,000 in 1902. Total exports of leaf tobacco in 1904 were 40,977,946 pounds, valued at $13,245,187, 24,128,430 pounds of which, valued at $9,931,802, came to the United States. Cigar exports numbered 205,244,298, valued at $12 302,969, of which 45,769,422, valued at $2.888,111, came to the United States. Of cigarettes, 14,662,209 packages, each package containing 14, valued at $404,-173, were exported. Of these the United States took 287,767 packages, valued at $7,055. The export of cut tobacco reached 226,648 pounds, valued at $81,-031, of which the United States took 72,205 pounds, valued at $23 583.

According to its wont of availing itself of the prevailing fad, the United Cigar Stores Company is utilizing the picture postal card craze to add to the attractiveness of its Flat Iron building store. At the end of the current week the "cow-catcher" of the store was elaborately decorated with postal card novelties, many of which have just been imported from Europe. Of late this store has been doing a profitable business in the sale of these cards, of which it has a remarkably extensive and varied assortment. Novelties of all kinds, whether they have to do with tobacco or not, are the Flat Iron store's specialty, and of late postal cards were found to be among the most successful; for not only is a substantial profit to be made from their sale, but they serve as an excellent advertisement of the store of which many of them bear a picture. —U. S. Tobacco Journal.

"Tobacco" says: "Dan A. Wolf, the enterprising Cincinnati cigar man, who is always devising clever schemes to attract trade, was out with a new and effective idea last week.

"Residents of the Queen City in large numbers received postal cards at frequent intervals bearing the single word

PLEASE.

"This was written with a carpenter's pencil in a large hand, and the writing was almost identically the same in every instance. The select list to whom these cards were mailed included lawyers, physicians, brokers and business men generally.

"When the first card arrived it excited mild surprise. When this was followed a few hours later by a second card, a fac simile of the first, and with absolutely nothing to indicate from whom it came, the curiosity of the recipient would be aroused, and he would generally murmur:

"Now, who the blazes can this be from, and what sort of a joke is it, anyway?" or words to that effect.

"Then when a day later a third card came to hand identical in appearance with the two preceding ones the curiosity of the recipient would be still further whetted. Thus when the solution came it was bound to make an impression.

"The solution was in the form of another postal card inscribed in the same peculiar carpenter's pencil handwriting:

PLEASE
SMOKE OPTIMOS
DAN A. WOLF"

DEATH OF C. J. HINK.

Santa Cruz, August 8th—Carsten J. Hink, a grocer of San Francisco and a member of the Schuetzen-Verein, died suddenly to-day at Camp Riverside, near Ben Lomond. He came here three days ago for a brief vacation. Death is believed to have been due to valvular disease of the heart, aggravated by acute indigestion.

PROTECTION THAT PAYS.

Los Angeles Grocers Praise the Effective Methods of Alpine Cream.

In his last report the secretary of the Los Angeles Retail Grocers' Association says:

"That the Alpine Evaporated Cream Company meant business when they signed a contract with the Retail Grocers' Association establishing a retail selling price of 10 cents per can—three cans for 25 cents on their Alpine Cream was recently demonstrated, when they took 250 cases from one of the "cutters" in this city in order to keep their established price from being demoralized.

"One or two of the smaller dealers were not maintaining the prices as they should, and the local agent adjusted each case at once. So far as we can learn, there is not a dealer in the city who is at present selling Alpine Cream for less than 10 cents a can, or three cans for 25 cents.

"The trouble with a good many manufacturers is that they are overanxious for business. They will sell dealers when they know at the time the sale is made that the price will be cut, but are willing to take the chance in order to make a sale, and very few indeed are there who will buy back half a carload of their products after the goods are delivered and paid for, simply to protect other dealers in making a legitimate margin.

"If we had more concerns like the Alpine Evaporated Cream Company doing business in Southern California the retail grocers would not have such a hard row to hoe to secure a profit on their goods. While it may be pretty expensive for a manufacturer to follow this policy, we believe that there are enough grocers here who do want a profit on the goods they handle and who will appreciate what is done for them by the manufacturer to enable them to get it, that a policy like the one adopted by the Alpine Evaporated Cream Company will be a winner for any manufacturer or jobber selling goods in Southern California.

"We heartily commend the stand this firm has taken and wish them success as long as they continue along these lines, which they assure us will be as long as they do business here."

WIN IN WASHINGTON.

The Trading Stamp Co. has secured a decision from Judge Hanford of the Federal Court of the State of Washington sustaining their claim that the law recently passed by the Legislature of that State at the request of the Retail Grocers' Association was in restraint of trade. While this law was practically the same as that presented to the California Legislature, it does not follow that they were exactly similar. The Supreme Court of California has not yet passed upon the constitutionality of the California law, although a decision is expected at almost any time.

QUALITY MAKES SALES.

A letter from Elben & Nor, the well-known Oakland grocers, is printed on page 4. It will be read with interest by every thoughtful grocer who receives this paper. Elben & Nor are successful grocers. Their success has been won through their always handling goods with which their trade was thoroughly satisfied.

This firm made a specialty of the Diamond "C" hams and bacons of the Cudahy Packing Co., and the result as shown in their letter, proves that their action was wise.

It's wonderful the hard luck some people are always up against. It seems to us that the fellows that are lazy or shiftless, or full of unadulterated cussedness are the ones selected in some mysterious way to be those unlucky chaps who are habitually up against hard luck. They are everlastingly long on woes and amazingly short on grit.

THE STOCKTON CONVENTION.

An Interesting Demonstration to be Made.

Through the courtesy of the Hedges-Buck Co. of Stockton the Bond Scale Company will, during the convention, demonstrate on the automatic weighers that have made the company famous.

P. E. Lenfestey, agent for Northern California, Oregon and Washington, will attend personally and set up one of the full-sized No. 2 machines, and show the attending grocers just what the machine is, what it does, and how it does it.

As this weigher has been declared to have "more merit than any other modern fixture offered the grocer," it should prove a very interesting feature of the convention.

DEMAND BIGGER THAN EVER.

More People Use Carnation—The Cream of Creams

Carnation Cream is more than keeping pace with itself as a reliable seller and a household necessity.

The demand to-day is unprecedented in the history of this favorite article. The dealers, knowing it to be an article of superior merit, never hesitate to push it with their trade.

The present advertising campaign to the consumers of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co., manufacturers of this cream, is beginning to produce even better results than the former efforts of this enterprising concern.

Whoever once uses Carnation Cream is ever after a Carnation enthusiast.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Albany, Ore.—The Albany Business League has apointed committees to persuade the city council of Albany to pass an ordinance prohibiting the establishment of trading stamp stores in that city.

Canada—The Grocers' Associations of Canada have secured the enactment by the Dominion Parliament of a law making it a criminal offense punishable by heavy fines to issue trading stamps. The trading stamp people mustered a big lobby, and came near getting the bill sidetracked till after prorogation; but the grocers won after a hard fight. Their opponents threaten to fight the statute in the courts, claiming that it is an "illegal restraint of trade." The Ministry supported the bill as a Government measure on the ground that the vicious gambling system of using trading stamps combined a lottery feature with a form of compulsory selling.

Cleveland—The bakers and grocers are still negotiating. The bakers have agreed to drop their free deals and premiums.

Wichita, Kan.—The grocers of Southern Kansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, wholesale and retail, held a big picnic on Thursday, August 3d, which was attended by 7,000 people.

Denver, Colo.—At a meeting of the Association held July 27th, discussion brought out the fact that while some members had recently paid $1.15 for potatoes others had paid only 80 cents. The secretary was instructed to get competitive prices and to learn what could be saved should the members pool their purchases and buy direct Philadelphia Pa.—The State Grocers' Association of Pennsylvania will hold its ninth annual convention at the Continental Hotel, Ninth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, from Monday to Thursday, August 21st to 24th inclusive. The convention will be organized and listen to reports on Tuesday. On Tuesday evening the secretaries meet. The program includes many interesting discussions.

WILL MAKE COCOA.

Point Richmond, August 10th—The Van Emden Cocoa Company has acquired a parcel of land on Richardson avenue, near the Southern Pacific railway depot, for a factory site. Plans for a high, three-story building, 30x60 feet in dimensions, are now in readiness.

It is understood that the Van Emden Cocoa Company will hasten construction of its factory and be soon in position to begin manufacturing on a large scale. Subsequently a larger factory will be erected.

What's the matter with a good and profitable candy counter in the store? As a side line confectionery appeals to the grocer. It sells to old and young. Many an old farmer, gnarled and weather-beaten, is glad to purchase candy for his children in order that he may have an excuse for consuming it himself. And this is especially the case if he has been formerly an immoderate user of intoxicants.

While not an absolute necessity, the restroom is close to it. It is a paying investment and a trade drawing feature of any store. It need not be elaborately fitted up. The chief requirement is a place where the women can retire and wait or rest without feeling that they are in anyone's way or that anyone is watching them. Plenty of easy chairs, a few magazines and a supply of drinking water will be good starters. A mirror with brush and comb or a complete toilet room adjoining will be found very acceptable.

GROCERY MARKETS.

through the three years that must intervene before another big run would come. This would cost about 25 cents per case for storage and insurance. But now the run of the sockeyes is at an end and the price for talls is $1.50 per dozen, or $6 per case, which is the highest price quoted for salmon on the Puget Sound, the plans would be changed. He said:

"Because a large pack of sockeyes was expected, independent packers rushed to get rid of their Alaska red salmon at prices under the $1 price fixed by the Alaska Packers Association on July 6th. The price was gradually broken down to 92½c. The sales were heavy under the low price, but even before the shortage of the sockeye run became apparent, the market assumed a firmer basis. As soon as the trade at large learns of the sockeye shortage, a sharp advance in prices of Alaska reds is expected, as they cannot be sold at the prevailing price at a profit.

"There is also a big shortage in Southeastern Alaska points in pink salmon. Latest reports indicate that Alaska packers will this year put up about 150,000 cases of pinks as against 325,000 cases last year, and as against 600,000 cases in 1903. Of course, there are only forty-two canneries in operation in Alaska this year, as against seventy-two last year, but the pack will show a much larger shrinkage in the number of cases put up than expected.

"The Alaska pinks are very popular in the South and there is an ordinary demand for 500,000 cases per year. Now, if Alaska will only produce about 150,000 cases of the pinks, some idea of the effect it will have upon the market will be apparent at a glance. It shows why prices will be higher this year and still higher next year. The pink salmon is probably in a stronger position today than any other grade of fish. There is even a strong demand for chum salmon, which is largely oversold at from 65 to 70 cents per dozen.

"In view of the foregoing, all canneries, especially on the Sound, will go after the humpbacks, packing as many of them as they can. In summing it all up, it can safely be said that the run of the sockeyes has been a great disappointment, the pack not being quite half as large as expected. If the next big run will not come for four years there is no telling where the market price for the fish will go during the passing of that time."

Seattle, July 29th—Brady & Co., Inc., report:

"Packers have made arrangements for a gradual distribution of salmon that will prevent any demoralization of the market. We all know that 300,000 to 400,000 cases can be sold to American trade at Columbia River chinook prices. The jobbers will be wise to refrain from attempting to bear prices since there is no money to be made in a disorganized market."

Bellingham, August 10th—The first run of sockeye salmons is waning rapidly. The number of humpback mixed with the sockeyes is grawing larger each day, and the size of the sockeye taken during the last few days was on the average larger than before during the season.

Seattle, August 11th—Canneries have not been working to capacity on Puget Sound for the past few days. The most of the salmon that are being taken from the traps are hump backs. The presence of the humpbacks in large number at this time is taken as an indication that the second spurt of sockeyes will not be as large as the first run. In that event the total pack will probably be 25 or 30 per cent short of the pack of 1901. The only section that is now expected to reach the mark of the last big year is Columbia River, and the pack of that district will probably exceed the mark of four years ago. The Sound canneries have only packed to capacity during ten days. The second spurt of sockeyes is expected to begin between August 15th and 20th. According to the best information obtainable, few contracts have been made for the new pack. The market is entirely devoid of sockeyes at the present time, only Alaska reds and Columbia River grades now being quoted. Alaska reds are a drug on the market.

FISH.

New York, August 8th—Strohmeyer & Arpe report:

Irish Mackerel—Curing of spring fish is about over. Good mackerel are scarce and prices very firm.

Holland Herring—Prices are coming down and will soon be normal. Fishing is way behind last season. First shipments are due to arrive next week.

Scotch Herring—Fishing is far behind last season and prices very firm.

Imported Oil Sardines—France reports a virtual failure of the catch and hardly anything has been packed. Advances are looked for if the catch does not improve very materially in the near future.

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The catch of Holland herring up to the end of July was 45,000 barrels short of that of last year. August, however, is always a banner month in the herring catch and the shortage may be made up, if not wholly, at any rate, in part."

SARDINES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The catch of sardines in the French waters was a failure so far."

Philadelphia, August 11th—The Grocery World says:

"Only 9 of the 32 factories in the leading sardine packing district in the leading sardine packing district in France are operating. The rest cannot get sufficient fish. The season does not end until November, so that there may still be some fish packed, but nothing near a normal pack. The situation is about as bad as last year. For this reason the situation is very firm."

CANNED OYSTERS.

Baltimore, August 4th—A. F. Jones, secretary of the Canned Goods Exchange here, reports:

"The falling off of the supply of oysters still continues. The oyster receipts of Baltimore packers for the past season was 2,008,287 bushels, as compared with 2,104,240 bushels in 1904, a decline of nearly 100,000 bushels."

SPICES.

New York, August 8th—John Clarke reports:

"Market is getting more active, with general upward tendency on all grades, especially pepper, ginger and pimento. Prices will certainly be higher on many grades in September and October."

Baltimore, Md., August 3—McCormick & Co. report:

"The market during the past week has been much excited, with heavy transactions in pepper as well as cloves A 13c market on pepper is predicted by some."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say.

"Strictly fancy grades are selling easily, at good prices, and the medium and poorer grades are dragging badly. There is a growing uneasiness on the part of many farmers who have no storage facilities and who, being dissatisfied with the market, have been holding for a possible advance. Considering the large amount of hay that will be stored throughout the country in one way or another, the prospect for an improved market is not at all promising.

"Prices are being held at about the same range as quoted last week."

Amusements

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"The Bonnie Brier Bush" is being presented at the Majestic, and it is being presented remarkably well when one considers that it is the work of a stock company and that practically all the characters use the Scotch dialect. The story is a very beautiful one and the leading part of Lachlan Campbell is filled with remarkable cleverness by Landers Stevens. Frank Bacon as the post-man made a decided hit James Neill and Edythe Chapman Neill will next week present "Hearts Courageous," a play written by Ramsey Morris and Franklin Fyles, based upon Hattie Erminie Reive's celebrated novel.

ALCAZAR.

White Whittlesey is continuing his success. This week he appears as "Prince Otto," one of Robert Louis Stevenson's interesting heroes. Prince Otto falls in love with his wife after three years' estrangements and the complications that ensue make up a very pretty story. Miss Lawson and a strong company support Mr. Whittlesey.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Glickman's Yiddish players are completing their last week. "King Solomon" is billed for Saturday night, with "Rabbi Osher in America" for Saturday matinee. Denis O'Sullivan opens his season of Irish dramas on Sunday afternoon, when he presents "Arrah Na Pogue." Mr. O'Sullivan will sing a number of old Irish ballads and some that are new.

CENTRAL.

Hall Caine's famous story, "The Bondman," is being presented at the Central under the title of "Land of the Midnight Sun." The company is strongly cast, and there are some remarkably realistic scenic effects. The scene of the outbreak of the valcano in the sulphur mines is a real triumph in stagecraft. Next week the popular rural drama "On the Wabash" will be presented.

TIVOLI.

The run of "Rob Roy" is rapidly drawing to an end. Next week will see the last performance of this splendid production. It is to be followed by a splendid production of "Erminie," which will be staged with unusual elaboration.

FISCHER'S.

A strong program of clever vaudeville headliners is attracting crowds to this little theatre. Every turn is a good one and every performance is well attended. There are two performances each evening and a matinee every afternoon.

CHUTES.

"Les Parisiennes," the novelty dancers who scored such a success at the Orpheum last week, are the headliners in the program at the big theatre Carter, Desmond & Bailey, the colored entertainers, continue their success. There is a long bill full of variety and interest. The Zoo and the other attractions of San Francisco's great play ground continue to draw.

FRISCO GROCERS MEET.

The regular meeting of the "S. F. Retail Grocers" on Wednesday evening was devoted principally to a discussion of the threatening advance of the liquor license from $84 to $500 a year. The committee appointed to attend to the matter reported having made arrangements to co-operate with the Royal Arch, the California Liquor Dealers' Association, the Beer Bottlers Association and the Brewers' Association. The plans to be followed were explained at length and approved.

A letter was received from the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co. explaining that the disrupted condition among the jobbers made it practically impossible to maintain the price of 10 cents, straight, on Carnation Cream at the present time and agreeing to allow the 25 cents per case rebate on Carnation Cream to those selling 3 cans for 25 cents until conditions should change. The matter was laid on the table.

President Salomon spoke at length of the loss the trade had suffered through the death of T. J. Parsons. He presented resolutions of respect that were adopted by a standing vote.

The chair was instructed to appoint a committee of five to arrange a theatre party for the latter part of October to meet the funds necessary for the payment of the organization's per capita tax of $1 per member to the State Association. Fifteen delegates were elected.

A motion to allow the delegates $10 each for expenses was amended on motion of J. P. McGuire to read $15 after Mr. McGuire had made a valiant attempt to have the allowance put at $25. The $15 motion was carried.

AN INTERESTING REPORT.

Costs Over Ten Million Dollars To Pay Less than Four Millions of Fire Losses.

The last annual report of M. D. Wolf, Insurance Commissioner for California, shows a very interesting condition of affairs.

There was paid for premiums to fire insurance companies during the past year, $10,104,033.49.

The losses for the State of California amounted to $3,830,252.77.

The ratio of losses was somewhat above the average. This means that $6,273,780.72 was left with the insurance companies to pay them for the distribution of not quite four million dollars of losses.

It is no wonder that the "Insurance Trust" does not want a "mutual fire insurance law" in California.

ESTABLISHED RETAIL PRICES.

We give below the articles on which the manufacturers have established a retail price.

These prices are for common points like San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, and all terminal points.

Where freight is paid it is should be added to prices quoted if the nature of the goods will permit.

Every Association on the Coast has the privilege of listing these goods, as the manufacturers thereof have bound themselves to see that these prices prevail in California, Oregon and Washington.

We would urgently request grocers to notify us promptly of any instances where the above prices are not being maintained.

Clerk's Corner

Be a Clerk, Not a Laborer.

The difference between a store laborer and a business man or women lies in the lack of ambition on the part of one and the ability of the other to creat business. By a "business man" in this conection I do not refer to the proprietor of the store, but to the business men and women in his employ. The mere drudge is satisfied to receive and execute orders, says "The Inland Grocer." The business man produces orders. He does this by making his customers think.

Made a Record.

I know a clerk who achieved a reputation in a day by this means. He was called upon to attend a lady customer who caled for a pound of citron. As he made made up the package for her she glanced about the store evidently in search of an idea.

"I am going to entertain a party of young folks after a boating party," she said. "I have decided to make a cake and order some ice cream. They are pretty hard eaters at their age. I am not sure that will be enough" she added, laughingly.

"Why not try a club sandwitch with a little cup of coffee?" said the young man.

"What kind of a sandwich?" asked the other, stopping as she was turning away.

"Club sandwich they call it," said the clerk. "Just the thing for a party of that kind—hearty enough, but not too heavy."

"I don't believe I care for sandwiches," said the lady. "What do they use for meat?"

"Cold chicken," was the prompt answer. 'You toast three or four or five slices of bread for each member of the party. Then you get some sliced cold chicken, crisp bacon, lettuce, salad dressing and one or two pickles for each. Put a leaf of lettuce on a plate for each. On this place a slice of toast and cover with one or two bits of bacon and the cold chicken. Add a little salad dressing and lay on another slice of toast. You can add two or three slices fixed the same way, according to the number you think the young folks will care for. I'll warant you will please them."

"That does sound nice," said the customer. "I have half a mind to try it instead of the ice cream."

If you have not tried club sandwiches your friends will appreciate the novelty," said the clerk pleasantly. "One never finds a person who does not take kindly to club sandwiches."

The upshot of that little conversation was the loss to a caterer of a nice cream order and the gain by my friend's employer of an order for a dozen loaves of bread, two dressed chickens, two cans of sliced bacon, two bottles of salad dressing, a pound of lettuce and a jar of sweet pickles, all for the club sandwiches—none of which would have been ordered except for the clerk's suggestion.

Easy to Make.

No particular knowledge of cooking was required for this bit of enterprise. A habit of observing the make-up of any good article of food and a good memory for details enabled the young man to offer his customer an idea. An engaging way of presenting it helped.

This incident illustrates my point that a business man in the clerk's position creates business. He made his customer think, and to such good purpose that she came back after the party to thank him for his help—to obtain more ideas. The incident made the clerk more valuable as a clerk. Other customers heard of him and gave him many opportunities to expand his sales. He is now manager of a large store and has obtained for it the pick of the trade in a fine neighborhood.

Compare this bit of history with that which would have resulted had this particular salesman been satisfied to sell the lady customer her pound of citron and regale her guests on ice cream and cake!

A store laborer would never have seen his opportunity and would not have taken advantage of it if he had. The business man's instinct found the chance and cultivated it, enabling the assistant to "make a hit."

QUALITY OF OIL

Store your kerosene oil in a common tank or keep it in a porous wooden barrel and the gas which is the illuminating part of the oil, in fact, its very life, passes off and the oil becomes lifeless. It clogs and chars the wick, which smokes and emits a most disagreeable odor. Your customers complain or go to some other merchant. It isn't the fault of the oil—it's your fault. Store your oil in a

All the San Francisco jobbers with the exception of Tillmann & Bendel, Sussman & Wormser and M. Ehrman & Co. have resumed the compact to sell sugar at a price to give them a profit.

STATE CONVENTION—
This issue contains a full account of the important problems discussed at the recent State Convention. It should be given careful study since in the resolutions and discussions will be found the heart of Association matters. It should then be laid aside for future reference.

DRIED APPLES—
Owing to the shortage in the Eastern apple crop higher prices are considered probable.

HOLLAND HERRING—
Catch small to date and outlook unfavorable for the future.

BACON, HAM AND LARD—
The situation is very strong, with constantly increasing prices. The lard market appears to be especially strong.

CANNED FRUITS—
Packers are about sold out of all varieties of canned fruits, and jobbers are looking for higher prices for futures.

TOMATOES—
The local tomato market has made a jump of 2½ cents to 5 cents per dozen, and with the certainty of reduced production in the East still higher prices may be regarded as more than probable.

BEANS—
There is an unusually large acreage of pink, bayos and lima beans this year, but much smaller on large and small whites, indicating a short crop. Stocks are small and prices firm.

MAPLE SUGAR—
Primary markets report the prices for pure maple sugar and syrup the highest in years with the market in seller's favor.

ALMONDS—
Heavy crops in this state and in Europe indicate an easy market.

BRINGS NEW CUSTOMERS.

The San Francisco branch of the Cudahy Packing Co. is daily in receipt of letters from all sections of California expressing satisfaction with the high quality and easy-selling character of their Diamond "C" products.

The Diamond "C" goods are the choicest of high class products brought from the Chicago market. The animals from which the Diamond "C" hams and bacon are made, are carefully selected and the entire process of curing and smoking is followed with the greatest care. The result is a product that cannot be surpassed for either fine appearance of delicious flavor.

It is worthy of note that the correspondents of the Cudahy Packing Co. unite in insisting that their hame and bacon trade had largely increased since they have made a specialty of Diamond "C" products. This means that the goods are so particularly fine that each satisfied customer tells numerous friends who go where they can get the goods that are a "little better" than the average run.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement on page 4 of this week's Advocate.

BIG CONVENTION.

Stockton Entertains Grocers from Many Parts of California.

THE IMPORTANT WORK DONE.

Plans Perfected for Helping Manufacturers Maintain Prices.

DEAD BEATS WILL BE FOILED.

L. Warnke of Alameda Elected President of State Association.

HONORS FOR JOSEPH A. STULZ.

Most Sucessful Convention in the History of the Organization.

Stockton belonged to the retail grocers of California and their wives during Monday and Tuesday of this week.

The Stockton Association, by its energy and forethought, assisted largely in making the convention the most valuable in the history of the organization. In the arrangement of its plans, and the selection of hall, the care devoted to the welfare of the ladies of the delegates, every contingency was considered, the work of the convention was greatly expedited.

Delegates were present from the following committees:

The Delegates.

The following is the list of delegates:
San Francisco—Frank B. Connolly, J. J. Cucask, J. F. Schomer, J. Lilienthal, George Golder, J. P. McGuire, J. M. Sullivan, H. Wolking, W. Ring, G. B. Doyle, H. W. Burmeister, G. Alpers, J. J. Hayes, Fred Kruger, R. E. Schroeder and J. W. Offernan.

Oakland—A. J. Nor, J. G. Reed, Geo. Hoffman, F. Finch and J. Frazier.

Alameda—L. Warnke, H. Hauch, U. S. Troyle.

Berkeley—M. P. Manning.

Stockton—C. B. Pearson, E. W. Drury, J. D. Campbell, L. B. Griffiths, F. W. Aubry, John Yardley and W. E. O'Connor.

Sacramento—F. B. Fancher, George Straith, Elias Kilgore, William Brome, Robert D. Finnie, Ed McEwen, A. A. Jost and Henry Feldhausen.

Los Angeles—J. R. Newberry, C. Mottaz, N. E. Wilson and J. F. Paulding.

Pomona—W. H. Poston.

Nevada City—W. G. Richards.

Fresno—L. R. Eccleston.

Modesto—A. Steifvater, J. S. Irvine and C. M. Cleary.

Oakdale—Scott M. Sampson.

San Jose—J. Wm. Borchers.

Redwood City—Mr. Lovie.

Chico—F. W. Miller.

Angels Camp—Frank D. Pattee.

The first day of the convention was devoted to the reports of officers and addresses on important trade topics.

The second day was devoted to the discussion of trade problems. Every delegate participated in these discussions. Many valuable points were brought out.

The plans for the future, which were carefully considered, give promise of far greater returns than ever before have ben secured. In the matter of handling trade abuses, maintaining prices, listing dead beats and collecting bad bills, especially careful plans were laid.

Attention was given to ideas for extending the organization.

Legislation was also given careful thought.

All of these matters have been covered in full in this issue.

MONDAY MORNING, AUG. 21st.

It was shortly after 9:30 o'clock that Clark G. Wakefield, president of the Stockton Retail Grocers' Association, called the convention to order at Jory's Hall. Mr Wakefield welcomed the delegates warmly, assuring them that the Stockton grocers would do everything possible to make them glad they had come to their city and that he welcomed them not only as coworkers in affairs in which he and his fellows in Stockton were interested, but also as men of force and doers in the affairs of the world.

Mr. Wakefield then introduced Stockton's mayor, Mr. Gardner, who, in welcoming the delegates, said. welcomed the delegates warmly, extending to them the freedom of the city and expressing the desire that they might make frequent visits.

J. J. Cusack Thanks Stockton.

Mr. Wakefield then called on J. J. Cusack of San Francisco to answer the address of welcome in the stead of Jos. A. Stulz, who was detained by sickness. Mr. Cusack said:

Cusack's Speech.

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Mayor and Delegates: It gives me great pleasure to extend our thanks to the chief executive of the City of Stockton in the name of the San Francisco delegation for the cordial words of welcome he has extended. We deeply appreciate the honor you have shown us. A year ago, your secretary, Mr. O'Connor, eloquently advanced before the State Convention at San Jose the inducements that Stockton could present as the next Convention city. The Convention very wisely decided to accept. And now I am absolutely certain that the merchants of Stockton will even more than fulfil his roseate promises.

Mayor Poston of Pomona.

Mr. Wakefield then called on W. H. Poston of Pomona to speak for Southern California. Mr. Poston expressed pleasure at the number of delegates present and the spirit shown by the Stockton merchants He felt sure the convention would prove of great value and interest.

Mr. Wakefield then turned over the convention to State President Pearson, who read the following address:

President C. B. Pearson's Address.

It is with a feeling of pride that I assume the direction of this, the sixth annual Convention of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association. The first State Convention I attended was in Oakland. There is a vast difference noticeable in the conditions then and at the present time, both in the size and strength of our present organization and of the results accomplished. We have with us now a greater number of affiliating Associations and individual members, who are accomplishing good results both in their local and in the State Association work.

The necessity of organization work is apparent. Take as an example our local association at Stockton. What were the conditions, say, seven or eight years ago? Price cutting was rampant, dead beats had us at their mercy, grocery failures were a common occurrence, and we did not know, or, if we did, had little knowledge of our competitor.

If your collection laws are bad, "become a law unto yourself." Get your brother merchants together, stock together, and make Mr. Deadbeat pay cash.

There seems to be something doing in the cheese market. The feeling is decidedly firmer than for some time. Keep your eagle eye on cheese. It is a safe purchase.

Keep busy after the coffee trade. Makes no difference if the weather is warm, keep after coffee customers all the time Coffee is one of the very important items in the grocery business.

Before receiving credit, you are carefully investigated; why should you not have the same protection? No honest man will object to being investigated, and the deadbeat should be exposed.

Pay promptly your dues to your local, state and national associations. Never require your secretary to call at your place of business for it; pay at your meeting and thus encourage others to do the same.

Your paid employes are either worthy of their hire or they are worthless. If the first, let them know that you think so; they need encouragement and sympathy. If the latter, ask for their prompt resignation.

Open no new account, no matter how small, without first consulting your information department. A good rating published six months ago maybe "requires cash' now. A small entering wedge may lead to large loss.

The coffee market should be carefully watched. The situation is favorable to a bull campaign. Fine mild coffees, mellow and desirable for blends, are scarce, notably, fancy bogota, Mexican and Guatemala.

There are a good many distributers of food that live in fogs, which they try to clear up by schemes, specious advertising, cut prices, tricks of the trade, or some other sort of fans, but they will not dispel the fog of mistrust.

Hills Bros.' Co. report regarding currants: "Thursday our friends in Greece cabled us, 'Bill passed,' meaning that the scheme of the Bank of Athens, which has been before the chamber of deputies some weeks, had been acepted. Spot goods immediately showed an advance."

John Clark & Co. say of spices: "The market is firmer and stronger throughout the list. The demand for peppers, cloves, pimento and gingers is improving steadily. The requirements of the United States will be very large before November 1. All indications point to generally higher prices"

Toilet soaps require a careful study that they seldom get. It is said to be dangerous to use the cheapest brands The authorities permit the sale of really dangerous soap and refuse to permit the sale of artificially colored catsup of the strictly harmless variety. By this official stupidity, or cupidity, we thrive!

The State Dairy and Food Department has put a stop to the manufacture of spurious comb honey that was being made by a band of medical students in the northern part of the state, to raise funds to pay their expenses through college. The comb was made of paraffin and beeswax and filled with glucose flavored with honey. —Columbus (O.) Post.

There is just one simple way to detect adulterants in olive oil. If pure olive oil is dropped on a moderately heated iron surface, or heated in a close vessel until it smokes, the odor produced will be wholesome and not at all disagreeable. But olive oil that has been adulterated in any way gives forth, under the same circumstances, a distinctly unpleasant smell.

Some attention has been called to dates by the fact that one large importer is advising the trade to buy now for early fall delivery, chiefly because of the short supplies in this market. It is pointed out that the total supply is quite likely to be exhausted before October 1 and that before the first direct shipment can arrive here the supply will be entirely gone.

The filbert situation attracts interest because of the fact that stocks abroad are low, running up to only 7,000 bags to supply demands until the new crop is ready for shipment in October. The new crop cannot be shipped from Sicily before October, which makes them due here about the middle of November. Holders are firm in their views and concessions are impossible.

A store to command confidence must be like a woman—above suspicion. Character counts for as much in storekeeping as in any of the higher walks of life. Confidence is a plant of very slow growth, easily lost by a slight deviation from the right path. A reputation for short weight is a fog not to be dispelled by a fan. A misleading advertisement is a fog not dispelled by a fan.

The greatest revolution in the milling industry of the world, says a contributor to the American Miller, was that caused by the invention and introduction of roller mills. Curiously enough, Switzerland, that small republic in the romantic Alps, which has extensive cattle and dairying interests, but is insignificant as a grain-growing country, was where the roller mill originated.

A high authority on tea and its treatment in the store and kitchen says: "If you like a tea that is delicate and mellow in character try the experiment of pouring a cupful of boiling water on the tea leaves and immediately pour the water off and throw it away; after which pour on the required quantity of boiling water and allow it to stand for five minutes, when it is ready to serve."

Dried fruits pretty generally look like good property. Even currants are showing a firm tone, which promises to last, in consequence of the enactment of the legislation in Greece that places the marketing of the currant crop in the hands of the Currant Bank and the Syndicate. In consequence of this disposal of the ever-green currant problem, the price of the fruit will probably rule steady throughout the season.

Artificial flour is one of the latest chemical combinations. A chap in Minnesota believes he can chemically combine the constituents of wheat flour and avoid the risks attendant upon the cultivation of wheat. To our mind all artificial foods are devoid of dietic value; are not assimilated. Nature's method of organization, or order of combination is different from that of the laboratory, so that two articles may be almost identical so far as their constituents go and yet one be of value as food; the other worthless. As an example, take glucose and cane sugar. The latter is a true food; the other artificial, and we have no evidence that it is assimilated. Or take sugar and saccharin. Both impart a sweet taste, but the saccharin is not of the slightest use to the system.

BIG CONVENTION.

Such a state of affairs should not exist.

Results in Stockton.

What are the conditions now? There is no price cutting, we have a delinquent list of several hundred names, grocery failures are practically unheard of, and, best of all, we are friendly and at peace with our competitors.

What has been accomplished here can be accomplished elsewhere, if you will get together and take up the work with the proper spirit.

New Laws Secured.

Since our meeting in San Jose a year ago much has been done in the way of getting new laws that are of value to grocers.

During the last session of the Legislature. The grocers succeeded in passing three laws. This was not possible without a great amount of work, but I will not dwell upon that now, as our secretary will include it in his report.

First. A law known as the Wife's Separate Property Bill, making the wife's separate property responsible for the necessaries of life.

Second. A law against trading stamps.

Third. A law making an account date from time of last item, and making a payment renew an account. This last mentioned law was vetoed by Governor Pardee. It was one of the most valuable ones passed, and would have been of great help in the matter of collections.

Secured by Co-operation.

Do you think that as individuals we could have passed any of these laws?

No

It is by organizing and getting together that we can pass laws, bettering our conditions, correct trade abuses, rut down the dead beat, and make a living profit, by getting the manufacturers to fix a retail selling price on his goods, which he has a right to do.

Those of you who are familiar with the efforts taken to secure the passage of these measures know and realize that we owe much of our success to the Grocers' Advocate and its editor, Mr. A. H. Powers.

Up to the present time the per capita tax has been but 50 cents per member for a year, which is not enough to put the organization on a self-supporting basis, and allow for proper organization.

FRANK B. CONNOLLY, SAN FRANCISCO.
Re-Elected Secretary of the State Grocers' Association.

Necessity of Proper Funds.

Gentlemen, you must remember that it takes money to run an association like this, and run it properly. With the tax at $1 per member greater results can be attained because we will have the necessary funds to work with. As Mr. E. W. Hale said at San Jose last year, "If it isn't worth a dollar, it isn't worth a cent."

Maintaining Prices.

The possibilities of the maintenance of prices is shown by the good work being done along that line here and in a number of other communities.

San Francisco, our metropolis, is further behind in this regard than any other city I know of, that has an association.

Of course, existing conditions cut a great factor, and these have to be considered.

But we have found, gentlemen, that the keynote of success is perfect harmony.

Harmony Is Essential.

Without it you can accomplish but very little. Lay aside your feelings of resentment, get in the fold, put up a solid front, and you will be surprised at he results.

Our delinquent list is a good feature, and one that appeals to every member, but there is great room for improvement.

I find that as a rule we are negligent in sending in the names of bad debtors, allowing them to get credit elsewhere, while on the other hand, if reported promptly, we would not only protect our fellow grocers, but would also do much towards collecting the bill.

Good Secretaries an Essential.

We have learned that without an efficient secretary, interest is likely to die out and the organization lapse. Some method should be devised whereby they could join the State Association direct and thus keep up the interest.

I would suggest the advisability of having the grocers of small towns adjacent to cities affiliate with the association of the larger place, thereby enabling them to maintain prices and also keep posted in the matter of delinquent debtors.

Occurrences at Cincinnati.

Last January I visited the National Grocers' Association in Cincinnati, being the delegate from this organization. There were also present from this State, Joseph A. Stulz, vice-president of the National; Mr. Connolly, and Mr. Hayes, representing San Francisco, and Mr. Warnke, representing Alameda.

When we arrived there everything pointed to the election of our pioneer in association work, Joseph A. Stulz, for National President.

The delegates from California did everything they could in his behalf, and success seemed certain, but on the second day a combination was formed by Ohio, with 61 votes, and Missouri, with 20, to elect Mr. Greene president, and Mr. Padburg, vice-president. Owing to this combination Mr. Stulz was defeated, but he was the unanimous choice at the offices of the National.

The delegates that are here and those to arrive before our noon recess will have much work to do, and I will not take further time, as I submitted a detailed report of my trip to the board of directors, and it was published in full in the Grocers' Advocate, and I presume that most of you have read it.

I therefore declare this, the sixth annual convention of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants' Association, opened and ready for business.

Gentlemen, what is your pleasure?

The chair then appointed the following committees on "Credentials" and on "Order of Business":

Credentials—Geo. B. Doyle, San Francisco, chairman; J. Wm. Borchers, San Jose; W. E. O'Connor, Stockton; Geo. Hoffman, Oakland; J. F. Paulding, Los Angeles.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING 20th CENTURY SOAP.

FOR LAUNDRY WORK put two tablespoonfuls of soap in a tub of warm water, and allow clothes to soak over night; then use two tablespoonfuls of soap to boil the clothes. They come out surprisingly clean; almost no rubbing is required.

TO CLEAN CARPETS, rub a wet sponge over the surface of the soap and then over the carpet to be cleaned. Use clear warm water to remove the soap.

TO REMOVE GREASE SPOTS, take a damp cloth and rub a little soap on the spot. Then, with warm water, rinse off the soap. It will leave no unsightly rings.

TO CLEAN WOODWORK, SILVERWARE, HARDWOOD FLOORS, WINDOW GLASS, MARBLE, TILE, ETC., use about two tablespoonfuls of soap to a bucket of water.

TO CLEAN KID GLOVES, take a dry cloth and a very little of the soap and rub gently over the surface of the gloves. Then take a perfectly dry cloth and rub briskly over the glove. This restores the gloss. Use soap sparingly. Keep glove on while cleaning.

SOAP JELLY.

Another way to use 20TH CENTURY SOAP is to make a Soap Jelly. Dissolve one pound of soap in a gallon of hot water. Let stand for twenty-four hours until cool, then stir thoroughly. Use about one cupful of jelly to a pail of water.

Prices 10c, 25c and 75c.

Order of Business—J. J. Cusack, San Francisco, chairman; H. Hauch, Alameda; J. R. Newberry, Los Angeles; Mr. Clary, Modesto; H. Wolking, San Francisco.

A recess was then called till 11 o'clock in order that delegates might have the opportunity to present their credentials.

At 11 o'clock the convention was again called to order, when J. J. Cusack of San Francisco, chairman of the Committee on Rules and Order, presented the following report:

Order of Business.

Your Committee on Order of Business begs leave to report as follows:

Delegates in addressing the chair shall rise, give their name and city from which they come.

No delegate shall speak more than twice upon the same subject without special consent of the Convention.

No address shall exceed five minutes in length, unless special consent of the Convention is given.

Parliamentary usage customary in similar organizations shall prevail.

Geo. B. Doyle of San Francisco, chairman of the Committee on Credentials, presented a preliminary report.

State Secretary Frank B. Connolly presented the following report:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Since the Convention at San Jose last year, there has been a meeting of the Board of Directors each month except July, this being the only time there was no quorum present.

During the year our Association has seen accession to its membership in ten communitites. Among the organizations affiliating with us during the year were: Grass Valley Association, Reedley, Truckee, Redwood City, Eldorado Grocers' Association, Pomona Association and San Mateo Board of Trade.

Upon taking over the secretaryship from Mr. Warnke, I found that in the matter of details, such as the handling of bills, answers for the same, getting out our monthly report, etc., it required more of my time away from business than I could afford to give, so the Board of Directors granted me an assistant who attended to the matter of details. This resulted in the production of numerous reports and splendid successes in our State Legislature, I being fortunate enough to secure the able services at that time of Mr. J. F. Paulding, who was secretary of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association.

In October the Directors decided to print a monthly report and delinquent list of the members' bills.

In January the legislative work at Sacramento began. Mr. Paulding made several trips to Sacramento in the interest of the bills we desired to have passed. Vice-President L. Warnke and Directors J. A. Stulz and myself, being the Legislative Committe of the Board, made a trip to Sacramento on the day of the final passage of Senate Bill No. 344, our anti-trading stamp bill, using our influence as a committee from the State Grocers' Association with the legislators. The bill passed the Assembly with only one dissenting vote, and our committee, including Mr. Paulding and the Assemblymen Coghlan and Lucy, visited Governor Pardee and urged him to sign the bill, which he did ten days later, it already having passed the Senate.

Bills That Were Passed.

Assembly Bill No. 152—Our Association has this bill passed, which prevents a husband from defrauding his creditors by transferring his property to his wife. It makes the separate property of the wife liable for the family bills for the necessaries of life, exempting the property she had before her marriage and what she may get through will or by the death of a relative. In other words, all the property both husband and wife may acquire after marriage may be attached for the necessaries of life.

Assembly Bill No. 920—This bill provides that an account should not begin to outlaw till the customer quits trading with the dealer. In other words, the account would date from the last transaction. This would allow a payment on an account to renew the same. By diligent work this bill passed both Houses. It was not signed by the Governor and did not become a law. In answer to our inquiry he gave the following reasons for not signing it:

Governor Pardee's Veto.

Answering yours of March 25th: To the request contained therein for my reasons for withholding my signature to A. B. No. 920, I comply with pleasure.

The bill provided that a running account should begin to outlaw from the date of any book entry, either credit or debit. The matter received a good deal of attention in this office and was discussed several times at length. The unanimous opinion, both legal and lay, with which I agree, was that the allowing of a debit charge to renew the life of the whole of a running account would be open to objection—the difficulty of proving, on the part of a purchaser, the falseness of a debit entry being almost, if not quite, impossible, as I, from my personal experience, can testify.

On the other hand, had the bill provided that a partial payment, which should be easy of disproof, if false, should renew the life of the account and its date to be the point from which the statute should begin to run, it would have been unobjectionable, and would, I think, have been signed.

Everybody realizes (I am sure I do) that the storekeeper hardly stands a fair chance under the present law with a long-continued running account, with items of charge two years in arrears outlawing. But it seems to me that neither creditor nor debtor would be treated unjustly if the date of a payment on account were taken as the starting point from which the statute is to run. A debtor who makes no payment in one year, to say nothing of two, is, it seems to me, hardly a good customer with whom to have a running account.

In short, it appears to me that a credit, and not a debit, entry would be an unobjectionable starting point from which to date the running of the statute. Very truly yours—Geo. C. Pardee."

C. B. PEARSON.

Retiring President of the State Association, Who Conducted the Convention.

Measures That Were Opposed.

We defeated the following bills:

Senate Bill No. 250—This bill would forbid the serving of attachment except when fraud can be proven. It was a bad bill. We caused hundreds of protests against this bill, and it was defeated.

Senate Bill No. 276—This bill would forbid attachments for less than $25.00. We took the same steps on Senate Bill No. 250, and it was killed in the Judiciary Committee.

Assembly Bill No. 806—This was a repeal of the law we had passed two years ago, allowing the attachment of public employees. We worked diligently against this bill, and it did not get out of the committee.

Assembly Bill No. 396—Would have prevented a country merchant from selling any proprietary medicine without a prescription. The bill was killed.

Assembly Bills Nos. 370, 371 and 372—Were obnoxious pure food measures that would have held the merchant liable for adulteration, etc., and not the manufacturer. By diligent work the bills were defeated.

Senate Bill No. 842—Gave the supervisors of incorporated counties and cities the right to impose a license on merchants. This bill was defeated.

Assembly Bill No. 620—Proposed to force the manufacturer or jobber to sell goods to anyone who might apply for same. There are times where jobbers and manufacturers do not like to sell trade disturbers. This bill was killed.

Assembly Bill No. 646—Was of the same stripe as Bill No. 604, except it went still farther and would prevent one from telling a third party of those who were acting against their interests. This bill was killed.

There were several obnoxious pure food measures, etc., but they did not have much support, so we do not mention them.

How It Was Done.

It was only by much hard work that these results were secured. We found the individual members and the affiliating associations ready to work diligently along the lines we suggested to them. It was this prompt assistance that influenced the Legislature to grant us what we asked.

The work accomplished should convince the most skeptical of the necessity of our organization.

After having the Anti-Trading Stamp Bill passed and knowing that the Trading Stamp Companies would cook up a test case that would probably not be tried on its merits, we formed a joint committee, consisting of Mr. R. B. Hale, from the Merchants' Association of San Francisco; Mr. J. S. Parry, of the Retail Cigar Dealers; Mr. Carroll, of the Retail Dry Goods Association, and myself, of the State Grocers' Association, and President Salomon of the San Francisco Retail Grocers, to secure counsel and see the law upheld by the Supreme Court.

Judge John Garber is our chief counsel; associated with him are Wright & Wright and Chas. A. Son. Our committee know that we have secured the best legal talent obtainable, and the test case is still in the Supreme Court, but we expect a decision any day.

Our pro rata of the expense for attorney fee is $100 of every $1000, and we paid our first $100 in April, and may have one or two more to pay when the case is decided.

If the law holds good in this State, as it has in Maryland and other States, it will rid the retail merchants of California of one of the worst parasites ever forced upon them.

Friends at Sacramento.

In this regard I want to mention the men who so ably assisted us to achieve the success we did at our last Legislature. Senators Muenter of Stockton, Keane and Wolfe of San Francisco, and Assemblymen Coghlan, Hartmann, McGowan and Levey of San Francisco, Beardslee of Stockton, Cromwell of Sonoma county and several others took an especial interest in everything the grocers asked for, and saw we were given the utmost consideration, and right here I wish to state we should have a grocer or general merchant elected to the Senate and one to the Assembly, and then the bills we asked for and the ones we were against would be watched by one who has a special interest therein. We should also feel grateful to those who did so much for us last sesion and favor any ambitions they may have. The Grocers' Advocate and its editor, A. H Powers, did great work towards getting he laws we asked for; Mr. Clark, of Miller & Clark (Stockton), who drafted our laws, did so at the actual cost to them. Mr. Paulding, the assistant secretary, at that time worked with patience, energy and never tiring efforts to have our bills passed, and to defeat the obnoxious ones.

About Maintaining Prices.

We have learned by experience what we need to bring about the maintainance of prices on many articles. Many of our affiliating associations are successfully doing this. The cities around San Francisco Bay are at work now towards that end, and I have every reason to believe that they will acomplish this on the leading staples in the near future. Son Francisco is the keystone in the Association arch, and a great deal depends on our Asociation there to bring the necessary influence to bear upon manufacturers and wholesalers to see that the retail price is maintained on their standard brands of goods, which they alone have the legal right to do.

Our organization has been conducted on a very economical basis during the past year, and we have secured splendid results for our investment. The financial report is as follows:

Receipts.

Balance in treasury (last Convention	$ 11.17
Per capita tax and dues	547.00
Contributions to Legislative Fund	875 45
From sale of State Report and Printing List	14.40
	$1448 02

Expenses.

Salary of assistant secretary and his expenses	$ 471.75
Salary of stenographer	157.50
Office rent	120.00
Printing, stationery, stamps, telephones, telegrams, etc.	180 89
Legal service in drafting laws	123 90
Pro rata to Trading Stamp Committee	100.00
Expense of committees to State Legislature	27.00
Expenses of treasurer to last Convention	12.50
Expense of organizing associations	2.40
Expense of sending State President to National Convention	200.00
Money advanced for legislative work	33.46
	$1,429.39

Balance in treasury now, $18.63.

A Texas Example.

The Texas State Grocers' Association at their convention last month found they had a deficit of nearly $500. By subscription at the convention over $1400 was raised, and they advanced their per capita to one dollar. I consider we have done well to have a balance in our treasury, no matter how small, after so much legislative work has been accomplished.

I anticipate much progress in the next year. My suggestions I have put in full form for the consideration of the committees on Collection Bureau and on Extension of Organizations.

Essentials for Success.

I have grown to realize that there are four great needs if we are to be successful.

First. We must give members full value for their dues and have them satisfied.

Second. This requires some one in daily attendance at the secretary's office.

Third. It necessitates a plan by which all members, both direct individual members and in affiliating associations, can be brought in close touch every month and make our Delinquent List more effective.

Fourth. Members, to be satisfied,

Attracting Trade

THE SHOW WINDOW.

If you want to catch the people
You must make the window bright:
If you want to hold the people
You must trim the window right:
If you want to lead your rivals
You must give the window care;
If you want to "knock 'em silly"
You must never trouble spare.

The business is not hopeless while the window remains to be exploited

The complicated plan is not essential to success with the show window.

Window-dressing is easily mastered when the desire to succeed is present.

Windows don't have to be advertised. They advertise themselves. Groceries are used by all, and their exhibition should be of interest to all. We have seen an exhibit of groceries draw attention side by side with the windows of a gorgeously stocked five and ten cent store.

The tea store windows in this city are often so much superior in attractiveness to those of the grocers that the success of the companies is easily accounted for. The use of handsome and large vases and of natural and artificial plants is a feature of the tea companies' window service.

The window will give more consolation for losses by bad debts than all the appeals that can be made for collection legislation. The window makes new trade and adds to the grocer's earnings. In the window lies a talisman that protects the dealer from failure. In the window is his star of destiny, his hope of future success.

In a Philadelphia tobacconist's window there is a display that draws spectators and should sell goods. We quote: "The central piece is the figure of a Moor sitting cross-legged, and smoking a cigar. The figure takes a slow, meditative puff, removes the cigar from its mouth and, slowly revolving its head, gazes at the crowd. It is remarkably life-like, and at a glance is very startling."—Show Window Suggestion.

Where the store itself is too narrow to admit of a spacious show window being fashioned in the usual way, we recommend that the window be constructed in a slanting direction, stretching inwards, towards the middle of the store. Thus, as the customer passes from the sidewalk towards the store door, he or she moves between a display of goods behind glass, the display being carried back as far as the grocer has the space to spare. This plan cuts off floor space in the store, but it makes an elegant front of a narrow and insignificant exterior. The Wright & Robinson window in Fulton street, near Rockaway avenue, Brooklyn, is a good illustration of success in the treatment of an insignificant store front which has been made very attractive. This window on Saturday displayed crackers on one side and breakfast foods, etc., on the other side. They use a coupon system, does this firm, and also combination offers of goods for 50 cents and one dollar. Posted in the window is a placard offering 3½ pounds granulated sugar for 10 cents to every purchaser of a pound of 50-cent tea.—Exchange.

Novel Fruit Display.

An appropriate design for the peach and canning season was arranged on these lines:

Across the back of the window was a triple line of tin cans, polished and rising to a peak in the center. Around the cap piece was tied a bow of blue ribbon.

A triangle, with the point to the front was made of three rows of Mason jars, the base line of the triangle being about twelve inches to the front of the line of cans.

In the center of the triangle was a loaf of sugar, about six inches high and resting upon a round glass fruit dish. A wreath formed of cinnamon leaves tied together with ribbon was placed on the sugar loaf.

In a semi-circle about the loaf was arranged a half dozen small dessert dishes, each filled with a different spice. Bottles of vinegar of different colors stood in the rear angles of the triangle.

Triangles borrowed from a pool table were placed in the spaces to right and left of the triangle of jars. These were used to keep in place displays of peaches. The lower layer was placed upon the window ledge and upon them were built pyramids of luscious fruit. Can openers and jar wrenches were placed in conspicuous positions. Various spaces were filled with exhibits of attractive fruit in stock.

A Drawing Card.

The figures were harmonious and the display proved a drawing card. The arangement was changed on several succeeding days, the fruits only being renewed, and the other articles named served for a week's display. Circles took the place of triangles and the position of jars and cans were reversed for one day. On another rectangular forms were used.

The clerk who prepared this display spent only ten or fifteen minutes making the changes. The original design of course took more time.

A ROAST AND A TOAST

When a manufacturer wilfully so conducts his business as to compel you grocers to sell his goods without profit, what do you call him?

On the other hand, when he conducts it so as to stop your throwing away your profit, what do you call him?

One is a robber; the other protector and partner.

SAN JOSE GROCERS BANQUET.

San Jose, August 19th.—The San Jose Retail Grocers' Association met last night in Eagles' Hall for a short business session prior to their annual banquet, which was held in the Lamolle Grill. The association was found to be in a flourishing condition and the report of the officers showed an increase in the finances and in the membership. At the banquet prominent members of the organization were called upon for speeches.

Those present were: James Weybrew, W. A. McDonald, A. B Ross, Reed Orland, J. Connolly, J. W. Borchers, L. Warnke, N. O. Bozelle, D. W. Smythe, H. E. Jones, Aaron H. Powers, J. W. Walsh, J. Herther, J. B. Pinard, H. M. Renzel, Fred C. Barr, J. H. Koerber, S. W Coffren, J. E. Gassett, Emile Belloli, J. Calice, J. W. Black, J. E. Mise, J. Battinich, John Pancera, J. W. Gregg, J. F. Cunan, Charles Henry, E. Vincent Hunt, G. M. Read, P. S. Sambuck, W. M. Jennings, Will Black, Will Anderson, Geo. H. Cain.

PETTY LOSSES.

How to Stop One Class of Profit Eaters.

Nearly every dealer loses a little every month through having his customers dispute their bills. This happens sometimes with regular monthly customers, and more frequently with those who make only occasional charges, and forget them.

Only one way has been found to absolutely end these losses in a manner satisfactory to both dealer and customer and that is by using The Perfection Short Credit System, which gives the purchaser a statement in full to date with each purchase, with no additional work to the dealer. This is something that every grocer has been in need of for years, and everyone should take it up immediately.

BIG AUGUST SALES.

Carnation Cream is enjoying the usual large sales in San Francisco and throughout California. The sales for August promise to far exceed those for July.

Merit and printer's ink did it.

An Open Letter!

Camden, N. J. U.S.A. August 1905.

To The Trade:

An extensive campaign of magazine advertising for CAMPBELL'S SOUPS is to be inaugurated in the September issues. As we are anxious that both jobber and dealer co-operate with us in our advertising plans, we feel that they should know in advance just what the scope of this campaign is to be.

We have contracted for large space in all of the best known women's publications and in a carefully selected list of general mediums. We have spared no expense in the preparation of advertisements to be inserted, and we feel justified in believing that the success that has followed our street car publicity will be duplicated in this important extension of our advertising.

We want every retailer in this country to carry CAMPBELL'S SOUPS, and we are going to make it very easy for him to sell them. We have planned our campaign so that the grocer will get the direct benefit of every inquiry that comes to us. Moreover, we are about to put into operation several novel publicity "schemes" that will work in every case across the counter. The effect of this greater advertising is bound to be felt in every corner of the country.

More people than ever will ask for CAMPBELL'S SOUPS, more people than ever will insist on them.

Yours very truly,

JOSEPH CAMPBELL COMPANY

BIG CONVENTION.

must be informed of our progress. This requires monthly meetings of the Directors and prompt reports thereof to let the members know what the Directors are doing.

Pacific Coast Co-operation.

Our work has been amplified and its possibilities increased by the co-operation of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association. This organization was effected in 1904 with the idea of establishing a sort of Executive Committee to enable each State Association on the Pacific Coast—and that included the State Association of California—to secure the prompt and effective assistance of the other State Associations. Its value can be seen at a glance. Its value to us is doubly great since the fact that California is its principal point means that the central office must be in California, at San Francisco. This fact gave us the assistance, at a mere nominal sum, of a very capable man for many months. It should be our work not only to support, but to build up the Pacific Coast Association, since by so doing we tend to build up our own organization and increase its effectiveness.

Value of National Organization.

We will also find the National Association of great help in inducing the manufacturers, most of whom are located in the Eastern States, to see that a retail selling price is maintained on their goods that will allow us grocers a decent profit on the business we do, to which we are entitled when we take into consideration the investment it requires, the hours we devote to it, and the work we do.

Favorable Geographical Conditions.

In concluding my report, I wish to say that this organization could be one of the strongest and most effective in the United States in view of the fact that we are situated at the extreme western end of the country, are not bothered by large mail order concerns like they are East of the Missouri River, although I will admit quite a few wholesalers are selling to consumers, such as boarding houses, restaurants, colleges, etc.

We have the best garnishee law in the United States and our collection department can be made more effective.

Organizing should be carried into every county in this State and the interest kept up by constant communicating with the associations so organized.

In San Francisco the grocers have a Mutual Biscuit Company which has proven very successful. A mutual or co-operative fire insurance company in this State would mean a saving for the merchants of at least 40 per cent of what they pay out every year for fire insurance.

To the associations who gathered together the funds which made our legislative work this year possible, we should feel very thankful. Los Angeles Association contributed $254 to our Legislative Fund, Alameda County contributed $105. Stockton Association $106, Sacramento Association $50, Nevada City $25. Pomona Association $10, Sonoma County $20.50, and the Legislative Committee of your Board of Directors had collected in San Francisco $266.65.

CLARK G. WAKEFIELD.
President of the Stockton Retail Grocers' Association.

Annual Financial Report.

During the last few months the Board of Directors gave me the assistance of H. W. Thurlow to carry on the detail work of the office, which was done in an able manner.

We collected over fifty different accounts during the year, and in almost every instance the grocers would not have been able to secure collection of the same if it had not been for the assistance of this office.

I wish to thank all the secretaries of the affiliating associations for their co-operation and support given to my office at all times and also the Board of Directors for their advice and assistance.

Too much praise cannot be accorded Mr. Pearson for his earnest and conscientious efforts as president. Though absent from San Francisco, a three hours' trip, he attended numerous meetings of the Directors, thus sacrificing time and incurring an expense that, I think, should be made up to him.

State Organizer Aaron Powers presented the following report:

REPORT OF STATE ORGANIZER.
Aaron H. Powers.

Gentlemen: The work of your organizer has been deflected into other chanels this year.

We were instrumental in getting the merchants of San Mateo into line. We have helped the grocers of San Jose to new courage and renewed efforts.

Through the Advocate the grocers of Placerville were assisted to realize the possibilities of co-operative effort and brought into the sisterhood of association

The efforts of your organizer in the latter part of 1904 were devoted to awakening the different organizations to the necessity of acting together to secure the co-operation of the men who were sent to the Legislature and for the first three months of 1905 it was securing the results at Sacramento that occupied most of our attention. These results speak for themselves. In the words of the popular song, "Every little bit helps," we feel that Mr. Paulding and Mr. Connolly will assure you "the little bit" that was done by your organizer, and the Advocate helped materially in securing the results we all desired so earnestly.

We have been given to understand that the San Francisco Association is now prepared to direct its giant strength towards helping its members make more money for themselves by maintaining prices and thus make their organization capable of helping the Association of the interior. This will enable us, in good faith, to ask the interior organizations to co-operate with San Francisco to help the grocers of San Francisco protect themselves in their profits. We can then offer the grocers of the small communities in the interior in return the possibility of protecting themselves in their profits through the co-operation of the grocers in the other organized communities of the State, the chief of which would be San Francisco. This will lend a new impetus to organization work.

The Outlook Favorable.

We are pleased to say that Secretary Connolly has evolved a plan by which he feels certain that effective action can be secured in San Francisco. If this plan should be deemed practical and advisable by this Convention, and it should prove to be what practical business men think it should be, there will then be a splendid opportunity to awaken the interest of every retail grocer of the State in the California Retail Grocers and Merchants' Association as direct individual members and through their affiliating associations. We would then be able to quadruple our power before the time of our next Convention.

It is upon the decisions of this Convention that the possibility of the Grocers' Association for its Convention in 1906 depends. At the Convention in 1906 we will be required to measure our power in order that we may decide what we will demand from the Legislature of 1907. Our growth between now and the Convention of 1906 is going to decide what our successes are to be.

Under the circumstances, the work of organizing during the coming twelve months will be next in importance to that of the proper executive officer. The value of the organizer's work is lessened materially if all the results that are rendered possible by judicious and careful handling are not realized.

Must Help Local Secretaries.

Many Associations are organized merely to go to seed and die away if the State Association does not maintain an executive office of sufficient strength to keep up the interest of these affiliating Associations.

The State Association has a double chance now of maintaining such an executive office, since the receipts from dues will be double what they were in the past. It remains in the next twelve months to show whether the executive office can give a return equivalent to one dollar per year to each member of each affiliating Association. If they cannot, then the plans of the organization must be faulty and should be reconstructed.

Your organizer hopes that the officials chosen for the coming year will be strong, thoughtful men, all of whom will be enthusiastic and earnest and friendly to the cause of organized progress.

In conclusion your organizer wants to impress upon the delegates present that they can help him in his work by taking home a valuable report of the work done at this Convention. Each delegate should remember that his Association has sent him to this Convention to get ideas that will be of value to them in the further work of their organization, and that it is not enough for him to go home saying, "We had a fine time," but that each man should pick out of the discussions what will help his organization and report that to them.

As State Treasurer J. Salomon of San Francisco was not in attendance, his report was presentd by J. J. Hayes. Mr. Hayes announced that the itemized report of the treasurer coincided in every respect. The report was referred to the Finance Committee.

The convention then adjourned and the delegates and their ladies then marched to the boat, J. C. Freese, and steamed down the river to the wonderful Riverside Farm of Pierce Bros.

MONDAY AFTERNNON.

Delightful Excursion on the San Joaquin River to the Pierce Stock Farm.

Nothing more pleasing to the delegates could have been planned than the steamboat ride down the San Joaquin river to the Pierce Farm. The excursionists reached their destination after an hour's ride, and then sat down to a nice lunch spread under the great trees of the Pierce meadows, with the wonderful herd of Pierce's Holstein prize-winners grazing close at hand.

Stockton's most noted caterer prepared the feast and a corps of trained waiters attended to the wants of the guests. Genial Mr. Pierce himself passed from one to the other with a kind word to all and special greetings for the many he recognized. Messrs. W. H. Graham, H A. Wood and Sam'l Gray, representatives of Mr. Pierce in the sale of Money Weight scales, assisted him in receiving and making the grocers welcome.

Welcomed by Mr. Pierce.

After the hunger of the visitors had been appeased, President C. B. Pearson as toastmaster introduced Charles D. Pierce, who addressed his guests, bidding them welcome. Among other things Mr. Pierce said:

"The retail merchants of California are doubly welcome to Riverside Farm. My brother and myself owe much to the retail merchants of the State of California. It has been through their co-operation that we have been able to build up this splendid property.

"I hope that you will all come again. I want you to remember that when you do come, you will find that the Riverside Farm belongs to you."

Mr. Pierce explained that the ideas of himself and his brother was to establish the best herd of Holsteins in the world. The great need in California was for dairy cattle, and the success they had already attained in building up the quality of dairy cattle had proven very satisfactory. How far they had succeeded, he said, would be realized from the fact that of the seven world's records, three of them were held by the cattle raised on Riverside Farm. The fact that they were shipping cattle to New Zealand, Mexico and Central America showed that their success was being recognized in other countries.

J. R. Newberry of Los Angeles expressed the thought that there could be nothing more fitting than this close understanding between retail merchants and the manufacturer. It was to bring such an understanding about that the managers of the State Grocers' Association were directing their plans.

F. B. Fancher of Sacramento expressed his great pleasure at the excursion. He said it was very largely in order to learn what the trip had shown him that he had come to the convention. He said that North Dakota, the State from which he originally came, was a howling wilderness compared to California, but that the men of that State had added 60,000 to their population last year. He continued:

"If North Dakota had had one-half the advantages of climate, soil and market that Stockton possesses, they would have made that 600,000 instead of 60,000."

Mr. Fancher also insisted that instead of having about 1,500,000, the population of California should be at least ten millions.

Colvin B. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, kept the grocers interested while he told of the wonderful achievements of the Riverside Farm. He said that all over the world where blooded cows were known, the Pierce farm was famous, although it had been started scarcely more than five years ago. The details of what had been done by Mr. Pierce in building up the dairy interests of the State were listened to with the closest of attention.

C. D. PIERCE.

State Secretary Frank P. Connolly was here called upon to recite an original poem that he had been writing while the luncheon was in progress. He did so as follows.

A PICNIC POEM.

By Secretary Frank B. Connolly.

We sit at lunch, content and at ease,
In Nature's realm 'neath the willow trees,
And watch lowing cattle—they don't look fierce—
Raised and bred by our good friend Pierce.

We have heard of Maud. On a summer's day
She raked the meadows sweet with hay.
We read of the maid who at early morn
Went to milk the cow with the crumpled horn.

We have read other lays the poets sing,
Of "Juliana de Kol" and "Flowers of Spring,"
But the lays that enrapture us grocery men
Are of thoroughbred cows and the leghorn hen.

a story and he complied to the satisfaction of all concerned.

With rousing cheers for Mr. Pierce, the delegates then walked through the herd of Holsteins and down the Pierce meadows to the great milking stables, where they saw with surprise the wonderful system of cleanliness that had helped to bring about such splendid results.

They called on Juliana De Kol, the greatest cow on earth, who was sent in a special car to the St. Louis Exposition, and saw Jetze the $10,000 bull. They petted the calves and then visited the milking houses where they were treated with a new brand of buttermilk, which consisted principally of very rich milk with some sugar and a good strong "stick" in it.

The steamboat had proceeded up the river until it was abreast of the milking houses, and it was late in the afternoon when the delegates once more boarded the boat, with a vote of thanks and three cheers for their hospitable entertainer.

A trip was then made up the San Joaquin, which was greatly enjoyed by the delegates. During the entire trip J. Clark Blossom's orchestra discoursed sweet music.

The boat arrived at the Stockton water front in time to enable the delegates and their wives to go to the hotels and prepare for the evening session.

Monday Evening.

Jury's Hall was packed on Monday evening with delegates, their friends and ladies. The hall was specially decorated. The delegates gathered early but were gathered in small groups until about 9 o'clock, when State President Pearson called the meeting to order.

The program opened with a violin solo and the addresses were interspersed with beautiful and effective music, among the numbers being a tenor solo by L. Warnke of Alameda.

The first address was that of F. B. Fancher of Sacramento, who spoke eloquently about the value of associations to large dealers. He dwelt particularly upon the ethical part of the problem. Among other things he said:

F. B. Fancher's Address.

"Success in the world of art, science and statesmanship, and also in the grocery business, as well as in every other line of human endeavor, comes only as a result of persistent and determined effort. Effort is one of the necessities of successful growth. Placid growth does not count.

"The grocers of Sacramento were galvanized into usefulness by the efforts of one man. This man was H. R. Blair. He faced many discouragements, but by keeping everlastingly at at, got us into our organization.

"Prior to the effective combination brought about by Mr. Blair, there was war between the big men and the little men. Every man's hand was against his neighbor. With the formation of our organization all this was changed. Enemies became friends. Instead of trying to down each other, we stood together as one man in defense of the weakest member.

"As a result we have been able to register a profit in our business and not a loss, as we did in the past. Our efforts have been devoted to few of the leading staples, such as sugar, butter, eggs, ham, Fels-Naphtha soap, coal oil, gasoline, flour and mill stuffs. On these we get a fair profit, and the profit on these goods has made our various businesses pay.

Fighting Days Are Over.

"These results were not accomplished without effort. We have had fights with the wholesale commission men and with the wholesale grocers. And we have won them.

"We do not have to fight now. A mere request on our part is enough to secure for us what we desire.

"By far the greatest value to each member of the organization is the genuine feeling of friendship and good fellowship that has been engendered amongst us.

"There is this thought that I want you to take home with you. It is a thought that is frought with value. It is this: 'No real success can be achieved without good fellowship.'

"Stop and think of it. You will find many men who are pointed out as successful. It is questionable if their success is not merely apparent, however, if they have not achieved good fellowship with it."

The State Secretary here read a telegram of regrets received from Jos. A. Stulz of San Francisco. This was received with applause.

Mr. Connolly was then called upon and delivered a thoughtful address as to what might be expected in the future.

OUTLOOK FOR THE FUTURE.
By Frank B. Conolly.

The future of our Association depends upon the practicability of our plans and the effectiveness with which they are executed.

Business men expect and must be given full money return for a cash expenditure.

Our Association must have this in mind in its plans.

We want to bring about two great results through our State organization.

First, we want to give the member help he cannot get anywhere else.

Second, we want to keep the members so interested in the work that we can be sure of their co-operation to correct any trade abuse that may require associated action to secure its abatement.

Funds Absolutely Necessary.

To get such an organization, we must have funds.

It should be the work of this Convention to perfect such plans that the grocers of the State will not only be willing but eager to supply the funds.

Now let us face the situation and see where we can be of the most use.

Helping Individual Members.

In the first place, I am going to treat the individual member.

He should receive a communication at least once a month. This should be a report of work done and should include a list of bills submitted to the Association for collection.

Each time he gets a report, he should be asked his advice on some questions of trade importance for the guidance of the directors, or should be asked to tell whether he will back up certain action advised by the directors, how far he will go, and what he thinks of it. He should also get a blank for use in sending accounts to the State Secretary for collection.

Collecting Bad Bills.

Now, with regard to collections: I think each member should be supplied with stickers to put on statements of people that are slow in paying. In this way he may collect some accounts with our aid and not have to pay anything for it.

As soon as an account is received, I think the State office should send out a letter to the debtor, demanding payment. If the money is paid in consequence of this letter, the commission should be ten per cent.

If no returns are received within a reasonable time, the bill should be given to our attorneys for collection, and the member notified that such step had been taken and that the commission would be larger accordingly. At the same time, the debtor's name should be put in the Report of Delinquent Debtors.

In this way, I think, the greatest effectiveness can be secured for the organization's collection bureau.

Debtors That Move.

Another feature that would prove of great value would be machinery to induce the prompt reporting of debtors who move away leaving bills. The prompt reporting of such removals will often save grocers from extending credit to undeserving parties and will also assist in collecting the bill.

This department could be worked up by sending each member, each month, with the report, a double postal addressed to the secretary, arranged to make it easy for the member to supply the name of the debtor, the amount due, the age of the account and the debtor's occupation and last known address, etc.

Smaller Communities.

Now, as to the communities too small to be able to pay for the services of a special secretary, I would make this suggestion.

Each grocer in the town should, if posible, be induced to join the State Association as an individual member. Each one should get all the publications, reports, blanks and letters direct from the office the same as other individual members.

Helping Smaller Communities.

They should be brought together, and if there are only three of them, they should be organized into an association with a president, a secretary and a treasurer. Each month the secretary should get a special letter asking him to call the members together for a meeting to consider certain matters decided upon by the State Directors at their meeting earlier in the month. The secretary should also be asked to fill out a certain form that should be enclosed, in which certain questions dealing with trade problems should be asked This form should be in the shape of a report. I think it would be valuable to have it arranged something like the following:

Suggestion For Blank Form to be Mailed Each Month to Secretary California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

Gentlemen: Our regular monthly meeting was held on....., with the following results:

1. Wholesalers, manufacturers, etc., selling to hotels, etc., that grocers can supply to good advantage. (Complaints must be specified, giving the name of the wholesalers, the parties sold and all other particulars as to dates, etc., that can be gathered.)

.....
.....
.....

2. Wholesalers selling to consumers. (Give particulars as above.)

4. Goods on the protected price list that are being cut. (Give all particulars possible, and also state what steps have been taken by your members to have the cutting discontinued.)

.....
.....
.....

5. We would request that the State Association take up above matter, and also .....
.....
.....

(Signed) .....
Secretary.

The local secretary, after taking up with the members the special matter suggested in the State Directors' monthly letter, could then take up the form and ask the members for complaints, taking up one item at a time. This would make the meetings of value and interest and would intensify the possibilities for good of the State organization.

Will Help Local Lists.

As all the bills would be sent to the State secretary for collection, this office would be printing the Delinquent List for the little local without any extra cost to the members. The State secretary would be practically their secretary with a local assistant. As the matter of the secretary is the most important one the Association has to consider, this solves the chief problem of the small local and insures its permanent value.

The problem of the larger cities that have a paid secretary is also very important. They pay only $1 per year per capita tax for their members. If a comunication was mailed to each of their members once a month, the cost would approximate three cents, or thirty-six cents a year. This is too expensive a service under the circumstances.

The best result would come from sending to the local secretary the various stickers, reports, blanks, etc. This will enable him to bring some important matter to the attention of each of his members each month and would increase their interest in his work.

We could have the doube postal cards I have spoken of before addressed to the local secretaries for their members. In this way he would be getting in more accounts for his own collection bureau and the bills for the State Association to collect would all come in one report from the secretary.

Making "Black Lists" Possible.

Where an Association desires it, they should be allowed to print their Delinquent List in the State report for the cost of the work. This would make their Delinquent List more effective for the members.

It would also increase the value and interest of the report of other communities.

Maintaining Prices.

The matter of inducing the manufacturer to maintain the retail selling price of his goods, is one of the chief values we could get from the machinery thus created. By unity of action, secured by prompt and business-like attention on the part of the State secretary, cutting could be largely lessened. Protected goods could be encouraged and non-protected goods could be quietly shelved. When a wholesale grocer knows that if he insists on supplying a cutter protected in spite of the manufacturer's protest, that it will be known to every part of our machine, he will hesitate about putting himself into opposition to us.

The same will be true with regard to jobbers selling to consumers.

In every instance, manufacturers and wholesale grocers, etc., want to do business along the lines most satisfactory to the men from whom they expect to get their money (the retailer), because that is the easiest way to do it, and therefore the cheapest, and because it is the safest way since a dissatisfied customer is never a permanent customer. What we must do is to satisfy the trade that we know what we want and why we want it, and that we not only know how to get it, but, like the baby in the soap advertisement, we "We won't be happy till we get it."

Must Pay for Results.

This brings me to a very important part of my subject.

None of these things can be secured without a proper executive officer.

This means that you must pay a secretary a decent salary to get good work.

The grocers of the State have for years been getting a geed deal through charity.

When I first wrote this, I made it that they were getting much for nothing. This was not true. What they have received in the past they owed to the loyalty, enthusiasm, time and money, big American dollars, of a few men.

Advocate Has Helped.

First among these has been Mr. Powers, editor of the Advocate, who has devoted much thought, time and money to making our work possible, doing for us, without pay, work from which we are to-day drawing the benefits.

L. Warnke of Alameda also contributed largely by giving time to building up the Association, taking it from his business and never receiving any reward except gratuitous insults and slurs from a certain disreputable trade paper in San Francisco.

Joseph A. Stulz has given freely of his time and means to the State Association.

Your present secretary, during the past year, has given much time to association work. I have done it gladly because I foresaw important results. My work has been done without any pay.

But I see now, and warn you, that you must have a capable secretary, permanently employed, to be able to carry out your plans if they are to be made of value. You cannot get something for nothing, and you cannot get an effective association without you have some one to look out for the running of it.

Co-operation of Other States.

The California Association, to be of the greatest possible value, must have the co-operation of the Associations in Washington and Oregon, just as they must have our co-operation to be really successful in large matters. Since California has the most grocers and the most influence, this help is of greater proportionate value to us than to the others. The Pacific Coast Grocers' Association is really an amplification of the California State Association which is also of value to manufacturers who desire to have the retail selling price of their goods maintained, and, therefore, the manufacturers are willing to help us in its support. It is going to be necessary for us to sustain that organization in order for us to insure our success with both manufacturers and wholesalers, since, with its machinery, we will be able to influence every jobbing center, without exception, on the Pacific Coast; while without it, we would find each jobbing center giving as an excuse for not co-operating with us, their fear that the merchants of some other jobbing center would take advantage of their compliance with our plans in order to steal business.

Properly managed, on a sane business basis—which means payment for work done—this organization can be made to be worth thousands of dollars to its members every month.

Mr. Connolly's address was warmly applauded, especially in its extemporaneous and witty conclusion.

The next speaker was H. Hauch of Alameda, who told of the necessity of getting a fair margin on sales in an address that he prefaced with a brief introduction deprecating his appearance after the eloquence of Mr. Fancher and the witty remarks with which Mr. Connolly illumined the conclusion of his paper. Mr. Hauch said:

ACTUAL PROFITS.

The topic of "Actual Profits" on which it is my pleasure to speak to you this evening is really the very basic one which underlies all forms of industrial or commercial association or co-operation.

It is the one idea that is responsible for the fact that to-day, in most of our important cities or towns of the State and of the nation, grocers and tradesmen of all branches of commercial and industrial pursuits are joining with their fellows in efforts to strengthen and advance their interests as bodies, in recognition of the absolute truth of the old proverb, "Unity Is Strength and Power."

It is the recognition of this fact that primarily brought together men competing with one another in the same line of trade. These men formerly looked upon one another as deadly enemies—which, in fact, they were, as long as each one was pursuing a purely egotistical policy. They are now able to discuss matters of common interest to their respective vocations. This bringing together of men that used to look upon one another as natural antagonists, and to show towards one another but scant consideration and courtesy, quickly dispelled the pre-conceived notions of the innate depravity and general worthlessness of those with whom we happened to be in the relation of competitive struggle. It proved, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that really, there were others in the trade who were quite decent and reasonable men, and that, in fact, most of those upon whom we had been in the habit of looking askance were thinking the same thoughts and subject to the same worries and perplexities of which we, ourselves, were a prey as far as the general problems of our particular trade were concerned.

Association Brings Fellowship.

The recognition of these facts has actually revolutionized the personal relationship between the individuals engaged along similar lines of making a living. To-day, when we meet in our associations, we meet as friends, with a hearty handshake and a kindly word. We come together frankly, consulting one another, asking advice and giving advice in all maters where our interests are identical.

We join with one another to bring about results favorable to all our fellows, utterly regardless of the fact that Mr. Jones or Mr. Brown, who is doing business on the same street or maybe in the same block as you are, is going to benefit equally and, possibly, even more than you by some action proposed. In other words, we are fast learning the lesson of solidarity and the science of co-operation.

Well it is that such is the case, because around these ideas are clustered the progress of mankind in all phases of existence.

Man in general is beginning to perceive more clearly that he is more than a mere individual; that, as a member of society, he is also a part of a vast organism called civilization. He is perceiving, too, that this very civilization is the social high water mark of the idea of co-operative action and that any activity that makes for a still greater realization of this principle makes for progress and emancipation.

How Expense Has Grown.

The subject which I desire to present for your consideration this evening was suggested by a few remarks made by me at a banquet given in the honor of our mutual friend, Mr. J. H. Newberry of Los Angeles, a short time ago. In these remarks I called attention to some of the serious facts that are confronting every one of us wherever we are located and which will demand our very best consideration, both individually and collectively. Among other things I called attention to the fact that during the past few years the demands made upon the grocer in regard to efficient service have vastly increased, adding continually new items of expense to an account already overburdened when compared with the generally prevailing margins of profit obtainable in the business. Of the almost innumerable items that will occur to your mind in this connection, I will mention but a few in order to illustrate and make clear my point.

Cost of Delivery.

The item of greatest importance is that of delivery.

I suppose there are quite a number present this evening who remember the time when delivery was limited to one trip a day on any one grocery route, sometimes even to one trip every second day. Housekeepers kept on hand a fair stock of provisions and were not dependent on the arrival of the grocery delivery clerk for their material for the next meal.

Gradually the demands on the delivery department of the grocery store have been increased, until today it is the very nightmare of the average grocer. This development demanded the services of more clerks, caused the need for more horses and wagons, largely increasing the length and amount of the feed bill and of the blacksmith bill. If we are to judge by our current expenses, it appears as though there is practically no limit to what the public feels justified in demanding along this line.

Telephones and Delivery.

The next item to which I desire to call your attention is that of the modern telephone service, a feature that is closely connected with and responsible for much of the trouble mentioned previously, that of delivery. The extension of the use of the telephone, great as are the advantages in many ways, has made it necessary in most stores doing a fair amount of business, to have a special employe to take charge of this feature of the business.

Of the annoyances connected with this institution I will only call to your mind the woman, familiar to all of us, who calls us up when we are ready to close up shop and go home, and after all our wagons have gone to the stable, who informs us that she ordered butter right after lunch and that she has not received it as yet. In plain English, she tells us that we are a very negligent lot of people and that she will just quit us if we don't get that butter down there in a hurry. Looking up the order, we generally find that it was given at a late hour in the afternoon, after the hour at which it is understood the regular deliveries are closed, and that we simply have been made to suffer because she neglected to order in time. It is, of course, useless to try to convince the lady tha the order was received at 4 p. m. instead of at 1:30. If we do, we will surely have trouble of a very aggravated character on our hands. The telephone feature is more and more necessitating an auxiliary system of quick special delivery, again causing an additional item of expense of some magnitude.

Some More Expense Items.

Instead of the kerosene lamp of yore we now have the electric light, of which a continually increasing number is required to keep at all up with the times. Generally we run up against a full fledged monopoly whose only interest is to furnish abundant dividends to its stockholders and whose charges are made with this and no other purpose in view.

To be in the "Swim," if a slang expression may be permitted, you are expected to be up-to-date with modern fixtures, immaculately kept; to invest in every new implement that makes its appearance; to indulge in the luxury of expert solicitors for soliciting your route trade—generally but a poor improvement over the general clerk that used to officiate in this capacity; and so on, and so on. You know the story only too well.

Let it not be understood that I am in the least opposed to this development within our business.

I am not.

On the contrary, I take it for granted that we all agree that more and again more perfected stores are absolutely desirable and besides has a tendency to place our vocation on a far higher level than has been the case in the past.

I favor these improvements.

Margin of Profit Decreases.

But there is another side to it which it is time that we take into serious account. This is, that while all this improvement in the manner of doing our business has been going on, the margins of profit obtainable in our business not only have not been on the increase but actually have been on the decrease during this very period.

It has generally been taken for granted that 20 per cent gross profit was about the right margin to figure on in our line of business and that this was a legitimate compensation for the service rendered by the grocer. This margin was, indeed, quite satisfactory while the demands for service were less exacting, when less was expected of the grocer than is the case now. As long as the expense of doing business could be kept down to about 10 per cent, there would still be left a reasonable compensation for the owner of a store even after deducting the interest of the capital invested in the business. As the demands for service increased, so also increased the expense account, until to-day the average cost of doing business has risen to from 13 per cent to 15 per cent. Even a safe margin of 20 per cent would, under present circumstances, be at best a very poor compensation for the enormous amount of labor and the high grade of intelligence demanded from a person in control of a modern grocery establishment.

Speaking on the whole, we have not been able to maintain this margin of 20 per cent. During seasons of fierce competition, from 3 to 5 per cent has often been lopped off. This has usually resulted in the removal from active business life of the most indiscriminate of the individuals engaged in the fray.

Factors in the Cutting Problem.

But the decrease in the gross profits is by no means altogether to be attributed to the cutting propensities of individuals in the business. This, in fact, has simply been a contributing factor not the main one.

To my mind the most potent factor has been the so generally prevailing tendency to get away from handling goods in bulk and to substitute proprietary brands of package goods on which the manufacturer generally allows but the scantest margin for the grocer's part in the scheme of distribution. It is more and more becoming a fact that the packers of new brands of old goods do not condescend to ask the grocer if he will handle his product or not. The new way is to go direct to the consumer and, by fair means or foul—and very often foul—try to induce him to give an order on the grocer with whom he trades. When a sufficient number of these orders have been procured, they then go to the grocer, and often bulldoze him into giving an order for the stuff for which he really has no use at all, threatening that if he does not fill these orders from his own customers, they will be turned over to some competitor who will be only too glad to thus get an opportunity to get at his trade.

Forcing the Retail Dealer.

Generally the grocer can't stand for this kind of an argument. The more a manufacturer relies on the power of his methods of advertising for creating a market for his product, the less he is generally inclined to allow the retailer for the final distribution.

We are all familiar with the drummer who represents some article of the order referred to who tries hard to convince you that the margin on his stuff is all right. "It gives you a profit of 20 per cent, sir," is generally the story he tries to tell you.

If you look into the matter you will always find that his 20 per cent is figured out by basing the profit margin on the original cost of the goods. That, again, means that the real gross margin is actually 16 2-3 per cent, or just about enough to pay for the actual expenses of handling, leaving for the grocer the glory and satisfaction to be working hard for Mr. John Doe, et al, as a competent clerk without pay.

Let us stop right here and look over some of the margins offered us on some of these brands of goods which have been forced on us through various forms of advertising and also on some of the main staples of the business. I will base my figures on the presumption that 13 per cent is the average cost of handling goods.

Sugar is handled on a margin of from 5 to 10 per cent gross profit, leaving a net loss of from 3 to 8 per cent.

Flour—Sperry's, Port Costa, Crown, etc.—cost, $4.80; brings $5.20; gross profit, 8 per cent; loss, 5 per cent.

Fels-Naphtha soap, cost, $4.40; brings $5 loss, 1 per cent.

H O mush, cost, $3.15; brings $3.60; gross profit, 12 per cent; loss, 1 per cent.

Eagle milk, cost, $6.35; bring $7.20; gross profit, 10 per cent; loss, 3 per cent.

Rose milk, cost $4.35; bring $4.80; gross profit 10 per cent; loss, 3 per cent.

Force, cost, $4.25; brings $4.50; gross profit, 5 per cent; loss, 8 per cent.

Grapenuts, cost, $4.25; bring $1.50; gross profit, 10 per cent; loss, 3 per cent.

Retailers Should Be Paid.

These are only a few of the goods on which you are actually out money for the privilege of handling them. The total list is a long one and it is growing longer all the time.

Is it not about time for the collective grocer to demand of "Mr. Manufacturer" that he, at least, pay for the actual cost of distributing his product?

This development of short profit package goods is an evil of dangerous proportions which the retailer will have to meet and to solve in such a manner that his own immediate interests are properly safeguarded.

If you make your associations strong enough you may be able to compel the packers to negre your way when he is considering the retailers' margin. Or you may band together and refuse to fill his orders taken from the trade and often obtained under misrepresentations. Or you may be driven to put up your own brands under your own label.

Whatever the remedy eventually may prove to be it is certainly time that we began collectively to seriously consider these matters and to show that we are keenly alive to the seriousness of the situation and are ready to apply some remedy

Dealers in Hard Straits.

Taking as correct the figures of from 12 to 15 per cent as the average cost of doing business, and estimating the average gross margins realized to be about 15 per cent, it is clear to any one that the actual profits are not nearly adequate. By "actual profits" I mean the surplus left after all charges of all kind have been discharged. This includes interest on invested capital, depreciation of fixtures and allowance for bad accounts. When these are included, the clear surplus realized from a moderate sized business is generally a very fine giltedged item and a poor compensation for the arduous labors of the grocer.

It is generally acknowledged that no man in trade today is as poorly compensated for his services as is the grocer. This being so, and as there is no reason why the grocer should not be able to command an adequate compensation for his services to the community, it behooves us to bestir ourselves and to so thoroughly organize our trade that we can command where now we supplicate.

It is for you to make your own conditions largely.

Remember that the community will take you at your own valuation of yourself individually and collectively.

If you persist in considering yourself cheap and insignificant, the community will assent to your estimate. If, on the other hand, you place a proper valuation on yourself and your services, to which you are justly entitled, the same community will fall right in line. Your valuation will be changed accordingly so as to conform to your own estimate of yourself.

"I think I can see the dawn of a new day. Look over the body of men represented in this Association and consider the influence behind them. Recall the fact that each earnest man here is manifolded in his home town many times. Each man here represents large numbers. That so many men of similar interests can be brought together in person and through proxies shows that there is a dawning of a new day when the grocer can live as a man should and give proper care to his family without neglecting his business."

Mr. Newberry followed with a very interesting article upon the "Business Side of Organization" Among other things he said:

J. R. Newberry's Address.

"The business side of a man's life is usually the money side. In other words, it is the profit side. It is only because it can help the profit side that the organization can hope to permanently hold the attention of business men.

"I want to say again what I have called attention to many times.

"Statistics have shown that about 3 men out of every 100 who enter the grocery business make a success of it; 20 more make a bare living; the remaining 77 are absolute failures.

This is not guess work. These figures are the results of careful computation made by Dunn's and Bradstreet's agencies.

Preliminary Foundation Building.

"On the farm in early days it was necessary for us to do considerable 'swamping.' This meant the clearing away of the heavy undergrowth. We would lay out a piece of ground and then cross-section it and go over it carefully.

"This is what we have been doing for a long time with our associations. Meetings like this are object-lessons to show us how many men are prepared to do their share of the heavy preliminary work.

"Our object is to make better men and make better women of those connected with the grocery business.

Grocers Build the Trusts.

"When one looks at the great monopolies and stops to think where they come from, we have to admit that the retail dealers of the land are responsible for their existence. Monopolies are good in their way, but they should be made to pay their way.

"Theodore Roosevelt has said every man shall have a square deal.

"Are the retail grocers getting a square deal from the big monopolies?

"No, sir.

"The Sugar Trust and the Rockefeller interests are piling up more money every day, very largely because the retail dealers of the land are working like slaves and distributing their product among consumers absolutely without any payment. This condition has been forced upon them in the past, and they have submitted to it. Though they have made many complaints, they have made no effective resistance.

Knowledge Essential for Success.

"Honesty can only result where industry is employed with knowledge. There are men who are struggling against conditions who do not know how to apply their strength. This lack of knowledge makes them dishonest in spite of their industry.

"These struggling merchants need help. It is and always will be the purpose of the State Grocers' and Merchants' Association to see that they get it. Our banner should be inscribed with Roosevelt's slogan 'A square deal for the grocerymen.'

"To-day there are on the Pacific Coast about 10,000 retail grocers who are quoted by Dunn and Bradstreet as being worth more than $1,500. This great army of men want a fair reward for their services in distributing the food products of the country, and on the money they have invested. They are not getting these results now, in many instances. This is largely because they face competition that they do not understand how to contend with.

"There are two kinds of competition that are essentially hurtful.

"The first is ignorant competition.

"The second is malicious competition.

"We have got to do away with both these classes of competition.

"It shall be our purpose to give every man in the retail grocery business as much knowledge as we have ourselves. We ought to give them the best, and we will then secure satisfactory results, since we will have wiped out the undesirable competition that comes through ignorance.

"Through the knowledge thus generally distributed, we will be able to circumscribe the power to hurt of those that are merely malicious."

The various addresses were interspersed with musical selections. Among them was a tenor solo by L. Warnke of Alameda, who was forced to respond with an encore.

Tuesday Morning, August 22.

It was not till nearly 10 o'clock that President Pearson called the meeting to order on Tuesday morning.

The Finance Committee reported that the Treasurer's report was correct and it was accepted and ordered placed on the file.

Secretary Connolly then read interesting letters from National President John A. Green and Chas. R. Lott, past president of the National Association that will appear in subsequent issues.

He then read the following letter from Past President Joseph A. Stulz:

Mr. Stulz Expresses Interest.

California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

Gentlemen: The serious illness of a near relative, who may at any moment pass away, makes it impossible for me to participate in your Convention this year. I am certain that you will understand how thoroughly my heart is with you in this work, and will not need any assurance on my part that whatever I may be called on to do, will be attended to as well as circumstances and my poor abilities will allow.

When I assisted in issuing the call for your first meeting in 1900, I little thought that our organization would achieve the splendid results and influence that have come to it.

And yet, in my judgment, I think that our greatest success has been in learning the possibilities that are at our hand and the methods that must be employed to secure the results we need the most. The future promises us much more than the past.

As pioneers in a new field we have had to find trails through unfamliar territory. This experimental work was based on theory. But every experiment has taught us new facts and to-day we have a foundation of knowledge that will serve for a splendid structure of results with the strong, earnest association men of California as builders.

With best wishes for a valuable Convention and a pleasant reumon, I remain,

Letters in regard to the coffee peddler problem were read as follows:

M. J. Brandenstein's Ideas.

San Francisco, Aug. 18, 1905.

Mr. Frank B. Connolly, Addressed.

Dear Sir: In regard to the "tea and coffee peddlers who are causing so much trouble to the retail grocers by taking away so much of their trade. I would reiterate to you that in my opinion there is only one sound remedy for this, and that is by appealing to the consumer on a good, sound, common business basis; and how can this be done better than by giving the consumer such extraordinary good values in teas and coffees that the peddler will be "knocked out"?

If the dealer who is selling teas would only take the trouble to examine them and buy the teas on their cup merit, showing samples to the consumers and requesting that they try the teas, the superiority of "fine" tea over the common teas which the peddlers are selling would be so apparent to the consumers that the dealer would make firm friends of them. The same hold good in coffees. The peddler can certainly not exist unless he makes a large profit on teas and coffees—such a large profit that it is not a legitimate one.

The trouble with most dealers is that they want to make this large profit that the peddler is making, and still hold the trade.

Now if they will only consider that in order to hold their trade they must buy only the first crop early picked teas, of the finest varieties, and seeing that they come from the best districts of the various countries of production (for instance, from the Enshu and other fancy districts of Japan; from the Kee-Min district of China; from Darjeeling district in India; and the fine teas from Formosa, etc.), they will hold their trade.

By selling these fine teas to the consumers they are "educating" them to that point that when anyone brings them a poor tea, or a poor coffee, they will know it immediately and throw same aside. If the consumer is once educated to drinking something "fine," he will not stand for anything "poor."

On the contrary, if the consumer is used to drinking something poor, and you give him something better, he is not so apt to notice the difference. It is on the same principle as a man used to smoking a fine cigar, or drinking a very fine wine or whisky; if you bring him anything poor, he will throw it aside; on the other hand, a man used to smoking or drinking something poor does not appreciate "something fine" when it is given him.

That is the reason why the consumer has been so easily fooled on teas and coffees by the peddlers.

The retailer should do his business in teas and coffees the same as what they do in other countries where the consumer is better educated.

For instance, take England—the average consumer knows what a "poor" cup of tea is, and the dealer is therefore obliged to learn the tea business.

I claim, and claim it on a basis of good, sound common sense, that if the dealer will learn his business and study teas and coffees, and get something good by paying the proper prices, he can knock out all this peddling business, because the consumer will not be satisfied with the poor goods of the peddler.

I claim, further, that the dealer should not pay less than 35 cents for a tea that he retails for 50 cents, and coffees on the same basis.

By educating the consumer, and by the dealer becoming educated himself and knowing his tea and coffee business thoroughly, he will soon be doing a larger business.

I don ot care what line of business a man takes up—if he will make a study of it and go into it thoroughly, he will "beat out" his competitor on that line.

It is not hard to learn the tea and coffee business, and I say to any dealer that inside of a few hours spent with any importer or expert, in a month's time he can master the main points in connection with it.

The firm of M. J. Brandenstein stands ready at all times to devote its time and its men's time, to the drawing and testing of teas in order to educate the dealers in the business. Our whole business is open to the retailer's inspection, that is, the methods of blending coffees, the handling of teas, etc., and if any dealer wants he can spend as much time as he wants in our place to learn the business. We shall only be too glad to instruct the dealers in the business if they so desire.

We do not ask that they trade with us for doing this, but simply that they will get to "learn" the business, build it up, and take it out of the hands of the peddler. I feel assured that the tea and coffee business can be taken out of the hands of the peddler if the dealer will go at it thoroughly, systematically, and in the maner I have outlined.

Respectfully,

M. J. Brandenstein.

Hills Bros.' Advise.

San Francisco, Aug. 19, 1905.

Mr. Frank B. Connolly, Secretary State Grocers' Association, City.

Dear Sir: Referring to our recent conversation with you wherein we discussed the peddler nuisance, will state that this subject is a vital one with us.

Relying as we do upon the legitimate retail grocers of the Coast for an outlet for our coffees, anything that tends to reduce the coffee trade of the grocer tends very materially to restrict our field It is our opinion that the retail grocers are up against a very stubborn fact. The coffee peddler is here and he is a very active and exceedingly wide-awake competitor.

The remedy for this lies with the grocer, and we do not believe that anyone can do more than help him. It is for him to decide whether he will remain quiet and allow his coffee trade to be taken from him little by little until it is all gone; or whether he will by his own efforts, not only retain the trade he has at present, but little by little win back the trade which has been taken from him.

As coffee is only one of the many items which the grocer handles, he surely can afford to sell it at a smaller profit per pound than the peddler, who has to support himself, family, horse and wagon, all from a coffee business which is necessarily small. The grocer can buy his coffee often and keep it fresh; he can buy good coffee and in point of purchasing ability, stand on equality with the peddler. He is in a position to work, and he must do as the peddler does—personally interview each and every customer and see that all of those who buy groceries from him also buy their coffees.

There are many ways in which a storekeeper has an opportunity to attract coffee trade, which the peddler has not. The grocer to-day, who expects to make money on what should be the most interesting and profitable part of his business, must give his attention to it. If every grocer on the Coast were to get in and work for twelve months with only one-half the steam and energy which the peddler is exerting to-day, we venture to assume that at the end of one year every peddler would be starved out of existence.

Our sympathies have always been with the grocer, and to you, Mr. Connolly, and the retail grocers who have assembled in Convention, we say that if there is anything we can do to promote the efforts of the retail grocers, we ask you to call upon us for our support.

Very truly yours.

San Francisco's Outlook.

J. P. McGuire spoke for San Francisco as follows:

San Francisco Conditions.

We have in San Francisco the largest affiliating association of the State. You have been told by certain people that the interests of the San Francisco grocers are not the same as yours.

This is wrong. Our interests are identical in many respects.

Conditions are entirely different in many towns and must be treated in different ways. In our city we have more large grocers than others cities. We have more middle class dealers and more who are interested in the liquor business.

You have been told that the liquor interests are paramount among the San Francisco grocers. This is not so. They would much rather conduct their grocery departments with a reasonable profit to themselves.

While we face a serious problem in the demand now being made that we should pay an exorbitant liquor license, yet our people are heart and soul in earnest in desiring to have the State Association successful and to have it useful to the dealers of outside towns as well as to ourselves.

The management of the State Association should exert itself to create a better feeling with the local organization. I will do my part to help bring this about.

I look for assistance in this from our friend Mr. Powers of the Advocate. He is a very bright and clever man. I think that an abler man for his line of work could not be found. Now if he will agree to lend his good offices to this work of conciliation during the next year, I will do the same.

As I will have to speak again soon as chairman of the Committee on Constitution and By-Laws, in which some of my ideas have been expressed, I will cut my report short. I want to tell you though, that the picnic of the San Francisco Retail Grocers is a splendid institution not only for strengthening our financial, but also for creating more sociability and bringing about a better feeling among the members.

Los Angeles is Proud.

J. R. Newberry spoke for Los Angeles as follows:

Southern California Boasts.

J. R. Newberry of Los Angeles spoke as follows:

Our Los Angeles Association has been exceptionally prosperous during the past 12 months. As a matter of fact, we have become quite swelled up and thought we were the whole thing. I am glad on attending this convention to find that there are other men who are doing things too.

We are interested in your success in the north. We were so interested that we loaned you our secretary for several months and were glad to get him back again.

We have had to make all our progress for ourselves and overcome obstacles by the might of our own influence, made powerful through organization. It is a mighty good thing for us that this is so. We would never have learned our power if we had not been forced to use it.

Now, we are getting along nicely with our jobbers, although it was not until last January that we received any sort of encouragement from them.

Opportunity of the Jobbers.

It is surprising to me that the jobbers did not take hold of this movement in the very beginning and guide it with a strong hand in channels to advance their own interests. There has never been a time when the jobbers could not use the wonderful power of the retailers to good advantage if they only knew how. But instead of helping, most of them interfered. Instead of leading, even the most sympathetic only wished us good luck as we staggered along under our burden before we had learned how to so adjust our burden that we could carry it almost without an effort.

But now that is all past. After four months spent in influencing each manufacturer to make a retail selling price on his goods, the jobbers realized what a good work we were doing for them when we were helping ourselves. So they sent us a letter, which they all signed, in which they said that they considered the work we had in hand was a good thing and that they would help it along. That when a manufacturer fixed a retail selling price on his goods that they would strive to see that their customers maintained that price and that they would co-operate with the manufacturer in order to help keep the goods from cutters who would not be good. They have kept their word in a way and they have failed in a way. But we have gone on with our own work and now there are eighty-four manufacturers who are with us and there are 146 articles on the list which the manufacturers have agreed not to sell to cutters either directly or indirectly.

Southern Jobbers Awakened.

This a splendid thing in theory.

But no chain is stronger than its weakest link. The jobber is our weak link. He has now agreed to back the manufacturer who protects his retail selling price and with this link strengthened we find it much easier to secure the results we desire.

In the beginning we had to act without the help of a number of large dealers. In the past eighteen months we have grown so strong that of the 875 grocers in Southern California there are only two men that dare to hold out and plan against us.

We have had the same trouble in Southern California as the grocers in San Francisco. We have threshed it out and have won our battles.

The law of trade must be the law of common sense.

We think we have some rights. We in Southern California propose to bring the matter before the highest court in the United States to have those rights passed on.

The constitution gives each man the right to enjoy and use his property. We want to find out whether some malicious competitor has the right to destroy the value of our property merely because his hand is against the law.

Two Bad Competitors.

There are two kinds of competitors with whom it is difficult to deal: They are the unintelligent and ignorant man, and the malicious man.

The unintelligent and ignorant can be educated through associations and made to realize the folly of their way.

The malicious man, on the other hand, is an anarchist. He is against the law. I want to say that such a man has no right under the starry flag of this country.

By educating the unintelligent man and securing his co-operation, the rest of the grocers, with the assistance of the jobbers, can force the malicious man to obey the law of common sense and right.

We need the jobber.

But we don't need him quite so badly as he needs us.

There is an axiom that the creature cannot be greater than the Creator. The retail dealers are the creators of the jobbers, and it is easy to understand that what they create they can control and alter if the creature proves useless or a menace.

If the jobbers have not loaned you their assistance in the past, it is your own fault.

Association Brings Prosperity.

The progress of our Association in Southern California has been phenomenal. Our jobbers report that the retail trade is in the most prosperous condition since they have been doing business in Southern California. Not only the retailers have made more money, but the jobbers have made more money.

The San Francisco jobbers have had the hardest season they ever had before. They deserve it.

I want to say that the jobbers of San Francisco and Portland do not treat their retail dealers as well as you do your horses. You feed your horse. If he does not know where you have put his feed, you lead him to it and take the cover off and show it to him, if it's necessary.

Do the jobbers do that to you?

They don't give a ——.

The jobbers could afford to spend $5000 per month to lead you and show you the way. If they should do this, inside of thirty days the matter of cutting prices among retail grocers would be a thing of the past. And the jobbers themselves would be making enormously greater profits than they are now.

Must Ask For Rights.

You will get the assistance of the jobbers, but not until you are prepared to ask for it.

At a meeting of the grocers I attended in Tacoma every jobber in the city was present. A Mr. Hyde, one of the jobbers, asked for the particulars of the plan on which we were working in Southern California. I explained the plan. When I got through, he said:

"That plan is right. You put me on a committee to see the manufacturers, and I will co-operate with your Retail Grocers' Association and will work as hard as I can."

In Seattle I met Mr. Goldsmith, of Schwabacher & Co. He is another big man who is broad enough between the eyes. Mr. Goldsmith said:

"Send me up a list of the goods that are being maintained in Southern California, and I will use my influence and the influence of my firm to see that they are supported in this city."

Portland is Unfortunate.

The Portland jobbers are a bad lot. When I was up there, I was told that while they might be pretty bad, the San Francisco jobbers were a great deal worse. I called their attention to the passage in the Scripture that says a man is responsible only in proportion as the light is put before him. I had shown the jobbers of Portland where they could help the retailers, and I had never done this for the San Francisco jobbers.

In Southern California we are blessed with a good secretary.

You will see that wherever there is a good, active first-class secretary the Association gets cohesive and there is a fair distribution of the burden among the members, and they are able to help themselves and get help from their jobbers.

If the San Francisco grocers would only reach out their hands and take advantage of the assistance the outside Association are ready and would be glad to give, they could have the most powerful Association in the country.

You can't get anything you don't reach for. Where there is disruption and graft there can be no results.

In Southern California the entire grocery trade (with the exception of two men in Los Angeles) are working together.

In spite of the splendid results we have accomplished we are still selling sugar and coal oil at a price that means a loss when the cost of doing business is taken into consideration. The men who want to pay 100 cents on the dollar must transfer the cost of handling these goods to something else. It is a bad thing to get into such a habit.

It is a foolish thing for business men to handle the products of the sugar magnates or Rockefeller's oil for nothing.

It is because the grocers do these things that they have got into the habit of putting too heavy a profit on tea and coffee. The result is that their tea and coffee trade is being taken away from them by the exclusive tea and coffee houses.

I want to say that these tea and coffee houses are entitled to the trade. They do not handle sugar and coal oil for nothing. This means that they do not make tea and coffee carry the expense of handling something else.

Constitution and By-Laws.

As the consideration of the "Constitution and By-Laws" was set for 11 o'clock, Mr. McGuire, chairman of that committee, was called upon to report. Much spirited discussion ensued over the various sections. The constitution was finally adopted as follows by the noon recess:

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I.—NAME.

The name of this Association shall be The California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

ARTICLE II.—PURPOSES.

The purpose of this Association shall be to foster and maintain a better social feeling among the retail merchants of California, and inspire confidence among the members of the trade;

To better the State commercial laws:

To correct excessive and unmercantile competition;

To remove by concert of action such evils and customs as are against good policy and sound business principles, whether it be cutting of prices, selling by wholesale houses at retail, improper house to house peddling, the distribution and consumption of adulterated and unwholesome goods, the use of fictitious labels, dishonest advertising, the use of dishonest weights and measures, or whatesoever the evil may be;

To discountenance all gift schemes and giving of premiums; and

To attain the results which experience has proved are not attainable by individual or divided effort.

ARTICLE III.—MEMBERSHIP.

Any organization of retail merchants or any grocer or other person carrying on business as a dealer in the necessaries of life in the State of California, will be eligible for membership in this Association, providing, that no individual member will be accepted from a town in which there is an affiliating Association.

Sec. 2.—Honorary Members.—Persons may be made honorary members by a two-thirds vote of delegates present at any annual convention. Honorary members shall pay no dues. They shall be permitted all the privileges of the floor but shall not have the right to vote.

ARTICLE IV.—DUES.

Sec. 1.—The fee of affiliating associations shall be fixed at each annual convention at such sum for each member as the convention may direct.

President, Treasurer, Corresponding Secretary and five Directors

Sec. 2. The fee of individual members shall be three dollars per year.

Sec. 3. Each local Association that may be formed under the auspices of this Association shall pay to the Association two dollars and fifty cents for a charter and copies of constitution and by-laws, and their per capita tax for the ensuing year.

ARTICLE V.—OFFICERS.

Section 1. The elective officers shall consist of a President, three Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, Corresponding Secretary and five Directors.

Sec. 2. These officers, together with the presidents of all affiliating Associations, who shall, ex-officio, be Vice-Presidents, shall constitute the Board of Directors.

Sec. 3. Five members shall constitute a quorum of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE VI.—ELECTIONS.

Section 1. Officers shall be nominated and elected at the regular annual convention and shall hold office for one year and until their successors have been elected and have qualified.

ARTICLE VII.—CONVENTIONS.

Section 1—Place. Conventions shall be held annually at such places as shall be fixed at the preceding convention.

Sec. 2—Time. The time for each convention shall be fixed by the Board of Directors at their pleasure.

Sec. 3—Delegates. (a) Individual members, whose dues may be paid, shall be entitled to vote, providing there be no more than two from any one community.

(b) Each affiliating organization shall be entitled to two delegates at large and the following representation: One delegate for each ten members or fraction thereof up to fifty, and one delegate for each additional fifty members or fraction thereof.

(c) Elective officers shall have all the rights and privileges of elected delegates and may be elected to office.

ARTICLE VIII.—FINANCES.

Section 1. All funds shall be received and recorded by the Secretary and transferred promptly to the Treasurer, who shall give a receipt therefor.

Sec. 2. The Treasurer shall disburse no moneys except on warrants drawn by the Secretary and signed by the President.

Sec. 3. No warrants shall be drawn on the Treasurer except by the order of the Board of Directors.

ARTICLE IX.—AMENDMENTS.

Any part of this Constitution can be repealed, altered, amended, suspended or annulled at any annual meeting when two-thirds of all the delegates present at such meeting vote in favor of such proposition.

Tuesday Afternoon.

Immediately after the noon recess, Mr. McGuire's report was again taken up and the following By-Laws were adopted after much spirited discussion.

BY-LAWS.

ARTICLE 1.—DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

Section 1. President. The President shall preside at all meetings of this Association and of the Board of Directors, he shall act as ex-officio member of all committees appointed and shall sign all warrants drawn on the Treasurer.

Sec. 2. Vice-Presidents. The Vice-Presidents shall, in the absence of the President, assume all the duties usually required of him. They shall serve in the order of their precedence.

Sec. 3. Treasurer. The Treasurer shall pay without delay, from the funds of the Association, warrants drawn on him by the Secretary when countersigned by the President. He shall give such bond as may be required by the Directors of this Association. Cost of securing such bond to be at the expense of the Association. He shall deliver to his successor in office all books and papers pertaining to his office.

Sec. 4. Secretary. (a) The Secretary shall keep accurate minutes of the transactions of the Association, solicit members and collect dues; also, keep the minutes of the various committees when requested; file all papers entrusted to him officially, unless otherwise ordered; issue all communications, notices and other correspondence not otherwise provided for; sign or attest, as the case may be, all certificates and reports issued by authority of the Association.

(b) He shall keep a register of all members of the Association, together with their accounts, and a regular set of books required for the proper conduct of the business.

(c) He shall countersign all orders drawn on the Treasurer over the President's signature.

(d) He shall give a bond, subject to the approval of the Board of Directors, to any amount that may be fixed by them. The cost of securing such bond to be at the expense of the Association.

(e) At the end of his official term, he shall deliver up to his successor in office all books, papers, moneys, or other property in his possession, belonging to the Association.

(f) He shall receive such compensation for his services as the Association may from time to time determine.

(g) He shall be the custodian of all properties of the Association.

Sec. 5. Board of Directors. (a) The Board of Directors shall assemble for regular meetings once each month at such time and place as shall be set by them at the next preceding regular monthly meeting, providing that the first regular monthly meeting of each new Board of Directors shall be held on the second Thursday of the month following their election.

(b) Special meetings shall be held at the call of the chair or on the written request of five (5) Directors. At special meetings only such business shall be transacted as is designated in the notice.

(c) Ample notice shall be sent to all members of the Board of Directors of the time and place of all meetings.

(d) The Board of Directors shall pass on all bills and no warrants shall be drawn on the Treasurer except for bills that they have ordered paid.

(e) The Board of Directors shall have power—

1. To form and carry out plans for organizing the merchants of interior cities.

2. To employ proper legal talent to draft laws that may be deemed desirable by the Association.

3. To employ a corresponding secretary and such other assistants for the Secretary as they may deem essential and fix their remuneration.

4. To take such other action as they may deem necessary that may not be in conflict with the requirements of this Constitution and By-Laws.

ARTICLE II.—EXPENSES.

Section 1. The actual expenses of the President, Secretary and Treasurer to all annual conventions shall be paid from the funds of this Association.

Sec. 2. Elective officers shall be allowed their railroad fares, both ways, for all meetings of the Board of Directors they may attend.

ARTICLE III.—COMMITTEES.

Section 1. The President shall, at the first meeting of the Board of Directors, appoint a Finance Committee, whose duty it shall be to audit all bills presented at monthly meetings and audit the books and the annual reports of the Treasurer and Secretary.

Sec. 2. Should any member of the Finance Committee be absent from a meeting, the acting president may appoint a member of the Board in his place for the time.

ARTICLE IV.—ABSENCES.

Section 1. Should an elective officer be absent from three consecutive regular monthly meetings of the Board of Directors he may be dropped from his position at the discretion of the Board of Directors and they shall have power to elect a successor.

Committees Make Reports.

The different committees were then called on for their reports. There was much discussion on many points. The resolutions finally adopted were as follows:

Pacific Coast Association.

J. R. Newberry presented the following resoltuions on Pacific Coast Grocers' Association:

Endorse Pacific Coast Idea.

Your Committee on Pacific Coast Association begs leave to report as follows:

Whereas, The retail grocers of California are at a disadvantage working alone, and we need the support of the jobbers and manufacturers of the other Pacific Coast State; and

Whereas, The co-operation of the retail grocers of Washington and Oregon is assured to the grocers of California through the Pacific Coast Association, Be it

Resolved, That the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association endorse the ideas of the founders of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association; and be it further

Resolved, That the California State Association will use its every endeavor to secure the co-operation of the affiliating Associations of California in carrying out the plans of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, and thus make association work more effective in Oregon and Washington, and, through the aid of those grocers, make association work more effective in California.

The Manufacturer Helped.

Whereas, The Pacific Coast Retail Grocers, by assisting in the maintainence of the selling prices of proprietary articles, thereby performs a very valuable service for the manufacturer of those goods, since, by so doing, the Association guarantees the continued popularity of the goods, Be it

Resolved, That the retail grocers of California feel that it is only right and proper and in the line of good business judgment for such manufacturers to assist in the maintainance of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association.

Jobbers' Cost Prices.

Whereas, After careful consideration, we find that the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association proposes to issue a letter-circular of all the articles purchased by the retail distributor and give, in detail, the absolute cost of the manufacturer or producer to the jobbing trade, we think that this action will be of great benefit to all the grocers of the State and the Pacific Coast.

Maintenance of Prices.

H. H. Hauch of Alameda presented the following resolutions from the Committee on Maintenance of Prices:

An Executive Committee.

Your committee recommends that in the larger communities, where membership consists of widely varying interests and in which there is much difference in the size of the stores of members, an executive committee should be formed of the largest men who are interested in maintaining prices and who would have special influence with manufacturers and wholesalers. These committees should be kept in touch by the State secretary, so that matters of grave importance could be called to their attention promptly and effective action secured thereby.

Each local secretary should keep the State secretary informed as to the names and address of members of the various executive committees, so that communications can be sent out direct from the State office should matters of wide importance require their co-operation.

Members of the executive committee should also be subject to meetings at the call of their local secretary for the consideration of matters of local interest. When the executive committee has reached a decision, it must notify all the members of the Association in circulars over the names of all members of the executive committee, and such decision must be submitted for approval at the next regular meeting of the local Association.

Credit to Cutters.

Whereas, The cost of conducting the grocery business has been continually increasing both through the necessity for stores of finer appearance, better delivery service and the putting in of high-class fixtures; and

Whereas, The merchant who intends to pay one hundred cents on the dollar must secure a fair margin of profit on all the goods he sells; and

Whereas, The few cutting stores of each city usually fail after a short career in which they have demoralized the prices of the conservative trade and taken from the conservative grocers many of their customers, Be it

Resolved, That this Association considers that the jobber who supplies such cutting firms goods on credit is guilty of an act that is prejudicial to our interests and unfriendly and unfair to the rest of their trade.

Fixing Retail Selling Price.

Whereas, The highest courts of the land have decided that the manufacturer may name the price which consumers shall pay for his article, and also has the right to refuse to sell to dealers, both retail and wholesale, who fail to maintain the prices he may fix, Be it

Resolved, That we consider it to the best interests of the grocery trade for the manufacturer to require from the trade agreements to maintain a certain fixed retail selling price upon his product satisfactory to the retailer, and also that he require of the jobbing trade that they refuse to supply retail firms that insist upon cutting his established prices.

Want Contracts Enforced.

Whereas, When the manufacturer fails to require of every retail dealer handling his goods a contract to maintain the selling price, and when the manufacturer fails to enforce the contract in any instance, the trade is upset thereby and those parties who maintained the contract are put at a disadvantage by those who did not, and are therefore liable to lose trade, Be it

Resolved, That this Association favors the selling of goods on the contract plan by the manufacturer, and will co-operate with the manufacturer in maintaining such contract price only when the manufacturer enforces the price contract by every legal means in his power.

Helping Other Communities.

Whereas, The maintainance of prices of an article in one community tends to make it easier to maintain the selling price of that article in other communities; and

Whereas, The opposite of this is true, and the selling of an article at a cut rate in one community tends to disturb prices in another community and dissatisfy consumers who are paying a fair price with the dealer supplying them, Be it

Resolved, That it is the duty of each Retail Grocers' Association on the Pacific Coast to lend its strength and influence towards encouraging the goods of those manufacturers who may maintain their selling prices even though the grocers of those particular communities may not have been successful in establishing a card price.

Against Unprotected Goods.

Whereas, The success of the movement to maintain prices in any community in many instances depends upon the knowledge of the manufacturer if he fails to maintain a fair retail selling price in a certain community, he will lose business in many other communities; and

Whereas, When manufacturers will allow their goods to be cut in any community, it is very good evidence that they will allow their goods to be cut in other communities;

Resolved, That each affiliating Association in California should, in justice to itself, pass resolutions agreeing to discourage the sale of goods the prices of which the manufacturers will not maintain.

Help Protected Goods.

Whereas, Certain manufacturers have found it possible to minimize cutting on their goods by selling only through jobbers who sign a contract to sell these goods only to retailers who sign agreements to maintain the retail selling prices; Be it

Resolved, That we urge upon manufacturers the advisability of the contract plan. Be it further

Resolved, That we will assist in every way in our power to advance the sale of goods so protected.

Suggest National Action.

Whereas, The value of the maintainance of prices and the extent to which manufacturers can afford to devote themselves to this policy depends upon the extent to which they are supported by the retail grocery trade; Be it

Resolved That we urge the managers of the National Grocers' Association to use its influence to induce manufacturers of articles of widespread use to adopt the contract selling plan in all communities where the retail grocers are prepared to give such manufacturers the support that will warrant their undertaking this system.

Dead Beats and Collections.

J. G. Reed presented the following resolutions for his committee:

Plan of Collection Department.

Stockton, August 22, 1905.

Your Committee on Dead Beats and Collections begs leave to report:

1. That immediately after this Convention a report be printed of all the bills now in the hands of the State secretary for collection and that a copy of this report be sent to each individual and associate member.

The secretary of each affiliating Association should receive reports for all members for whom dues have been paid. Distribution of these should be attended to by the secretary of the affiliating Association.

Each individual member should receive a double postal card similar in form to the annexed, which will make it easier for them to report promptly all removals of customers who have failed to settle their accounts. This double postal should have blanks to carry the name of the debtor, amount of the bill, dates of first and last purchase, the debtor's last known address, occupation and other suggestions that may aid the collector. The postal sent to individual members should be addressed to the State secretary.

3. Upon receipt of an account either from an individual member or from the secretary of an affiliating Association, the State secretary should address the debtor asking that the account be paid, using a form somewhat similar to the annexed. Should a collection be made by means of these letters a commission of 10 per cent will be charged. This commission to be turned into the treasury of the State Association.

4. Should the debtor fail to make satisfactory arrangements for the payment of the account within a reasonable time after the letter has been sent, the account should be turned over to our attorneys for collection. The member should be informed that this action has been taken, and that the commission, when the collection is made, will be in accordance with the rates arranged by the Board of Directors, and the name of the debtor should then be put upon the next monthly report of delinquent debtors sent out by the State secretary.

5. The report of delinquent debtors reported to the State secretary should be printed once each month. At intervals of three or four months a complete list of all accounts submitted to the secretary should be printed.

6. Whenever affiliating Associations

An advertising campaign, says Fame, is like a journey. There is a certain stated distance to be covered. You may not go the whole way without pausing. Perhaps you go a few miles to-day, and a few more to-morrow, but you keep right on, toward the goal, always adding a little to the sum total of your miles. If you do not complete the distance, the whole is incomplete, and a failure, but the rounded out, perfect journey of regulated stages symbolizes well the well-balanced advertising campaign.

The poor crop prospect, with the unusual reduction of the carry-over, is helping the tone of the market for prunes, and the confidence of holders is strengthened by the promised comparative scarcity of apples this year. A scarcity of prunes would not be an unmixed evil. Is it not something to be facing the prospect of a paucity of prune literature, telling the public of merits that every boarder knows only too well? Is it not positively cause for congratulations when the growers cease from growling (at the grocers) and the "organs" are at rest?

To plug is to let air into the melon, causing withering and decay around the edges of the hole, no matter how carefully the plug is replaced. To plunk does no harm. Down on your knees over a fine, large one, shining green amid the vines of the patch; lean over and press one hand on each side—a quick, sharp squeeze—an ear inclined to hear the sound. Does it crackle in response? Does a sound come forth like a ripping of the heart within—a breaking down of those walls of solid juiciness? Then it has plunked, then it is ripe, then it is fit for the gods to eat.—Ex.

desire to have their local delinquent list printed in the State Report this should be done for them at as low a cost as practicable.

A Credit Rating Department.

Whereas, We recognize that a delinquent list and a collection agency is of inestimable value to the members of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association; and

Whereas, It is necessary to facilitate a more speedy location of bad debtors and obtain a ready co-operation of the various members with the State secretary, be it

Resolved, That the secretary undertake the issue of credit ratings when called upon by the individual members or secretaries of the affiliating Associations, that he shall keep a record of such ratings in his office for ready reference.

Legislative Necessities.

Geo. Alpers presented the following resolutions for his committee:

Thanks For Workers.

Your Committee on Legislation begs leave to report.

Whereas, A great deal of work was accomplished at the last session of the Legislature of value to the retail grocers and merchants of the State; be it

Resolved, That the thanks of this organization be extended to the Board of Directors for their splendid efforts in this work; be it further

Resolved, That special thanks be tendered to J. F. Paulding, who served as acting secretary at the time and through his untiring efforts secured recognition that would otherwise not have been accorded, and also to Secretary Frank B. Connolly and A. H. Powers, editor of the Grocers' Advocate, both of whom were actively instrumental in securing recognition from the Legislature.

Statute of Limitations.

Whereas, Much injustice is wrought through the present law with regard to the statute of limitations by which items of an account outlaw separately and begin to outlaw from the time the transaction took place, be it

Resolved, That this organization favors the passage of the law which would provide that an account should begin to outlaw only from the date of the last entry, either debit or credit. In other words, the account should not begin to outlaw until the customer quits buying from the dealer and that a payment should renew an account.

Short Weight Goods.

Whereas, Much dishonest competition is occasioned through the sale of packages of goods containing less than the customer is lead to believe can be found in the package, be it

Resolved, That we favor a law requiring that the net weight and measure of goods sold in packages be marked in plain figures upon the label, and that the delegates to the next National Convention be instructed to use every effort to commit the National Association to this policy, to the end that Congress may be urged to pass a law of this character.

Mutual Fire Insurance.

Whereas, The cost of insurance is much greater in California than in other States; and

Whereas, The merchants of many States are saving as much as 40 per cent. of the cost of their insurance through co-operative companies, be it

Resolved, That we favor the passage of a proper mutual fire insurance law for the State of California.

Trade Abuses.

Geo. B. Doyle of San Francisco presented the following resolutions for his committee:

Selling Hotels, Colleges, etc.

Whereas, Many wholesalers and manufacturers sell indiscriminately to all hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, colleges etc.;

Whereas, Much of that trade would otherwise go to retail dealers; and

Whereas, The majority of this business is ultimately secured by those firms which, while doing a retail business, pretend to be wholesalers, be it

Resolved, That the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association disapprove of the practice on the part of wholesalers and manufacturers in selling to establishments that would otherwise be supplied by retail grocers, and whose trade really belongs to the retailers of their respective communities. Be it further

Resolved, That when a wholesaler or manufacturer insists upon continuing such a policy in the face of opposition of the retail grocers of any community, that we will consider such action on their part as unfriendly, and act accordingly.

Selling to Consumers.

Whereas, The sale of goods to consumers by wholesalers and manufacturers is not profitable to the wholesaler and makes the wholesaler the rival of the retailer, to whom he looks for the distribution of his goods; be it

Resolved, That we decidedly denounce such practice as short-sighted and unfair.

Whereas, The firm that sells to consumers in any one community makes it evident that they would sell to the consumers in other communities if circumstances made it profitable, be it

Resolved, That the affiliating Associations and individual members of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association pledge thmselves to confine their trade as far as possible to those concerns whose business is large enough to warrant their doing a strictly wholesale grocery business in each community where they operate.

Credit to Cash Cutters.

We also ask that the directors be asked to provide a remedy to prevent wholesalers and manufacturers from extending credit to retail cash stores which make a practice of cutting prices in different commodities below the line of safety, since by so doing these wholesalers furnish the capital to the cutters to destroy the business profits of the retailers that pay 100 cents on the dollar, and they are forced to ask for more on account of such evil.

Tea and Coffee Peddling.

Whereas, The retail grocers of many communities suffer from the unfair competition of tea and coffee peddlers, and the consuming public are generally deluded in the quality of the goods purchased from the persistent salesmen who play upon the sympathy and credulity of the innocent housewife, and who pay no rent, no taxes, no license, no insurance, no interest on investment, no clerk hire, no gas power or light, and pay nothing to support the local government;

Resolved, That each Association should use its influence with the legislative body of its community to secure the passage of ordinances tending to restrict peddlers and make them pay their just proportion toward conducting the local government.

Resolved, That we consider it unfair for any firm that seeks the trade of retail grocers to send out peddlers, or solicitors for peddlers, or supply peddlers with goods.

National Grocers' Association.

L. Warnke of Alameda reported the following resolutions for his committee:

Whereas, The dissemination of the association idea has been much encouraged during the past few years by the activity of the National Retail Grocers' Association; and

Whereas, The grocers of the country would be greatly benefited by the passage of a national pure food law; and

Whereas, The grocers of the country would be greatly benefited by the prevention of the passage of the Parcels Post bill, which was introduced at the last session of Congress by W. R. Hearst, owner of the San Francisco "Examiner"; and

Whereas, The grocers of the country can only secure recognition from the National Legislature through the medium of an organization that voices the sentiments of the grocers in many different States; and

Whereas, There are many movements of general value that can be assisted by the co-operation of grocers in widely different communties, be it

Resolved, That we consider it to the advantage of every Grocers' Association in California to affiliate with the National Retail Grocers' Association and lend its influence and financial support to the maintainance of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to every affiliating Association in California, with a letter advising them to forward their per capita tax to the National secretary, and, if possible, to send a delegate to the annual convention, which convenes at Niagara Falls in January.

Tea and Coffee Tax.

Your committee further reports:

Whereas, It seems to be the intention of our national Government to put a tax on tea and coffee at the earliest possible moment; and

Whereas, The retail grocer will undoubtedly bear the greater part of the burden of this tax; and

Whereas, This can only be prevented by interesting the grocers all over the United States to oppose such obnoxious tax, be it

Resolved, That we request the officers of the National Grocers' Association to start a campaign against this measure by informing the Associations of the United States, asking them to take the proper steps with their representatives in Washington to fight this measure when proposed.

Premium Schemes.

W. H. Poston of Pomona reported for his committee as follows:

Whereas, the adoption of premium schemes as a method of advertising by one manufacturer, invariably results in the adoption of similar schemes by his competitors; and

Whereas, The payment for these premiums invariably has to be made by the retailer and later by the consumer; and

Whereas, In this way the retail grocers are forced to handle crockery, silverware, clocks, etc., generally to the disadvantage of other merchants and without adequate returns to the grocers for the amount of money invested and the special effort required; be it

Resolved, That this organization declare itself as being opposed to the use of premium schemes by manufacturers. Be it further

Resolved, That we will, in every instance, give preference in the sale of goods to those who seek to secure an increase of business because of quality and price considerations rather than by the giving away of presents.

Resolved, That the only legitimate basis of competition is quality and service, and that we are opposed to the giving of premiums in any form or manner.

Extension of Organization.

Frank B. Connolly of San Francisco reported for his committee as follows:

Your Committee on Extension of Organization begs leave to report as follows:

Our success at the Legislature with our existing strength shows that with further growth, we can secure any measure that is fair and proper. Our first problem, therefore, is to get greater strength.

Experience has taught that where Associations are organized in small towns, there is a tendency to lapse as soon as the first few abuses are overcome, unless some outide influence helps to keep up the interest.

In all cities the organizations gradually become dependent upon their secretary to supply ideas and usually the organization "goes to seed" unless an outside influence assists in keeping the members active in doing their part and in meeting changing conditions effectively.

Experience has also shown that it must be made easy for members to help, in order to get the best possible results, and that therefore the executive office of this organization should, as far as possible, lend its aid to all individual members and all affiliating Associations with suggestions, plainly and simply made, at intervals as frequent as funds and circumstances will permit.

With these thoughts in view, we make the following suggestions:

First—Grocers of standing in the smaller communities of the State should be solicited to join our State Association as individual members either by letter or personal solicitation.

Second—As far as practicable, an organizer should help to get the grocers of various communities together.

(a) In smaller communities the grocers should be induced to join the State Association direct and then be formed into branch associations. To hold these together, the State secretary should send to the secretary of each sub-association each month a letter calling for advice on certain matters and requiring a report. In this way monthly meetings can be made of interest.

(b) Affiliating Associations that have a paid secretary should also be communicated with in like manner.

Third—To all individual members, including members of branch associations, monthly reports should be made direct to members. Every effort should be made to make it easy for them to help report debtors who have moved and to keep up the Delinquent List otherwise, and to collect bad bills.

Fourth—Where Associations pay a $1 per capita tax, the reports, etc., should be sent to the secretary.

We would advise that the Directors print a small book containing a strongly-worded account of the purposes of our organization, together with a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the State Association and a suggested constitution and by-laws for branch asociations. The book should also have one leaf made in the form of an application for membership so it can be torn out and filled in by parties desiring to join the State Association.

We would suggest that the blank form sent to each affiliating Association should read somewhat as follows.

..... 1905.

California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

Gentlemen: Our regular monthly meeting was held on ..... with the following results:

1. Wholesalers, manufacturers, etc., selling to hotels, etc., that grocers can supply to good advantage. (Complaints must be specified, giving the name of the wholesaler, the parties sold and all other particulars as to dates, etc., that can be gathered.)

.....

.....

2. Wholesalers selling to customers. (Give particulars as above.)

.....

3. Wholesalers and manufacturers who are sending out short-weight goods. (Give particulars as above.)

.....

4. Goods on the protected price list that are being cut. (Give all particulars possible, and also state what steps have been taken by your members to have the cutting discontinued.)

.....

5. We would request that the State Association take up the above matter, and also .....

(Signed) .....

Secretary.

Pure Food.

N. E. Wilson of Los Angeles reported for his committee as follows:

Your Committee on Pure Food begs leave to report as follows:

Whereas, Much undesirable competition would be eliminated if dealers in cheap and imitation articles were required to label them for what they really are; and

Whereas, The margin of profit on high-class goods of standard quality is usually fair, while the profit on cheap goods is usually less than what it should be; and

Whereas, The public health and the building up of California's manufacturers would be improved by a proper enforcement of the Pure Food laws, be it

Resolved, That this Asociation take this opportunity of re-affirming its sympathy with the movement to enforce proper Pure Food laws and establish a high grade of purity for food products sold in this State.

Advise Food Commission.

Whereas, The effectiveness and value of Pure Food laws depend almost entirely upon their being enforced with uniform watchfulness through every part of the State; and

Whereas, Unless the enforcement of the Pure Food law is contant and uniform, great injustice is wrought upon innocent members of the trade, be it

Resolved, That the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association favors the creation of a Pure Food Commission, clothed with ample authority and power to enforce the present Pure Food laws.

Want Coffee Standard.

Whereas, At certain seasons of the year, and especially at the close of the coffee season in August, much damaged, decayed, fermented, rotten, spoiled and underripe coffee is dumped on this market, and which is considered by this Association as unfit for human consumption, and that the sale of same is detrimental to the upholding of the trade of sound and wholesome coffee; and

Whereas, This Association suggests the advisability of a commission being appointed by the proper authorities to establish Government coffee standards on the same lines as Government tea standards, and thus restricting the importation and distribution of coffee not up to the proper standard; and

Whereas, As this is a matter of the utmost importance, that these resolutions be placed before the authorities at Washington so as to meet with immediate results, we would instruct our secretary to send a copy of these resolu-

Your Committee on General Resolutions begs leave to report as follows:

General Resolutions.

L. R. Eccleston of Fresno reported for his committee as follows.

The Official Paper.

Whereas, The growth of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association has been largely assisted and its strength and dignity increased through the efforts of the Retail Grocers' Advocate, be it

Resolved, That the thanks of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association be tendered the Retail Grocers' Advocate and its editor, Mr. A. H. Powers. Be it further

Resolved, That we again make the Retail Grocers' Advocate the official paper of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, and urge upon the Pacific Coast grocers the desirability of subscribing to that paper in order they may keep in touch with the progress of the various Associations.

Thanks For Schilling.

Whereas, The firm of A. Schilling & Co. have refused to allow cutters to handle their goods and have in every way maintained a fair standard of prices for high-grade packing powder, coffees, teas, etc., be it

Resolved, That the thanks of the retail grocers of California are due to A. Schilling & Co. for their activity in this regard.

Enoch Morgan's Sons Appreciated.

Whereas, The firm of Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. has for many years exerted all its power and influence towards preventing the demoralization of the retail selling price of Sapolio; and

Whereas, By its active work in this regard, the Enoch Morgan's Sons Co has reduced the cutting on Sapolio to a minimum, be it

Resolved, That the thanks of the grocers of California are due to the Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. for the policy that it has followed in this matter.

Globe Mills Thanked.

Whereas, Since the Globe Mills have done a great deal in maintaining prices on their products, and have at all times been in harmony with the California Retail Grocers' Association; be it

Resolved, That the thanks of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association be tendered the Globe Mills.

Stockton Association Appreciated.

Whereas, Since our arrival in the beautiful City of Stockton we have been royally entertained, and received every courtesy possible at the hands of our host, the Stockton Retail Grocers' Association, be it

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be given the Stockton Retail Grocers' Association for its hospitality.

Mr. Pierce is Thanked.

Whereas, One of the most enjoyable portions of our visit to Stockton was the hospitality extended to the members of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association by C. D. Pierce, of the firm of Pierce & Co., the efficient and royal manner in which he entertained and provided an afternoon of pleasure and sight-seeing for us, is one we all shall long remember; therefore be it Resolved, That a vote of thanks be given C. D. Pierce, of the firm of Pierce & Co., for his generous hospitality and courtesy.

Speakers Are Appreciated.

Whereas, Those present at the open meeting of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, who heard the able addresses of Mr. F. B. Fancher on "The Value of Association to Larder Grocers"; State Secretary Frank B. Connolly on "What the Future Holds"; "Actual Profits," by H. Hauch, and the final address by J. R. Newberry on the "Business Side of Organizations," be it

Resolved, That a vote of thanks be tendered these gentlemen for their able and highly entertaining addresses. Be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed on the minutes of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, and also be published in the next current issue of the Advocate.

Whereas, The continued success of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association depends largely on the amount of money raised to meet the necessary expenses; and

Whereas, The number of members depends largely on the smallest possible rate, be it

Resolved, That the Ways and Means Committee recommend that the per capita tax for the ensuing year remain at $1 per member for associate members and $3 for individual members.

OAKLAND OPTIMISTIC.

J. G. Reed spoke of the Alameda County Association as follows:

"Much hard work has been expended upon our Association for the grocers of Alameda county. We feel that our efforts will soon be rewarded by definite returns in the near future. Owing to the proximity of San Francisco it is practically impossible for us to maintain prices without the co-operation of the dealers of that city. We have had to depend upon the efforts of the Pacific Coast Association to induce the manufacturers to maintain prices.

"Good work has been done in this regard. We are securing a profit on a number of articles that we have not been able to sell at a profit before. Had we had the co-operation of the other cities about the bay, we feel certain that we should have had a flour card long ago.

"When deputations from Alameda county and San Francisco waited upon the representatives of the mills to ask them to establish a selling price on their flour, all refused except the Globe Grain & Milling Co. That firm started a campaign to maintain prices and carried it out to the letter. This has been of great value to us. They have maintained prices on their flour absolutely and even the big cutters maintain the price on Globe brands. Their salesmen have been of as much assistance to us as another secretary, pounding into the dealers the theory that the manufacturer should maintain the retail selling price of his goods and could do so if he wanted to.

"The Del Monte Milling Co. deserves much credit for the stand they took. While they were not in position to maintain the selling price of their flour owing to their relations with the othe. mills, they did maintain the selling price of their meals. They even went so far as to threaten to bring certain large cutters into court and enforce their right by legal process. The result has been that the cutters discontinued selling their goods except at full prices. As soon as San Francisco is in shape to help us and give us a chance to do things, I am certain that we will be able to secure better results on the same lines. I want to point out to the rest of you gentlemen that there is not a grocer in this hall that does not suffer by the wicked prices put out by the San Francisco cutters. Those firms advertise in the big dailies which circulate in the surrounding cities. While your customer may not buy any goods from the cut-rate store, yet they read the advertisements in the paper and note the difference in the prices quoted and the prices you charge them and their confidence in your fairness is shaken and they feel you are robbing them. It is to your interest to see that the manufacturer who wants you to sell his goods should stop this, since when he allows the cutter to advertise his goods at cut prices, he is helping the cutter to advertise at your expense.

"Our association several years ago solved the trading stamp evil by securing the signatures of the grocers, in conection with the Merchants' Exchange of our city, to an agreement to discontinue the use of trading stamps.

"At the present time every grocer in Alameda county has signed an agreement to discontinue giving yeast cakes, agreeing to forfeit $25 if he violates the agreement. This agreement is being maintained and is saving our members from $3 to $40 per month apiece. The drummers for the yeast cake companies circulated lists for us some time ago, but their action resulted only in dissatisfaction, since they only secured the signatures of those who were willing to sign and, since several firms did not sign and had made no attempt to discontinue giving away yeast cakes, those who did sign thought the others were breaking their agreement and were angry.

"Our collection department and delinquent list have proven of considerable value. Our delinquent list is not the value it should be, because our members are slow in turning in their bills.

"We are now establishing a system of credit rating. I am encouraging the members to apply to our office for information as to parties desiring credit. We ask our members to get the party's occupation, their last residence and references as to merchants with whom they have dealt. Action in looking up these references has resulted in locating missing debtors for a number of our members.

"Numerous social gatherings that have been given by our Association have proven of great value in increasing fellowship.

"One of the travelers of the flour mills showed one of our members a long list of grocers who owed money to his firm. The drummer said: 'This is the reason why our members will not dare to fight our mills openly.' I want to suggest here that the grocers usually make more money by being financially independent than by gambling in futures. I think you will agree with me that it is the over buying in ordering futures and overbuying to take advantage of free deals that prevents dealers from being independent so that they cannot buy where they please."

SACRAMENTO SEES PROFITS.

A. A. Jost of Sacramento said:

"While to outsiders the grocers of Sacramento may at times seem a little close, yet we are very loyal to each other. This has been the result of our working together. Each member of our association, by referring to his books, now sees a profit that he never saw before. We now make 25c per sack on flour; 20c on each dollar's worth of sugar sold; 10c on a roll of butter; 5c on each dozen of eggs. The grocer is entitled to this profit. What is more, the public is willing to pay it, because these are the established and recognized prices. When a few grocers met together in San Francisco some five years ago in the corner of a small room, to discuss the desirability of a State Association, we decided then that it would be necessary for us to stand together in order to secure the best possible results. By united action, we have elevated the grocery business. The small beginning made there has helped largely to manifest the fact that one can be a grocer and still be a man.

"Unless we ask for things we will never get them. As men we do ourselves a great wrong when we do not demand what we are entitled to ask for."

SAN JOSE HOPEFUL.

J. W. Borchers of San Jose spoke as follows.

"It has been a great pleasure to have the honor to meet the gentlemen sent as delegates to this convention by the various cities of California. I was sent here by the San Jose grocers to see what it was possible for us to do.

"San Jose had a strong organization a short time ago and restrained price cutting for some time. Recently one of the men who would come under Mr. Newberry's heading of the "malicious cutter" decided to violate the established laws, largely as a matter of feeling. The result has been a considerable weakening of our organization.

"I feel that I can now go back to the grocers of San Jose and advise them that there is much for them to do.

"Last Friday night we had a strong meeting, with a number of speakers from among the association workers of San Francisco and Oakland. Much interest was expressed there and I feel that I have learned enough at this convention so that I can go back to the San Jose Association and help them get on their feet again."

FRESNO FIGHTING.

L. B. Eccleston of Fresno reported:

"A short time ago we had a very strong association. One man was always bucking the association and keeping us in hot water continually. Yet we were able to better our conditions in many ways and did not give much attention to him.

"We have one large store which has an immense country trade. There is another large store, 90 per cent of whose trade is in the city. This last store sent out wagons into the country and began to take away trade from the first store. Dissatisfaction was aroused by this action and soon practically all the grocers were sending out wagons. This resulted in a large addition to the expense of conducting business and to very considerable bad feeling. I have only taken hold of the active secretaryship recently. I hope that we can get good results in the future."

MODESTO HELPS MERCHANTS.

C. M. Clary of Modesto said:

"We were organized two and a half years ago with 10 members. Our association has increased in usefulness and strength continually. Last year we went to the retail grocers in the neighboring towns and added nine men to our membership. The members of our association have done much towards preventing the disastrous and foolish cutting of prices, although we are still selling flour at a foolishly small margin. Our collection department and credit rating department has done much good. It has been so valuable, in fact, that last month we invited the other merchants of the town to join us in this part of our work. As a result, practically the entire mercantile community of Modesto is united in a campaign against bad debts.

OAKDALE IS HELPING.

Scott M. Sampson of Oakdale reports that price conditions are very unfavorable in his community. They need help, particularly on the matter of getting a profit on flour. He joined the Modesto Association and had been benefited thereby.

STOCKTON ACHIEVES SUCCESS.

W. E. O'Connor reported for Stockton as follows:

"One of the things that has always stood the dealers of Stockton in good stead has been the protection accorded the merchants by the manufacturers of their own town. The Sperry, the Stockton and the Aurora Mills have always stood in with us to protect the selling price of flour. We had a very notorious cutter here who had stores in other communities in the San Joaquin Valley. When he refused to sign an agreement to protect the price of flour, Mr. Steinbeck of the Sperry Mills went to him and he secured his signature.

"Our Association has tried to keep the grocery business on safe and conservative lines. We have been pestered with cutters and have seen them all fade away. Last year when I attended the State Convention at San Jose we had two of them. One sold out and the other is in the hands of the receiver today. Among the members, there has been only one failure since the organization of our association. Among the men of the smart class, who knew too much to join the Grocery Association, there have been twelve or fifteen who have failed.

"Our association meets now as if it were only one family. I can call on any man in the grocery business in Stockton to assist in our work or to assist a fellow grocer."

NEXT CONVENTION CITY.

When President Pearson raised the question as to the next convention city, Mr. Paulding invited the convention to again meet in Southern California.

On motion of J. M. Sullivan, it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Directors since the expense of sending delegates to Southern California was so great that it would probably lessen the number of delegates in attendance.

Joy D. Campbell, chairman of the nominating committee, then presented his suggestion as to the officers for the ensuing year.

Honors for Jos. A. Stulz.

His report began with a complimentary resolution establishing a new office, that of honorary Past President, out of respect to Jos. A. Stulz. This tribute to the worth of Mr. Stulz was received with cheers by the assembled delegates.

J. J. Hayes moved that the resolution be adopted by a rising vote. He said that he had known Jos. A. Stulz for 20 years and during all that time Mr. Stulz has been a most unselfish worker in the cause of Association work and that he knew of no retail grocer who had ever shown such unselfish devotion to the cause of Association as had Mr. Stulz.

J. P. McGuire of San Francisco seconded the motion of Mr. Hayes stating at the same time that Mr. Stulz had certainly the right to every honor that could be bestowed on him because of the almost fatherly interest he had given to Association work. When the question was put every delegate present rose and Mr. Stulz was elected the first and only honorary Past President of the organization.

The following officers were then elected:

President, L. Warnke, Alameda.

First Vice-President, George B. Doyle, San Francisco.

Second Vice-President, Eugene W. Drury, Stockton.

Third Vice-President, Henry Wreden, San Francisco.

Recording Secretary, Frank B. Connolly, San Francisco.

Treasurer, John F. Schomer, San Francisco.

Directors: H. Hauch, Alameda; A. J. Nor, Oakland; George Golder, San Francisco; J. P. McGuire, San Francisco; J. W. Borchers, San Jose.

Pacific Coast Directors: J. R. Newberry, Los Angeles; F. B. Fancher, Sacramento, and H. Hauch, Alameda.

The only change from the program of the nominating committee was with regard to the third vice-president. E. W. Hale of Sacramento was named first, but while offering his fullest assistance, did not desire to hold any official position. Mr. E. Kilgore of Sacramento was named.

Frank B. Connolly placed in nomination H. Wreden of San Francisco. He called attention to the fact that Mr. Wreden was not only a large handler of groceries, but had been a good Association worker and had always fulfilled his official duties in his connection with the San Francisco organization, attending all meetings and doing what was expected of him. Mr. Connolly pointed out the necessity of having as many of the Board of Directors as possible from around the bay.

J. F. Paulding seconded Mr. Connolly's nomination of Mr. Wreden and stated that while Southern California would like to have a man on the Board the delegates recognized the fact that it was necessary to secure as much strength as possible, and the South would surrender that honor.

Mr. Kilgore, at this juncture, withdrew his name and Mr. Wreden was elected by acclamation.

Congratulates New Officers.

Mr. Pearson in a neat speech turned over the chair to the newly elected President and expressed the hope that the new officer would be accorded the same enthusiastic and earnest support that had been accorded him and had made his administration so pleasant.

On motion of Mr. McGuire a rising vote of thanks to the retiring President was taken.

Warnke Expresses Thanks.

Mr. Warnke was escorted to the chair, together with First Vice-President Doyle and Second Vice-President Drury. He expressed thanks with a great deal of feeling, stating that he considered his election an expression of confidence in him by the men who had learned to know him and his capacity through the work he had been able to do for them in his official capacity in the years gone by. He expressed the conviction that the personnel of the Board of Directors was such that everything that possibly could be done would be done.

George B. Doyle, the newly elected First Vice-President, insisted that it would have been wiser to elect a wiser and more able man to the position he held, yet he appreciated the honor conferred on him and would do his duty to the fullest. Speaking of the maintenance of prices, Mr. Doyle said he would maintain prices in his own store. If each individual member of this State Association would do the same, we could be sure of attaining the success we hope for.

E. W. Drury, the Second Vice-President, said that he was doubtful if he should extend his thanks to the State Association and he rather thought the delegates should be tendered sympathy and condolence. He promised to serve to the best of his ability.

Pay President's Expenses.

Secretary Connolly thanked the delegates for the honor they had conferred on him by re-electing him as secretary. He then spoke eloquently of the services of retiring President C. B. Pearson, and pointed out that Mr. Pearson had made five trips to San Francisco since he was president to attend meetings of the Directors. He said that the delegates had come half the way and knew the time and expense required and suggested that it was only right and fair for the Board of Directors to Matches are so cheap that it becomes almost criminal to sell the inferior brands that scatter red-hot particles about them when lit. To have a glowing segment of match-head fly off into a window curtain, or to have the entire head fall in an incandescent condition upon the carpet, is very irritating even to the mildest temper, and the grocer who sells the dangerous matches is laying up for himself a store of retribution that may take the shape of lost trade.

The Weekly Report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says for California:

"Beans and potatoes are doing well. Raisin picking has commenced in some vineyards."

SUGAR MARKET.

New York, Aug. 23d—Raw sugar is easier. The sale of 10,000 tons is reported on a basis of 4 cents.

New York, Aug. 17th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—The market improved slighthly early in the week. Moderate quantities of cane sugars likely to come on the market in excess of what may be needed by the principal buyers can be absorbed readily by the other refiners. European markets proved a disappointment. The weakness was probably due to the very light demands for refined. With sufficient sugar in sight for requirements until the arrival of the new crop the trend of prices for old and new is to meet around 4 cents for centrifugals, unless troubles in Europe bring about even lower prices temporarily."

Refined—The market has been quiet. There has been a slight falling off in demand. No advance is expected now that raws have become easier.

New York Aug. 14th—M. G. Wanzor & Co. report:

Raw—The raw sugar market this week has been very strong. A large amount of business has been transacted and refiners are buying to-day at 4⅛ cents for spot and 4.14 cents for shipment. Holders of Cubas ask for 4.20 cents for shipment lots. Cables from Java announce that our refiners have bought 20,000 tons beet sugar present crop and 30,000 tons new crop. Prices on the first are supposed to have been equal to 4.10 and 4.12½ cents N. Y. and on the latter equal to 4 cents.

Refined—The large purchases of Cubas made a fortnight ago has placed refiners in a good position as regards stocks. Prices of raw sugars are now on a level that promises relaxation of the extreme caution that has been necessary for the past three months. Indications are that any change in the price will be an advance. Currant quotations seem safe during the remainder of the sugar season.

MAPLE SUGAR.

Bellefontaine, O., Aug. 13th—The F. N. Johnson Co. report:

"There has been considerably more inquiry for both maple sugar and syrup. Prices are highest for many years. Buyers do not hesitate to place liberal orders for September and October deliveries. The trade is learning the difference between pure and mixed goods and the pure goods meet with ready sale at far higher prices than the mixed. The market is decidedly in seller's favor."

TEA MARKET.

New York, Aug. 15th—John B. Brown & C. report:

"Cables from all sections record the new crop as being marketed at higher prices—and undoubtedly in a few weeks we will be working on a higher range of values for all kinds of tea."

Colombo, Ceylon—Tarrant & Co., in their tea market report for the month of May say:

"Indications point to a normal output during the ensuing month with improving quality. Quality should now continue to improve and prices advance the next two to three months, when a steady market may be looked for until October."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The market is very firm and coffee is becoming very scarce here. It now looks as if in a couple of months we will have to draw on other markets for our coffee supply.

"There has been an exceptionally large demand for the past two weeks and low grades are becoming very low. Importers are asking high prices.

"Coffee looks like exceptionally good property now."

M. J. Brandenstain & Co. report from their New York office:

New York, Aug. 14th—Statistics favor a steady market in the fall. The receipts this year for Rio and Santos are nearly a quarter of a million bags less than last year same date, and over one-half a million less than at the same date two years ago. If there is no duty agitation, we do not expect much of an advance, even in December, but unless receipts get larger and exchange is lower, it is pretty safe to figure on a steady market.

New York, Aug. 17th—Willett & Gray report.

"The market is now steady with a good undertone. Dealers in Havre, France, have sold freely to interior trade, who in turn have sold futures. Much of this trading must be undone in September. Havre dealers could not now get new supplies in Brazil at contract rates and are covering prices and the position of the shorts is not a happy one. The moderate movement of the current crop indicates two things: Smaller yields and the ability of the Brazilions to resist smaller values. The growing crops seem now in some jeopardy. Serious damage by frosts is reported by reliable and conservative authorities. All the features of the situation are for a better market and present values are certainly reasonable."

RICE.

New York, Aug. 15th—Dan Talmage Sons Co. report.

"The demand for the past week has been more active than for the past month. Quite a volume of business has been done with sections that usually obtain supplies from the south. Prices are firm and actually an item higher. At New Orleans receipts are light on account of continued rains."

CANNED FRUITS.

Packers are practically sold up on most varieties of canned fruits. Higher prices may rule for futures. The California Canneries Company this week announced an advance on peaches of 5 cents on all 2½ lb. Crawford peaches and on 2½ Water Lemon Clings and White Heath. The Central Cal. Canneries Co. have also advanced prices on peaches.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, Aug. 14th—Paul Taylor Brown Co. reports:

"The market on Singapore pineapples continues with an upward tendency. There are few offerings and these at decidedly higher prices. Buyers are showing very little interest in making purchases. They will soon realize that the higher prices have come to stay until the next pack."

CANNED TOMATOES.

Future and spot tomatoes of all grades have advanced 2½ to 5c on the dozen in local markets. From present outlooks still higher prices will be ruling.

The Cal. Fruit Canners' Association has advanced 2½ standard tomatoes from 65 to 70 cents. California has a large carry over of standard goods and crop conditions are favorable. Should the Eastern shortage result in any decidedly increased demand from Utah and the Rocky Mountain States further advances are probable.

Aberdeen, Md., Aug. 12th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"Sellers for the last week have been leading the advance. They do not seem inclined to accept orders except for carload lots. The market can be quoted at 77½ cents and 80 cents with no sellers."

Havre de Grace, Md., Aug. 12th—S. J. Seneca reports:

"Spot tomatoes are pretty generally cleaned up. The demand for futures is excellent at 75 cents but packers are holding off. They hesitate not so much through a desire for a higher price as through fear of short crop, which is sure to be the case since vines are in many instances free from either blossoms or fruit."

Troutville, Va., Aug. 12th—Layman, Bishop & Co. report:

"The prospect for the pack of tomatoes is the poorest we have ever known. Present indications are for not more than one-quarter the usual pack. Our market advanced 5 cents per dozen on all kinds this week. It looks very much as if the market will go still higher."

Baltimore, Aug. 11th—The "Trade" reports:

"The reduced acreage is reported as yielding poorly of fruit. Packers are dubious as to the probability of getting enough tomatoes. Already reports of early frosts come from northern Michigan. This report is premature but indicates the possibility of early cold weather. Tomatoes are selling in this market at wholesale for from 35 cents to 40 cents per bushel, which is double the price they should bring with canned tomatoes at present quotations."

CANNED CORN.

West Poland, Me., August 12th—B. M. Fernald reports:

"There is every prospect of a good crop of good quality corn. Jobbers who have not already placed their orders will find the market is as strong as earlier in the season. Maine packers are well sold out."

Baltimore, Md., August 11th—The "Trade" reports:

"From all sections are coming reports that the sugar corn crop is doing fairly well. The probability is that we will have quite a large corn pack of excellent quality."

DRIED FRUITS.

New York August 17th—Eastern jobbers who were skeptical of the reported crop shortage and held back orders until the last moment are now materially assisting upward prices on the Pacific Coast. Prominent brokers in this market asserted yesterday that 1905 Santa Clara prunes could not be bought for October shipment below 3½ cents, bag basis, although early in the day some business was put through on a 3½ cent basis. Many sellers on the Coast have advanced prices to a 4 cent basis. Peaches seem to be strong. Brokers find it hard to get firm quotations. Holders are much above the ideas of the buyers. There has been heavy speculative buying on apricots since they are the cheapest fruit on the list. In consequence, many districts, including those which produce low grades, have been cleaned up by the larger packers.

PRUNES.

New York, August 21st—In connection with the strong and advancing market for California prunes a prominent commission house has issued the following comparative statement and comment on the world's supply of prunes:

	1904	1905
France, lbs.	60,000,000	60,000,000
Bosnia, Servia ..	70,000,000	50,000,000
California, lbs. ..	150,000,000	75,000,000
Oregon, lbs.	15,000,000	15,000,000
Carryover, U. S..	40,000,000	10,000,000
Total	335,000,000	210,000,000

Geyserville, August 19th—Prune growers in the vicity of Geyserville have been offered 4½ cents straight for their crops this year, and many are refusing that figure.

San Jose, August 22nd—The basis now generally demanded for prunes is 3½ cents bag basis with some packers quoting on a 1 cent bag basis. Occasional sales are still being made on a shade less than 3½ cents basis. The quantity available at less than the last named basis is daily diminishing. Premiums are still being demanded on 30's and 90's by the sellers.

Salem, Or., August 18th—Last estimates place our yield at less than 3,000,000 pounds, which is about one-third of an average crop. The size of the fruit will be far above the average. Oregon growers are asking 2¾ or 2⅞ cents basis for 30-40's and 2½ cent basis for other sizes.

San Jose, August 19th—A letter received by the Cured Fruit Promotion Association from Budapest, Hungary, announces that the outlook for the new crop of prunes in Bosnia and Servia is that only half the amount of last year's crop is expected.

APRICOTS.

San Jose, August 22nd—Apricots are offered somewhat more freely, though sellers do not seem disposed to make concessions from their former quotations based on 7 cents for choice Royals f. o. b. coast.

Ventura, August 18th—The price of dried cots has jumped from 5½ and 6 cents during the drying season to 7 cents. Sales have been made at 7⅛ and 7¼ cents, while one lot of extra choice fruit was sold for 7½ cents. The apricot men who have not already sold will hold for 7½ cents and higher. One grower who follows the market closely predicts that 8 cents will be paid before the close of the season. The cause of this unexpected though not unwelcome rise in price is due to the fact that the crop of the northern orchards has fallen far short of the estimate.

Riverside, August 21st—The sea on opened with 5 cents offered for cots. Orchardists are now being offered 6½ cents. Most of the holders are waiting for from 7 to 8 cents.

RAISINS.

for seeding at 4½ cents f. o. b. Fresno. This is ½ cents above last year's opening basis but is not considered excessive in view of the prospective short crop and the close clean up on the market. The combine has not yet made prices.

DRIED APPLES.

Despatch, N. Y., August 12th—Bown Bros. report:

"We see no possibility of any decline in the price of apples. There is a strong probability of their being still higher."

Middleport, N. Y., August 12th—"There will not only be a small crop of evaporated apples, but most of the dry apples this year will be graded as No. 2's or seconds."

DATES AND CURRANTS.

New York, August 14th—The Hills Bros & Co. report:

Dates—Stocks of Persians are reduced. Our market will probably be bare before the arrival of the first direct cargo in November. An advance is to be noted in packed dates, which are now offered at 4¾ cents for Royal Excelsior and 4⅜ for Anchors.

Currants—Confidence in the market is gradually being restored. Operators in Greece are holding firm on the basis of our present quotations and show no anxiety to sell. It is probable that the lowest prices for new crop currants are now prevailing. A higher level of values is likely to be reached when the new law is thoroughly understood.

New York, August 15th—The Greek Currant Co. reports:

"The local market on currants is waiting the results of recent legislation. Until this market is thoroughly satisfied as to what these conditions are, very little business in the new crop can be expected in the high grades except what business is already being done."

WALNUTS.

Anaheim, August 17th—Jos. Fiscus reports that he received an offer of 10 cents for his soft shell walnuts. Local growers believe the crop will sell at from 11 to 12 cents this season.

Whittier, August 19th—J. A. Montgomery, secretary of the Southern California Walnut Growers Association, says:

"This year the crop of walnuts controlled by our association will probably amount to about 700 cars as against 765 cars last year. The price of this year's crop will be fixed at a meeting of the association on September 20th and it will not be below the quotations of last year, which were 10½ cents for standard and 11 cents for soft shell."

Santa Paula, August 21st—The Santa Paula Walnut Association estimates the current crop at about two-thirds of last year's crop.

ALMONDS.

Stockton, August 21st—Almonds are earlier than usual this season. The crop is larger than for three years. There are little prospects for high prices owing to heavy crops in Europe as well as in this State.

PEANUTS.

St. Louis, August 7th—St. Louis Edible Nut Company reports:

"Spanish shelled peanuts are still in demand. Recent advances have had no material effect on the trade."

Weldon, N. C., August 12th—The Carolina Peanut Company reports:

"Prices on both shelled and unshelled Spanish peanuts are very firm at the highest point of the season. The crop will be about the same as last year."

BEANS.

The acreage of pink, bayos and lima beans is larger this year than usual. Acreage is short of large and small whites. Spot stocks are small with firm prices.

Ventura, August 18th—Blackaye beans are jumping in price each day. Buyers are taking up all they can get at 3½ cents. The advance is due to the short acreage consequent upon the low prices of last year.

Sacramento, Cal., August 3rd—Wood, Curtis & Co. report:

"While many fields of beans have a poor crop owing to the cut worm, the acreage this season has been considerably larger than usual and we will have a fair crop. Limas and pinks promise a large crop. There will be a decided shortage in white varieties as farmers have planted less of these than usual and rather more, in proportion, of pinks. White varieties are now held very firm in all California markets. Bayos are about cleaned up. Limas nearly so. Pink are in large supply, although only inferior grades can be had. We have scarcely any black eyes in market.

San Francisco, August 4th.—Bray Bros. report:

"We are advised that there are about ten cars each of blackeyes and limas left in the south. It will be some weeks yet before the crop is harvested. We expect a moderate demand which will clean up all available blackeyes and limas."

Rockford, Mich., August 2nd—Dockeray Bros. report:

"At best, we do not look for over 80 per cent of the average crop of beans. There are no offerings from farmers."

Albion, N. Y., August 12th—Tilden & Sharping report:

"Trade is at a standstill. We are looking for a better market soon. The growing crop in this section does not look promising. With a small stock of old beans we cannot see why market should not be better."

HONEY.

Escondido, August 19th—The San Diego County Honey Producers' Association has decided to store their honey in the association warehouses in San Diego rather than to sell at prices now offered. It was reported that prevailing prices in the East and middle West range from 6 to 7½ cents.

Ventura, August 19th—Bee men are being offered 4½ cents for their honey but are refusing to sell at this figure. Ventura County has a good crop this year. The bee men expect at least 5 cents per pound and some think the price will go considerably higher.

San Jacinto—F. J. Farr of Elsinore, a man with large bee interests in this locality, reports the honey crop of Utah and Colorado to be a complete failure. He thinks producers should get 10 cents or over for comb and 5 cents for extracted honey this year as the California output is also light. This locality will produce about half a crop.

CANNED SALMON.

New York, August 22nd—Sockeye salmon confirmations are moderate. There is no cutting bring done by large interests.

New York, August 21st—The "Journal of Commerce" quotes a leading wholesaler as expressing the opinion that not over 10 per cent of the orders placed subject to approval of prices would be confirmed. It is asserted by those supposed to have inside information that a close agreement has been entered into by the packers both large and small. This agreement contemplates no diversion from the prices that have been fixed and the fish will be carried over next season or the season after that if necessary. A jobber is quoted as saying: "We have got along two years without sockeyes and can get along longer if the alternative is paying such prices as those now quoted."

Seattle, August 19th—The "Trade Register," in commenting upon the sockeye price recently announced says that the prices are reasonable if the estimates of the Kelley-Clarke Co. are correct, of 600,000 cases on the Sound and 400,000 cases on Fraser River. It adds: "Other smaller interests, accepting the higher estimates of 750,000 to 850,000 cases for the Sound and the same for British Columbia, have been booking at $1.25-1.30 for talls and $1.35-1.45 for flats. The pack of halves is reported unusually small this year by some, while others believe around 100,000 cases of halves have been packed. Should a larger pack than estimated prove true we would not be surprised to learn of prices weakening particularly on the ½-pound grade, especially with the smaller interests. Owing to the strong situation, it considers the prices even too low when the quality and standing of the sockeye in all markets are considered, together with the cost of production and uneven runs."

Seattle, August 20th—It is approximated that the pack of the six canneries in Anacortes will amount to 329,000 cases. The canners are now making small runs of humpback and silver salmon. They expect the fall run to begin in about twenty days.

Tacoma, August 20th—F. L. Denman, auditor of the Pacific Cold Storage Co., says:

"The prospects are excellent for a splendid trade at good prices. Conditions are much more favorable than they were a year ago. The peace that has been established between the big packing companies has helped matters, but the principal reason is that the market is practically bare of our stocks and therefore the demand is good. The run of sockeyes has fallen far short of expectations. In fact, 1905 has been a distinct failure as a "cycle" year. Salted salmon has advanced $1 per barrel in the last 30 days. As a result of the strong feeling, there has been more disposition to hold off as the future seems to give promise of still higher quotations."

Seattle, August 19th—The Post-Intelligencer says:

"It is now conceded by the cannerymen of Puget Sound that the sockeye salmon run is over. We approximate 800,000 cases packed for the season or about 40 per cent short of the run that was expected and on the basis of which the labor contracts were made at the opening of the season."

Seattle, August 19th—Philip Kelley of the Kelley-Clarke Co., in a recent interview said that the shortage of the past three seasons in the packing of sockeye salmon is a prominent factor in the prices that have been announced. At the present time there is not a case of sockeye salmon on the market and the new pack comes without any competition. Mr. Kelley states that the shortage of the sockeye pack will have a strengthening effect on the market for Alaska reds, which have been a drug on the market for the past two seasons. At the present time there is a large surplus of Alaska reds without any movement to speak of, and the shortage on the Sound and Fraser river will increase the value of this inferior class of fish. The conditions on the Fraser river are the same as on the Sound. In both districts the sockeye salmon are packed, and the same percentage of shortage is noted on the river. Mr. Kelley estimates that the total pack of sockeye salmon, Puget sound and Fraser river, will be between 800,000 and 1,000,000 cases.

Victoria, August 19th—British Columbia will pack more salmon this year than Puget Sound for the first time in the history of the business. The pack already amounts to 630,000 cases, which is 100,000 in excess of that on the Sound. The fish are still running although they are not plentiful.

Bellingham, August 19th—The canneries failed to get any fish at all from their traps to-day. The Pacific-American Fisheries canning plant proposes to dismantle all their sockeye traps shortly and put in others in the course of the silver salmon run.

Seattle, August 19th—Canneries report that the run of sockeye salmon on Puget Sound is over until the fall run commences.

Astoria, Or., August 18th—The steamer North Star, which left Nushagaka, Bristol Bay, on August 8th, reports: "The pack of all the canneries is exceedingly good. The pack of the various canneries are as follows:

Alaska Fishermen's Pack. Co.	51,257
Portland-Alaska Packer's Asso.	57,000
Columbia River Packers' Asso.	41,000
Alaska Packers' Asso, 2 canneries	229,000
Alaska Salmon Co., Wood River.	43,000

Portland, Or., August 17th—Present indications are that the pack of salmon on the Columbia will be short about 15 per cent over the previous year, on account of the light runs later in the season. With the exception of one or two days, no very large run of fish has appeared and the end of the season is now only a matter of a very few days. A peculiar feature of the past season has been the high price offered for the fish by packers and canners. Cold storage operators wanted the fish so badly that they outbid the canners fully a cent at times. This in itself will cause the pack of the canners to be very short.

The demand for Columbia river salmon has been very heavy this season. Most of the canners oversold their probable pack during the first few days of fishing. Prices that ruled were practically the same as last season, because the packers did not care to ask more.

In the local wholesale grocery market there has been an unusual demand for salmon during the past few days and this has caused an advance of about 10 to 15 cents per dozen to rule. Choice chinooks will be very hard to obtain in a few days, as even grocers themselves are said to have practically sold all the fish they can secure.

Bellingham, August 17th—The Bristol Bay Packing Company closes its plant to-day and will not run again until the silver salmon and dog salmon begin to run in September. Cannerymen generally have given up hope of a good humpbacked run.

Pt. Townsend, August 16th—The sockeye run is virtually finished. The Pt. Townsend Packing Co. will have attained 20,000 cases; Hillside Packing Co., 8,500.

Juneau, Alaska, August 8th—Col. H. N. Cutcheon, U. S. Fish Commissioner of Washington, D. C., who arrived in this city yesterday from his annual inspection of the canneries of Alaska, estimates the pack of salmon in Alaska at about 1,500,000 cases. The pack of the individual canneries will be apportioned as follows:

	Cases.
Bristol Bay	1,150,000
Chignic	100,000
Orca	35,000
Uyak	30,000
Cook Inlet	12,000
Yakutat	30,000
Dundas	13,000
Funter Bay	22,000
Taku	14,000
Carluk	30,000
Alitak	1,000

The pack of the Bristol May district will exceed that of previous years by at least 200,000 cases. He expects that the fall run of salmon will start September 15th and equal in numbers the spring run. In this case the pack of red salmon should exceed 1,500,000 cases.

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The first 1905 Holland herring are due to arrive very shortly. The first arrivals are selling fast."

COD FISH.

Anacortes, Wash., August 15th—The schooner Lizzie Colby arrived from Bering Straits last week with 100,000 cod fish for a local plant. Captain Matheson reports that the vessels are all making satisfactory catches. The schooner Lucy, containing a large cargo of cod fish, is on her way down.

EASTERN FISH MARKET.

New York, August 15th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Irish Mackerel—The spring and summer fishing is practically over and no curing is reported in any other station. There is very little new mackerel left in Ireland at present. Shipments from Ireland to August 15th were 15,134 barrels.

Rolland Herring—Catch is slightly improved. Demand had improved also and prices are somewhat stronger.

Scotch Herring—Prices have given away slightly and are quoted somewhat below last week's figures. Catch is way behind last season's.

French Sardines—Catch is almost a failure so far. Stocks are rapidly decreasing. We will probably have still higher prices than we did a week ago.

Sprats—There is virtually nothing left over there and stocks here are gradually going into consumption. Prices are firm and in some cases higher.

Norway Smoked Sardines—Packers in Norway will accept no further contracts at old prices. If the catch of sardines in France and Portugal does not improve we may see higher prices for smoked sardines also.

Cutler, Me., August 11th—G. M. Williams reports:

"Smoked herring market is active at advanced prices. The stock of medium scaled herring is pretty well cleaned up. It will be some time before there will be any new herring to smoke."

New York, August 14th—Thos. Woodward & Son report:

"This seems to be an off year for salt fish. The few old Irish mackerel have now moved off. What new are coming on are taken as fast as they can be unloaded from the steamer. Prices are held firm and show a tendency to advance. Practically all the large Cape Shore mackerel have been sold. As soon as any fat fall fish are imported from Ireland, they will be sold at high prices."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, August 9th—B. O. Bowers Co. reports:

"There have been no fish at the factories during the month of July. Few fish are being obtained at present time. Prices of fish range from three to four times in value by comparison with former years. The present offering price of goods for shipment to be made as soon as packed will not make the packer whole. We quote, subject to confirmation of all orders, for shipment as soon as packed, standard ¼ oils, drawn cans, at $2.30; ¼ mustards, oil sizes, at $2.30; ¼ mustards, large, sanitary cans, at $2.70, ¾ mustards, sanitary cans, $2.10 to $2.15; ¼ tomatoes, $3.50; fancy wrapped ¾ mustards, from $2.75 to $2.90, all f. o. b., factory points. There have been large oversales at above quotations."

PROVISIONS.

The local as well as the Eastern market on lard is exceptionally strong and another advance should take place any day.

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, August 10th—Aspegren & Co. report:

"An advance in lard and other fat has strengthened the cotton seed market considerably during the past week. Values have advanced to the extent of ½ cents. If lard continues to advance it will make considerable difference in the amount of stocks to be carried over to next season. There is a steady undertone in the market and we believe it will remain firm."

Cigars and Tobacco

M. G. Hoffman, for several years with M. A. Gunst & Co., has been appointed manager of the cigar and tobacco department of the Red Front Clothing Co., Inc.

C. B. Poar & Co. announce that when their present stock of tobacco is disposed of they will retire from the tobacco trade and give their attention exclusively to the cigar end of their business.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. report continued large business in the Optimo cigars of A. Santaella & Co. The sales in their territory now aggregate from 800,000 to 1,000,000 per month, and all signs point to a record year of at least 10,000,000 sold in this territory. It is a case of high grade goods energetically and constantly pushed.

I. Danziger agent for the West Indies Cigar Co., has become local representative of Wertheimer Bros. of Baltimore, Md., a leading clear Havana and seed and Havana manufacturing concern of that city.

The text of the Indiana anti-cigarette law seems to prohibit cigarette smoking in the State, says United States Tobacco Journal. A State ruling, however, to the effect that the law only applies to dealers, and that the individual smoker can smoke as much as he pleases, provided he gets his material from outside the State, has been generally accepted. This situation has been taken advantage of by an enterprising tobacco manufacturer for the purpose of introducing a new brand. The mails of every town in the State of late have been flooded with small yellow envelopes addressed to all sorts of people, including ministers, little children and sometimes women. On being opened, each of these envelopes is found to contain seven packages of cigarette papers, each package bearing the words: "Keep this, yourself; don't give it away," as well as a brief description of the virtues of a certain brand of tobacco. According to the postal authorities, the average of the packages delivered daily is about five bushels. Parents of the children who have received them and some of the ministers to whom they have been sent, have called at the postoffice and protested against such deliveries at their homes. The postmaster, however, has informed them that it is his duty to deliver the packages to the addresses on the envelopes. Very little discrimination seems to be used in addressing the packages, as many of them are received by persons who obviously are not smokers. Those who do smoke, however, are now getting their papers free, and as tobacco is not under the ban of the law, the result is that cigarettes are cheaper in Indiana than before.

The Retail Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association of New York recently held an interesting meeting. The principal subject that came up was the plans for the forthcoming tobacco exposition. Upon this matter Sidney J. Freeman, chairman of the committee on arangements, spoke at some length. He declared that the manufacturers would reap most of the benefits of the enterprise, which would have the effect of widely advertising his goods, while the retailer would only profit incidentally. President Lane said that a scheme was under consideration to print a number of tickets of admission, which should be distributed among members of the association, the latter to give them gratis to their cstomers. By this means, it is believed that the retailer can not only advertise the exposition and the association, but also promote his own trade. The regular price for tickets bought at the door will be fifty cents. Mr. Lane had also something to say on his old bug-bear, price cutting. While he acknowledged that each man must conduct his business to suit its special exigencies, he deplored the practice of giving away goods gratis. It was usual for this system to be adopted by manufacturers introducing new brands, but the effect on the retailer was often bad, for the latter receiving part of his supplies for nothing was able to cut prices and still make a profit, a practice which had a demoralizing effect on the market. Speaking of the business of the association, Mr. Lane said that it was improving every day and predicted a time when there would only be two jobbers in the city, the association and the Metropolitan Tobacco Co.

TACOMA'S BIG OUTING.

The Grocers' Association of Tacoma is one of the important institutions of that city. Its motto is: "Make Tacoma Grow." Its fifth annual picnic at Spanaway Park on July 26th was one of the events of the year. The grocers responsible largely for the success of the outing were: President J. H. McDonald, Vice-President C. H. Buelow, Treasurer C. F. W. Bachman Secretary Gustav Beutlich, Directors Chas. H. Plass, Robert McLean, E. O. Erickson, R. S. Bennaotts, J. W. Fiddes, and the following committies:

General Chairman, J A. Sproule.

Executive—C. Ebert, J. W. Fiddes, R. S. Bennatts, O. Holmes, C. H. Buelow, E. O. Erickson

PLAN ANOTHER ROCHDALE.

Eureka, August 9th—D. D. Smith of San Francisco is soliciting subscriptions for the opening of a Rochdale store here. It is the intention to have the store owned by a corporation made up of citizens of Eureka, the shares to sell at $100 and giving no one the privilege of holding more than one share. All the stockholders in the company are to have their goods at wholesale prices, thus saving the middleman's profit. Whether or not he will succeed here is a question.

REPORTS BIG BUSINESS.

Mr. J. Todd Cook, a member and manager of the Spohn-Cook Co. of Los Angeles, is in the city visiting with his associates in the Spohn-Patrick Co.

Mr. Cook reports phenomenal sales of Carnation Cream and Snider's Catsup in Southern California.

FOUND THINGS CLEAN.

The editor of the "Delineator," a magazine for women, tells in his issue of September of a food-canning establishment he visited that was clean. From his comment, he evidently thinks this is unusual. A moment's thought should make him realize that modern comerce requires "system" for success and that dirt and disorder and system are not possible in the same establishment. It would be harder to find a cannery that was not clean than to find one such as he decribes. In his article he says:

"This visit was entirely unheralded by me and unexpected by the canners, so the prevailing conditions were those of every day. At the office I gave my card bearing the name of our magazine. An officer of the company, the treasurer, came to ask my business and I said that being interested in the methods of food preparation I would like to look over the plant. Without a moment's hesitation the gentleman became my guide, and I then investigated every department of a big business, from the refrigerating and cold storage rooms at the top, stocked with meats, game and vegetables of every kind, through the kitchens to the shipping department below, only to be astonished at, first, the hygienic methods to preserve purity; second, the absolute cleanliness of the entire establishment; and third, the neat and orderly appearance of the hundreds of employees. With such conditions in the best places, the others must fall in line, or their goods will surely remain unsold."

SYSTEM VS. SUCCESS.

Why One Man Succeeds Where Another Fails.

Some men always seem to succeed and do so without as much work and worry as others who fail.

The secret of this often lies in the method and system of the successful man's business. Watch what he does and you will see some of the secrets of his successful career.

Successful grocers all over the Coast as well as in the East are installing Rond Automatic Weighers, because they are a necessary economy to even a small grocer. You ought to learn about them.

Mr. T. W. Whiteley, the Salt Lake City manager for the Spohn-Patrick Co., is on his annual vacation and is spending this week at the home office of his company.

Mr. Whiteley reports big sales of Carnation Cream and Snider's Catsup with the free deal. It is now one year since last Mr. Whiteley visited San Francisco.

ROCHDALE STORE TO MOVE.

Escondido, August 10th—The stockholders of the Escondido Rochdale Co. held their semi-anual meeting on Tuesday. E. J. Loveless, J. W. Jobes and Ed Merriam were elected directors. These, in connection with Dr. E. G. Logan and D. F. Markle will conduct the affairs for the coming year. The meeting unanimously voted that the store room now being built in the bank block be rented as soon as completed and the Rochdale store be moved into it.

CAN UPHOLD PROFITS.

Manufacturers of Carpet Sweepers Establish Their Right to Dictate Selling Price.

The manufacturers of the Bissell Carpet Sweepers have recognized the great value of being able to guarantee the dealer that the price of their goods will not be cut. Shortsighted manufacturers seeing only the immediate notoriety that comes from price cutting, are often pleased when department stores and others give publicity to the fact that their goods are being sold at less than the standard price. They overlook the fact that the conservative dealers will eventually be forced to meet this cut price and the profit on the goods will be so lessened that dealers would not care to handle them any more.

In their advertising the manufacturers of Bissell Sweepers say definitely:

"It is the only carpet sweeper ever sold on the market under a sound policy of fixed retail prices that guarantee to the dealer a good profit."

Have Legal Right.

They do not take this step inadvisedly. Their goods have been cut from time to time, and as soon as they have learned of the cutting, they have taken energetic steps to have the same stopped. In a letter to a dealer in Southern California who has secured much notoriety as a price cutter, they say:

"The manufacturer of a patented article can absolutely and unqualifiedly fix the retail price upon it, and this right has been sustained by both English and American courts.

"One of the most recent cases of this kind, decided a short time ago, was that of the Victor Talking Machine Co., which secured a verdict against the Fair of Chicago. The Fair purchased Victor Talking Machines from a jobber and assumed that they had a right to sell them at any price they saw fit. The court however, held that since the manufacturer has the right to withhold his product from the market entirely, he certainly has the lesser right to fix the prices at which it shall be sold.

Cannot Cut on Watches.

"A similar decision was given in the case of Robert Ingersoll & Bro., the manufacturers of the Ingersoll watches, against Chas. Brown & Son. The Circuit Court of the United States for the district of California issued an injunction against Chas. Brown & Son for offering the same at less than the prices fixed by the manufacturer."

In conclusion of their letter to this cutter they said:

"If you continue to sell Bissell "Cyco" Sweepers at cut prices, which are at once seriously damaging to our interest and demoralizing to our trade in Los Angeles, we shall have to proceed against you. If any of your competitors are offering the cyco-bearing sweepers at less than fixed retail prices and are cutting we will se that same is stopped."

It remains only to be stated that the cutter, after consulting with his lawyer, found it advisable to cease cutting on the Bissell Sweepers.

MANUFACTURE DELICACIES.

Julius Bunzl, the well-known tamale man, is now conected with the Colonial Packing Co., 1123-1125 Howard street, who are devoting themselves to manufacturing delicacies under the "Colonial" brand. Besides a full line of delicacies, they make tamales and enchiladas. This firm is the sole agent for Colburn's California Olive Oil.

Tuesday Evening—The Banquet.

The banquet at the Yosemite Hotel was something to be long remembered. Forty grocers from Sacramento came up on a special train. Many of the grocers of Stockton were present and a number of the leading citizens of the city. The entire kitchen and waiting forces from both the Imperial and Yosemite hotels were employed, with the result that both in service and in the freshness and daintiness of the viands, nothing was left to be desired.

Plates were laid for 150 and there were few places at the table vacant.

The wine, which was of particularly fine quality, was the contribution of George West & Son. Ring Bros. of San Francisco also asisted in the entertainment of the Association by contributing two cases of Cooks Mineral Water.

The menu was as follows:

An Oratorical Feast.

One special feature of the evening was the fact that the speakers were intermixed with the other guests. This gave a pleasing air of spontaneity to the speaking.

Mr. Clark Wakefield, President of the Stockton Association, presided. With a brief address of welcome, he introduced W. E. O'Connor, Stockton's splendid secretary, who introduced each of the speakers with a brief but telling little speech.

The four special lights of the evening were F. B. Fancher, J. R. Newberry, L. Warnke and Frank B. Connolly.

Each shone in his own particular sphere.

Mr. Fancher's toast to the ladies was quite classic in its perfection and the finely rounded periods were delivered with the oratorical effect of a professional.

Mr. Newberry gave a talk on system that was not only full of sense but so full of interest that he enchained the constant attention of every man at the table.

Mr. Warnke sang a selection from Lohengrin and showed that he was not only possessed of a beautiful voice but that it was magnificently trained.

Mr. Connolly after telling several particularly good stories, read a topical poem that kept the entire table convulsed.

The other speakers all talked interestingly. The program was as follows:

PROGRAM.

President C. G. Wakefield presiding.
"Our feasts in every mess have folly."

W. E. O'Connor, Toastmaster.
"Look! he's winding up the watch of his wit; bye and bye it will strike. Then he will talk—good gods, how he will talk."

1. Address of Welcome—Eugene W. Drury. "Welcome, welcome, do I sing."
2. Response—Newly elected President. "So sweet and voluble is his discourse."
3. The Ladies—F. B. Fancher. "Drink to me only with thine eyes and I will pledge with mine."
4. Good Goods—Elias Kilgore. "There was room at the top—till I got there."
5. Sustem—J. R. Newberry. "Perfection is no trifle."
6. Overcoming Obstacles—J. F. Paulding. "Give me a lever and a place to stand and I will move the world."
7. Song—L. Warnke. "He is the sweetest of all singers."
8. Pacific Coast Our Territory—H. Hauch. "Bid me discourse, I will enchant thine ear."
9. Our City—Colvin B. Brown. "Let your light so shine."
10. Poem—F. B. Connolly. "The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling."
11. The Pioneer of Association Work—Jos. A. Stulz. "A man of courage is also a man of faith."
12. Troubles of an Editor—A. H. Powers. "And still the wonders grew that one small head could carry all he knew."
13. Pleasant Memories—C. B. Pearson. "Why should the devil have all the good times?"

Remarks—By J. W. Borchers and A. A. Jost.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Newberry gave the following brief resume of the general principles that would tend to help the dealer establish a system for his store.

ADVICE BY NEWBERRY.

Keep the key of your store yourself.

Buy your own goods and see that the quality and quantity is what you paid for.

Make every price made in your establishment the absolute and fixed retail price.

When wholesale prices are to be made, follow your own judgment.

See that your customers get what they buy at the price and time agreed on.

Teach your clerks the cost, quality and value of your goods. To do this, you must first know them yourself.

Lead your help, don't drive them.

One good pair of eyes is worth six pairs of hands.

Industry together with knowledge will give you a clean store.

Know what you are doing.

Keep a young lady to do your detail work and let you know every day what has been transacted in cash, credit, total sales and purchases.

Keep in touch with your clerks, your customers and your stocks and what is going on.

Know, do not guess.

Remember that knowledge and industry is the price of success.

System is the carrying out of a set of rules. Necessity causes the creation of these rules. Any rule that is not required by necessity, is foolish and a hindrance in your business instead of a help.

Don't mistake activity for usefulness. You can disorganize men more in ten minutes in the morning than you can build up all day.

Give your employees only predigested knowledge.

A merchant should know the following things: First, how he can buy intelligently; second, how he can conduct his business and make of his employees good citizens and honorable men and women; third, that he must extend loyalty if he expects to receive it; fourth, that if he tries to do more business than his capital will warrant, he will fail.

In the concluding address of the evening, C. B. Pearson, the retiring President, spoke eloquently of the change that had taken place among Stockton's grocers since the formation of the Association and paid glowing tribute to Jos. Vassalo and the late W. E. Ruffner, who had been instrumental in bringing about its formation.

WHEAT SACKS SCARCE.

Portland.—Scarcity of wheat sacks is a feature of the markets this year, and dealers here say there will not be sacks enough to go round. Many farmers are said to be constructing bins now, in order to save their grain until such time as sacks may be procured. "Last year sacks were plentiful at 6½ cents in the country," a prominent firm reported, "but this year they are up to 7½ cents and 7¾ cents, and still the cry goes up for more."

THEY WON WATCHES.

Six Retail Dealers Obtain Valuable Watches as Reward for Selling Ponce de Leon Coffee.

In last week's Advocate we published the names of the two San Francisco grocery firms to each of which were awarded one of the $60 solid gold Waltham watches which the Porto Rico Company had offered to the grocers in this city selling the most Ponce de Leon coffee between April 15th and August 15th.

As many of the customers of the Porto Rico Co. are in Utah, Montana and Idaho and elsewhere far distant from San Francisco the company in fairness to all dealers did not make the award to grocers outside of San Francisco until the last of the past week, in order that the reports of all agents to August 15th might be in when award should be made.

The result discloses that the enterprising merchants who have each won one of the watches are far scattered, and are as follows:

Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institute, Salt Lake City, Utah.

P. J. Brophy & Co., Butte, Mont.

Broadway Department Store, Los Angeles.

Hamilton Bros., San Diego, Cal.

WITHOUT PEER AS CLEANSER.

In the current issue of the Advocate will be found an advertisement of Twentieth Century Soap, of which Castle Bros. of this city are Pacific Coast agents.

This soap is highly endorsed as "a cleanser without a peer."

It was one of the most notable exhibits at the Pittsburg Pure Food Show held April 17th to May 6, last, under the auspices of the Retail Grocer's Association, and at the conclusion of the show received the following testimonial from the management:

Pittsburg, Pa., May 13, 1905.

Hoffheimer Soap Co., A. L. Jacobs, Pittsburgs Representative:

Dear Sir: It gives me pleasure to state from personal experience that Twentieth Century Soap stands without a peer as a cleanser, and your statement in your advertising literature is rather underdrawn, as there are so many things not mentioned that it can be used for with absolute success, covering all the uses to which soap is put from the bath to the coarsest work.

"Wishing you success in your introduction of a high article of merit and purity, I am, sincerely yours,

"H. A. McKELVEY, Secretary.

DIRECT LINE TELEPHONE CO.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Direct Line Telephone Co. was held Friday at the Alto building. The principal business was the election of the officers and directors. Joseph A Stulz was re-elected president; C. F. Runyan, first vice-president; George W. Emmons, second vice-president; William B. Pringle, secretary, and these, with the following, were elected as directors for the ensuing year: A. K. Andriano, C. K. Wertheimer and Robert Capelle. The financial statement was submitted and an effort will be made to increase the dividend this year.

INTERESTED MANY DELEGATES.

Grocers Learn Many Advantages of Register for Accounts.

One feature of unusual interest to the delegates attending the Convention of the State Grocers' Association at Stockton was a demonstration of the McCaskey Account Register, made by Mr. Frank, of the firm of Hawley & Frank, who are the Pacific Coast agents.

This register supplies the merchant with a wonderfully simple but effective system of keeping his accounts without regard to whether they are one hundred in number or fifteen hundred. It does for accounts what the cash register does for cash sales. It enables the merchant to know every night just what cash sales have been made and what credit sales. It keeps every account balanced and requires no more time to keep up than is required for a clerk to go to the cash register.

The system occasioned much favorable comment and created such a favorable impression that several orders were taken from the clever young business men in charge who made many friends among the delegates.

A glance at the advertisement on the first page of the cover will show to a limited extent something of this system. Full particulars can be secured by writing to Hawley & Frank, James Flood Building, San Francisco.

S. F. C. T. A. ELECT OFFICERS.

At their last annual meeting the San Francisco Commercial Travelers' Association elected the following officers:

President—Henry Heinz, of J. A. Drinkhouse & Co.

Vice-President—Frank McGeeney, of Lake & Co.

Recording Secretary—M. B. Mergen, of S. L. Leszynsky.

Financial Secretary—O. C. Sievers, of Tillmann & Bendel.

Treasurer—J. Armstrong, of Capitol Mills.

Sergeants-at-Arms—J. E. Brandon, Martin, Dangers & Camm; I. Iverson, Indepedent Wood Co.

Executive Committee—L. L. Remy, American Malting Co.; J. D. Wade, Tillmann & Bendell; P. Lange, Guillard Co.; E. C Smith, Vita Oil Co.; K. M. Borman, American Box Co.

Membership Committee—Nik Marisch, E. A. Fargo & Co.; W. H. Brown, Del Monte Milling Co.; Jack Devlin, Levenson & Co.

The organization has had a particularly prosperous year under the retiring president, C. C. Miller, of Kingan & Co. The records show 27 new members with no withdrawals. The attendance at the bi-monthly meetings have been developed by numerous social features, and have been greater than ever before.

At the last theatre party the funds of the organization were augmented by over $1000. Its success was due largely to the efforts of Emmett Dunn and H. H. Becker, who were particularly active, although it is a remarkable fact that every one of the eleven men on the entertainment committee attended every meeting of the committee, and all worked like Trojans.

The Asociation is very cosily quartered now at Laurel Hall, in the new Kreling Building, at 24 Eddy street.

SAN JOSE'S BANQUET.

Nearly fifty of San Jose's grocers attended the annual meeting and election last Friday night. L. Warnke of Alameda, J. G. Reed of Oakland and State Secretary Frank B. Connolly and Aaron H. Powers of San Francisco attended as the guests of honor.

The following officers were elected: President, H E. Jones; Vice-President, N. O. Bozelle; Treasurer, W. A. McDonold, Secretary J. Wm. Borchers.

D. W. Smythe was urged to retain the secretaryship, but as the representative of A. Schilling & Co. his time was so fully occupied that he insisted upon the employment of some one else who could devote more time to the office. Many knd and appreciative words were spoken of Mr. Smythe, and a vote of thanks was tendered him for having filled the position so long.

Mr. Borchers proposes to make every effort to increase the effectiveness of the organization.

A discussion of the desirability of retaining affiliation with the State Grocers' Association brought out the fact that the members realized that it was only through such co-operation that they could make the Association attain the greatest possible strength and effectiveness both in regard to influence with jobbers and manufacturers and also in securing recognition from the Legislature.

J. W. Borchers was elected to represent the Association at the State Convention, and he was allowed $15 to meet his expenses

A banquet, served at the Lemolle Grill after the meeting, was a very pleasant affair. There were many interesting talks made by the visitors, while J. H. Koerber, the man who really brought to the Association its first strength, spoke briefly but pointedly of the needs of the Association and the difficulties that beset the secretary.

HONORS FITTINGLY BESTOWED.

The introduction of the resolution extending the thanks of the grocers of California to A. Schilling & Co. for their pioneer work in maintaining retail prices that assured retail dealers of a fair profit was the occasion of a spirited discussion at the State Convention. Several delegates opposed the resolution on the ground that the Convention should not name any particular firm.

A number of delegates insisted that A. Schilling occupied a unique place among the manufacturers of the Pacific Coast in that he had not waited to be asked to take this position, but had been a pioneer in the movement to protect the dealer in his profit. It was urged, also, that while other firms had followed, many of them had required to be forced into line, while he had spent time and money in an effort to educate the trade to the necessity of having the manufacturer protect the retailer.

Most of those who opposed the resolution spoke in warm terms of their appreciation of the Schilling policy, and said they were pushing the Schilling goods. When they learned that Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. and the Globe Mills were also accorded a separate resolution of thanks, the resolutions were adopted with hardly a dissenting vote.

The grocery trade have learned to realize that the manufacturer who protects them and their trade from the malicious cutter is their friend indeed.

OPEN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

It will be a matter of special interest to the grocery trade to know that with the opening of September the Joseph Campbell Co., packers of high grade soups, etc., are going to open an aggressive advertising campaign in behalf of their products.

In the campaign they will use the highest class publications appealing directly to housekeepers, such as the Ladies' Home Journal, Delineator, Good Housekeeping, Ladies' World, Woman's Home Companion, Ainslee's, Country Collender, Table Talk, Boston Cooking School Magazine, etc., in which will be placed advertising of the most striking and effective character.

That such a campaign of education will be carried on makes the products of the Campbell Co. exceptionally desirable to handle.

The grocers of the Pacific Coast should take this action of the Joseph Campbell Company into account when placing orders for the season's supply of canned soups, etc.

PROVES A REPEATER.

X-Ray Stove Polish is proving one of the strongest repeaters that has been introduced into this market for some time. This is a powdered stove polish that possesses many advantages over the old paste stove polishes, both in the matter of economy in application and also effectiveness. It also pays the retail dealer a good profit.

The goods have been received with greater popularity even than Messrs. R. A. Holcombe & Co., the Pacific Coast agents, anticipated, and to-day X-Ray Stove Polish is accepted throughout their territory as the standard of excellence.

HARRIS HAILS FROM TAHOE.

ESTABLISHED RETAIL PRICES.

We give below the articles on which the manufacturers have established a retail price.

These prices are for common points like San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, and all terminal points.

Where freight is paid it is should be added to prices quoted if the nature of the goods will permit.

Every Association on the Coast has the privilege of listing these goods, as the manufacturers thereof have bound themselves to see that these prices prevail in California, Oregon and Washington.

We would urgently request grocers to notify us promptly of any instances where the above prices are not being maintained.

MECKFESSEL MADE PRESIDENT.

W. B. Meckfessel has been elected president and general manager of the Del Monte Milling Company, vice T. J. Parsons, deceased.

Clerk's Corner

Business Chances To-day.

"The commercial agencies' reports show that a large percentage of the men who engage in business are failures," said one of a group of several men dining together the other evening in an uptown restaurant.

"I have no doubt they are accurate," commented a second.

"They are believed to be so," said the first speaker, "but they do not really carry the discouragement that appears on the face of them.

"Some time ago I desired my son to engage in business instead of entering an overcrowded profession. One of his objections was this, that too many men failed in business—more than in the professions. I began an investigation of the many business failures. A large percentage are of very small concerns that carry little influence in the trade. They are confined to no locality. The reasons for these numerous failures in business in ordinarily prosperous times are principally a lack of knowledge and carelessness.

"That is the point I wish to make. I never neglect to urge my employes to aspire to become independent citizens by getting into a business of their own, but I invariably qualify it by the injunction that they must understand every detail of the business they undertake to conduct. After that they must exercise the greatest economy, care and industry to make it a success. Nothing is easy in itself, but all things become easy when the proper force is applied to them. That others have failed need not act as a discouragement to the ambitious. There are better opportunities for the young man with the proper qualifications to succeed in business for himself to-day than ever before."

Don't Be Too Old-Fashioned.

"All of us remember to a certain degree," said a prominent dry goods merchant of this city, "what our fathers told us when we were about to go out into the world to earn a living. I remember being instructed by my father, who was a merchant of the old school, never to waste anything, this being backed up by the text, 'wilful waste makes woeful want.'

"After having attained to a business of my own I had occasion to advertise for an office boy, and naturally wanted a bright, intelligent lad. In order to test the various applicants who presented at all likely I set them at various jobs. Two particularly attracted my attention, both being neat and bright looking. They were put to work unwrapping two packages of goods and placing them upon the counter. One little chap, evidently bearing in mind what had been told him at home, carefully unwound the string, wound it up, took the paper off, neatly folded that up, placed it away and finally put the goods on the counter, all of which occupied from 15 to 20 minutes. The other one whipped out a pocket knife, cut the cord, pulled the paper off, threw it under the counter, had the goods on the counter in a jiffy and immediately turned with the question: 'What next, sir?'"

The merchant paused and then continued: "Being an American I took the chap with the knife. He is my partner now."

Waiting for Something to Turn Up.

In this twentieth century no habit is more reprehensible than procrastination. But how many young men are idling along in their mediocre positions waiting for something to turn up. Nothing ever 'turns up" in the world If it does it is likely to be more damaging than beneficial. It is the duty of every one of the world's workers to make things turn up for him—to use every ounce of his ability and available energy in the development of his surroundings.

This is the difference between the life of the city and the life in pastoral villages and towns, here the strenuous example is in constant evidence, there it is peaceful, quiet and everything invites to repose and stagnation.

How often in the commercial world a young man wastes his good years in unproductive labor attended by comparative ease because he was waiting for luck to turn something up for him. At the same time his firm was begging for ideas and experimenting with suggestions that would place them in the lead of competitors. Don't loaf! Don't wait for anything better—seek it, and seek it ardently! Be strenuous!

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shreaded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

LIVELY LOS GATOS.

Los Gatos, Cal., Aug. 28, 1905.

A. H. Powers, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir: Not having noticed any news from Los Gatos for some time in the Advocate, we thought we would write you a line or two and tell you some news.

Two San Jose grocery merchants have opened branch stores in our lively little town.

John F. Cunan & Sons of East San Jose have recently purchased the grocery stock of E. B. Readhead on East Main streeet, near Church street, and they are running it in connection with their large grocery store in East San Jose. They are doing a strictly cash business and they are making things hum.

Willis Smith, son of the senior partner of the Smith Meat and Grocery Company of San Jose, has opened a new meat market and grocery store on East Main street near the postoffice. He has everything fixed up in the latest style and is making the Meat Trust drink their own blood and chew their own cud. He has built up an extra fine trade. This is the only strictly cash meat market in Los Gatos. It is known all over the country as Smith's Cash Market. Subscriber.

CODFISH CHEESE.

Consular Agent Keating, of Port aux Basques, Newfoundland, writes regarding the new process of putting up codfish, known as "fish cheese." He says it is prepared from fresh cod and is put up in sealed tins of one pound each, which are packed in cases of 48 pounds and sold to the trade wholesale at $7 per case of forty-eight one-pound tins. It retails in the United States at 25 cents per tin. Being put up in a really fresh state it makes a delicious hash, fish cake, or fish ball.

A FAVORABLE OUTLOOK.

Promise of Better Conditions for the Retail Grocers of the Pacific Coast.

The State Grocers' Convention at Stockton was particularly valuable in pointing out to the trade how the success in various communities had been won and the influences that had tended to prevent an equal success being secured in other communities.

J. R. Newberry showed that the grocers of Los Angeles had faced practically the same conditions that are confronting the grocers of San Francisco. It only required active effort on the part of a few leading dealers to change these conditions.

The great mass of the trade is willing to follow any leader that can show them better returns for their investment than what they are receiving. But, like the man from Missouri, they must be shown before they are willing to act.

A few of the men who dare things for themselves would be able, by taking the initiative, to secure the following of practically the entire body of the grocery trade as soon as they were able to show that they were in earnest and that their ideas were reasonable and capable of being put into practical operation.

Where Opposition Lies.

There will be a few grocers who would oppose a movement to better price conditions, merely to show how smart they were and because they are in opposition to anything that would tend to restrain unbridled license in the matter of conducting their business. There is another portion of the trade who would be pleased to seize an opportunity of advertising themselves by selling goods at a less price than their competitors if they were allowed to do so.

The latest class is made up, as a general thing, of men of more than ordinary intelligence who could easily be made to realize that their policy of opposition, while penny wise, was dollar foolish. As soon as this was brought about, they would become staunch supporters of the movement and their influence could be counted on to help them restrain those malicious competitors who come under the class of "trade anarchists."

San Francisco the Key Stone.

San Francisco is without doubt the key stone of the Association arch both for California and the Pacific Coast. It rests with the better class of grocers of this city to decide whether they shall sell their groceries with a profit or at a loss.

It was with these ideas in view that the Committee on "Maintainance of Prices" at the recent State Convention suggested the formation of executive committees of the leading grocers in each community where the trade was made up of stores of largely varying importance.

In San Francisco there are 150 dealers who could unite to demand certain recognition and consideration from any manufacturer and could make it plain that they were not only entitled to what they asked, but could make it unprofitable for the manufacturer to refuse their requests, especially since they would have the backing of all the leading grocers in every large community of the State and of many in Oregon and Washington.

The Big Stick.

In the address delivered by F. B. Fancher on Monday evening, that gentleman explained that they had had various fights with wholesalers and commission men in the beginning, and had won these fights. He added that they did not have to fight any longer. As he put it:

"A mere request on our part is enough now to secure for us what we desire."

The reason for this is that the grocers would not request anything unreasonable.

In addition to this, the grocers had the power to secure what they asked by force, if it should be refused them.

A similar condition exists in Southern California. It was brought about largely through the activity of the largest stores in ten different cities of Southern California.

In San Francisco, this same result can be secured if the united action of only fifty men could be counted on. It would be rendered absolutely certain if a hundred men would act together. With 150 stores acting as a unit, backed up by the San Francisco Grocers' Association and the Association members throughout the State, there would be no question of their influence after the first trial of strength had been made and their power for good had been exhibited.

Leaders Make Plans.

State President Warnke, State Secretary Connolly and State Organizer Powers are satisfied that there can easily be brought together in San Francisco 150 of the largest retail grocers of the city for the purpose of bringing about common action to prevent unfair, unintelligent and undesirable competition. As soon as the details are arranged, the approval of the directors of the State Association will be asked for these plans and an active campaign will then be taken up.

The plan was approved at the State Convention at Stockton, and there is no doubt about its effectiveness.

While the executive committee in San Francisco will not necessarily be made up of the members of the "S. F. Retail Grocers," all its influence will be brought to bear to have all the grocers possible keep up their membership in that organization, since it is desirable to have only one official organization of the retail grocers for this city. It is the idea of the managers of the State Association to have this executive committee confine its efforts entirely to the matter of regulating competition wherever it lies in the power of the manufacturers to take such steps with the backing of the retail grocers.

The existence of such an executive committee would add 100 per cent to the power and the influence of every association of retail grocers in the State of California and would also increase the power and influence of the associations of retail grocers throughout the entire Pacific Coast.

EDITORIAL FOOLISHNESS.

San Francisco "Chronicle" Talks Wildly About Grocers' Plans.

If the "Chronicle" were not so big a paper, a recent editorial in its columns would have seemed ridiculous. It stated in its editorial that the grocers are inconsistent when they demand of the jobbers that they shall refrain from selling to consumers and, in the same breath, ask that they shall be allowed among themselves the privilege of lessening the cost of their insurance by forming mutual fire insurance companies.

The retail grocers are a part of a great machine which distributes the goods that the wholesale trade purchase in large quantities. The retail grocers go to a large expense in building up their capacity as distributors. When a wholesale firm makes use of this machine that the retail trade have built up, it is expected that they will pay the price for that service, which is that they shall send out all the goods they handle through this channel.

When any firm of wholesalers, overlooking the vast obligation they owe to the retail grocers for distributing their goods for them, seeks to secure a little temporary advantage by selling directly to some consumers who would otherwise buy of a retailer, they make for themselves the profit that would otherwise go to the retail distributor. That firm then takes an action that is distinctly unfriendly to the retail stores who are, in a light, their employees, and robs that employee of a part of the pay due him for services rendered.

Under the circumstances there is only one action for the employee to take; that is, to refuse further to serve an employer who robs him of the wages at the first opportunity, and confine his services to such firms as are willing to pay the full price that his services are unquestionably worth.

A Question of Advisability.

Every wholesale grocer in the country has a perfect right to sell to any consumer in the country if he so desires. This is not questioned.

At the same time, the retail grocers have a perfect right to purchase their goods from any firms of wholesalers they may desire.

This being so, they would be very foolish to serve a firm who seeks to compete directly with them for business that is essential for their fullest prosperity, and, by so doing add to the influence of such a firm, while there are numerous establishments that are perfectly willing to pay them for their help by doing business with them exclusiveley.

The difference between the action of the retail grocers in demanding that jobbers shall not sell to consumers and the asking for a mutual fire insurance law is very evident.

Legal Interference Different.

Prompt delivery is a virtue to be cultivated. It may not seem important to you if Mrs. Smith's can of corn is an hour behind time, but it may make a lot of difference to Mrs. Smith.

Educating the trade should be a part of every grocer's business. The taste for some lines like olives and olive oil has to be cultivated. By demonstrating these lines to the trade a good business can often be worked up.

Change the stocks around in the store once in a while. It means that you are alive. The same old cans in the same old place, week after month, soon become exceedingly monotonous, not only to the clerks, but to the trade.

Bright's disease and diabetes reap a large harvest among traveling men, while clerks in stores suffer more from consumption, due to long hours of indoor work. The death rate among clerks, however, is a little below the general standard.

Coffee and tea must be uniform in order to please. It is better to give a customer the goods she or he is used to than to take the risk of offending by giving the customer a superior article, particularly if the new goods are different in style from the old.

A Bedford, Mass., grocer, who refused to close his store on Thursday afternoon at the request of other merchants of the town is now being boycotted by Eastern wholesalers. He has engaged counsel to sue the wholesalers who refuse to sell goods to him.

In the process of polishing, rice loses an outer coating that it nutritious and well flavored, and yet unpolished rice, with more varied nutriment and by some considered of better flavor than the polished rice, would not find ready sale to a Northern housekeeper.

With so much tea in the country and with prices so low in consequence, the grocers should make a special effort to increase sales along this line. Jobbers say—at least some of them do—that the sales of tea have fallen off the past year in favor of coffee. Maybe the tea trade has been neglected.

A shipment of 500,000 pounds of the breakfast food known as "Force" was recently received at Galveston from Liverpool, England. It was sent from Galveston by rail to San Francisco, to be shipped from there to Australia. It would seem from this that this American food product had found little favor in England, but was expected to suit their Antipodean cousins.—Journal of Commerce.

Pineapples are not only a fine dessert for the table, but one of the finest articles as a medicine. For indigestion they beat all medical preparations known to science. The eating of one or two slices after a meal will aid the digestion of food to such an extent that it creates an appetite. For throat trouble the juice of the pineapple straight, or in a syrup form, is exceedingly fine. It is a sure cure for croup among children. Whooping-cough is also relieved by its use. Some mild cases of diphtheria have been known to be cured by its use. For colds for adults the pineapple juice, in connection with whisky and syrup, is exceedingly beneficial.—American Grocer.

Flour depends for its general condition almost as much upon the dealer's care as upon the miller's skill, vigilance and integrity. Many a barrel of good flour has failed to give satisfaction to the consumer because the storekeeper has failed to take proper precautions in storing it. The places where flour is stored should be well ventilated, and the barrels should be raised above the floor, upon strips of wood, in order to allow the circulation of air beneatb them. Otherwise the flour may become damp or lose its sweetness of flavor. Flour stored in a hot and close atmosphere may become wormy or cause bread made from it to soon spoil. Flour absorbs foreign odors very readily.

It has been noticed that the windows containing mirrors conveniently placed for passersby to see their features, will attract men and women, and it is even asserted that goods placed immediately beneath a mirror, where they must be seen by anybody looking into the mirror, sell faster than anything else in the same window. Mirrors have other good uses for window-dressing dealers.

Here is a window attraction which always pleases, simple as it is: Soak a large piece of coarse sponge in water, squeeze half dry, then sprinkle in the openings red clover seed, millet, barley, lawn grass, oats, rice, etc. Hang this in the window, where the sun shines a portion of the day, and sprinkle lightly with water daily. It will soon form a mass of living green vegetation very refreshing to the eyes.

PROFITS IN GELATINE.

The attention of the grocery trade is being called to Plymouth Rock Gelatine, which is being introduced to the Pacific Coast trade by the Fred F. Hobbs Co. This gelatine is sold to the grocery trade at $1.10 per dozen, with 1 dozen free with each three dozen purchased, thus making the cost about 82½ cents per dozen where four dozen packages are purchased. At this price, the grocers are able to secure a very handsome profit with the Plymouth Rock Gelatine as a 10-cent seller.

Although it has been on the local market only a few weeks, Mr. Hobbs reports numerous repeat orders from those who put it in stock early. This was brought about largely through the fact that with each carton containing a dozen packages, the grocers were given a dozen sample packages, each of which will make a pint of jelly. By the distirbution of the samples the grocers were able to introduce the gelatine to their trade, thus making the selling of the goods comparatively easy and simple.

GREECE'S CURRANT CROP.

Consul Horton, of Athens, reports that a request made by the Currant Bank of Greece upon its agents for estimates of the probable extent of the currant crop for the present year elicited reports from all the provinces and that the aggregate of these estimates places this year's crop at 355,845,000 liters (126,257 gallons) against 312,000,000 liters, (109,824 gallons) for the preceding year. If no adverse conditions occur through rain or disease in August, when the curants will be ready for shipping, the output will exceed that of last year by about 44,000,000 liters, equivalent to about 17,000 gallons.

LADIES WERE DEE-LIGHTED.

With this heading the "Record" of Stockton prints the following:

"A graceful acknowledgment of the appreciation which the visiting ladies who accompanied the delegates to the Grocers' Convention felt for the many kindnesses and courtesies shown them during their stay in this city was rendered at the reception held in their honor Tuesday evening, by their drawing up a personally signed letter of thanks to the local association.

"The entertaining of the wives of the delegates was an innovation, as it was something that had never been done at any other State Convention. The letter of appreciation follows.

"To the Gentlemen of the Stockton Retail Grocers' Association and Your Ladies: We wish to express our appreciation of the many courtesies extended to us during our stay in Stockton. You have made us feel that we made the various entertainments tendered us doubly pleasurable. We are all delighted with Stockton and its charming and interesting grocers and their wives. Mrs. A. H. FOOD PRESERVATIVES.

Dr. D. F. Ragan, San Francisco's Health Officer, Argues Against Their Use.

In his annual report, dated June 20, 1905, Dr. D. F. Ragan comments on the use of chemical food preservatives of an injurious nature as follows:

"Much has been written upon this subject.

"Chemical and bacteriological research have proven the value of the addition of chemical substances in the preservation of food, but statistics are lacking which show the ultimate action of these chemicals upon the human organism. A superficial reading of the authorities seems to indicate that none of these chemical adulterants added to food, work any serious hardship upon the human economy. But these conclusions have not been obtained by any scientific experiments of these chemicals upon the human body.

"Experiments upon the lower animals have shown the indication of these chemicals to be decidedly injurious, and by inference it is presumed that an equal amount of damage would result to the human being to whom similar chemicals had been administered.

"Experiments made by the Chemical Division of the Agricultural Department at Washington, D. C., all tend to prove the harmful action on the digestive and elminative organs—principally the kidneys—in dealing with these chemical preservatives.

"It seems to be a fact, which cannot be gainsaid, that large doses of these preservatives prove toxic in the human being, almost immediately; and smaller doses, within apparently safe limits, prove toxic after repeated and long-continued ingestion of these same preservatives.

"It is argued by those who oppose action of the constituted authorities against the use of these adulterants, that the use of these preservatives not only proves harmless when used in food intended for consumption, but really proves healthful in that they prevent the untoward effect of tainted foods. The plausibility of this argument is at once upset when we consider that it is a preposterous assumption that the alternative of "preserved food" is "tainted food."

"The individual is entitled to absolutely pure food, and if this for any reason, cannot be furnished to him, then he is entitled to foods preserved by means not objectionable to the laws of public or personal hygiene. To illustrate: If one is to receive a food which cannot immediately be served to him in an absolutely pure state, then he is entitled to know that the same has been preserved by such agents as cold, heat, or the addition of such harmless preservatives as salt or vinegar.

"Dr. Eccles has recently written a book upon the subject of "Food Preservation," which has created confusion in the minds of the lay reader as to the effects of food preservatives.

"Recent editorials in some of our local journals, which have upheld the work of the pure food crusade, show signs of faltering faith when they quote some of the apparently trenchant sentences from Dr. Eccles' book. Here is a sample: In the publication quoted appears this statement: 'More deaths occur from the use of foods not treated by preservatives than those treated by preservatives, as shown by the statistics of deaths reported from toxicosis, chief of which are cases of ptomaine poisoning.'

"This is a bold statement, and the force of it seems to have reached the solar plexus of the reasoning centers of the minds of the lay editors. The calmer view of this statement shows that no classification of mortality statistics show the contributory causation of preservatives; while statistics do furnish a contributory agency of impure food as a causal factor.

"It is easy to be bold in such statements when they are not subject to judicial review.

"Extremists develop in every controversy, and it is not to be wondered that the champions of poisoned food should rise to meet the contentions of the champions of purity in food products.

"Dr. Eccles also champions the use of preservatives on the ground that it satisfies an economical social want in that the use of them lightens the burden upon the poor consumer. This is true, but the ultimate conclusion is, that while it lightens the burden of today, upon the present consumer, it adds to the burden of the race in that it introduces a factor which counts for decay and degeneracy; and, as a race deteriorates, so the very foundation of society crumbles and the economical policy has at last proved suicidal. In other words, self-destruction is the final result of all these unnatural ingredients introduced into the human economy; if in large doses death is imediate, and self-apparent, while in small doses death is delayed; if not in the existing generation as an immediate result, then in the generations to come, as a remote result.

"Therefore, let the champions of adulterants be the champions of self-destruction, race destruction, etc., and organize themselves as the Simon Pure Suicide organization, of which Dr. Eccles may be the guide and philosopher. Let this enlistment, however, be of the volunteer rather than the conscript order."

A STRONG CALL.

San Jose's Banquet Invitation Carries Many Logical Ideas.

The San Jose Grocers' Association invited every grocer in their city to their recent banquet. In the invitation they devoted a page to the following:

THE REASON

The Retail Grocers' Association as well as the associations of other sections of the State is adapted for the cash grocer as well as the credit grocer, the large grocer and the smaller dealer, those in the down town districts and those in the outside district, the grocer who advertises and the one who does not advertise—all kinds. It is a compromise of interests. You are a grocer; therefore this invitation, and whether you are a member of this association or not you are equally welcome and urged to be present on this occasion.

Kindly reply on enclosed postal not later than Wednesday night as to your acceptance of invitation, when ticket will be sent you, if favorable.

The gathering will assemble in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce 40 North First Street, prior to the banquet.

A. P. Lepesh.,
J. W. Borchers.
H. E. Jones.
J. A. Belloli.
W. A. MacDonald, Secretary.
N. A. Bozelle, Chairman.

This call was written by D. W. Smythe, a representative of A. Schilling & Co., who served the grocers of San Jose as secretary for some time. They finally accepted Mr. Smythe's resignation with resolutions of regret, and J. Wm. Borchers was elected to the position.

SELL THE BEST.

People want ham and bacon sweet and of fine grain. When they get tough, coarse-grained and salty meat, they are dissatisfied, no matter how cheap it might have been. When they eat the kind that tastes like "more" they say. "Now that's the store I'm coming back to," and they tell their friends.

It is this fact that has secured for the Cudahy Packing Co. their enormous trade in Diamond "C" hams and bacon.

Quality like this can only be secured by carefully choosing the animals, and then, as carefully, curing the meat. The attention paid to the selection and the preparation of their Diamond "C" goods is the secret of their success.

EDITORIAL FOOLISHNESS.

show that the percentage of fire losses in California is considerably below the average for the United States, yet those same statistics show that the cost of buying insurance in this State is far in exces of that for the entire country. This is true because the Insurance Trust has so controlled the laws of California that the merchants are absolutely forbidden from uniting and hiring a capable man to underwrite their insurance at a fair margin.

In other words, the formation of mutual fire insurance companies on safe conditions such as rule in a few other States of the country, is absolutely forbidden by law in California.

Should the State Grocers' Association secure a law similar to that now in operation in other States, they would not seek to discontinue paying a third party for underwriting them. They would merely build up a machine by which carefully trained insurance men would be willing to write their insurance at a fair price and without that vast unnecessary expense which the recent scandal in the Equitable Insurance Co. of New York has shown permeates the large insurance companies.

How great this saving would be will be realized from the fact that the last report of the State Insurance Commissioner E. Myron Wolf showed that while over $10,000.000 had been paid for fire insurance in California during the past year, less than $4,000,000 had been distributed as losses. Allowing $3,000,000 as the expense of securing this business, etc., it means that the enormous sum of $3 000,000 has been taken out of California to help pay the fancy salaries of Eastern and foreign insurance companies, since there is only one California Insurance company operating in this field. And this drain has been going on for years.

Fixed by Competition.

The matter of the retail grocers requiring wholesalers not to sell to consumers is wholly a matter of competition to be regulated by supply and demand.

As soon as the trade of consumers is worth more to any firm than the trade of the retailers, they not only will have the power, but they would unquestionably be willing to sell entirely to consumers, and there would be no one, least of all a retail grocer, to question their right so to do or to ask for a law forbidding it.

The matter of being forced to pay in the neighborhood of 40 per cent more than is actually necessary for fire insurance is something that the retail grocers of California face because of the law which is controlled by the great Insurance Trust.

AN EDITOR SECRETARY.

Charley Thorpe, of "The Retail Grocers' Advocate," was made secretary of the State Association and was presented with a floral offering all in one day. Charley is "getting there with both feet." New York State Factory cheese, cheddars, to 15½ cents; twins, to 16 cents; California State Factory Young Americas, to 13 to 15 cents.

Apricots, choice sacks, to 9 cents; fancy, to 10 cents; 25-lb. boxes, to 10½ cents.

Peaches, choice in sacks, to 10 cents; extra choice, in sacks, 10½ cents; fancy in sacks, to 11 cents.

Pioneer white lead, to 7¼ and 8 cents.

Fancy Bayo beans, to $4.65.

DECLINES.

Local cure hams, all averages, to 12 to 14½ cents; boiled hams with skin on, to 18¼ cents.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Department of Agriculture for California says:

"The hay crop is the best for several years in nearly all parts of the State. The prospects for beans in some sections are promising. The yield of grapes will not be so heavy as estimated a few weeks ago, owing to the extreme heat in July and a few days of this month. It is estimated that the orange crop of Southern California will be the heaviest ever harvested. Walnut, almonds and olives are in good condition. Almond picking has commenced."

SUGAR.

August 28th — Telegraphic advices from New York report a further decline on raws in Europe to a basis of 3.95 cents; also indications of a probable change in refined in New York soon. Advices during the past week have indicated a very unsettled market. On August 23d sales were reported of 10,000 tons of raw sugar on a 4-cent basis. The market grew weaker during the latter part of the week and on Monday opened with a sale of 2,000 tons, prompt shipment, Cuba, basis 3.95 cents. European beet sugar was reported weak and lower with refined unchanged.

New York, August 24th—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—We have to report the market unsettled since our last review. Prices declined steadily on sales of Cubas and centrifugals, which were quoted at 4 cents. According to advices from Europe, the decline is said to be due to the fear that the beet crop will be the largest on record. The close is barely steady, with the prospect that the price here, although very low, may not have touched bottom yet.

Refined—There is no material change to note. Supplies already engaged cover the wants of most of the trade for two weeks longer. Sooner or later reductions will no doubt be made following the decline in raws.

GLUCOSE.

Philadelphia, August 25th—The "Grocery World" reports.

"It is now definitely known that the New York Glucose Company, which is the name of the glucose trust, has made peace with the independent companies. All the glucose houses have concurred in the advances of the last few weeks. There is nothing certain as to a further advance. The outside glucose companies started fighting against the New York Glucose Company because it had taken certain yearly cut rates. They showed their displeasure by cutting prices and forcing the New York Glucose Company also to drop. The prices have already advanced 20 points and syrup 2 cents per gallon."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The coffee market is very fluctuating, and roasters are not buying nearly as freely as last week. They are looking for lower prices, which we do not regard as likely under present conditions.

"The visible supply is small and the demand is large. So far this year 56,000 more bags of coffee have been sold in this market than at this time last year, some of it going to outside points."

New York, August 24th—Willett & Gray report:

"There has been a steady market with an active demand. It is generally admitted that assortments in the hands of the interior trade will necessitate steady purchases to keep up with requirements. Confirmation among dealers is improving. Definite crop reports prove a much smaller yield this season than people were led to believe. There remains no doubt whatever that the production of the current season will be considerably less than consumption. The frost damage in Sao Paulo, which is confirmed from several reliable quarters, forces the conclusion that a large crop of Santos next season is out of the question."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"Cable advices received from Japan Tuesday announce an advance of two cents per pound in Japan teas.

"Gunpowders have also advanced two cents in the primary markets.

"Congous are extremely scarce and the advance noted in our last reports is fully maintained.

"Oolongs are still selling at the same price as last year."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market is in good condition, but little trading is reported, as buyers are holding off for new crop."

CANNED FRUITS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association have withdrawn their prices entirely on extra apricots, cherries of all descriptions, peaches of most varieties as well as on pie peaches and pears. All grades of canned fruit are firm. Pears are still strongly held, although the size of the pack is far in excess of what was expected.

M. J. Fontane, general superintendent of the California Fruit Canners Association, says that the three plants at Fresno, Hanford and Visalia have put up more than 15,000,000 cans more than last year.

CANNED TOMATOES.

During the past week the prices of canned tomatoes have advanced about 10 cents per dozen. Tomatoes that were being offered at 62½ cents and 65 cents two weeks ago are now bringing 75 cents. This is the Association price both for spots and futures. Outside packers are not making prices, as many of them expect an 80-cent price. This is based on the fact that Utah will have only a one-fourth pack, while the pack of Colorado will be light, and the California pack will be much less than that of 1904, since the low prices of tomatoes during the past year discouraged the planting of the vines. The shortage in the Last will, it is thought, mean that the Rocky Mountain States and states west of the Missouri River will look to California for from 100,000 to 200,000 cases of their goods. This will tend to strengthen the California market materially.

New York, August 28th—Tomatoes are firm. Several large sales have been made at 85 cents, with 87½ cents asked.

Philadelphia, Pa., August 25th—The "Grocery World" says that a syndicate of canned goods speculators have been gathering from between 150,000 to 500,000 cases of tomatoes since January 1st, which has cost them from 60 to 70 cents. They could be sold at present prices for a good profit, but the syndicate is expecting still higher prices.

Baltimore, Md., August 18th—The "Trade" says:

"Rains like those of last spring have been marking the present week of August. This excessive rain was injurious to the crops. The returns of tomatoes on the Chesapeake region are so small that the market stalls are taking nearly all that are received at 40 to 55 cents per bushel. The canneries have to wait for better conditions. The market for canned tomatoes shows clearly that these facts are well known to the buyers, and the market is firm in sellers' favor. Quotations are as follows:

No. 3 Standards, 75 to 80 cents; No. 2 Standard, 55 cents; No. 3 Seconded, 70 cents; Gallons, $2.

CANNED CORN.

The corn pack will be late this season, but otherwise the situation is normal.

Baltimore, Md., August 18th—The "Trade" reports.

"Correspondents write that corn is not filling out in the ears and that large quantities will go to fodder. Packers in Maine and New York are becoming very short for their needs, and some canneries have shut down entirely. Quotations are:

"New York, 80 to 85 cents; Maine, $1.05 to $1.10; Maryland, 77½ to 80 cents; Dry pack and Western, 75 to 80 cents.

CANNED PEAS.

Baltimore, Md., August 18th—The "Trade" reports:

"Buying of peas is at last setting in. As there are no very heavy amounts to trade in, the packers are not cutting prices. The buyers are finding that they made a mistake in delaying with the hope that the season would make cheaper prices at its end."

DRIED FRUIT.

The dried fruit market continues to show strength with first hands entirely withdrawn on peaches and apricots. The situation has developed unlooked-for strength. The crop of dried apricots is now out of the way. It is estimated at 16,000 tons. The crop of dried peaches is estimated at 18,000 tons, and apples at 1,500 to 2,000 tons. The Eastern trade has been holding off on new business, thinking the prices too high.

Yuba City—Another heavy rain fell here last week, in addition to Sunday night, has done considerable damage to peaches and prunes. The greatest damage reported has been in almond orchards.

Los Gatos—Dried apricots are selling at 7 to 7½ cents. Prunes are selling on a 3-cent basis, with some sales as high as 3¼ cents. Deliveries are falling short of contracts in nearly every instance.

RAISINS.

New York, August 28th—Spot raisins are strong. Choice seeded are practically exhausted. Spot Coast seeded are higher.

Fresno, August 27th—Raisin growers are alarmed owing to the shortage of labor available for gathering the crop of grapes. Both the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads have been asked to reduce their rates in order to allow laborers to come to Fresno. Many laborers have been taken to Colorado and Utah to work newly developed sugar beet lands, and others are employed in the hop fields where the work usually is over ten days before grape picking begins. Growers will have to pay about 10 per cent more for labor this year.

PRUNES.

New York, August 28th—The market is firm. Spots are in fair demand from 2¾ to 2 7-8 cents, with futures quiet at 3½ cents, Coast basis.

Los Gatos, August 27th—The prune crop is considerably shorter than estimated. Short sellers have been covering and have purchased freely on a 3 and 3¼-cent basis. There are rumors that 3½ cents have been paid in some instances.

DRIED PEACHES.

Stockton, August 25th—Nearly 5,000 boxes of peaches have been placed in the local cold storage plant, to be put on the market as soon as peaches grow scarce.

Porterville—Griffin, Skelley & Co. are paying 7 to 8 cents for peaches.

DRIED APRICOTS.

San Jose, August 26th—A well-known orchardist estimates the damage to the apricots during this year's hot spell at 20 per cent. Another grower states that about 10 per cent are falling to the ground and went to waste.

Ventura—The output of apricots this year will be 1,000 to 1,200 tons, against 1,500 tons last year. Growers are refusing 7 cents, feeling certain they will get 8 cents. Several sales have been made at 7½ cents.

Santa Paula—About half of the crop of this district has been sold at prices ranging from 6½ to 7 cents.

Elsinore—A carload of dried apricots was loaded last week at prices ranging from 6 to 7 cents.

Haywards—Several sales of dried apricots are reported at 7½ cents.

Watsonville—Dried apricots around Bloomington were all pooled and sold at 6 cents per pound.

Hemet—Antonion Abreau has sold a car of dried apricots to the Armsby Company at 7¼ cents.

DRIED APPLES.

The first of the new crop of evaporated apples are now arriving.

DRIED FIGS.

New York, August 24th—The first shipment of new figs arrived from Smyrna on Saturday.

WALNUTS.

Ventura—The walnut crop at Saticoy is improved materially during the past two weeks.

ALMONDS.

Quotations on new Nonpareil and I. X. L. almonds were recently sent out at 13½ and 12½ cents respectively. These have since been withdrawn. Guggenheim & Co. are quoting a small stock of new goods at N. P., 15 cents; and I. X. L., 14 cents.

BEANS.

Goleta, Cal., August 17th—The bean vines are making prodigious growth, but are putting on very few pods. It is thought this is the result of exceptionally foggy weather.

Oxnard, Cal.—The Lima bean outlook for the Carpinteria section was never better. Blackeyes are also yielding well.

HONEY.

Hemet—J. W. George, a director of the California Honey Producers' Association, which represents about one-fourth of the bees in the southern seven counties of the State, says:

"All crops in the Southwest are below par. Southern California will produce about one-third of a crop, with fair prospects in the Central part of the State. Colorado will have about 60 per cent of a crop. Wyoming will have the lightest in years. The Association is advising its members to hold their crops to the following prices: White, 5 cents; light amber, 4¾ cents; amber, 4 cents.

CANNED SALMON.

The past week has shown much excitement in the canned salmon market. It was rumored on August 23d that the Alaska Packers' Association was about to withdraw prices on all brands of red Alaska. On August 24th, the rumor became a well-founded report, and on August 25th the report was verified. Outside packers met the cut without allowing rebates on futures. On Monday of this week it was found that the jobbers had taken up practically all their needs of red Alaska and there was a rumor that the advance was pending. It is said that over 1,000,000 cases of red Alaska weer sold at the decline. In their circular the J. K. Armsby Co. agreed to rebate 15 cents to customers who had purchased Alaska reds from them since their $1 price was announced, provided that the customers duplicated their original order immediately at 85 cents per dozen, such rebates to be deducted from the invoice.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY

New York, August 28th—Wholesalers are reselling Alaska red to retailers at $1. The reported heavy shortage on the Columbia River pack is turning attention to sockeyes and confirmations are more numerous than at any time since prices were named. Rumors of a cut of 5 cents on sockeyes are rife, but are not considered well founded.

Bellingham, August 26th—Without doubt more than 1,000,000 cases of salmon have been packed by the Puget Sound canneries this season. The fall catch will swell the aggregate considerably. The Bellingham Cannery of the Pacific-American Fisheries upheld its reputation as the largest fish cannery in the world by putting up 180,000 cases, or nearly double the pack of any other salmon cannery.

Astoria, August 26th—According to figures given by canners to the Associated Press, the salmon pack of the Columbia River will only be 300,000 cases. There are some who figure the pack as low as 250,000. The majority of canners expect the output to approach that of last year's pack of 350,000 cases. The canneries are largely oversold since every concern had at least 40 per cent more gear in use this season than last year, while the cold storage men took 1,600,000 lbs of fish. The season has not been a failure, although it has not been so good as last year from the standpoint of the cannerymen.

Blaine, Washington, August 25th—It is reported that the seven Blaine and Port Roberts canneries have so far packed a total of 368,000 cases, of which 325,000 are sockeyes.

Anacortes, August 25th—Six local canneries are estimated to have packed 324,000 cases of sockeyes, whereas cans were made for approximately a 500,000 case pack. As guarantee contracts were made with the Chinese for the full pack, the labor bill for the full amount will have to be paid. The pack of humpback and silver sides will not reach over 30,000 cases. Instead of the 20-day big run of sockeyes expected there were only 12.

Bellingham, Wash., August 24th—The "Pacific Fisherman" estimates the Puget Sound pack of salmon at 800,000 cases.

Seattle, August 25th—Captain D. H. Jarvis, general manager of the Northwestern Fisheries Company, estimated the Alaska pack of salmon this season at 1,600,000. Nearly all the salmon variety known as Alaska reds. Captain Jarvis states that the total pack of the 32 canneries operating this year would perhaps fall some 200,000 cases short of that of last year.

Seattle, August 26th—The "Trade Register" says:

"Local brokers report the sockeye market firm at opening prices, and that offers of less money are being declined all along the line. They estimate that between 25 and 40 per cent of the sales booked before the naming of prices have been confirmed at the prices named. Buyers as a rule are reported taking sockeyes in small quantities and increasing their purchases of other grades, particularly Alaska reds."

New York, August 19th—The "Journal of Commerce" says:

"Brokers are said to be offering cuts on sockeye salmon, agreeing to confirm orders at $1.25 for talls, $1.35 for flats and 95 cents for ½-lbs. Leading trade authorities express the opinion that there was not the slightest foundation for the rumors on cut prices. New England jobbers are reported to be confirming orders freely at the opening prices.

Seattle, August 24th—A United States revenue cutter, while cruising in Bering Sea, found four Japanese schooners engaged in salmon poaching off Atto Island, and 30,000 salted salmon were captured.

CODFISH.

Jobbers predict a steady market on Pacific codfish for the next thirty days, and a slump in prices after that time, owing to the new fish coming on the market. The San Francisco codfish fleet now in Bering Sea is reported to have made a good catch. They will probably start for this port on September 15th, and will bring about one million fish.

Seattle, August 24th—The schooner Harold Blekum returned to this port yesterday with 142,000 codfish. This is the largest catch made by any one single vessel for many years. The Blekum has been cruising for more than four months.

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The market is steadily firming."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"A feature of the market has been the heavy arrivals by water, very nearly 50 per cent of arrivals being by schooner. Of this there is practically no good quality hay, the bulk of shipments being alfalfa and low-land oat hay. Everything points towards a continuance of heavy shipments both by water and rail for the next four or five weeks.

"One disappointing report for the the week is that the Manila contract for 2500 tons of hay will probably be let on Puget Sound.

"Alfalfa is now arriving quite freely with strictly choice third-cutting holding its own and poorer grades weaker. Other grades remain unchanged, with the exception of barley and oat hay, of which none is arriving at present.

Choice wheat hay, $12.50 to 13.50.
Other grades, same, $9.50 to $10.50.
Other grades, wheat, $7.50 to $9.00.
Wheat and oat, $8.00 to $10.00.
Tame oat, $7.00 to $10.50.
Oat and clover, $5.50 to $8.50.
Wild oat, $5.00 to $8.00.
Barley and oat, $7.00 to $9.50.
Stock hay, $4.50 to $5.50.
Alfalfa, $5.50 to $9.00.
Straw, per bale, 25 to 40 cents.

"GOOD ON YOU."

The "Leader" of Point Richmond approves of the action of the grocers at their recent State Convention, as follows:

"'Pay up,' says the California Retail Grocers' Association. That was the concensus of the meeting held at Stockton yesterday. The grocers have a big blacklist and they are after the man who does not pay his grocery bill good and strong. Every line of business should have such protective associations and there would be less bill beating."

Cigars and Tobacco

Herman Moss, of the S. R. Moss Cigar Co., has opened offices at 207 Battery street.

H. Anton Bock, manufacturer of the Don Antonio clear Havana cigars, is due to arrive in this city shortly.

Sam Caro is in the city in the interest of Pedro Madrone & Co., who will deal directly with the retail trade.

The new retail store of M. A. Gunst & Co. at Taylor and Market streets is now open. Jack Wilson is the manager.

Telephone order swindlers are now operating in New England. The method of working is to telephone in an order giving the name of some well known store and then send a man after them, who takes the goods elsewhere.

Internal Revenue receipts from the tobacco industry during the past fiscal year were $45,659,910, an increase of $1,000,000 over the previous year. Though tobacco provides but 20 per cent of the internal revenue, it provided 80 per cent of the increase.

Advices from Porto Rico indicate that labor troubles in the island are gradually being settled and promise to be adjusted shortly. The American West Indies Trading Co. has settled its difficulties satisfactorily, and other firms are progressing in the same direction.

The Amercan Tobacco Co. and the Morton Trust Co. has filed an answer to the suit of Richard F. Dana of New York, who seeks to have set aside the merger of the original tobacco company and the Continental and Consolidated Tobacco companies into the present corporation. The answer contains a denial that the merger is illegal and also states that it would be impossible to carry out Mr. Dana's proposition to distribute the assets of the merged corporation among the holders of the three constituent companies in the proportion in which they were held at the time of the consolidation.

Washington advices say: Postal authorities are now looking up the law to see if the American Tobacco Company is violating those statutes that control the use of the United States mails. The investigation now under way is the result of the recent anti-cigarette law of Indiana and the means employed by the cigarette manufacturers to nullify that law. The tobacco company is not amenable to the Indiana statute, as it is a foreign corporation, and engaged in interstate commerce, using the mails as the vehicle for the transportation of its goods. The "makings" for cigarettes have so flooded the State that the anti-cigarette law has not only become practically a dead letter, but the old law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to children, which was enforced with reasonable diligence, has also fallen into disrespect.

EHRMAN BROS. & CO.,
S. F. Distributers.

The Department of Commerce and Labor has issued the following circular to manufacturers and exporters: The Department of Commerce and Labor is desirous of securing the co-operation of manufacturers and other persons interested in the efforts being made by this Department, through the Bureau of Manufactures, to extend the foreign trade of the United States. In furtherance of this work, it is proposed to establish a comprehensive card index which will enable the Department upon application, to furnish information desired by manufacturers or by intending purchasers, and it is contemplated to extend the system, if the necessary authority shall be granted by Congress, to our principal consulates. To enable the Bureau to prepare such an index, you are respectfully requested to fill in the accompanying blank, and furnish any additional information which you may desire to have recorded in connection with your business.

PAYING FOR PREMIUMS.

An independent tobacco company inserts in its packages of cut plug tobacco a bit of advertising matter which tells the story of who pays for the premiums "given" by the American Tobacco Company. It reads thus:

Notice.

Your special attention is called to the fact that this package of H-O cut plug contains 3 1-3 ounces of the best tobacco that can be made for the money. Other competing brands only give 3 ounces. We therefore give you one-third of an ounce more of better tobacco for your money.

We do not redeem any coupons or tags, and therefore do not have to reduce the quality or weight of H-O cut plug to give you presents, but we give you your full weight. We ask you to use H-O cut plug strictly on its merits. Dealers may try to force you to buy some other brand, claiming it is good as H-O cut plug because he makes more profit on it. Insist on having H-O cut plug, and you will get the best tobacco for your money in the world. We guarantee it.

Wonder whether consumers have not yet "tumbled" to this situation?

STRONG ADVERTISING.

Retail Grocers Will Receive Help in Moving Campbell's Soups.

There is probably not a single housewife in this great country that can read who will not have had her attention called to Campbell's Soups from one to ten times each month during the next six months.

The Campbell Preserve Company, besides continuing its street car ads, is using full pages in many magazines and very large space in all of the leading journals devoted to women calling attention to their twenty-one kinds of soups. These advertisements are beautifully made up and wonderfully effective.

The Joseph Campbell Company sold over 16,000,000 cans in 1904. Their extensive advertising, together with the splendid quality of their goods, will unquestionably increase this business very materially, and every grocer should see that he gets his share of the new sales.

BUILDS MANY SAFES.

The Herman Safe Company shipped this week the vaults for the Capitol Bank and Trust Co. at Sacramento. The firm has completed the installation of sixty vaults in the new postoffice building. This is its largest contract in this city.

THE BANQUET POEM.

A Few of the Verses Read Recently by Frank B. Connolly at Stockton.

We all have remarked how the Stockton Boys strived
To entertain us since the night we arrived.
They have more than succeeded; we have had a swell time,
And that's why I'm singing their praises in rhyme.

We visited their baths, and some took their wives,
Where Powers, Doyle and Reed made sensational dives.

Aubrey showed us his store as we passed it by chance,
While O'Connor and Warnke to the music did dance.

The welcoming over, the entire bunch
Took the boat down the river, to enjoy a swell lunch.

To see "Juliana de Kol," and the rest of the herd,
And Hauch said to Cusack, "Friend Pierce is a bird."

He served Holstein Punch, and we all drank a lot,
And while homeward bound, we met Sullivan's yacht.

Then Alpers told McGuire for President he was a winner
So John P. swelled up and bought us a dinner.

Hayes and Aubrey examined my financial report
At one in the morning, and thought it great sport.

We listened to Newberry because he is much older,
And then we elected Doyle, Drury and Golder,
And praised C. B. Pearson and Fancher so stern,
Then Hayes made a motion: "It's time to adjourn."

I must not forget the praise and the honor
That all of us owe to Billy O'Connor.

For his untiring efforts he ought to be blest—
I will not say any more, you can imagine the rest.

And now in concluding this original ditty,
Here's a toast all will praise: "Stockton for a Convention City!"

FOOLISH PARSIMONY.

It is a pity that conventions place a low value on the benefits of organization. At Syracuse the per capita tax was made 35 cents for associations having less than 500 members, and 30 cents where they number more. This is the price of two cocktails or two perfecto cigars, and is not indicative of a strenuous interest in the work. We hope to see the day when every grocer feels that organization is worth what ex-President A. W. Farlinger, of Georgia, places it, viz., twenty dollars per annum for five years. That means business.—American Grocer.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

Long Beach—Atwater & Carl announce that after September 25th their grocery will be conducted on a strictly cash basis.

Long Beach—J. N. Ferguson has purchased the property at the corner of Anaheim and California streets, including store building and stock of groceries and will engage in the general grocery business, making deliveries to patrons.

Los Angeles—Duvall & Klages, grocers at Central avenue, have leased a part of the Robinson building and will shortly open a grocery there.

Monrovia—A handsome business block is projected here, to be occupied by F. Jones' grocery. Frank Hicks has sold his grocery store to Chas. Thomas of Redondo.

Oakland—The grocery store of F. J. Wetmore, at Thirty-third street and San Pablo avenue, was broken into recently and $5 taken from the till. Entrance was gained through a rear window.

Petaluma—The grocery of F. H. Ross was damaged by fire on the night of August 23d. The loss on the stock is estimated at $900, insurance $1600; damage to building, $800; insurance, $1000. The building is the property of the Golden Eagle Milling Company.

San Bernardino—J. R. Fowlkes of Dyersburg, Tennessee, is in the city prospecting the place as a possible location for a wholesale grocery house. Mr. Fowlkes formerly conducted a wholesale house at Dyersburg, located 75 miles from Memphis, and he found it very successful and a good thing for the town.

San Pedro—E. E. Holland has resigned his position as manager of the Nelson Ward grocery, and after a short vacation will go into mining. Fred Kirkwood will succeed Mr. Holland at the Ward grocery.

Santa Ana—J. N. Trickey & Co. have just put on another delivery wagon, an improvement made necessary by the constantly increasing trade at this popular grocery. This makes four wagons in constant use by this store.

Santa Ana—George Hummel, late of Los Angeles, has taken charge of the Sunset Grocery Company's store.

Santa Barbara—J. C. Mann will shortly open a grocery in the popular Oak Park suburb.

Santa Paula—I. P. Browne has sold his grocery business and stock to Mr. E. R. Layne, formerly of San Diego.

Vacaville—E. F. and R. C. Gray have purchased the grocery business of S. R. Maclay, and will conduct it under the firm name and style of Gray Bros. & Co.

IDAHO

Glens Falls—The Glenns Falls Mercantile Co. has purchased the grocery department of E. Pearson's general store.

Wallace—F. J. Reding, a well known grocer, was married a few days since in Missoula, Mont., to Miss Margaret C. Black, formerly head nurse at the Wallace hospital.

OREGON.

Albany—Miller's Grocery is the name of a new store which has just been opened.

Arleta—Hansen & Reinhardt have started a grocery.

Dayton—E. V. Filer is opening a grocery store.

La Grande—J. M. White, grocer, has sold his feed department to William Smith.

Portland—A. J. Farmer, one of the largest and most successful grocers in the city, has sold his grocery at 281 Third street, on account of ill health and retired permanently from trade. E. B. Colwell, the purchaser, paid, it is stated, $18,000 for the stock and fixtures. He has installed G. F. Teed, a grocer of experience, as manager. Mr. Farmer amassed a small fortune during the eleven years that he was in trade in this city. On August 28th fire damaged Kertz & Young's grocery to the extent of $2,400, with insurance of $1,000.

WASHINGTON.

Aberdeen—The Dunlop Mercantile Co., recently incorporated, will engage in the grocery business, opening a new store adjoining the Red Cross Pharmacy. A. F. Coats is president, H. C. Dunlop vice president and C. M. Fridlander secretary.

Centralia—J. N. Tidrow, recently from Tennessee, has purchased the grocery business of Fread & Batt, and will continue at the former stand. Mr. Tidrow is an experienced merchant, and still owns a store in his former home.

Olympia—C. J. Van Eaton is once more sole proprietor in his grocery business, having succeeded to the firm of Van Eaton & Douglas during the week. M. E. George, son of O. George the well known grocer, has embarked in business on his own account, having purchased the confectionery and fruit store of R. Bushman & Co.

Seattle—The Noftsger Grocery Co. has incorporated, with $10,000 capital. Wa Chong Co., tea and Oriental goods dealers, have incorporated, with $10,000 capital. A. T. Young has bought G. W. Harvey's grocery.

South Bend—Insurance was last week adjusted on the grocery stock of Nettleton & Co., and the firm is enlarging its present store building to accommodate increased stock. The total loss suffered was $4,700, with $2,000 insurance.

Spokane—J. E. Settles, an employe of Jeannot Bros.' grocery, has been arrested on a charge of larceny, J. O. Jeannot being the complaining witness. Kennett & Flemming's grocery stock at Springdale has been assigned to the Spokane Jobbers' Association. Singer & White have bought Pynor & Son's grocery. Strong & Merrifield have purchased Guesset & Hanson's grocery store at Spokane.

Sumas—Peter West, general merchant, has purchased the grocery department of A. E. Lapp's store, and the latter will hereafter handle dry goods and furnishing lines.

Tacoma—George Breesemann has started a grocery. J. Jensen has bought J. M. Dennett's grocery. Hanks & Son have succeeded Hanks & Chambers grocery.

Wenatchee—G. C. Galentine is opening a grocery store.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Nanaimo—A. H. Meakin has succeeded D. Taylor & Co.

Vancouver—H. Brundrett has succeeded E. Stover, grocer.

SHOULD STOCK NOW.

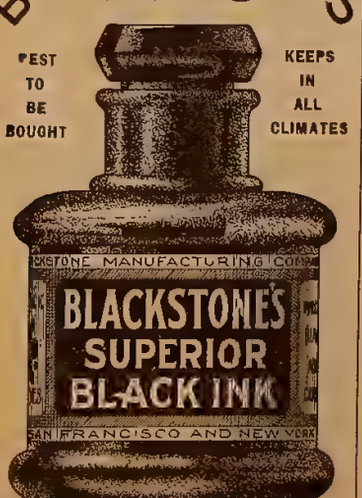
Grocers generally are interested in the free deal of the T. A. Snider Preserve Company, for by it they are offered at a very alluring price an article that adds to the attractiveness of their store and which always sells.

This is probably the finest catsup offered to the trade—there is none superior; it is known in every household where the art of good living is cultivated, and it is always splendidly advertised—three considerations which with price made an article desirable to the dealer.

This deal is subject to withdrawal without notice, hence the live and down-to-business grocer will not delay in arranging for a sufficient supply for his trade during the year.

DUTY ON TEA AND COFFEE.

President Green of the National Association expresses himself as follows in 'National Trade Press Bulletin":



"My attention has been called to a proposition to place a duty upon coffee and tea, which, it is said, will be presented to Congress at its next session. This legislation, if enacted, will work a hardship upon the retail grocers of the United States as well as the poorer class of consumers. If, upon further inquiry, the information seems to be well grounded, prompt and vigorous action should be taken to prevent the passage of this unjust legislation. It is my information that the proposition is being fostered and encouraged by the large importers of cheap coffees, such as the Arbuckle Bros., and others who hold millions of pounds of coffee, who, if there is a tax of three cents per pound upon coffee, would be benefited to the amount of millions of dollars.

"Believing as I do, that this is a matter of vital importance to the grocers, I submit it to the earnest consideration of the trade press, and leave it with them to place it before the trade in general."

Attracting Trade

A Bargain Department Talk.

If there is any time of the year when the bargain department should be made useful it is in the midsummer when people must be pulled into the store by the strength of the inducements offered, says the Commercial Bulletin.

Then it is up to the manager of the bargain department to devise some new scheme—something attractive enough to get the shoppers out.

How is he going to do it?

All the journalist can do is to offer a few suggestions once in a while, but whether they will work at all or not is a question that can not be answered easily.

"Sales" are the means of disposing of the bargain counter stock. In fact when you come to think of it, "sales" are used in all departments of the store all the time. They may not be special sales, but they are there just the same.

For one thing, the bargain counter man should take advantage of every local occasion to attract trade.

For instance, there may be a street fair or a market day during the next month. That must not be overlooked. Special bargains and special advertising must be used for that day.

Or it may be a baseball game between the local Swatters and the Jonesville Butterfingers. See that the crowd at the ball game has plenty of your circulars. Give a prize to the man who makes a home run or puts the ball over the fence or makes the most base hits.

It may be there is a convention or a circus or a gathering of any kind in the town. Trim the windows and get out advertising matter to correspond. That will show the people that you are right up to date.

These are general suggestions. Now some one wants to know what kind of a sale to have on the days before mentioned and how to advertise it.

How To Do It.

Well, if it's a ball game, why not make a special run on base balls, bats, masks, mitts, etc.? You can, of course, use other trade pullers that day, but it would undoubtedly be a good time to do some business in this particular line.

Fill the window full of them. You can put in rubber balls and everything else in the same line, too. Be sure to use plenty of price tickets and distribute handbills freely.

Call it a "Baseball Bargain Day," and make a number of very special prices for the hour following the close of the game, with the idea of bringing the crowd to your store as soon as the game is over.

If there is a market day in town the sale can be called the "Market Day Sale," or, in fact, any attractive title.

If there is a convention of some lodge of course you will decorate in the colors and emblems of the lodge, and make reference to it in your sale title in some way.

A circus always brings a big crowd and the bargain department man should improve this chance to the utmost. Have a couple of clowns of your own follow the parade on mules and throw handbills.

Distribute advertising fans, with a list of bargains for the day attached, to the crowd going into the circus. The bargain list can be printed on a slip of paper and attached by one end to the fan. It will be pulled off eventually, but not before it has been read in most cases.

If there is a picnic see that your fans are there and that your advertisement has been worked in in every possible way.

Value of Personality.

"Personality" is a great factor in business. It is a sort of an indefinite term and may mean little to a lot of us, but yet it must be reckoned with. The successful bargain store man should use his personality. He should be a good "mixer." At the risk of overdoing it we should say that he should go to the ball game if it is a big one and that he should try to take in the picnics and meetings generally. The wider his acquaintance is the more friends he will (or ought to) have. Anyway, the successful business man should be, and nearly always is, public-spirited and in touch with the daily happenings of the town.

If the man with a bargain store or department wants to succeed to the limit he should mix with the crowd.

How Hour Sales Work.

Hour sales are good in hot weather. You can make the shoppers come in the heat of the day if you put prices low enough. This is rather a mean trick, however, and the most of the hour sales will be better held in the morning or afternoon.

Hot weather goods are, of course, the kind to push now. You might have a 'Hot Weather Ware Sale." It could include such things as fans, lemon squeezers, lemonade glasses, flower vases and ice cups, ice picks, water pitchers, corkscrews, paper napkins, lunch sets, etc. It might also take in hot weather ware from the dry goods stock such as light weight underwear, bathing suits, hose, sunbonnets, wash goods, etc.

Keep the bargain counter cool. Pull down the awning or even the shades to keep the sun from it. The hot sun shining on a lot of bright tinware is not inviting on a summer day.

THE CALIFORNIA.

A season of burlesque, advertised as the "burlesque wheel," began at the California Theatre last Sunday evening, under the management of Charles P. Hall, the well-known theatrical magnate, who controls the California as well as a chain of theatres. Popular prices prevail at the California during the burlesque season. The bill will be changed weekly, with a new company appearing direct from the East. The first company to appear is the Dainty Paree Burlesquers, who present "A Married Bachelor." The company comprises forty singers, comedians, dancers, show girls and chorus singers, equipped with a wealth of gorgeous new costumes and scenery. The show is light and full of fun and songs and has drawn good houses. The last performance is to be given on Sunday evening. It will be followed on Monday evening by the second company forming the "burlesque wheel," consisting of the well-known Fay Foster burlesque company. This company is renowned for the number of pretty women in its ranks. It will present two farces and burlesque and vaudeville numbers, "The Mysterious Mrs. Baffles," a parody on the Raffles stories, and "Cleopatra in Central Park." The company includes Louise Dacre, the happy girl; Vivian, the female barytone; the Rozinos, in their "bounding billiard table juggling"; McNatti, Keegan and Mulligan, the fun-makers; McIntyre and McAvoy, black-faced comedians; Bessie Rosa, the petite soubrette, and Charles Wilson, the "turkey man."

MAJESTIC.

Ola Humphreys is scoring a decided success this week as Peg Woffington. This clever actress finds scope for all the delicate shades of acting which her former work at this playhouse has shown her capable of. Miss Humphreys is a conscientious actress as well as a talented one, and one may well look to her for still better work as the weeks make her better acquainted with her environment. The cast throughout is worthy of great praise and the stage settings are of the kind for which the Majestic is becoming famous—carefully planned and elaborately mounted. The spectacular scene wherein the mob rushes down the aisle to interrupt the play is handled finely and called out last night prolonged applause. "Pretty Peggy" is bound to fill the Majestic for the rest of the week.

THE ALCAZAR.

A succession of jammed houses nightly testifies to the loyalty of the enormous following that White Whittlesey has built up by his art. He has scored a double success this week in Jack Condon's "The Great Interrogation" and Oscar Wilde's brilliant comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest." For the coming week he offers the first local presentation of George Fleming's fine dramatization of "The Light That Failed," a Rudyard Kipling romance. It is the story of the war artist on the Soudan, who is stricken blind while protecting a companion and regains his sight sufficiently to complete a great painting which is destroyed by a vixenish girl of the slums, tortured by jealousy of Maisie, the girl artist with whom he is in love. His failing sight mercifully prevents for a time the realization of the great disaster which in the end unites him more closely to his sweetheart.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

Vice and virtue have a fierce struggle this week at the Central in "On the Bridge at Midnight," in which the virtuous ones win and the villains are punished. There are several remarkable scenic effects. In one scene, a "jackknife" bridge over the Chicago river is shown in working order, raising in the air, while big ships and tugs, with passengers aboard, cross the stage in view of the audience. In connection with this scene, there is a thrilling life-saving act.

THE TIVOLI.

A splendid production of "Erminie" is concluding the comic opera season at the Tivoli. It is a pretty little opera, full of melody and fun and the company makes the most of every opportunity to add to its interest. The cast is very strong, each part being handled to splendid advantage, while the stage setting, the costuming and chorus are all of the very best, the chorus in particular being in good voice and training, while their picturesque attire, particularly in the second act during the birthday celebration of Erminie, was unique and becoming. The grand opera season begins on September 11th.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Denis O'Sullivan has been drawing crowds to the big Mission street theatre to see "The Colleen Bawn" and hear his rendition of the quaint and melodious old Irish airs. Mr. O'Sullivan is well supported and this week has been even more successful than his first week. On Sunday afternoon he opens the last week of his engagement with the first production in America of Bidwell's musical play, "Peggy Machree."

THE CHUTES.

There is a long list of new acts in the fine theatre at the Chutes this week. Albini, illusionist; Nellie Maguire, character vocalist; Earl Sisters, singers and dancers; Les Parisiennes, novelty dancers; Hallen and Hayes, comedians; a baritone singer and a series of interesting moving pictures. The concessions are all interesting. They include Chiquita, the 'living doll"; Annie Redline, the 600-pound lady; the 1½-pound baby in the incubator; the Johnstown Flood and other novelties.

FISCHER'S.

An interesting vaudeville bill is attracting crowds to Fischer's. The Four Roberts present a pretty and unny sketch entitled "A Doll Maker's Dilemma." The program includes enough of variety to satisfy everybody. There is a matinee every day and two performances each evening, one beginning at 7:30 and the other at 9 o'clock.

ESTABLISHED RETAIL PRICES.

We give below the articles on which the manufacturers have established a retail price.

These prices are for common points like San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, and all terminal points.

Where freight is paid it is should be added to prices quoted if the nature of the goods will permit.

Every Association on the Coast has the privilege of listing these goods, as the manufacturers thereof have bound themselves to see that these prices prevail in California, Oregon and Washington.

We would urgently request grocers to notify us promptly of any instances where the above prices are not being maintained.

Don't be too ready to credit the report that your competitor is selling twenty pounds of sugar for a dollar, or tomatoes for five cents a can. Even if he does sell goods at these low prices he is getting nothing out of it except some advertising and a lot of prospective trouble. Let him have the monopoly on such prices.

Clerk's Corner

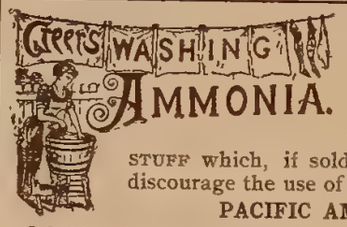
Looking to the Future.

Not a few of the young men holding clerkships to-day are indulging in a dream of the time to come when they will be able to go into business for themselves. They are living along economical lines and laying away a little each month in pursuance of their cherished ideas.

Many of these clerks are under excellent tutorage. They are working for men who are successful in business, and each day imbibing knowledge that will be of value to them in the years to come. Some are not so fortunate. Their employers are of the easy-going kind, who fail to recognize the true value of business economy. Clerks so situated must study these things out for themselves. They have to learn to appreciate the value of little things. A large percentage of business failures are caused through indifference to the great importance of the minor matters that arise constantly in every day's business.

How Small Things Count.

There is a good, and a true story of a great firm, well known throughout the country, who figured on an engineering contract a few years ago. They had everything calculated to the last cent, except the cost of some dredging. On this they could not quite figure within the half of one cent per cubic foot without obtaining more facts.



"We had better investigate," said the older partner, "and find out just how much we will have to dredge."

"Nonsense," said the younger and more active partner "It is only a half a cent anyhow, and that is not worth bothering about."

So they signed the contract. After they had worked six months it developed that the firm would have to dredge away about ten million cubic feet of material. It also turned out that it would cost them exactly one-half a cent per cubic foot more to do the work than they were getting for it. Ten million cubic feet at half a cent each, which the younger partner had thought was "not worth bothering about," amounted to just $50,000. The firm has been working just three years now to fulfill a contract at a heavy loss, simply because a man did not consider that half a cent was worth bothering about.

THE IMPORTANT OFFICER.

Let the secretary but be made of the right material and we always have hopes of the association. The other officers are seemingly of less vital importance, but the national president is showing that a mighty good man can be found in the chairmanship; also, that he can run both offices.—Merchants' Review.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

PACIFIC AMMONIA BOTTLING CO.,
Sole Manufacturers of Ammonia from mineral products on the Pacific Coast.
GEO. HERRMANN, Pres., 310 Sacramento St., San Francisco, Cal.

CAUTION—As there are numerous brands of impure and weak washing ammonia offered to the trade imitating the style of our label, be careful to see that our signature Trade Mark is on each bottle.

WILL IT PAY?

If you handle oil of any kind it will pay you to purchase a

BOWSER SELF MEASURING OIL TANK

Let us ask you a few questions :—

Is it worth 10 cents a day to handle your oils without waste?

Is it worth 10 cents a day to sell your oils without loss of time or labor?

Is it worth 10 cents a day to have no leaky, dirty measures and funnels to handle?

Is it worth 10 cents a day to keep your oil room neat and clean?

We might propound a hundred questions equally as pertinent. If any of these are worth 10 cents a day, is not the combination of the many worth more than the cost of a "Bowser Self Measuring Oil Tank" which will give you all of these advantages?

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

PRUNES.
Growers are getting 3½ cents for prunes, bag basis, which is 50 per cent more than last year.

RAISINS.
Growers are now expecting a 5-cent sweat-box price (ungraded), as against 1¾ cents last year.

MINCEMEAT.
Higher prices are predicted, owing to the advance in most of the articles that are employed in its manufacture.

HONEY.
Bee raisers of Southern California are looking for better prices as fall advances, owing to general shortages in production.

CANNED SALMON.
Jobbers have loaded up on Alaska red at 85 cents a dozen. The Association has now put back the price to jobbers to $1 per dozen.

WALNUTS.
Growers are asking 12½ to 13 cents for soft shells. This will mean 15 to 16 cents to the retail grocer. Imported spot walnuts are higher.

CANNED TOMATOES.
The situation is becoming so strained in Eastern markets that many packers expect the Rocky Mountain States to buy in California, which will affect prices materially.

CANNED FRUITS.
The situation is made much stronger by the fact that the Maryland peach crop was a failure and the demand for Michigan peaches for immediate consumption has kept the prices above packers' figures.

THE TRADING STAMP LAW.

An article by the Associated Press recently announced that the United States court in Washington had decided the Anti-Trading Stamp Law, which is similar to that passed in California, to be unconstitutional. The Advocate printed this dispatch. We are pleased to give herewith a statement from the "New England Grocer," which tends to show that the first news was incorrect.

Trading Stamp Men Lose.

"Upon the ground that he had no jurisdiction, Judge Hanford, Seattle, refused to issue the injunction prayed for by Sperry & Hutchinson, a trading stamp company, forbidding the attorney-general, the prosecuting attorney and the sheriff from proceeding against them under the law passed by the last legislature. The enforcement of the law would make it impossible for the trading stamp company to do business in this State. In no way did the court pass upon the constitutionality of the law. The demurrer raised simply the question of the court's lack of jurisdiction. The court declared that the United States courts have no jurisdiction of an action the purpose of which was to prevent a State from enforcing criminal laws within the State."

WILL EDUCATE GROCERS.

Prominent Dealers Decide on Plans to Bring Better Conditions.

WANT AID OF JOBBERS.

Will Make It Essential for all to Secure Profits.

A very valuable conference of retail grocers was held at the St. Francis Hotel on Wednesday evening. There were present:

Pacific Coast Association Directors—J. R. Newberry, Los Angeles; F. B. Fancher, Sacramento; H. Hauch.

State President, L. Warnke, Alameda; State Secretary, Frank B. Connolly, San Francisco; H. Duncan, Oakland.

San Francisco—Bibo-Newman Co., Rathjen Bros., Irvine Bros., McCaw Bros., Doyle & McGowan, Arnold Bros., John W. King. John F. Schomer, Golder Bros., J. Salomon.

Educational Campaign Planned.

Mr. Newberry was introduced by Mr. Connolly who called the meeting to order and an informal discussion ensued.

Mr. Newberry explained that the purpose of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association was to bring about the greatest possible stability of trade conditions and that this would only be absolutely assured when the retailer and the jobber were working together to co-operate with the manufacturer in helping the latter maintain the prices he might fix.

Mr. Newberry called attention to the fact that, at the present time, the jobbers were selling a large portion of their goods at cost. This meant that they would have to average at least 12 to 14 per cent on the rest of their sales in order to meet their expenses, which would average 6 per cent. In some instances their profits were greater than those of the retail grocers.

He pointed out that, if the retail grocer knew what the jobber paid for his goods he would not submit to being charged an unduly high price for anything. As a consequence, the Pacific Coast jobbers, in self defense, would find it necessary to turn to the manufacturers as the Eastern jobbers were already doing, to ask the manufacturer to fix a price below which his goods should not be sold to the retailer and he would then sympathize with the retailer in his attempts to get the manufacturer to fix a retail selling price and would help bring that condition about.

Actual Cost Letter.

Mr. Newberry then explained that the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association proposed to issue a letter on the 1st and 15th of each month, to be called "Actual Costs," in which the price actually paid for certain goods by jobbers would be given. Each letter is to contain the cost price of 50 or more articles so that, by the end of the year, the jobbers' cost will have been given, together with price changes, on about one thousand different articles.

Value to the Retailer.

'Jobbers often tell retailers they are giving them "actual cost" prices on goods," said Mr. Newberry. "It is a good thing to know if this is true.

"When a jobber sells one item at cost or nearly cost, he must get a double profit on something else, either from that grocer or somebody else. It is a good thing for a dealer to be sure that he isn't paying for somebody else's 'ground floor' prices.

Value to the Jobber.

"When the jobbers find that the retail grocers are posted on costs so that they cannot be induced to pay a double profit on something to make up for the loss on something else, they are going to turn to the manufacturers and demand that goods be sold on the contract plan so that they can get a fair profit on numerous things they now sell at cost without fear that some competitor will be undermining them. To do this they must have the assistance of the retail grocers. The result will be valuable co-operation.

Not Fighting the Jobbers.

"We are not fighting the jobbers," Mr. Newberry added. "We want the jobber to get a profit. But we want a profit, two.

"We think the distributors of food products should have a margin of at least 30 per cent, of which two-thirds should go to the retailer and one-third to the jobber.

'We are willing to help the jobber get his 10 per cent. But we are going to insist on getting our 20 per cent any way. We are willing to help him get his share if he will help us get ours. We have got the power and the organization to get our share now, although in some instances we will have to fight for it. If the jobbers were with us, both they and ourselves could get our profits without any trouble at all.

"The Pacific Coast territory is a country all by itself, with no outside competing jobbing centers.

"When the jobbers are prepared to say to the manufacturer: "You can count on our refusing to sell any cutter you may instruct us not to supply," then the cutter would have to quit.

"When the jobbers are prepared to say that, the retail grocers are prepared to join the jobbers in saying to the manufacturer: 'We want you to demand of the jobbers that they shall not sell to retailers below a certain fixed price and demand a contract from them to that effect and require that such contract be enforced.'

"Our retail grocers are well enough organized to-day so that many manufacturers are prepared to demand of jobbers (as they have a perfect legal right to do) that the jobbers shall not supply firms that may cut their fixed prices.

"Our retail grocers are also well enough organized so that they can make it very unprofitable for any wholesale grocer to refuse to comply with such a demand from a manufacturer.

"So it can be seen that while we need the jobbers, we can be of much more use to them than they can be to us and we hope and expect to eventually lead them to the way of better methods and fair profits.

Plan Enthusiastically Endorsed.

'Every grocer present endorsed the idea. All insisted that they wanted a Leading Merchants Protest Against Policy of Local Mills.

At the meeting of the directors for California of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association on Wednesday evening. J. R. Newberry said:

'Why should the retail grocers continue distributing the products of the sugar magnates, the oil kings and the meat barons for nothing. It is no wonder they become enormously rich when they have the 210,000 retail grocers of the country working for them without pay."

This brought up the matter of the local flour situation.

State Secretary Connolly said he was given to understand that the other mills would gladly fix prices if the Sperry Milling Company would do so.

John W. King said that Mr. Sherwood of the Sperry Milling Company had assured him that they would gladly establish prices if the retail grocers wanted him to.

All joined in praising the attitude of the Globe Mills in taking the initiative in protecting tthe retail selling price of flour.

The grocers from Alameda county all said that they were selling practically none but "A-1" flour to their best trade.

Mr. Connolly said that since January 1st. he had sold more than 250 barrels of "A-1" flour and that he told the drummers from the other mills that he told his customers how much better "A-1" flour was than the other standard brands, agreeing to take it back if they did not find its quality made it well worth the difference in price. This had meant a profit of $100 that he would not have received had not the Globe Mills taken the stand they did.

The Sacramento grocers and Mr. Newberry told the San Francisco merchants that they had themselves to blame if they did not get a proper price for flour. Mr. Newberry insisted that ten men with "backbone" enough to stand up for what was right, could supply stamina enough to influence one hundred more and that these men could, by intelligent action bring about any reasonable concession from a manufacturer.

Mr. Connolly here explained a plan he had perfected of an executive committee of 150 of the larger retail grocers. The idea was to enable the larger men to get together and decide upon some common course to follow that could enable them to make their influence felt with manufacturers. This was warmly approved.

John W. King then introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That we consider that steps should be taken by the manufacturers of flour to prevent their goods being sold at less than a satisfactory price—which should leave a margin of at least 25 cents a sack.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Cheese is strong.

Sell boxes and barrels.

Use the show windows.

Use plenty of price cards.

Holland herring are advancing.

Don't forget the profit in discounts.

Try advertising for that tired feeling.

School stationery will be wanted soon.

The hands on the clock always move forward.

Time now to begin looking after collections.

It is easy to trust; it's sometimes hard to collect.

Individual effort is excellent, but too often ineffective.

The largest sales don't always mean the largest profits.

The lard market is firm. Looks like a good time to buy.

Raisins, prunes, peaches, apricots, all are tending upward.

"Penny goods" will be the leader in many candy departments.

A good many can say, "I told you so," on the coffee advance.

A trading stamp scheme under any other name smells just as bad.

Every victory won for legitimate trade reform helps win another.

Tarragona almonds are very likely to be higher, contrary to expectations.

Keep the crackers moving these days. Hot, damp weather is not good for them.

Canned tomatoes, spots and futures, seem to be headed for a further rise in prices.

New Orleans advices continue to report light receipts and a firm market for rice.

Do not tackle "strictly cash" unless you believe it is the only way to do business.

You fool fish with bait, but the hook catches them; 'tis the same with trading stamps.

Catch of cod and mackerel is short and high prices will likely prevail the coming season.

Who'll pay back to the grocers an indemnity for all they have lost on the trading stamp craze?

Now or never with the summer beverages. Better advertise them and put them in the window.

He who pulls alone has his labor for his pains; he who acts conjointly with his fellows gets results.

Keep the cheese under cover. It is too attractive to the flies and other loafers when in the open.

A good display case for cured fruits and crackers is a silent salesman who does not draw large wages.

The trading stamp incubus was a vexatious burden; the parcels post would be even harder to bear.

Many a grocer's profits are lost through inaccurate scales. Time is sure to be lost with an old scale.

The domestic sardine pack is disappointing to date. Reports say that so far no mustards have been put up.

Prices on raisins, California goods, will be higher than last year. The "trust" seems to be in full control.

No cash business can grow which is not advertised, but there is other good advertisement besides printers' ink.

The grocer who buys goods from an unknown firm at the solicitation of an unknown salesman assumes a big risk.

Brazil coffee markets are firmer, offerings from both Rio and Santos being at an advance over recent prices Stock up.

Better adopt some of the short credit system before the fall trade begins—if you have not already. You will save time and money by it.

Why shouldn't the dealer who is charged with selling adulterated food have the same rights under the law as does the milk dealer?

When you hear you are being talked about because you insist on strictly cash, remember that is the best free advertising you can get.

Fall is the season of the largest demand for cordage of every kind. Cotton cordage is higher than last year, but other kinds show little change.

How about the woodenware? Isn't it neglected? Why not make a few bargains in this department to remind the trade that you carry a full line?

All indications point to higher prices on walnuts. The French crop will be short, but of good quality. California does not promise more than an average crop.

Only by organization can trade evils be met and overcome. The united trade means victory; the spasmodic effort of the individual tradesman spells defeat

Paint the delivery wagons. A handsome wagon and a high-stepping horse are a good advertisement. People like to have good looking rigs drive up to their doors.

The French sardine pack is short this year. With a short foreign pack and a prospective shortage in the domestic pack, sardines look like a good, safe purchase.

Currants remain strong. The legislation referred to in this paper previously is now in force and the concensus of opinion is that it will work for higher prices.

Within a short time the lamp season will be here. The call for lanterns, lamps, globes, chimneys, candles, wicks, burners, etc., comes with the shortening of the days Get your stock ready.

Packages that show the goods are better than those that do not for display purposes. Hence, the bottles and glass cans should be given a prominent place. People like to see what they are getting.

There's no excuse for neglecting to properly dress the show windows. Attractive "eyes" to the store draw a great deal of trade, and anything that increases business should be given careful attention.

Itis predicted in quarters well informed that, on account of the shortage in the crop just ended and the high cost in English markets, large Brazil nuts will be selling higher here within the next thirty days.

Don't let a call for anything in groceries pass unheeded. It may not be advisable to stock a line just because one person has asked for it, but that one call may be a tip on which way the demand will turn.

It seems assured that the crockery manufacturers have gotten together again and that higher prices on some lines are not impossible. A few years ago there was a very strong organization among the makers of these goods, but it did not last.

Give the crockery and glassware departments a little better choice. Bring them to the front and display the glassware. Put a black cloth behind the crockery shelving or paint the wall black. A dull black finish for the shelving will set the crockery off, too.

FRESNO IS AMBITIOUS.

Wants Next State Grocers' Convention to be Held in Raisin City.

Fresno, August 24th—L. R. Eccleston, who returned yesterday from the Convention of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, reports a very profitable meeting. Mr. Eccleston states that the place for the next meeting of the Association was not fixed by the Convention, but was left to an executive committee. He thinks it should be a fine thing for Fresno to offer to entertain the Convention next year, as it would bring a great many visitors here, and be a valuable advertisement. He will bring the matter up at the next meeting of the local Grocers' Association, of which he is secretary.

TROUBLE IN ROCHDALE STORE.

San Diego—During the past few days some members of the San Diego Rochdale company have been circulating petitions in an effort to secure two-thirds of the membership of the company in order that the concern might go into liquidation. The board of directors claim that the petitions are being circulated through spite work. It is claimed that during the past two months several hundred dollars of the indebtedness of the company has been paid off and that notwithstanding the fact that it is the dull time of the year.

A POLICY THAT PAYS.

When a manufacturer can assure the retail grocer that the goods he makes will not be cut—or rather, that the man who cuts will do so at the cost of not being able to buy them again—the retail grocer is going to feel safe in building up a trade on those goods.

It is the policy that, more effectively than other, makes an article continuously popular.

It is this policy that has won so many friends for "Schillings' Best" on the Pacific Coast.

A few shortsighted cranks say: "I don't care whether it pays or not, I'm not going to let any man say at what price I shall sell my goods."

This sounds as if the man were in business for some other purpose than to make money. He should remember that while the laws established by "Schilling's Best" may prevent him from annoying his neighbor, yet they also prevent some vicious neighbor from annoying him.

The Schilling policy has made money for the retail grocers. The example of its success is going to help them make more.

WASHINGTON LINING UP.

Seattle, September 4th—The Washington State Grocers' Association will be urged at the meeting next week to demand of the manufacturers that prices be maintained on staples. This action will be urged by Lieutenant-Governor C. E. Coon, who is president of the association, and emphasized by other members and some prominent outside speakers. It has been pointed out by J. R. Newberry, a prominent California grocer and one of the best-known men in the business, that the remedy lies entirely in the hands of the manufacturers and big producers. This view has been adopted by the leading members of the State Association and action will be taken at the Tacoma meeting next week to bring the manufacturers into line.

WINS BY QUALITY.

The leading packing house products in the bulk of the better class California grocery stores to-day bear the Diamond "C" trademark.

This splendid position was not secured by luck or through chance. The quality of the goods attracted the attention of the trade. The business-like persistence of the sales force would not allow this superior quality to be forgotten.

Every Diamond "C" ham and side of bacon is made from a hog chosen from hundreds. The meat is specially trimmed, specially cured, specially smoked and specially packed to attract the consumer's eye. They look good, they smell good.

They taste good and they are tender and juicy.

These are the reasons why so many firms make a specialty of Diamond "C" goods.

KLONDIKERS WANT PROFITS.

Tacoma, Wash., September 4th—Merchandise wars promise to become a thing of the past in the Klondike. Wholesalers and retailers have organized for the first time in the history of the camp and have formed a combination to maintain uniform quotations for the Dawson market. The undertaking became effective last week. The retailers have stiffened a number of their quotations. On the whole the wholesale rates are changed but little, while every jobber or wholesaler has one price to offer. The only difference that may be gained by getting prices will be on the different quality of goods.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY.

In another column we print the advertisement of a grocery store. This store is the best located and best paying store in one of the best residence cities of the Coast. The proprietor intends retiring from business and will sell for that reason. A thorough grocer who wants to take up a business built up by a wide-awake man can do no better.

WILL EDUCATE GROCERS.

profit and wanted to know that the cutters would be controlled.

A suggestion of John W. King that the flour mills and sugar refineries be asked to use their power to assist in maintaining a fair retail selling price on their products was discussed and its practicability made evident.

This matter is treated of in another column.

Mr. Newberry explained that a charge of $5 per annum was to be made for the "Actual Costs" letters. The money received from these letters was to be used in maintaining an effective executive office for the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, in strengthening existing associations and in forming associations where none now exist.

At the conclusion of the meeting every man present subscribed for a copy of the "Actual Costs" letter.

PLYMOUTH ROCK PLEASES.

"Its quality is the best, it pays the best profit and it's the easiest to sell." This is the way Fred F. Hobbs talks about Plymouth Rock Gelatine.

Though new to the Coast, this gelatine has been a winner whenever it has been introduced. It costs 82½ cents in lots of 3 dozen and is a 10-cent seller. As each dozen carries a dozen samples each of which will make a pint of jelly, it is easy to see that the grocer, who is well in touch with his trade can induce a trial.

The quality of the goods does the rest.

in regard to the sugar refineries. This met unanimous approval.

It was deemed wisest to devote the influence of the trade towards establishing flour prices first. With this accomplished, it was argued that the jobbers, who are now losing money on sugar, would be glad to enter into the combination with the retail grocers to bring about the desired results.

STAMPS CAUSE LOSS.

Expense Greater Than Profits on New Business Secured.

A Tacoma, Wash., retail grocer, who was one of the victims of the stamp craze, has written the following letter to Secretary Beutlich, of the Retail Grocers' Association, in which letter he tells why there are to be no more trading stamps for him:

"Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 24, 1905.

"Dear Sir:—After one years' experienec with the trading stamps, I sincerely feel that they do the grocery business a great deal of harm. It cost the Blue Ribbon Grocery over $100 per month, and I found that we were out of pocket about $60 a month. That is, we received a little extra trade through them, on which we cleared as near as I can judge, about $40, and to offset this extra business we had to give the stamps to our old cash trade who demanded them, thereby making us fork out $60 per month in that way. Simering the whole thing down, I would sooner shovel ditches than ever have anything to do with the d——d stamps again. Yours respectfully, A. H. Switzer.

"P. S.—The annoyance and bickerings a fellow gets into with his customers through the cussed things are sufficient to drive him crazy, let alone the money loss. A. H. S."

McCARTHY BROS. TO MOVE.

McCarthy Bros. are about to remove from their present location, at No. 113 Front street, to Nos. 107-109 on the same block. They will retain the present building as a warehouse, probably connecting same with the new quarters by means of a runway in the rear. They are installing the newest models of coffee roasters.

SAFE TO RECOMMEND.

When you offer your customer a stuffed olive, you want to know that it is an article that will please her.

You do this when you give Pim-Olas, for they are put up in a glass without preservatives or injurious substances of any kind.

This is not the ease, however, when you ask her to take bulk stuffed olives. In order to keep in bulk, stuffed olives must have a preservative of some kind about them, and this is injurious to the health of the user.

It is therefore that all good livers who clearly comprehend the situation use Pim-Olas, the high class article put up by the Seville Packing Co.

NONE OTHER JUST AS GOOD.

The leading seller in the line of Chili Sauces is Snider's. This article is made from choice ripe tomatoes, according to a receipt long held by the Snider people, and which their competitors have vainly sought to discover.

The consequence is that Snider's Chili Sauce stands in a class by itself—unsurpassed.

The agents, the Spohn-Patrick Company, report very large sales of this sauce in every part of their territory, the Pacific Coast.

ANAHEIM ORGANIZES.

Anaheim, Cal., August 12th.—The Anaheim Retail Merchants' Association has completed its organization and is now ready for business. Through the organization the merchants will be protected against the loss of bad accounts, and the extra percentage which they are now compelled to add to their selling price to protect themselves will be saved to the buyer. All of the leading retail merchants of Anaheim are numbered among the charter members. The Association will welcome as members retailers in all lines of business from any part of Orange county. Already two of the leading merchants of Fullerton have announced their intention of joining the Association.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Syracuse, N. Y.—The State Convention held here on August 7th, 8th and 9th brought together the largest number of delegates ever assembled in this State. The Convention met on the morning of the 7th. They held no session in the afternoon, but convened again in the evening to hear the several addresses. On Tuesday morning the delegates were the guests of the Merrill-Soule Co.'s factory, and at 10:30 the session was resumed. There was an evening session when a number of addresses were delivered. Wednesday was devoted to the reports of committees, election of officers and the reading of numerous addresses.

THE DEMAND FOR Malta-Vita

The quality of Malta-Vita explains its rapidly increasing sales. Malta-Vita doesn't belong to the tasteless variety of flaked wheat foods. It's good to eat and the public is finding this out. Malta-Vita's crisp brown flakes are healthful, too.

NO PREMIUMS USED

Premiums are not given with Malta-Vita. It is sold strictly on its food merits, and intelligent people appreciate this fact.

SAFE FOODS.

Mary Hinman Abel Advises Women How to Get Them.

In the September "Delineator" is begun a series of articles on "Pure Food Matters" by Mrs. Mary Hinman Abel, an authority on household science. The first article deals with the consumer's side of the question. In this, she says:

Buyers Must be Educated.

The buyer must be educated to know what he is buying.

To quote the English hygienist Richardson, "A people was never made clean and healthy against its will."

In this matter of food, who is at the end of the line?

The woman of the household, for in any country it is the family group that consumes the bulk of the food.

If goods remain on the shelf, no more of that kind will be bought by the merchant. Whatever is sold, is speedily replaced Only in this way does demand influence supply, and the home as a consumer can improve the source of supply by becoming a discriminating selecter of goods rather than the helpless funnel into which all is poured.

Although the analysis of 1000 varieties of food products may be found in the great treatises, yet probably 100 would cover the number in ordinary use in any household. To learn their nutritive value in their best estate, the main process of manufacture, how marketed, what falsifications are to be looked for and how such tampering is regulated by law, or may be regulated, is fully within the scope of any woman of ordinary intelligence.

Endorses Food Exhibits.

Few things can vie in educational value with the "show." We crave ocular demonstration, we need to "touch, taste and handle"; it is the kindergarten method, if you will, but a most effective one also for the average man and woman. A food exhibit on some scale is possible in every town, only it must be educational in character, in no sense a money-making scheme. The plan must be broad in scope, including, for instance, the effect of impure water and milk in producing typhoid fever, a department which the physicians would undertake. It must, of course, be made attractive to the average sight-seer and thus offer ample consolation for the lack of quarter-pound packages of samples.

The graphic method could be brought to bear on the nutritive values of food and the methods of manufacture and marketing. A lecture on labels with a goodly array of bottles and cans for illustration would surely help the hearers to form the label-reading habit. And we might even come to trust under their own names certain new foods, as oleomargarine, glucose and cottonseed oil, could the methods of manufacture be shown and their wholesomeness guaranteed by people whom we know and trust As it is, they are sold to us under old familiar names and these three foods are said to make up the great bulk of adulteration.

Defends the Dealer.

Sooner or later if we follow out this practical education we shall learn that those who serve us in market and provision stores are for the most part hard-working men and women who are as honest as the state of competition and the ignorance of the buyer will let them be. They would tell you that they need:

First—Just laws, well enforced, that will set the standard of competition on a decent level instead of leaving it to be set by the meanest man in the business.

Second—A public that will buy what they set out to buy instead of being decoyed by every flashy advertisement and decorated window; who will read their labels and give some intelligent heed to the whole business of buying food as they now give to purchase of clothing.

The igorance of the buyer as to food is very great and especially such foods as have been changed by recent methods of manufacture.

It seems to be too much of a strain on the average mind to learn, for instance, that there are now three kinds of vinegar made, and consequently all are sold to us under the one familiar name, cider vinegar.

People do not seem to know that bright vegetable colors are destroyed by heat, and demand that the preserved strawberry should be red, the canned pea green by whatever means it may be attained. A reputable cannery is said to be adding, for the first time, red coloring matter to the tomatoes because the demand is for a very red tomato. It is even possible to be as ignorant as was the woman who wanted the new pack of tomatoes in April.

Only Knowledge Needed.

I am told that the label, "warranted to keep any length of time in any climate" does not arouse the suspicions of those who yet stoutly insist on "no preservatives"

Catsup, they expect, will keep indefinitely uncorked and in a warm room. They buy without question "sweet" cider in February and "new" maple sugar before the sap has started in the Maine woods. Those of us who are not ignorant, have given up in the most ignoble way and "expect to be cheated."

Now consider the difference it would soon make in any community if even a small number of householders began to study the question of the food supply in somewhat the way I have indicated. They would necessarily impart to their neighbors the new-found knowledge. The dealers would soon know that a spirit of inquiry was abroad, and the best of them would welcome it. When the officials and the physicians of the town began to cooperate, everyone would know that the movement had the advice of those who ought to be competent to guide it.

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING.

How Grocers Are Proving the Value of Bond Automatic Weighers.

Letters from grocers all over the State express their satisfaction with the Bond Automatic Weigher. These machines are now in use in so many stores that their economic value is proved beyond question. Many dealers may feel at first thought that they would not save enough through the use of this machine to make it worth buying. However, all kinds and sizes of grocers have installed these weighers and there is one undivided judgment: They pay.

Canned salmon will hardly be lower on any grade than present prices. The disappointing size of the pack, it would seem, assures this much. Both the Columbia River and Puget Sound packs are smaller than expected to be. Alaska is yet to be heard from, but chinooks (Columbia River) and sockeyes (Puget Sound) are in a different class.

DRIED PEACHES.

San Jose, September 1st—There is nothing new in the apricot situation. Buyers are still after this fruit, but the bulk of it is out of growers' hands. Many of the growers are drying peaches and 7 to 7½ cents is being offered in the bins.

DRIED APPLES.

Lockport, N. Y., August 25th—Wm. E. Shafer reports:

"Few evaporators expect to open. If a wind comes and blows the apples off, they will start for a short run. At the best, if such happens, they do not expect to make over one-third as many as last season."

Sodus Center, N. Y., August 26th—E. B. Mather reports:

"There is absolutely no selling of evaporated apples for future delivery here in the country. If there is 35 per cent of last year's crop I would certainly sell evaporated apples in New York at 7¼ cents for October-November. To have 25 per cent of last year's crop we should have one full tree of apples out of every five trees, but in my judgment it comes nearer being one treee out of ten."

CURRANTS.

New York, August 26th—The Hills Bros. Co. reports:

"The market in Greece is settling down to a little lower basis, and present quotations from that market for new crop continue on a parity with our previous offerings."

WALNUTS.

Anaheim, Cal., September 5th—The outlook at present is for about two-thirds as many walnuts as last year, with the quality better than last year. There will likely be more than the average quantity of small nuts. Prices will no doubt be higher than last year. It is thought that the Association price will be 12½ or 13 cents per pound for soft shells. Buyers are already in the field trying to contract at any price below 11 cents.

ALMONDS.

The almond market is unchanged. The Association has not named prices, and both sides are holding off from doing so in fear that the other will cut under

LIMA BEANS.

San Luis Opispo, August 31st—Reports from the bean raising sections of the country are to the effect that the yield will be about double that of last year. During July and August there were heavy fogs which were favorable to the growing crop. The present indications are that the crop will be threshed before the autumn rains set in.

Santa Barbara, September 2d—It is estimated that the crop for 1905 will be about double that of the previous year. Six hundred thousand sacks of limas and other kinds of beans is the estimate of the experts who are in close touch with conditions.

Santa Monica, September 2d—The acreage devoted to limas is much larger than ever before.

Santa Barbara, Cal., September 4th—W. L. Lewis, the bean-buyer, after examining the Carpinteria section of Santa Barbara county, says the lima outlook was never better for an immense crop.

BEANS.

Sacramento, Cal., August 22d—Wood. Curtis & Co. report:

"Owing to the limited stocks available, beans are held firm. To-day's values are for strictly recleaned beans, f. o. b., common shipping points, California. Lady Washingtons, per cwt., $2.65 to $2.75; Limas, per cwt., $5.25; Bayos, per cwt., $4.25 to $4.50, very scarce. Pinks, nothing but very low grade stock available, price ranging from $1.50 to $2.25."

San Francisco, August 22d—W. C. Barnard Co. report:

"In line with our advices last week, spot Blackeyes have advanced from $3.25 to $3.75; futures from $2.75 to $4.00. We should have a large crop and fine quality of limas unless we have early rains. Prices for early shipment are bound to be high, owing to the fact that old stocks are practically exhausted and Eastern jobbers will want early delivery. Quotations to-day are as follows. Choice Lady Washington beans, $2.70; fair grades Lady Washingtons, $2 to $2.50; pinks, from $1.70 to $2.15; limas, $5.70; Blackeyes, $3.50 to $4; Bayos, $3.25 to $4.25; small whites, $3 to $3.65; Garavanzos. $3; horse beans, bugless, $2; horse beans, with bugs, $1.30 to $1.50; limas, September-October shipment, $3.50; October-November, $3.35; November-December. $3.30; Blackeyes, September-October shipment, $4; red kidneys, September-October shipment, $4."

Detroit, Mich., August 24th—H. E. Botsford & Co. report:

"There are fewer beans in the States of Michigan and New York to-day than at the same time in any previous year. The growing crop, although planted late, is reported doing nicely. The acreage is less than a year ago by about one-third, and if we have favorable weather this fall. Michigan will raise about 75 per cent of last year's crop. New York State reports that they will have about 50 per cent of a crop. We think that the old 1904 crop will be entirely cleaned up before the new beans come on the market. Considering that the whole of Europe enters the new season without the least stock of old beans, it is more than certain that prices will go higher."

Laingsburg, Mich., August 25th—The C. B. Bailey Co. report:

"We have about 70 per cent of last year's acreage."

WALNUTS.

New York, September 5th—Imported spot walnuts are higher: Grenobles and Naples, 12½ cents; French, 9½ to 10 cents.

HONEY.

Denver, Colo., August 23d—The Colorado Honey Producers' Association reports: "No carlond shipments of honey are likely to be made from Colorado this year, as the production will barely cover the home consumption."

Los Angeles—H. J. Mercer, secretary of the California National Honey Producers' Association, says:

"With the market practically cleaned up last spring, coupled with the fact that the honey crop is light in all Eastern producing States, the honey men of Southern California may reasonably look for better prices the coming fall and winter. The present market price for extracted honey is around 5 cents. The crop will be about 125,000 cans of the extracted. Of comb honey Southern California will have, it is thought, not more than 15 carloads. While California will have about the largest crop in many years, there are some localities where the bees have done practically nothing. In Los Angeles county, from Newhall to the county line, production has been abundant, as also in the bee territory around Corona. But San Diego and Orange counties can share very little in this year's returns. Arizona is nearer to a honey failure this year than in twenty years. The crop has not been so light throughout the East in a decade. Texas is said to be only within 60 per cent of its normal production."

CANNED SALMON.

The Alaska Packers' Association, having sold since August 24th last at 85 cents per dozen all red salmon of previous packs, withdrew that price, and has authorized the J. K. Armsby Co., its general agents for the United States, to resume the selling of its 1905 pack of Alaska salmon at the opening prices of July 6, 1905, which are: Alaska red, $1 per dozen; Alaska kin, 95 cents; Alaska cohoes, 85 cents; Alaska pink, 75 cents per dozen f. o. b. San Francisco. It is estimated that close to 1,000,000 cases were sold at the 85-cent basis. The bulk of the 1905 pack has been sold for delivery on arrival of the fleet from Alaska. keen competition among the jobbers has resulted in large sales to retailers at $1 per dozen and even less.

Sockeye—There has been no reduction in the price of sockeyes. The J. K. Armsby Co. report that practically the entire pack has already been sold at the opening figures and that the prices will not be changed.

New York, August 29th—Frank L. Deming, a representative of the Pacific-American Fisheries, said in an interview:

"At the very time it was reported that buyers were not confirming orders on the basis of $1.35 f. o. b. for talls, the Pacific-American Fisheries, which we represent, had already confirmed orders for half its pack The Alaska Packers' Association, next to us the largest packers of sockeyes in the country, came out

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Department of Agriculture in its weekly report for California says:

"Bean harvest has commenced. Prospects are good for a heavy crop in the vicinity of San Luis Obsipo, and a fair crop in the Santa Maria district. Grain is below average and hay the best crop for several years. Many reports indicate a light crop of grapes. Raisin grapes are of superior quality. The deciduous fruit crop is fair, but not as good as expected. Apples will yield heavily in Humboldt and Santa Cruz counties. Orange trees were benefited by the hot weather, and the outlook is good for a record-breaking crop. Walnuts, almonds and olives are doing well. It is probable the heat injured walnuts slightly."

SUGAR MARKET.

Sugar declined 10 cents on Wednesday morning, August 31st.

New York, September 5th—Raw sugar is dull, tone weak. Refined quiet and unchanged. The market has been unsettled during the entire week past.

New York, August 31st—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—The sugar markets of the world are unsettled. A preliminary estimate of the world's production and consumption, based on the best obtainable information at this early date indicates very full supplies for the new year and a consequent low level of prices at least until the extent of the sowings of the next European beet crop is known.

Refined—Influenced by the weakness of the raw sugar market, the buyers of refined have adopted a waiting policy. The Federal made a reduction of 10 points, to basis of granulated at 5.07 cents less 1 per cent cash, for prompt shipment. The making of these concessions has not increased business to any appreciable extent, the opinion being general that even lower prices will be established in the near future.

COFFEE.

M. H. Brandenstein Co. report:

"Low-grade coffees are very scarce. This is especially true of unwashed Salvadors."

New York, August 31st—Willett & Gray report:

"There seems to be nothing that should give rise to any apprehension of lower prices. No one entertains the least idea of a large crop in Rio and Santos this season. Several good houses agree on an average not to exceed 10,250,000 bags. We are also assured that the outlook for the outside or mild crops does not justify more than about 4,250,000 to 4,500,000 bags for the season. With a total production of 14,500,000 to 14,750,000 million bags for the crop season, in a period of increasing consumption and general business prosperity, the prospects of losing from the world's visible supply another 2,000,000 bags of coffee within the next ten months provides the best reason for believing in the stability of the market and the prospects of further upward movements. Brazil could easily dispose of current receipts, or even a much larger movement if willing to shade prices somewhat; but Brazil has the best of reasons for holding firm. But while Brazil is holding firm, it is a fact that Europe and the States are buying right along in Rio and Santos, from the actual necessity of getting coffee, no matter what the price. Coffee is quite safe on its legitimate merits, is about the cheapest commodity of daily consumption, and all the accidents liable to the production in Brazil can only be in favor of higher prices."

New York, August 29th—Volney Green & Son report:

"The market continues strong and healthy. Low grades are practically out of the market, and what few lots are offering are out of all proportion to the high grades in price. There seems to be a general feeling of confidence among the trade in the future of the market. Javas are steady. Mocha is doing better, and holders are asking higher prices, owing to an advancing market in Arabia."

TEA.

New York, August 29th—Jed Frye & Co. report:

Green Teas—Ping Sueys—Arrivals at Shanghai are small, as compared with previous years. Since our last mail advices, dated July 14th, cables report the market as two cents a pound higher, owing largely to shortage and a further advance in the prices of exchange. Extra and first Ping Suey gunpowders will be in short supply and prices higher. Pea Leafs are also said to be manufactured less freely, and during the next coming months an advance may be looked for in these kinds.

Congous—Our last mail advices were dated July 15th. The quality is above that of last year.

Formosa Oolong—A strong and steady demand has continued at Amoy, and has had a tendency to advance prices for cargo and medium grades. We look for advancing figures during the rest of the tea season in Amoy.

RICE.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. report:

"The market is very strong."

M. Philips & Co. say:

"Prices are unchanged, but firmly held. Buyers are holding off for new stock."

New York, August 29th—Dan Talmage Sons' Co. report:

"Purchases, individually considered, are on a larger scale, evidencing that stocks had run to low ebb and a growing confidence as to the stability of prices. Rains are retarding the cutting of the crop. More or less anxiety is felt lest the early grain, now ready for the sickle, may become over-ripe and shatter in the taking off, further reducing what promises to be the lightest yield at any time the past forty years. Rains are falling in many localities in the Southwest. These are of great benefit to the later and larger crop, but are delaying and damaging to such portions as are now ripe and ready for the harvester."

CANNED FRUITS.

Baltimore, Md., August 25th—The "Trade" reports:

"Packers are beginning to calculate on leaving out their anticipations for a peach pack this year, owing to meagre arrivals. Michigan has a good crop, but the demand for immediate consumption has made prices too high for the packers. The peach situation therefore in the Eastern half of the United States is likely to benefit the California peach grower at the expense of the California peach packer. The general position of caned goods at present indicates a clearing up of all kinds of stock during fall and winter beyond anything that has occurred in years. And whilst the result will be profits for the packer, it will leave him an open door for a splendid season in 1906."

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, August 26th—Paul Taylor Brown Co. report:

"The situation on Singapore pineapple has decidedly improved during the last week. The market is firm in Singapore, as a cable this morning from there declines an offer which we made yesterday to our Singopore office at a shade off the prices quoted last week."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, August 30th—The re-sale of 1,000 cases of tomatoes is reported at 85 cents delivered. Packers are firm and buyers indifferent.

Aberdeen, Md., August 26th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"Tomatoes are $18 to $20 per ton, and what it costs to pack them, at this price. The cost of packing 3s, standard tomatoes, is about 10 cents per basket. Packers this week have paid 20 cents, and in some cases above 30 cents a basket for tomatoes on the peninsula of Maryland and Delaware, besides paying freight, making the cost of packing full standard 3s tomatoes at 20 cents per basket, 80 cents per dozen, and at 30 cents 97 cents per dozen. If this condition should obtain the greater part of the season it will be necessary to have the $1 mark to even realize the cost of packing 3s full standard tomatoes."

Bel Air, Md., August 26th—Finney & Robinson report:

"Heavy rains here yesterday which will not do the crop any good. Are looking for a dollar market before many days; 85-cent goods appear to be cleaned up. Are now quoting 90 cents factory."

Baltimore, Md., August 25th—The "Trade" reports:

"From all sections there comes the general report of a 50 per cent acreage, and only about 50 per cent of a crop from this half acreage. Brokers' quotations on Wednesday of this week advanced to 80 cents and 85 cents for standard No. 3. Packers in the East refused to contract early in the season for tomatoes at from $7 to $8.50 per ton when they were offered by the growers. As a consequence, they are buying in the field and paying from $12 to $16 per ton. As tomatoes must cost half that for packers to make anything at 75 cents per dozen, a price of 85 cents seems to be absolutely necessary.

New York, August 23d—The correspondent of "The Trade" of Baltimore writes: "The upward tendency of tomatoes is still a feature of the trade and predictions of $1 goods before the end of the year are freely made. Some Baltimore canners are already quoting 90 cents for new packed goods. At present this eliminates them from the market as factors in the situation, excepting in so far as their attitude strengthens the market and causes others to be firm in their views regarding sales. Jobbers have bought some spot goods at 85 cents, though naturally such sales are chiefly of small quantities. Baltimore advices received here reported sales for immediate shipment for Western account at 82½ cents f. o. b., for new packed goods.

CANNED CORN.

Aberdeen, Md., August 26th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"All corn factories heard from in Maryland and Delaware report ears not properly matured, and a yield of about two-thirds per acre, in comparison with last year. It is difficult to pack the usual proportion of fancy corn. Packers who have been fortunate enough to be in a position to offer fancy grades are very firm in their ideas, and are loath to consider concessions of any kind."

DRIED FRUIT.

Havre, France—United States Consul "There will be a good demand for apples and apricots. Careful packing and honorable dealing are sure to secure for American dealers a large part of the French trade. The chances are that the French prune crop will be above the average. The large sizes, however, are not abundant."

PRUNES.

San Jose, September 1st—J. D. Radford, President of the First National Bank, who made an estimate from information collected from the growers early in the summer, says the yield will fall considerably below that estimate, and expects this season's crop to be about a third of the average. Colonel Philo Hersey, of the Santa Clara County Fruit Exchange, estimates the output at 40,000,000 pounds. The information in possession of the California Fruit Exchange leads to the estimate of "from a quarter to a third of a crop, certainly nowhere near a half."

Los Gatos, August 28th—In all probability the last lots of prunes will be delivered before September 1st. The crop is considerably shorter than estimated. While 3-cent and 3¼-cent basis was freely paid, there are rumors that 3½ cents was paid in two or three instances. At the present time buyers are not in the field in any great numbers, though there seems to be a feeling among packers that prunes are cheap of 3¼ cents. It is the concensus of opinion among people who are posted in prunes that the crop of 1905 and also the crop of 1904 will be entirely cleaned up by spring.

Kendrick, Idaho, September 2d—The dust storm last week played havoc with the fruit on the trees. In many instances they were stripped of nearly all the fruit. Prune-growers say there will be plenty left to dry yet. One grower has been offered 4 cents per pound for his dried prunes.

RAISINS.

The raisin combine will probably make prices about October 1st.

New York, September 1st—New crop loose are being offered by interests outside the combine at prices guaranteed 7 per cent under Association opening.

Selma, September 4th—The first of the new crop will begin to come in by the latter part of the week. It is now estimated that the crop will not be over 20 per cent short in this vicinity. The vineyards that were pruned early are bearing lightest as the frosts caught the tender vines at a critical time. The packers estimate that 2500 tons of raisins will be shipped from Selma this season in comparison with a vield last year of 4000 tons. Buyers are already offering better than 4 cents for available crops, and the tendency is strong toward 4½ and 5 cents, as against 1¾ cents last year.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY

SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

Alhambra—L. S. Powell, the enterprising grocer, has purchased the stock and business of the Britten store, formerly the Harris grocery store It is understood that he will operate the two stores here for the present at least.

Berkeley—Wm. Canaday has purchased the store formerly conducted by Mr. Ansly at 2300 Lilly.

Eureka—The grocery and vegetable store of Sorense & Matzen has been attached at the instance of San Francisco wholesalers.

Fresno—The recent assault upon Mrs. E. S. Kallman, the Belmont avenue grocer, has been in part cleared up by the police in the arrest of Thomas Easterbrook, the contractor, charged with the crime. Mrs. Kallman says that on several occasions Easterbrook has threatened her life and also that of her husband Easterbrook was arrested some weeks ago on a complaint of Mrs. Kallman for letting his chickens and cow get into her yard and destroying some vegetables. For this he was fined $5 in the police court, which embittered him against Mrs. Kallman. He went to her and called her vile names and threatened to kill her shortly, if she troubled him again.

Los Angeles—Duvall & Klages are under full headway in the new Robinson building with a stock of high-grade groceries. They have the largest room on the avenue fitted up in modern style

Los Angeles—Residents of Los Angeles of about a score of years ago remember the Cable grocery store, started by A. M. Rossen, at the corner of Second and Spring streets and named for the old cable line which ran out Second street. About eighteen years ago the store was bought by Anderson & Chanslor, who removed it to 136 South Spring, where it has been located ever since. Anderson & Chanslor sold out in 1891 to the Anderson & Chanslor Company, composed of A Benheim, C. H. Plummer and A. J. Prosser. April 1st next the store which had such a humble beginning in the days of the old cable line will be installed in one of the finest store and office buildings in Los Ageles. The building, which will stand on the east side of Spring street, just below the corner of Fourth, now is in process of erection, and the estimated cost will be about $175,000. The Anderson & Chanslor Company has taken a long-term lease of the entire building, which will cover a ground space of 60 by 159 feet. It will be seven stories and basement and will be constructed of brick and steel. There will be on the first floor two store-rooms, one large and the other smaller, in a deep recess, which will be occupied by the Anderson & Chanslor Company. The upper part will be rented for offices.

Marysville—One of the best grocery stores in Marysville is the Juch Grocery on D street, between Third and Fourth. This store has undergone many improvements in the interior which will greatly facilitate the conduct of the business. The store has been remodeled throughout and repainted and presents a most attractive appearance. The business has increased to such an extent that it has necessitated the building of a large store room in the rear and many other changes.

Modesto—The grocery store of F. Medina and several other buildings were burned August 30th. The total loss will prabably reach $10,000; insurance, about $5500.

Ontario—Blain & Young is the name of an enterprising grocery firm which now occupies the Odd Fellows' building on Euclid avenue. The gentlemen succeeded J. O. Henderson and will conduct the business in an up-to-date manner. Both members of the firm are very popular in this community and are thoroughly conversant with the grocery business.

Pasadena—Marshall H Booher, for a number of years prominent in mercantile circles in Pasadena and Los Angeles, recently died at his home in this city. Mr. Booher came to this city from Shreveport, La., and engaged in the grocery business, a little later forming a business connection with a wholesale grocery house in Los Angeles, a connection which continued until his death. He was forty-two years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Uplands—The McCulloch Co's grocery has again changed hands, H. Klindt, of Los Angeles, being the purchaser. Mr. Klindt and his estimable family are gladly welcomed back to Upland after a two years' residence at Long Beach and Los Angeles. G. W Tillapaugh has sold his buildings on the corner of Second avenue and Ninth street to Mr. Woodhead, residing at the head of Euclid avenue, and will close out his grocery stock at cost or sell it in a lump.

IDAHO.

Heyburn—J. H. Dauer has succeeded Dauer & Hoggan, groceries, hardware and lumber.

Moscow—Incendiary attempts to set fire to the Boston store and O. C. Carsow's grocery store recently failed through prompt discovery.

Stites—T. F. Oliver will start a grocery.

MONTANA.

Butte—Vroom & Montgomery are reported discontinuing their grocery business. The Butte Wholesale Grocery Company has been incorporated for $200,000.

OREGON.

Albany—C. Milton has started a grocery. Miller's grocery, recently opened, announces the establishment of a meat market in connection.

Corvallis—R. L. Taylor has started a grocery.

Dayton—E. V. Filer will start a grocery.

Grants Pass—A. D. Swane has started a grocery.

Portland—McKinnon & Smith, grocers, have incorporated. Kertz & Young, grocers, were recently burned out. The McKinnon Grocery Co. has sold to A. T. Sauter, C. E. Wollenstein and F. J. Fellows. The new name will be the City Grocery. It is not incorporated. F. H. Reeves, who has been conducting a grocery, has sold out to J. Hohman. G Mannings has succeeded Manning & Lee, grocers. The Wallace Grocery Co. contemplates selling out. E. B. Colwell has bought A. J. Farmer's grocery store.

Waterloo—J. Hardin, grocer, is reported attached

UTAH.

Ogden—W. M. Goodale has succeeded the Ogden Mros. Grocery Co.

WASHINGTON.

Aberdeen—Maxey & Co., grocers, have incorporated.

Burlington—Oscar Peterson has purchased a half interest with J. A. Childs in the business of the Burlington Grocery Company. The new company is adding a bakery and other lines, and has incorporated the Burlington Mercantile Company, witha capital stock of $2000

Centralia—Fread & Batt, grocers, are reported sold out.

Davenport—D. G. Lorenze is opening a grocery and confectionery store.

La Conner—L. W. Vaughn & Son, grocers, has commenced the construction of a new building, 44x60 feet in dimensions, which will be used for store and warehouse purposes.

Olympia—Mr. Van Eaton has succeeded Van Eaton & Douglas, grocers.

Seattle—A. T. Young has purchased G. W. Harvey's grocery store. H. Wheeler has bought C. H. Goudey's grocery.

Snohomish—Litigation for the possession of the E. F. Schoennauer grocery stock has been re-opened when Beckwith & Son, who had purchased the goods from a Tacoma wholesale firm, commenced an action to recover them from Schwabacher Bros., of Seattle, the latter firm having secured possession under a writ of replevin. The court ruled against Beckwith & Son and an appeal has been taken from this decision.

Spokane—McHugh & Greig, proprietors of the A. & A. grocery, have bought the bankrupt stock of the Inland Fish & Oyster Company and are handling the stock at their store, corner of First and Monroe.

Tacoma—G. Breesman has started a grocery store.

Walla Walla—Thieves made away with a large quantity of groceries and clothing from Gilbert's store.

Wenatchee—G. C. Galentine has started a grocery store.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver—McKinnon & Gow are starting a grocery.

The higher prices for Irish mackerel are due to the exceptionally large demand for fresh mackerel which has taken the bulk of receipts at a price above even the advanced market for the salted fish. This naturally makes the supply of salt mackerel very small, more than the actual shortage in the catch.

Cigars and Tobacco

"Simply great!" is the sententious manner in which Ehrman Bros. & Co. speak of the demand for the Optimo cigars. They are selling better than ever, and that tells the whole story.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" writes: "Senor Antonio Santaella, of A. Santaella & Co., is expected from Havana Sunday. As was stated a week ago, his purchases amount to 8,000 bales of the best Cuban tobacco. There is nothing new to record in the factory conditions, as no change is possible until the addition is completed, all the space on two floors of the factory being occupied by cigar makers."

Philadelphia—The one topic of trade consideration and speculation is still the purpose of the American Tobacco Co. to operate throught the Seventh and Chestnut streets store of Le Compte, Dusel & Goodloe a central jobbing house which it is believed will eventually make an effort to drive others out of business.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" writes to that journal under date of August 19th: "At Jose Lovera & Co. orders are exceptionally good for this period of the year. In fact, business has continued excellent through these summer months. Heavy shipments are going out this week, including another invoice to Alaska." Maj. F. S. Burrows of this city is the Pacific Coast agent for the Lovera goods, and if all stories on the street may be believed, is doing a great business.

Our trade with Porto Rico in tobacco and cigars during the fiscal year ended June 30th last, discloses some very interesting features. That trade is not entirely one-sided, as generally believed, for during the year mentioned we exported to Porto Rico 500,852 pounds of tobacco, valued at $166,592. Of course, this is but one-fifth of the value of tobacco and cigars imported from Porto Rico, but then it is something in return.

"The Daily Bulletin, the Exponent of Philippine Commerce," published at Manila, P. I., in its issue of July 1st, contains the following paragraph anent the tariff question: "Fairly good cigars are exported at one cent each. The total exportations of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes during the past three years were as follows: 1901, $2,217,728; 1902, $2,501,367; 1903, $1,882,012. These exportations were mainly to European countries. The United States tariff, even with the 25 per cent reduction in favor of the Philippines, practically precludes the sale there of Manila cigars Moreover, forty-three of our States are now producing tobacco. The wages of American tobacco workers average $1.36 4-5 a day, against 35½ cents a day in Manila. Tobacco is a well-established and profitable industry in the Philippines—even irrespective of the United States home market. What it would grow to with that great and increasing market open to it is impossible of prediction. Manila has thirty-one cigar and cigarette factories employing 12,168 persons."

Major Louis Boyer, who is proprietor of one of the finest (and some visitors say the finest) retail cigar stores in New York, has been spending a few weeks in California, and left for the East last Thursday. Major Boyer is an old-time San Franciscan, having resided here from 1868 to 1885, but of late years he has been catering to the high-grade cigar trade of the Eastern metropolis. But it may not be for long. He has been looking over California during his present stay here, and his wife, who preceeded him here, is even more set on living by the Golden Gate than he. Hence it may not be many moons ere he is here again and in trade. Speaking of conditions in New York at present, Major Boyer said: "My trade has been good this year beyond my most sanguine expectations, and a part of this prosperity I attribute to the decline in favor of the Trust stores. Everybody is becoming anti-trust, and several labor unions have recently adopted rules fining their members for patronizing a trust store. Expulsion is resorted to in cases of obdurate violations of the Union rules."

Cigar Sales by Grocers.

Some retail grocers still sell tobacco and cigars, though the practice is by no means as common as it once was. It obtains in the West more than it does in the East.

A grocery salesman who has just returned from a trip says that many retail grocers are throwing out trust goods on the ground that the trust is working against the retailer in maintaining a system of retail stores, and for this reason they refuse to buy trust brands any longer.

While the total quantity of tobacco handled by retail grocers doesn't amount to so much as it once did, their action in throwing out trust brands is an indication of the trend of public opinion and is a warning of what may occur later if the practices of the trust are not modified.—Tobacco.

Smoking is Good for Men.

Why should men smoke? There are some good reasons. Many break off from a brain-concentrating occupation for a smoke who would probably enjoy no interval at all otherwise.

Such breaks are not only advantageous, they are often positively necessary; therefore, the practice that encourages and helps to obtain them is a distinctly beneficial one.

Smoking helps the subject to rest. Sedentarily employed, a man may be induced to sit for many hours during the day without enjoying an interval if he have nothing to break off for.

But a cigarette or pipe will give him occasion to put his hands in his pockets and walk up and down the room or may induce him to go out of doors a little, so that he may obtain a pleasant and reinvigorating change from labor.

Where he to merely stop his routine work and do absolutely nothing, his thoughts would be certain to wander back to duty again, and both he and his work would suffer in the end.

On the other hand, the more restless some temperaments are, the more will they derive advantage from smoking, in moderation. A pipe helps to smooth down irritability; it soothes a troubled spirit and gives comfort to the weary.

At no time of life is smoking of greater advantage than during retiring old age.—"Secret of Good Health and Long Life," by Haydn Brown.

MAINTAINING PRICES.

Spokane, August 19th—The Retail Grocers' Association of this city has been informed by the N. K. Fairbanks Co. that they will take active measures to maintain established prices in that city. The Postum Cereal Co. has stated that it will take steps to see that a uniform price is maintained on Postum Cereal and Grape Nuts. The Association has decided that the giving of trade stamps and of cash discounts on sugar and flour is equivalent to a cut in the price

DEMANDS FAIR TREATMENT.

Retail grocers of Spokane, Wash., are protesting against the action of certain jobbers in selling to people who would otherwise have bought of them. They have sent the following letter to the commission men of their city and have received satisfactory answers from all but two firms:

Dear Sir:—The retail grocers of the city desire you to make a definite statement to them as to the position your firm takes relative to the distribution of the goods you handle to the consumer.

We find some of the commission houses who go to the dealer, representing themselves as wholesalers, and as such soliciting the trade of the retailer; these same commission houses we often find going to the consumer (the customer of the retailer) direct, and selling to them at the same or at a less price than to the retailer, thus cutting off the trade of their own customers. This custom is manuifestly unjust to your own customer, and we the wholesaler. As an illustration: Recently a saloon man ordered a case of lemons from a grocer; during the day they were delivered, but were refused, as, after ordering the lemons from the grocer, the saloon man had found that he could buy the lemons from a commission house for $6.00, which was a little less than the grocer asked. The grocer lost 10 per cent on the sale besides his work and trouble; the commission man gained nothing but the ill-will of the grocer, for that was his price the same day to the grocer. Our position is that there are grocers and fruit stands in the city sufficient to take care of the retail trade and to do so on a very close margin; we do not, however, feel that we should be compelled to compete with those from whom we purchase our stock and we believe that if you will give the question fair consideration you will agree with us and use your best endeavors to protect the retailer in what rightfully belongs to him, the retail trade of the city.

Knowing the thoroughness of the organization of the commission houses of the city, we feel that it would be easy for your association to come to an understanding whereby you will be willing to leave the retail trade to the retailer and the wholesale trade to the wholesaler. We feel that such an understanding will be of mutual benefit and cannot result in any detriment to the wholesaler. Very truly yours,

Spokane Grocers' Association.

A VALUABLE SECRETARY.

In an account of the St. Paul Grocers' Association the "Trade" of that city devotes the following paragraph to J. J. Ryan, secretary of the St. Paul Retail Grocers' Association. Mr. Ryan is well known in this city, being related to one of the stars of our local detective force and having attended the National Convention here in 1904:

"J. J. Ryan was elected to succeed Mr. Mason as secretary of the St. Paul Association some years ago, and has shown remarkable tact and ability in association work. He was a salesman in the city for about twenty years and knew nearly every grocer and clerk personally, and was one of the first men to advocate Sunday and early closing. It was mainly through his efforts that the Sunday closing law was passed and carried to the Supreme Court where it was declared constitutional. He has successfully defended the peddlers' license before the city council and enforced it on the streets more rigidly than ever before. Mr. Ryan is also under an injunction on account of his efforts to protect the business men's profits from the trading stamp concerns. He has established a credit and collection department second to none in the country—over $10,000 having been collected and turned over to the grocers in the past three years. Prior to that time, these collections were made by outside parties who very often failed to make any report. That he is meeting with success in his efforts to see that the grocers sell only pure foods is proven by the fact that no grocer of St. Paul has had to pay a fine."

TEA AND COFFEE PROBLEM.

Why Specialty Houses Have Secured the Business from the Retail Grocers.

In a recent advertisement an Eastern wholesale house says:

"Why has the retail grocer lost so much business to stores that handle nothing but tea and coffee?

"Ever think over that?

"There can only be one reason: the general public can get more satisfactory goods at the tea and coffee stores than they can at the retail grocer's.

"And why, in turn, is that?

"It must be because the retail grocer, having many things to sell, hasn't had the time to study his people like the tea and coffee man, who has only two things to sell."

MAJESTIC.

Much interest has been excited by Maurice V. Samuel's new play "The Conflict." It is based on a masterpiece of fiction by Balzac and is full of action and heart interest. The company was cast to good advantage and their interpretation of the various roles was thoroughly satisfactory. "The Sea Wolf" follows next Monday. This is another new play and is a dramatization of Jack London's novel of that name.

ALCAZAR.

Kipling's story, "The Light That Failed," was given its first stage production this week at the Alcazar. White Whittlesey, as "Dick," the artist hero, has a strong part which he makes the most of. Miss Lawton Miss Belgarde and Miss Allen have the leading feminine roles and all win deserved applause. The play is rather sad but it is intensely dramatic. Next week Otis Skinner's success, "Vilion the Vagabond," will be played, with White Whittlesey in the leading role.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Peggy Machree," a new Irish play, is the vehicle for Denis O'Sullivan's newest success. Mr. O'Sullivan's performance is in his best vein. and his many songs are enthusiastically approved and encored. Grace Palotta is delightful as Peggy Machree. Next Sunday matinee, "York State Folks," begins a week's engagement. This delightful pastoral play recently scored a great triumph in New York City.

CALIFORNIA.

With the appearance this week of the Fay Foster Burlesquers at the California Theatre, that popular playhouse has demonstrated the worth of the "burlesque wheel," which is to hold the boards for the season. The Fay Foster Company gives its final performances this Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings. For next week, commencing with Monday night, the 'Brigadier Burlesquers," consisting of forty clever people with the famous comedian, Edmond Hayes, at its head. will appear in the well-known farcical comedy, "The Wise Guy." Edmond Hayes is well known in this city and his return here is sure to be greeted by a host of admirers. The Brigadier Burlesquers has for one of its principal features a "beauty chorus" of twenty pretty and shapely women. who are good singers and dancers. They are exceptionally strong in vaudeville performers. The company to follow the Brigadier Burlesquers is the renowned "Kentucky Belles."

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

These are the last nights of "Erminie" at the Tivoli. Those who have not seen it should do so before it is too late. Next Monday night will open the most brilliant grand opera season in the history of the Tivoli. Monday, Friday and Sunday nights "Ill Trovatore" will be given; Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights "Rigoletto," and Wednesday night and Saturday matinee Puccini's "Manon Lescaut."

CENTRAL THEATRE.

A border melodrama, "The James Boys in Missouri," founded on incidents in the lives of the noted bandits of that name, kept the Central audiences thrilled this week. A very pretty love story runs through the drama and it is filled with pathetic situations. One scene showing the holding up of a train, the fight between the Bently gang and the train crew and the blowing up and robbing of the express cars, elicited numerous curtain calls.

FISCHER'S THEARTE.

A capital bill is being presented at Fischer's this week. Daly and Murphy, the talking comedians and dancers, headed the list. The program includes some clever sketches and music with a lot of new biograph pictures and some daring tumblers. There are two performances each evening and a matinee every afternoon.

THE CHUTES.

The bill at the big free theatre is up to the usual high standard of excellence. Among the features at the big pleasure grounds are: The Great Albini; Boxing Kangaroo; the Circle Swing; the Johnstown Flood; Amateur Night, Thursday, and fireworks Saturday night.

ROCHDALE DIFFICULTIES.

San Diego, August 28th—The "Sun" says:

"A movement is under way for the liquidation of the San Diego Rochdale Company. It is thought that a majority of the members are in favor of continuing the store a while longer anyway. The annual meeting of the board of directors will be held in September, and a proposition to continue the store through the winter will probably be advanced. The present Rochdale manager has considerably reduced the indebtedness, and is conducting the business in first-class manner. A good winter season is confidently predicted and several of the directors stated that if a majority of the members were accurately informed of the state of affairs they would certainly be in favor of making one more good trial."

with the same price as ours and will tell you that their entire pack of sockeyes is practically sold, the bulk of it for export. We have turned down some tempting propositions from abroad. As to the total pack of sockeyes on Puget Sound, counting eight dozen to the case of halves, as near as we can estimate it, is between 650,000 and 700,000 cases, against 1,200,000 in 1901. This year's pack came on an absolutely bare market, and there are three lean years to come. Our price for sockeyes, without regard to what our competitors may do, will be $1.35 for talls, $1.50 for flats and $1 for halves for this season and higher next."

Seattle, September 2d—The "Trade Register" estimates the pack for various canning centers as follows: The Sound, over 1,000,000 cases, with 850,000 cases of sockeyes; Fraser River, about 800,000, with 350,000 cases from the northern rivers; Columbia River, 278,500 cases.

Vancouver, B. C., September 2d—The official figures of the salmon pack on the Frazer River are 782,442 cases, which falls very little short of the estimate of 800,000 cases, made early in the season.

Seattle, Wash., August 31st—The "Post-Intelligencer" says:

"According to the best information obtainable on the sockeye salmon pack for Puget Sound, the total pack is 793,600 cases. While the pack of fall salmon has not been completed at this time, it is estimated that it will not exceed 150,000, making the total pack for the Sound, of both grades, reach the total of 943,000 cases.

"These figures show a considerable decrease over the season of 1901. In 1901, 358,640 cases more of sockeyes were packed than for the season just closed, the sockeye pack for that year on Puget Sound being 1,152,243 cases. The total pack for 1901, including the fall grades, was 1,410,444."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Martin's New York cheese has advanced again and quotations are firm, with no prospect of a decline."

MACKEREL.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Norway No. 1 mackerel are scarce, and $2 per barrel higher in price."

Gloucester, Mass., August 24th—John Pew & Son report:

"The market is scantily stocked with all grades. Prospect for the remainder of the season for a considerable catch is very unfavorable. It now looks as if good bloaters and No. 1's will be luxuries through the coming nine months."

New York, August 28th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report.

Scotch Herrings—Shipments are coming in quite freely, but demand is good and prices slightly higher than last week.

Irish Mackerel—Firmer. Very few spring mackerel arriving.

Imported Oil Sardines—The catch in France and Portugal has not changed for the better, and supplies of suitable fish for the American trade are not coming forward.

CODFISH.

Gloucester, Mass., August 24th—John Pew & Son report:

"Market for all grades of codfish continues firm. Receipts up to date not up to expectations, the catch this year to August 1st being short 48,000 quintals as compared with 1904 for the same period. It is hoped that the catch of the balance of the fleet on their first trips with the catch of the vessels on their second trips will bring the total Bank catch at the close of the season equal or more than last year's. The stock of large and medium Georges and shore codfish is moderate. In Bank cod the market at present is fairly supplied. In the various kinds of ground fish the market is well stocked. We do not anticipate any lower prices on codfish this year than those now prevailing."

CAVIAR.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Caviar in tins is cheaper than last season."

MINCE MEAT.

Philadelphia, Pa. — The "Grocery World" says:

"The opening prices of new mincemeat will probably be considerably higher than last year, owing to the advances which have occurred in nearly all the raw materials employed. Raisins have advanced several cents per pound. Currants are much higher, and so are meat and suet. The apple crop is short and all apple products have advanced sharply."

SPICES.

Baltimore, Md., August 24th—McCormick & Co. report:

"An active market, with upward tendency. Foreign markets are higher at this time, due to heavy demand, which will soon be felt here. The spot demand for pepper is quite heavy; the position is strong, and would warrant an advance."

PICKLE OUTLOOK.

Promise of Large Output of Particularly Fine Quality.

F. L. Matthes, manager of the Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works, writes about the pickle situation as follows:

"We note with pleasure from facts and statistics gathered from all points of the pickle industry on this Coast, that the annual pace of progress showing a further improvement over the preceding year is not only maintained this year, but has taken a sudden stride quite in excess of that of any heretofore reported.

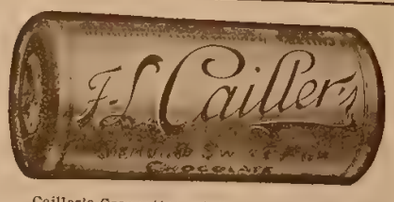
"Favorable climatic conditions, so reliable in this quarter, and so necessary to successful and profitable culture of vegetation, is in the main responsible for the high standard of packing now resorted to and recognized by us as a matter of most importance, which, of course, in turn has given quite a healthful impetus to the trade to such an extent that the output has been trebled to meet the demand thus created, and thereby increasing the total acreage planted over that of any preceding year.

"The present crop, about one-third of which has been harvested, is the largest in the history of this Coast, free from blemish or blight.

"If the improvements in this line, as above noted, continue in the same ratio, the time is close at hand when the industry will rank among the foremost of the Pacific Coast."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say.



"As noted last week, an unusually large portion of arrivals is by water, and quite a portion of these arrivals is alfalfa.

"Some districts are well cleaned up, while others still have a lot to be baled. Stockton reports about 1500 tons yet in stacks and cocks; Napa and Sonoma counties have still a large quantity to ship us, while the Livermore and Hollister districts show rapid progress towards the entire cleaning up of their fields.

"Town trade shows weakness. To sum up the situation, the sole feature of the market is its dullness, and we can anticipate no activity until after the rains set in. Prices are unchanged."

Attracting Trade

The Special Sale Dislay.

It is not a good plan to give up the entire window to goods for which a forced sale is desired, but it is a good plan to show prices on such, says the "Inland Grocer." A bargain table should be arranged in the interior of the store and only small samples shown in the window. A card announcing the sale of remnants of stock often helps to start a sale of goods which have represented idle money for weeks or months past.

The main advantage of this sort of window display is in the fact that it is likely to attract attention to neglected lines or those originally over-stocked Goods of this description will vary in different stores. They may be displayed in neat fancy baskets, arranged in triangles or hung from brass rods attached by chains to the ceiling of the windows. Price tickets should be attached to the different lots.

Avoid Overcrowding.

Overcrowding should be avoided as in case of every window display. The window should be made as attractive as the material permits. The idea of a remnant sale can not be carried out by a grocer as it can by a dry goods or shoe dealer. The grocer must sell his staple and fancy lines at regular prices and keep his stock up to the top notch. The odds and ends to be displayed for a sale of this kind must be handled in such connection with the regular lines as to prevent one interfering with the other. Remnants and stickers must be sold often at any price they will bring. Fresh and attractive goods should sell at the proprietor's price.

The idea of a window of this character is all that is indicated here The writer has designed several such windows, but in no two cases were the stock offered as remnants the same. Stove polish was the leading sticker in one, yeast in another, a package cereal in a third, can openers and mustard in another, liquid coffee in still another. The arrangement in each case made the fresh goods most ttractive in appearance and the stale goods most attractive in price. Both moved to the proprietor's satisfaction.

A Grocer Who Tumbled.

Some twelve months ago the writer called the attention of a well-known grocer to the condition of his store windows, says the "Inland Grocer." Situated at the junction of one of the avenues, and with two windows on the side of the street, was one of the best opportunities to be found anywhere for making a handsome window display. But how that grocer neglected his opportunity, one window containing nothing but canned goods, the other filled with chests of tea, whilst the window on the avenue side was a strange combination, consisting of all odds and ends piled any old way, and had the appearance of not having been touched for months! When the grocer's attention had been called to this, he replied: "Oh, I have no time to attend to window dressing; I have got on so far without it, and I guess I am not missing much." The conversation closed with the remark by the writer that he (the grocer) should see So-and-so's window and no doubt he would change his opinion about window displays. The advice was taken, with the result that the grocer in question tried his hand, had his windows re-modeled, and to-day he wonders why he did not "tumble" years ago.

ARMER BROS. FAIL.

Armer Bros., dealers in coffee at 21 Main street, have turned over about $30,000 worth of assets to meet obligations amounting to about $65,000. About one-half of this amount is owed to the local banks.

Clerk's Corner

Divide Responsibility Among Employes

I believe that an employer should judiciously parcel out responsibility among his employes, says a recent speaker before the Illinois Grocers' Association. This man should have charge of making the window displays; another of opening and distributing the goods among the stock; another of keeping the store cleaned and dusted, etc., and thus responsibility should be distributed to cover all parts and details of the business

As nearly as possible, the employer should not interfere after he has once made an employe responsible to him for results. He should suggest, guide and direct. He should be patient while the employe is learning how to best discharge this responsibility and in the end he will find that this method will relieve him largely of the cares and trials of the smaller matters about his store, and it will shape in the end a perfect organization and a smooth running machine. This makes each man practically a working partner in the business—responsible for the care of his part of the machinery.

Basis of Loyalty.

This develops loyalty, self-reliance, and intelligent handling of affairs. Such faithfulness and careful industry on the part of the employes are the keys for their promotion. But the employes can only cultivate this absolute reliability if they have some responsibility in one form or another.

Employers Rob Themselves.

Many employers rob themselves of the flower of their employes' service, either through lack of tact in drawing out the best that is in them, or through pure meanness and brutality of disposition.

There is a great difference between work that is done mechanically in the spirit of a task that must be got rid of and energetic work done in the joyous spirit of a creator.

Reliability Leads to Success.

Absolute reliability in an employe is indispensable if he expects to advance. No employer likes to be surrounded with those in whom he lacks confidence. He wants to feel that whether he is absent or present the work will go on the same; that, if anything, his assistants will try to be more faithful when he is away.

The employe who advances rapidly is the one always on the watch to promote his employer's interests, the one who in every way tries to supplement him, to make his work lighter, to carry out his plans.

The employer ought, in the course of time, to be able to find one man whom he can train to assume all the responsibility of the business in case of illness or a short vacation. The head clerk should be a confidential man, somewhat of a privileged character, whom the other clerks should respect as one in whom the employer has vested special authority.

The employer will, however, often find himself in a delicate position if such a privileged clerk becomes too domineering.

The head clerk should only exercise his full authority in the absence of the employer. As soon as a clerk begins to feel that he is such an important personage that the success of the business depends on him it is time to show him that he is mistaken, either by a lecture or dismissal.

WHALEY'S SUIT FAILS.

Edward E. Whaley's suit against Suydam Brothers & Rogers, formerly the Pennell-Suydam Company, for $6443.47 on an alleged contract, was recently tried by Judge Hebbard and judgment was quickly given against Whaley. He said he had made an agreement with the defendant corporation, by which he turned over to it his own business and entered into its employ at a salary of $150 per month and commissions. In the answer to the complaint it was stated that he had been paid $150 a month, and had not earned commissions, and his other allegations were denied. Whaley was the only witness called. The Judge sustained the point that he had no case, as the alleged contract was not in writing and there was a dispute over its terms.

Points to Watch

BROOMS—
The crop of broom corn was not short this year. Prices on this line will not advance this fall.

ROLLED OATS—
Manufacturers have gotten together and boosted prices. Some look for a still further advance.

RAISINS—
The combine of growers and packers is complete. The crop is short. High prices are expected for the new crop.

TEA—
There has been a heavy shortage in the tea crop in all producing countries, rendering a strong market for the next year a certainty.

RICE—
The U. S. official "Crop Register" announces that the acreage devoted to rice this season (1905-06) is only about 490,000 acres as against 662,000 acres last year.

CANNED TOMATOES—
The Eastern shortage is strengthening the local tomato market as California will have to supply territory that usually buys in the East.

PRESERVES—
Scarcity of apples and higher prices for glucose are making the cheaper grades of preserves more expensive.

CANNED CORN—
A full pack is promised and the market is very dull and heavy. Lower prices are expected.

A USEFUL EXECUTIVE.

Escondido has a mayor who is far more useful than ornamental, even though he is a good looking man, in the person of Sig. Steiner. The "Times" of that city tells of his heroic fighting of a serious fire recently. The hose of the fire company was found to be too short to reach the burning building and it was given up for lost till Mayor Steiner, calling on Mr Eugene Abell for assistance, attacked the flames with fire extinguishers and finally so controlled it that an impromptu bucket brigade was able to finish the good work.

A big celebration was held at Escondido on September 9th, when the citizens celebrated the burning of the irrigation bonds which had long been an incumbrance to the community. There were special excursions from San Diego and Los Angeles and a big time generally.

TO MAINTAIN PRICES.

Wholesale Grocer of Southern States Tells How It is Done.

In an address before the National Wholesale Grocers' Association which convened at Milwaukee recently, J A. Van Hoose, president of the Southern Wholesale Grocers, told some very interesting facts about maintaining prices as fixed by manufacturers. Among other things, he said:

"We are now entering upon our fifteenth year. It costs some $20,000 to run our Association. There are about 900 wholesale groceries who are working under our plan.

"We have some very excellent plans, I dare say as good almost as some of the Northern, Eastern and Western people have. We have, for instance, our Cottolene plan.

The Cottolene Plan.

"The N. K. Fairbanks Company absolutely committed to me the decision in regard to all complaints in regard to cutting on Cottolene. It is absolute czar power

"We have now been working that plan three years. The sale of Cottolene has vastly increased in our territory, and I wish to make what I believe, Mr. Chairman, is one of the most remarkable reports that has ever been made in the history of commercial distribution—that at the last rebate period, when I sent out more than 900 checks, there was only one check held out on account of an unadjusted complaint. That is the practical elimination of the thief and the cutter.

"Mr. Gilmore demanded that we should secure 95 per cent of individual signatures before he would adopt the same plan on Ariosa coffee; and the 95 per cent was produced.

Details of the Plan.

"There is absolutely no appeal from my decision; there is no higher court except the courts of the land; my decision stands as final.

"If A reports B or B's salesman we take that up with three affidavits.

"We require the man who is the active manager, head of that firm, to make an affdavit. which is a scorcher;

"We require an affidavit from the salesman who made the sale.

'If any of you have been out in Texas and seen a Texas ranchman lassoo a steer, you know he makes one cinch and then takes another until the animal is down.

The third cinch which we take around the horn of the saddle is that finally we require an affidavit from the retailer—this is rather radical, but the thief and cutter are moving out of Southern territory or are getting down to business as gentlemen should get down to business.

An nteresting Example.

"There was a complaint made to me that a man had cut the price of cottolene. The investigation developed that that salesman sent in a sworn affidavit to the effect that he had not. He lied to his house, lied to his God, lied to his conscience. When it was proven that he had, under that Czar dictatorial power given me, I decided that only one or two things was permissible: dismissal without recommendation or that he should pay $50 out of his own pocket. The house replied that they

Very Expensive Business.

Jobbers Buy Trade at Expense of Retailers' Profits.

For nearly two years the retail grocers of Southern California have been getting a fair profit on numerous articles because the manufacturer would not sell to cutters and would not allow jobbers to sell to cutters. When the jobbers found how greatly this help their customers, they were glad to refrain from selling cutters.

A few San Francisco jobbers have now "butted in" to that territory. They are selling a store whose avowed purpose is to sell groceries at less than reasonable prices in order to advertise their other goods.

Treacherous Wholesale Grocers.

Such action on the part of a San Francisco wholesale grocer is the basest of treachery.

Worse than that, it is bad business.

No wholesale grocer, mill or commission house in Los Angeles will sell the firm in question.

If the San Francisco jobbing houses refused to sell them until they agreed not to sell their goods except with a profit, they could not get goods at all because they could not afford to buy them in Chicago and no jobbing house in any other city would be willing to sacrifice the welfare of the grocery trade in such an outrageous manner.

Where 'Frisco Suffers.

The grocers of Southern California have established the possibility of maintaining fair retail selling prices.

Through the results they have attained, they have taught San Francisco grocers how they could proceed to advantage.

When San Francisco jobbers "butt in" to a territory that they cannot sell in to advantage they do it for some motive. That motive may not be to try to cripple the grocers' association. But it looks like it.

Firms that had the welfare of the retail grocers at heart, would be employing every influence in their power to prevent the development of a force that was being created for the avowed purpose of destroying the profits of the retailer. Those wholesale grocers who lend themselves to this wicked scheme will find that they have taken a step that is hurtful to their customers and will be likely to engender a feeling of antagonism that will not be beneficial to them in the long run.

SLEEPY EASTERNERS.

The "Grocery World" of Philadelphia, in its issue of September 4, prints the first half of an account of the State Grocers' Convention held in that city on August 22, 23 and 24.

The Retail Grocers' Advocate" of New York, in its issue of September 1, publishes a splendid account of the State Grocers' Convention held at Syracuse, August 7, 8 and 9.

The "Retail Grocers' Advocate" of San Francisco printed an account of the State Grocers' Convention held at Stockton, August 21 and 22, in its issue of August 25, with 12 pages of extra reading matter.

Theatre Party Progress.

'Frisco Grocers Make Arrangements For a Big Time at the Majestic.

There will be a big time at the Majestic theatre on Monday evening, September 25th, when the retail grocers and their friends will assist in the opening performance of Barney Bernard in "His Honor, the Mayor."

Mr. H. W. Burmeister, the chairman of the committee that has the entertainment in charge, has been very active, and Messrs. Connolly, Doyle, Cusack and Wreden who make up the committee, are working like beavers. They have been largely assisted by President Salomon, J. M. Sullivan and the Association's Board of Directors.

Boxes Go Quickly.

As soon as the sale of seats was opened, orders came up for practically all the boxes. The sale of these seats was left with State Secretary Frank B. Connolly. Irders for boxes were received from

M. J. Brandenstein & Co.
Pacific Coast Syrup Co.
Wm. Cluff Co.
Saroni & Co.
S. F. Commercial Travelers.
Cal. State Grocers' Association.

A. Schilling & Co. purchased 15 tickets.

It has been decided to send five tickets to each of the leading wholesale houses of the city. As they cost only 75 cents each, it is hardly probable that they will be returned.

A special man will be sent to call on the San Francisco grocers to see that they can get their tickets in ample time.

Efforts will be made to see that the Alameda County grocers and their wives have seats in a special section of the house.

A Good Time Promised.

The performance promises to afford much entertainment.

The play is said to be extremely bright and funny. Mr. Bernard is a very clever comedian. The committee will see that he is well supplied with local hits and there should be lots of fun for everybody.

The proceeds will be employed to pay the local Association's per capita tax to the State Association and the expenses of the delegates to the recent convention. Any surplus fund will be turned in to the Association's treasury.

DIAMOND "C" WINNERS.

Diamond "C" products have been decided favorites on the Pacific Coast. They have won their high position by merit. Customers may not kick at a piece of salty or tough ham but they never remember them pleasantly. When they taste a ham with a rich nutty flavor, fine of grain and of special excellence, they feel pleased and they tell the grocer about it and buy more. This fact is what has made the trade push Diamond "C" hams and bacons so vigorously

STARCH PLANT ENLARGED.

Tacoma, Wash.—As soon as the $200,000 bond issue, which the Pacific Starch Co. authorized, is floated, the company will make large improvements in its plant. The Jackson, Mich., branch will be moved to Tacoma and the whole business will be conducted under the sole management of W R. Reynolds, who is secretary and treasurer of the company. The present equipment of the plant will be remodeled and much new and improved machinery will be added.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Make the collections quickly.

Spices are in large demand

The cured fish season is here.

Jelly tumblers are big sellers.

Coffee market is very strong.

Canned tomatoes keep on climbing

A clean store maketh a full cash register.

Pancake and maple syrup season is coming fast.

More packages of crackers are being sold than ever before.

Put the last of that summer goods on the bargain counter.

Fruit jars are selling better again. The fall demand is here.

Good judges believe that the prune market will yet advance.

Vinegar for pickling is one of the very active lines just now.

It is expected that Brazil nuts will advance on the short crop.

California dried fruits are expected to make a further advance.

Half-pound cans of Columbia River salmon are like angels' visits.

Reports from the south indicate a continued strong rice market

Look up the stock of lamp chimneys—the evenings are getting long.

Basket-fired Japan teas of all grades are scarce in the first crop this year.

Evaporated apples are carrying the sun dried fruit with them on the rise.

There is economy in a good stout paper bag or in substantial wrapping paper.

Ax handles and similar wooden goods sell better in the fall than at any other time.

Men love power. Organization gives power, therefore men cling to co-operative effort.

"Keep it under cover but not out of sight"—use glass covers or glass fronts to your bins.

You do a good turn for your own business every time you do a good turn for the town.

Your guarantee means much to the public you are serving. Do you make it prominent?

It is claimed by the packers that there will not be enough cured peaches to go around.

Keep the candy counter stocked with fresh goods. Try a few more box goods. They are full of profit.

The pea pack is only 40 per cent of the average, and already the packers are making short deliveries.

New Norway herring is on the market. The quality is very fine, but prices are rather high, owing to the short catch.

Don't drift behind the procession. Be fully abreast, if not a little ahead of it. Don't be a trailer in business. Be a leader.

Washtubs and other woodenware of this kind are firmer owing to the scarcity of timber suited to their manufacture.

Chocolate and cocoa will sell easier from now on as they make a better cool weather drink than a summer beverage.

Call the attention of the clerks to the lines that are moving slowly. A little suggestion by them will often result in a sale.

Higher prices are being asked by the manufacturers of starch. The "trust" claims that it has been making no money lately.

The rank and file of retail grocers often fail to appreciate the power that lies within their grasp if they would only get together.

Shore deliveries are being made by some of the canners of string and wax beans, although the pack is not very much below the average.

When you get a good coffee stick to it. You can build up a trade this way but never by shifting from one line to the other every month or so.

It appears that the crop of broom corn is one of the few that are not short this year and the prices on this line will not be advanced this fall.

September first means an augmented trade to many city grocers. Don't forget to have the order clerk call on the families that have just come back.

Prices on the new Holland herring are high. Usually the opening figures are low and advances take place later, but this year the market started in high.

Deliveries mean a big lot in the business of conducting a retail grocery or other retail business. Promptness is an important thing with a store's customers.

Have any of the clerks acquired the sampling habit. If so, they may find it hard to be civil to customers. For sampling makes the health to fail and the spirits to sour.

The Cape Cod cranberry crops is reported not more than two-thirds that of last year, the damage being caused mainly by winter killing and dry weather on the old bogs.

This is the year when the California deciduous fruit grower is coming into his own. Prices have been way up all season on everything and there is no sign of any lower range.

Cigars should be kept moist Everyone knows that, but still you will find a merchant once in a while who keeps his stock in a tight case without anything to give out moisture.

Don't delay laying in a stock of school supplies, such as cheap stationery. There will shortly be a big demand for these goods. The schools will soon open for the fall term

House-to-house canvassers are an evil that the country grocer has little experience with—and he should be thankful. In some of the larger cities they sell everything from bluing to flour.

A cheap and at the same time legal catsup may not be easy to get hold of this winter on account of the high price of tomatoes. The ten-cent bottle may be a minus quantity in pure food states.

The grocer who allows himself to be worried by what he hears of the doings of his competitors is a very foolish man—most of the time. Lots of people are worried by things which never really happen.

Make up "quantity prices" now for the big buyers. No reason why you can't sell canned goods by the case as well as the catalog houses can. This is the time of year when the trade has the money—if ever.

Grocers should give a last long push on picnic goods, before it gets too late in the year. There's lots of time remaining to sell such as bottled olives, sardines, salad dressings, potted meats, etc., to outing parties.

Owing to the short crop of prunes this year there will be a particular scarcity in small sizes. When the yield is light the fruit is always large, and the smaller sizes will doubtless command a premium this year.

A good crop of cranberries is looked for this fall in Wisconsin. The reports received from the big lands are very encouraging, as the bushes are said to be full of fruit and without any indications of blight or other trouble.

Manufacturers of rolled oats have gotten together and boosted prices on account, it is claimed, of the heavy demand. The factories are already oversold, and some look for an advance of a dollar a barrel before the winter is under way.

At 10 cents a pound retail, sound standard red Alaska canned salmon is probably the cheapest food in the market, as it means a pound of solid meat ready for use, full of nutriment and very palatable. There are no shells, no bones, no head or feet, no scales or entrails that must be thrown away

A radical sentiment on the premium question is the only position that has promise of doing away with the evil "No compromise!" shall be the cry. "Merit" as it applies to goods and "service" is all the organized grocers regard essential to the proper and profitable distribution of commodities.

Time can be saved by having things well located. Not only that, but a sale is sometimes missed by the stock's being out of place. If each line has its particular spot and is kept there the clerk can tell in a minute how much stock there is on hand and will never tell the customer that it is "out" when there is plenty of it where it should not be.

very forcibly was a statement of Mr. Fancher's in which he said that after eighteen months' trial of established prices in the city of Sacramento the largest firms had found that while their volume of business had decreased 10 per cent they were more than compensated by the larger profit gained thereby and were able to do what they had never been permitted to do before, to declare dividends that made the investment more profitable than any other in which staple commodities were handled. And further, that the small dealer was gaining a competence with an ease he had never known before uniform prices were established.

An Educational Committee.

Under the head of new business Mr. Hauch proposed a plan for creating more interest in the meetings of the Association. It was that a committee be appointed to be known as the Educational Committee and that its duty should be to select subjects of particular moment in the everyday experience of the grocery establishment and select a member to prepare a paper on the chosen topic and lead the discussion. Such subjects as Our Delivery System, Futures, Free Deals, Peddlers, etc., would give many evenings of interesting discussion. A committee consisting of Messrs. Hauch, Nor and Cushing was appointed to carry out this work.

Thanks for Stockton.

It was moved, seconded and carried that the secretary send a letter, expressing to the members of the Stockton Grocers' Association our appreciation for the splendid entertainment and hospitality accorded our delegates to the State convention.

The secretary called attention to the fact that it was now time to revise he delinquent list and asked that a committee be appointed to consider ways and means of printing the same. Messrs. Warnke, Thomas and Cushing were appointed on that committee.

The secretary reported that the new schedule of dues had been satisfactorily accepted by the members. The secretary's salary was taken under consideration, and on motion of Mr. Hoffman, seconded by Mr. Hauch and unanimously carried, the secretary's salary was raised $20.00, the same to begin from date.

The meeting then adjourned until Monday, September 25th.

TO FIGHT HIGH LICENSES.

The first meeting of the joint campaign committee of the Knights of the Royal Arch, California Liquor Dealers' Association and San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association was called at the Parrott Building Assembly Hall last Tuesday afternoon by E. L. Wagner, who presided.

The selection of officers was the first order of business, those elected being E. L. Wagner, chairman; J. T. Hurley, vice chairman; Harry Keeler, secretary; Charles Mitchell, treasurer.

Permanent headquarters will be located in the Baldwin Annex about the 15th of this month. The plan of action has not yet been fully defined, owing to a rumor afloat that the makers of the high license petition propose pledging the candidates for supervisorial honors at the next election in November to enact a high license ordinance instead of voting on the proposition.

The appointment of under committeemen will be from the three associations, appointed from the districts they represent.—S. F. "Evening Post."

SOLD SHORT WEIGHT BUTTER.

Robert Deitrich, a grocer, was arrested last week at the instance of one of the State Dairy Bureau inspectors for selling squares of butter which were not marked with the weight of the package, as is required by law. This is said to be the first gun of what promises to be a vigorous campaign against those alleged to violate this particular law, passed in the interests of the consumer.

A FINE GELATINE.

Grocers will find that their trade will be thoroughly satisfied with Plymouth Rock granulated gelatine. This gelatine is a 10-cent seller that gives the dealer a profit of nearly 50 per cent and at the same time is of the highest quality. Fred F. Hobbs & Co. are the local agents.

would take the first and not the second; that no man should take a grip out of that establishment for them who thought no more of the honor of that house than to take its honor and trample it into the State of Arkansas. (Great applause.)

"That man to-day is a wanderer on the face of this earth, without a job, because he has no recommendation; and the pathos is that he lost the house which he had half paid for.

"It had to be done.

"There were 5,000 other salesmen in that territory who were trying to make their living like men and gentlemen; and for their honor and protection, and the safety of their own integrity in business, it had to be done."

Pacific Coast Possibilities.

If the manufacturer is in earnest and can get the honest support of the retailer, he can secure success.

If the retailers stand together they can make the manufacturer want to protect the retail selling price of his goods and they can secure success.

If the jobber will 'stand in" as the jobbers of the Southern States are doing, success will be theirs without a struggle and hundreds of thousands of dollars would be saved annually to the distributors of food products who are to-day selling goods without a profit because of the folly or malice of a few foolish firms.

OAKLAND REPORTS RESULTS.

Delegates to State Convention Tell What They Learned and Suggest New Ideas.

Secretary J. G. Reed of Oakland sends us the following interesting report of Oakland's last meeting:

Oakland, Sept. 12, 1905.

Grocers' Advocate:. A very important meeting of the Alameda County Retail Grocers' Association was held Monday evening, September 11th. The usual order of business was rushed through in order that the report of the delegates to the Stockton Convention might be made.

A great deal of satisfaction was manifested over the honors conferred upon three of their delegates by the Convention. Mr. Warnke received congratulation on his election to the office of President of the State Association, and Mr Hauch on being made director of the Pacific Coast and State Association, and also Mr. Nor for the honor conferred upon him.

The secretary outlined the work accomplished at the convention and explained the program of entertainment the Stockton grocers had prepared for the delegates. He said the keynote of the convention was the good fellowship existing among the grocers not only in Stockton but in every locality where results had been obtained. This fact was brought out by Messrs. Fancher and Newberry, and in fact by all the representatives of the Stockton Association at the convention.

Important Work Done.

The construction work of the convention consisted of a new constitution and plans for making the State Secretary's office more effective. In order to do this a delinquent list of dead beats similar to that which Mr. Paulding initiated last October was authorized. A credit rating bureau was ordered and a plan of Mr Paulding's, which he put in operation last November, was also adopted consisting in the establishment of an Executive Committee in every locality composed of the leading grocers to take active measures in supporting the prices established and maintained by the manufacturer on h's standard brands.

The reason the Stockton convention was so successful was the fact that it was so well planned. Too much credit cannot be given Mr. Powers for his untiring efforts in outlining the numerous reports and for his splendid report of the convention's work.

Stockton's Splendid Hospitality.

Mr. Hauch spoke of the splendid hospitality and entertainment given the delegates by the Stockton Association, and dwelt upon the solidarity and good fellowship manifested by its grocers. One idea that impressed him and means more for the successful results was the recognition by the convention of those manufacturers and wholesalers who have shown themselves to be consistent and staunch friends of the grocer.

This was the indorsement of Enoch Morgan's Sons, A. Schilling & Co. and The Globe Mills, for their endeavor to protect the grocer and assure him a profit Mr. Hauch then explained the plan of the Pacific Coast Association to publish a semi-monthly list of the prices made by the manufacturer to the jobber. Great interest was manifested in this plan and called forth an expression of approval from all those present.

Mr. Warnke then spoke upon a conference held at the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco, Tuesday evening, September 5th. He said that one of the far-reaching results as a consequence of this conference was that the leading grocers of San Francisco had signed up agreeing to support those mills who would give a margin of 25 cents a sack on their flour and at the same time guarantee a uniform price. Mr. Warnke closed his remarks with a glowing description of the entertainment of the Stockton grocers.

Convention an Inspiration.

Mr. Hoffman said that the convention was a great inspiration to him and his colleagues He expected immense results from its work and said that it was a happy circumstance that grocers from all parts of the State should meet in Stockton and see the result of what can be done when the grocers will work together. He said that Stockton had done talking long ago and were now doing things. He spoke at length on the price card they had established, the total absence of price signs in the windows of the Stockton grocery stores and of the neat and prosperous appearance of their establishments.

Mr. Manning spoke of the number of eloquent speakers the grocers had in their midst and particularly the eloquence of Mr. Fancher in his addresses at the Pierce Stock Farm and also at the banquet. One fact that struck him very forcibly was a statement of Mr. Fancher's in which he said that after eighteen months' trial of established prices in the city of Sacramento the largest firms had found that while their volume of business had decreased 10 per cent they were more than compensated by the larger profit gained thereby and were able to do what they had never been permitted to do before, to declare dividends that made the investment more profitable than any other in which staple commodities were handled. And further, that the small dealer was gaining a competence with an ease he had never known before uniform prices were established.

An Educational Committee.

Under the head of new business Mr. Hauch proposed a plan for creating more interest in the meetings of the Association. It was that a committee be appointed to be known as the Educational Committee and that its duty should be to select subjects of particular moment in the everyday experience of the grocery establishment and select a member to prepare a paper on the chosen topic and lead the discussion. Such subjects as Our Delivery System, Futures, Free Deals, Peddlers, etc., would give many evenings of interesting discussion. A committee consisting of Messrs. Hauch, Nor and Cushing was appointed to carry out this work.

Thanks for Stockton.

It was moved, seconded and carried that the secretary send a letter, expressing to the members of the Stockton Grocers' Association our appreciation for the splendid entertainment and hospitality accorded our delegates to the State convention.

Assortments to retail at $1 or $3 or $5 or any figure are used a great deal by the retail catalogue and mail order houses Make up assortments yourself. Get a catalogue list and see how nearly you can duplicate it. Advertise to your trade that you will duplicate any catalogue list. Some of the best country grocers simply make it a rule to duplicate catalogue prices even though they lose a few cents once in a while. It is good advertising.

Groeery Markets.

Commercial Outlook of the Western World as shown by Present Conditions.

Office of the ADVOCATE.
Thursday Afternoon.

ADVANCES.

New York factory cheese, cheddars to 16½ cents; twins to 17 cents.

Bloaters, 100's, from $2.50 to $2.75.

Hayward tomatoes 2½'s standard, from 75c to 77½c. Palo Alto, 2½'s extra standard, from 77½c to 80c.

Fancy Rayo beans, from $4.65 to $4.80.

DECLINES.

Raw linseed oil, barrels to 54 cents per gal.; cases to 59 cents; boiled, barrels to 56 cents; cases to 61 cents.

Select Milchner Holland herring, barrel to $19.00; half barrel to $10.00; kegs to $1.10.

Lima beans, from $6.15 to $6.00. Pinks, from $3.70 to $3.60. Small white, from $4.00 to $3.90.

SUGAR.

New York, Sept. 12.—Raw sugar neglected. Refiners out of the market. European market slightly easier.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—The "Grocery World" says:

"The raw situation abroad seems hopelessly weak. During the week it has been announced that the European beet crop would reach 6,250,000 tons, which is unprecedentedly large. When the cane sugar crop of 4,500,000 tons is added, the aggregate represents the largest sugar crop the world has ever known. This weakening prospect, aggravated by several bad failures and suicides in France, due to the collapsed market, has pushed raws steadily down. The outlook for refined sugar for the coming year is, therefore, for low prices."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Middlefield, Ohio, Sept. 1.—Robinson & Co. report:

"There is very little unsold maple products in the hands of wholesale dealers and prices will probably go higher as the cold weather gets nearer. Dealers will do well to stock up if they can get it, as it will be only a short time until last spring's crop will be entirely sold."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. says:

"There is little trading going on, buyers being influenced to hold off by the fact that the New York market is down ¼ cent, though still above parity with San Francisco.

"In two or three weeks' roasters will be compelled to resume buying as they have only light stocks on hand, and then the market will become stronger again."

New York, Sept. 1.—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"Inland distributors who allowed their stocks to run down to a minimum in the hope of being able to replenish same to advantage out of the new crop, have at last been compelled to buy. This has created a healthy trade demand throughout the month which, in turn, helped to bring about a further advance in prices. The receipts at Rio and Santos this year are about 15 per cent smaller than last year and about 30 per cent smaller ehan two years ago. Planters are holding firmly since they are in a better financial condition than before owing to the higher price realized last year. At the same time they realize that their position is made stronger through the absence of old accumulations on the plantations (for the first time in years). We think the trade need not expect large crops of Rio and Santos for some years to come."

TEA.

The market is very firm. The fact that the crop has been short in every tea producing country, Japan, China, India and Ceylon, makes a continued strong market certain, and a big boom is predicted by importers when the true condition of the world's supply is fully known.

New York, Sept. 5.—John. B. Brown & Co. report.

Green Teas—Cables received from Shanghai this morning quote stock of green teas as considerably smaller than arrivals to date during the corresponding time of last year. Prices have increased somewhat.

Congou teas are firmer, owing to the scarcity of tea in Manchuria. During the war in the Far East, dealers have been without stock, but now that the general trade will soon be opened, a rush of Congous is expected from Shanghai to the ports around Manchuria, Corea and Siberia.

Japan teas on this market reflect a higher range of values based largely on the speculative demand in Japan. Japan holders, being the largest in the United States, have advanced stock from ½c to 3c per pound. Prices on this market are several cents a pound less than what the same teas can be duplicated for at Shanghai. We have for several months predicted more active business and higher rates, and we are still of this opinion.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market is very firm, and owing to the fact that the southern crop will be considerably short of last year, high prices, as compared with former years, are a certainty."

Charleston, S. C., Sept. 2.—Samuel G. Stoney reports:

"Owing to the greatly reduced acreage there will be a scarcity of Carolina rice this year. The quality should be first class in every respect. It will be held at full figures as really good, sound rice seems to be scarce in the Southwest this season. It is confidently expected that the good grade of Carolina rice will command about 5 cents and a little over for attractive, well milled lots."

New York, Sept. 5.—Dan Talmage Sons Co reports:

"Assortments are now full and all that could be desired. Lessening supplies in the South promise corresponding shortening of receipts at this point. In consequence, the market rules firm. Harvest is being pushed rapidly and planters are so busy saving the crop that they will not have time for selling for several weeks. The demand has been better at New Orleans. As receipts have been less, the market has firmed."

DRIED FRUIT.

New York, September 12.—Prunes are easier, straight cars of 50s offered at 3¼c basis and 40-60s at 3½c basis. Peaches and apricots firm but quiet, as buyers expect lower prices. Smyrna figs show poor quality generally with prices advancing.

PRUNES.

New York, Sept. 1.—Spot stocks of all kinds are small and are finding a very good outlet on small orders at full price. The Coast market for new crop prunes for October shipment is steadily advancing, and according to advices by wire it is becoming increasingly difficult to buy 50s to 80s, inclusive, or any assortment within those sizes on a 3¾c f. o. b. basis. Some packers have withdrawn from the market as sellers at any price, for the present, and others decline to entertain bids of anything below a 4c f. o. b. bag basis, which, it is predicted in some quarters usually conservative, will be the inside of the market by the time new fruit is ready for shipment in October.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1.—The "Grocery World" says:

"Spot prunes are in good shape and firm. Fortys are practically out of the market. Fifties are only slightly less scarce and holders want a 3 1-8c basis for them. Small sizes are also scarce. For Santa Claras a 3¾c basis is asked, and prophesies are freely made that the asking will go to 4 cents."

RAISINS.

Fresno, Cal., Sept. 9.—The amalgamation of the raisin growers and raisin packers has now been legally effected along the lines decided on at the mass meeting of growers held July 21st. There has been seven weeks of diplomatic fencing but now the combine is completed and controls the raisin situation strongly.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 30.—Minnewawa Home Packing Co. reports:

"Prices of raisins are going to be high as the quantity outside of the association will be limited. The association seems to have a firm grasp this season and undoubtedly will have for the next two years, since the growers are all signed up for a term of three years."

DRIED PEACHES.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 30.—Minnewawa Home Packing Co. reports:

"Some growers have been offered 8½c for dried peaches by certain packers who had sold short and had to cover."

DRIED APPLES.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 4.—E. V. Pierson & Co. report:

"Evaporators are refusing to make contracts at ruling market prices as green stock commands more money with barreled apple men."

New York, Sept. 5.—Delmarle Bros. report:

"Indications point to a slightly weaker market for dried apples since export orders are coming in in a very small way and buyers here are not inclined to bid for apples."

OLIVES.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 7.—The olive crop is showing up better every day. There will be more than double the amount estimated early in the season. Some trees are hanging to the ground with their load.

ALMONDS.

Prices on the Hatch, or paper-shell varieties of almonds were named this week as follows:

Nonpariels	14 to 15c
I. X. L.	12½ to 13½c
Ne Plus Ultras	12½ to 13c

There are several associations, all of which have been waiting for the others to name the price, fearful to make a price that would be too high, so that the other associations would cut under and get the business; or too low, and have speculators gobble up the offerings and make the profit. Prices on soft-shell will probably be made in a week or ten days. The crop this year is reported to be about 2000 to 2500 tons, or about two-thirds of a full crop.

WALNUTS.

Anaheim, Sept. 5.—The walnut crop in Anaheim and Fullerton will be light this season and growers expect to receive the highest prices paid in years, some holding that the figures will go up to at least 13c a pound. The crop was light last year and this year's output will not be as heavy as that of last season. Some buyers are now here offering 12c net but no one will sell at this price. Only a few cars will be shipped independent of the exchanges.

Santa Ana.—Walnut-buyers are offering 12c per pound for nuts, irrespective of grades, and offer to take the entire yield at that figure. The association price has not yet been fixed, but walnut men say that 12½c to 13c will probably be the figures for first-class soft-shells.

Anaheim—John Hanna of Miraflores says that he last week refused 12c per pound for his nut crop, taking the run of the orchard, made by an independent buyer. Mr. Hanna's trees are laden with the best crop of nuts ever borne by them, and he thinks that he will receive 13c for them, or better.

New York, Sept. 2.—The Hills Bros. Co. report:

"Walnuts show an advance of ½c on all grades."

PEANUTS.

Waverly, Tenn., Aug. 31.—J. P. Cowen & Co. report.

"The growing crop of peanuts is looking fine. Prospects look favorable for the best crop in several years. Farmers are selling old nuts at a much reduced price."

BEANS.

Los Angeles, Aug. 31.—Holmes & Stockard report:

"Excessively hot weather in the lima bean district has done considerable damage. We think the damage will not be less than 20 per cent. Values have advanced in consequence. 'Weather' market will prevail for the next few weeks. Shorts are offering growers $3.25. This means $3.35 to $3.40 f. o. b. Growers refuse to sell."

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—Carson, Craig & Co. report:

"Offerings during the past week have not been adequate to fill the demand for old beans. The uncertainty of the outcome of the new crop has restricted offerings for October."

Ovid, Mich., Sept. 2.—Chas. Cowan Seed Co. report:

"We figure about 50 per cent of a crop compared with 1904 crop on account of poor yield."

Avon, N. Y., Sept. 2.—S. M. Pense reports:

"Rust is working havoc in many fields. The medium early and late varieties are destined to be very short, owing to excessive rains, followed by hot suns."

CANNED FRUITS.

The local situation is very strong in all varieties. Only pears, which were the strongest of all in the beginning, are wavering slightly. Peaches are particularly strong, several canners having marked up their varieties 5 to 10c a dozen all along the line. Gallon goods show particular strength. Apricots that opened at $1.75 now bring $2 and $2.25 is asked. Blackberries that opened at $2.75 cannot be touched for less than $3.75. Gallon peaches are being quoted at $3 that were offered earlier at $2.50. day. The association has withdrawn prices and the fact is now evident that the California pack will have to furnish supplies for much territory that has heretofore bought in the East.

PRESERVES.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 2.—J. A. Lamon reports:

"Owing to the short crop of apples and the advance in glucose, cheaper jellies and preserves already show a loss on futures sold early in the season. Further advances are looked for."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, Sept. 12.—The bulk of available supplies are controlled by a syndicate of large operators. Their manipulations, together with the fact that the crop is undoubtedly very short, have resulted in sales, factory, at 90c, with market very unsettled, and some asking 95c.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 1.—The "Trade" says.

"Here, in the Chesapeake region, tomatoes are worth 85c to 90c today. And packers cannot pack them at cost price less than 80c. The California man says they can pack tomatoes out there at 70c per dozen at present, but it costs $1 per dozen to freight them to the East.

"Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are having a very poor result from their tomato fields. At the height of the tomato season they are getting only enough tomatoes to keep a factory running three days out of six.

"Here in Maryland the country pack-

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY

SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

ers and the growers holding growers' contracts for tomatoes at $6 per ton, have gotten out injunctions restraining growers from disposing of the crop. But the growers are getting $25 per ton for them, and in these days graft is more than even honesty can stand.

"The California packer, therefore, disposes of his goods half way across the continent, and we can, therefore, expect to see large quantities sold in Chicago and St. Louis at the still advancing prices canned tomatoes are bringing.

"The two extremes of East and West will be competing for the mid-continent trade."

Anaheim, Cal., Sept. 9.—The local cannery is running on tomatoes. There will not be half a crop this season.

Bridgeville, Del., Sept. 2.—H. P. Cannon reports:

"Tomatoes are a very short crop. Some fields are yielding only about one-fifth to one-fourth of a crop. The average is not more than 40 to 50 per cent of a fair crop."

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 2.—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"Light receipts and high cost of raw tomatoes caused marked advances this week. Gallon tomatoes advanced from $2.10 to $2.25, with indications of higher prices. There has been a stiffening in 2's and 3's. Canners are voluntarily paying growers an advance over the contract price (between $7 and $8 a ton) to induce them to deliver on contracts rather than sell their goods on the open market, where $25 is being paid."

Princess Anne, Md., Sept. 4.—M. Dashiell reports:

"Heavy rains are making a short crop of tomatoes shorter. This week and next will practically constitute the packing season. There were fewer goods packed in August than for years."

CANNED CORN.

New York, Aug. 30.—The Baltimore "Trade" correspondent reports.

"The market is dull, and advices from the West indicate a weak feeling there. New York State promises to have a larger output than crop reports formerly indicated. Maine promises well at present, though, of course, much depends upon the frost in the latter State. So far as spot business is concerned there is none."

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 1.—The "Grocery World" says:

"The pack is large everywhere but in certain sections of New York State. The pack in Maryland is very large, especially of the crushed brands, and the Western pack is enormous. One very large Illinois packer wrote his Eastern representative during the week that his production would average five cases to the acre more than last year. All through the West the yield has been tremendous. The pack of corn is now on in Maine, and the prospects are better than they have been for years. Already some surplus new corn has been offered at sharply shaded prices."

Bridgeville, Del., Sept. 2.—H. P. Cannon reports:

"Corn packing is over in this section. Crop was of good quality, but only about 75 per cent of a yield."

CANNED SALMON.

New York, Sept. 12.—Red Alaska salmon is dull. There is a better demand for sockeye. The sale of several cars on basis of $1.35 for talls is reported.

New York, Sept. 7.—The restoration of the $1 f. o. b. basis has been accepted somewhat apathetically by the trade here, the general opinion being that it would be without influence upon the actual market, which the jobber will make for some time to come. Retailers, as late as Saturday, were reported to be buying freely and having their orders filled on the cut rate basis. Sockeyes are quiet, some jobbers, who contracted on a $1.25 f. o. b. basis for talls before opening prices were announced by the large packers, are still selling on that basis, while the principal packing interests adhere to their $1.35 f. o. b. talls basis and assert that there will be no departure from it by them this season.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 9.—Official figures of the Fraser river salmon pack for the current season give it as 784,442 cases, to which will be added a sufficient margin to bring it up to 800,000 cases. The Northern pack will approximate 150,000 cases, and the Vancouver Island pack in the neighborhood of 100,000. The selling price has already been fixed and submitted to the English agents, but cannot as yet be made public.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 5.—T. K. Kershaw, State Fish Commissioner, declares that the end of the sockeye salmon industry on Puget Sound is but a matter of a few years unless the Legislature by stringent laws at once prohibits traps at the mouths of streams where the fish go to spawn. Mr. Kershaw points to the fact that in 1901, when the packers were without the improved facilities of today for catching and packing fish, the pack was 1,152,000 cases. He estimates this year the pack will be about 800,000 cases.

"The only construction that can be placed on those figures," said Mr. eKrshaw, "is that the salmon are being depleted in Washington waters and if it is kept on at this rate the time is near when there will be no more fish of that species in the Sound."

CODFISH.

The new pack of Pacific codfish will be on the market in about a week. There will be no carryover of old fish, and the supply is quite likely to be short, as recent arrivals brought very light cargoes.

HOLLAND HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

The catch of Holland herring is still far below the quantity caught during the same period of last year and we hardly think that we will see much lower prices than those made today.

FISH.

New York, Aug. 30.—Leber & Son report:

"Holland Herring—The catch to date of the Dutch fleet is only 93,000 bbls., as against 172,000 bbls. last year. Prices in Holland rule 50 per cent higher than at same date last year. Higher prices must rule for some time to come as shipments to this side are entirely inadequate to supply the demand occasioned by the cool weather so early this fall."

New York, Sept. 5.—Strohmeyer & Co. report:

"Holland Herring—Catch continues poor. Prices are higher and supply small.

"Scotch Herring—Good supply and good demand. Prices unchanged.

"Imported Sardines—France reports continued failure of catch with nothing doing in Portugal. Stocks gradually going into consumption.

"Norway Mackerel—First of this season's fish have arrived—mostly small. Quality is very pretty for this time of the year."

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. say:

"The market is unchanged as to prices from last week, but is not as strong as for some time past."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's cheese is higher again and it looks as if another advance of ½c per pound would take place shortly."

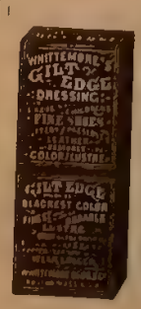
COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, Aug. 31.—Aspegren & Co. report:

"The demand is increasing and is especially good for compound lard purposes. Orders are coming in from Europe. Liberal supply and offers to sell prevent higher prices."

SPICES.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 31.—McCormick & Co. report:



"The demand is exceedingly active. The foreign markets, in many instances, are higher than our own. Reports of higher freights, in addition to short crops of pepper, have greatly strengthened the market. You can expect a higher level of prices for all grades of pepper during fall and winter."

New York, Sept. 5.—John Clarke reports.

"The market is firm and exhibits a decided upward tendency on continued advices of short crops and the enormous consuming demand of America."

Cigars and Tobacco

The tobacco crop in many parts of Kentucky has been greatly damaged by recent heavy rains.

The Rough Rider cigars are enjoying an increasing popularity under the energetic pushing of J. L. Jerichau, who has recently added Oakland to his territory.

M. Baskower & Co., who will hereafter give their attention exclusively to the jobbing trade, have been remodeling their Montgomery street store and have put in a new and striking show window.

The J. A. Drinkhouse Co. report a steady improvement in trade and say the Manuel Lopez clear Havanas and N. B. M. and Old Government Porto Rico cigars are enjoying a full share of this improved condition.

Revised estimates of the damage to tobacco by hail in Windsor, Conn., and vicinity recently, place the loss at not less than $200,000. The storm was the second in the Connecticut Valley this season, tobacco growers in Hampshire county, Massachusetts, losing $100,000 last month in a storm which lasted but a few minutes.

Washington, D. C., August 31.—Information received here from reliable sources indicates that the Tobacco Trust did not benefit to any appreciable extent by the errors in computations recently made by the Bureau of Statistics of the Agricultural Department. In the first place the farmers of the Dark Tobacco Districts have been holding their tobacco for higher prices and have been working all summer to effect a combination for that purpose, so there is no reason to believe any considerable amount was picked up on the report of an unusually large crop.

A recent writer gives the cause for the prejudice against cigarettes. He says that so rapidly did the trade in cigarettes grow that cigar dealers started a crusade against them, publishing ingenious yarns concerning the drugging of cigarettes with Dover's powders, opium, morphine and chloral hydrate They claimed that the tobacco used was made from cigar stumps picked up on the streets, and that the papers were bleached with white lead, arsenic, antimony and mercury. They were manufactured by people afflicted with foul diseases. The campaign came to any end finally, but was taken up then by the W. C. T. U.

The speed at which cigar-making can be done by hand varies according to the skill of the workman and according to the sizes and shapes of the cigars. The many variations in size and shape give rise to many differences in the piece-price wages for bunch-making and rolling. In a working day of eight hours a cigar-maker of average skill, making his own long filler bunches as well as rolling them, would complete 225 to 275 straight cigars, 200 to 250 shaped cigars or 150 to 200 perfectors—all from four and a half to five inches in length. An unusually speedy workman would bunch and roll 300 to 325 straight cigars, 275 to 300 shaped shaped cigars, or 225 to 250 perfectos. By team work there is perhaps some economy of labor. By using molds there is a saving of nearly one-third the time required to make a given number of cigars. A number of manufacturers who were consulted declared that a cigarmaker who could make 800 cigars complete a week without molds could make 1200 with molds, and that a bunchmaker who could make 2000 bunches without molds could make 4000 with molds.

Apropos of the seizure of the 108 bales of tobacco in New York last week, the following dispatch may be of interest: The fact that thousands of pounds of tobacco could be slipped through the Tampa customs house in one shipment on the payment of 28 cents per pound duty, instead of $1.48 per pound, came as a revelation to those who had not followed the matter for years, waiting for a favorable opportunity to demonstrate to the authorities the truth of the charge that the government is being defrauded, intentionally or otherwise, out of several millions of dollars yearly in the classification of tobacco at the customs houses. Consequently an effort was made in some quarters to ridicule the charges, which was ably supported by violent protestations from the Tampa officials.

The first month of the new fiscal years, that is July, started in auspiciously for our cigar and tobacco industries, says the United States Tobacco Journal. It records an increase of 29,186,300 in the output of cigars in a total output of 580,355,750; an increase of 12,015,629 in the output of little cigars in a total output of 66,803,629; an increase of 8,987,314 in the output of cigarettes in a total output of 284,465,501; and an increase of 2,450,137 pounds in the production of manufactured tobacco in a total production of 25,978,365 pounds. The only decrease during the month was in snuff to the amount of 329,098 pounds in a total production of 1,233,385 pounds. If July's record be taken as a criterion for the entire year, the outlook for the trade is simply phenomenal.

Pointers About Cigars.

A cigar expert, writing on the condition of a cigar and how it is told, says:

"A cigar must possess that soft, spongy or corky feeling, for that, in my opinion, is actually the secret of the entire cigar business, for the following reasons:

"When a smoker lights a cigar he smokes with his mouth, not with the eyes, and it is an undisputed fact among cigar manufacturers that unless a cigar is a free smoker it is no more a cigar than a punk stick

"Another point for a dealer to consider is whether the wrapper has a firm hold on the bunch. By this I mean, in rolling a bunch, the wrapper should lap at least one-half an inch. Unless these conditions exist in a cigar it will be a poor smoke, regardless of the grade of tobacco it may have been made of.

"Dealers oftentimes, when choosing their brands, look for uniformity in shape, when that actually amounts to the least. I don't wish to be misunderstood that uniformity of shape should not exist; what I mean is that it is not the most important feature about a cigar.

"Hope that readers will note these remarks, as my experience has proven them to be true."

Diamond Match Company Wants to Know How California Grocers Fail.

The following letter from Fred Mason, now in the employ of the Diamond Match Company, has been received by Frank B. Connolly, secretary of the State Grocers' Association:

California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association:

Gentlemen: The Diamond Match Company are working the trade in California with their salesmen, offering the Domino Match, which possesses the following five points of safety:

1. Safety—Heads prevent fire from side friction. The box can be dropped, broken, or roughly handled, with a minimum liability of ignition.
2. Safety—Rodents when attacking or gnawing the wax on splint end cannot ignite the match, because the main head is non-ignitable by friction; main head contains no phosphorus.
3. Safety—There is no danger of ignition by stepping, treading or walking on Domino Safety Matches.
4. Safety—Protected tips—strike anywhere—heads don't fly
5. Safety—The boxes are printed with black ink on white box board, and bear the distinctive marks of The Diamond Match Company (Beware of Imitations).

It also has the indorsement of the Fire Chiefs and Insurance Underwriters in eight of the principal cities of the United States.

This match has become very popular in the Eastern cities.

The Diamond Match Company give no premiums, but are ready at all times to co-operate with the wholesale and retail grocer to sell their products, depending upon quality to consumer, and the interest of the grocers to push the sale of their matches in profits.

There is a matter of great importance to your Association and to your company that we wish you would present to your Association. The writer knows that your members have expressed themselves frequently and in no indefinite manner, their desire to do away with premiums. The Diamond Match Company have respected that desire, because they believe premiums are demoralizing both to the quality of the goods, and to the profit of the retail grocer.

Now we are confronted with this proposition: Some of our competitors are using premiums to sell their matches Do your members mean to stand by their resolution and not handle goods with premiums?

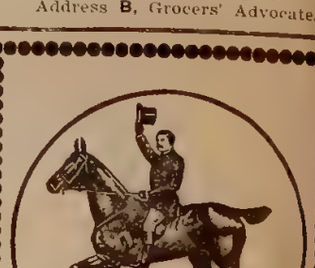
The writer believes they will, but would like to have some expression from your Association to convince this Company that we will win by keeping out of this practice.

Your prompt reply will be appreciated.

With kind personal regards,

Yours truly,

Diamond Match Company.



By FRED MASON.

The matter will be taken up at the meeting of the Directors of the State Association on Thursday evening.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

Altadena—A branch store of the Model Grocery Company of Pasadena will open for business about September 15. The growing trade of the popular grocery in the northern section has necessitated the establishment of this branch. The building has been fitted with new fixtures throughout and a new stock is now being placed upon the shelves. The store will be in charge of F W. Cornell, who will be assisted by Chester Vail. Both have long been connected with the Model Grocery Company.

Anaheim—Wallop Bros. have opened their new grocery store in the Odd Fellows' building. J. N. Ferguson & Co. have opened a grocery and general store.

Fullerton—The old grocery store building occupied by Drips & Whisnant has been moved across the street, where it will be continued until the two-story brick structure on the old site is completed.

Long Beach—The grocery of Atwater & Carl is now conducted on a strictly cash basis.

Los Angeles—W L. King has purchased the store of A. L. Elmstead at 2020 South Main street, Los Angeles. Mr. King is an experienced grocer from Keokuk, Iowa.

Los Angeles—S. A. Graham has sold his grocery stock to W. Esplin, an Eastside man, who will continue the business at the same corner. Mr. Graham has his new three-story building about plastered and will soon occupy it J. L. Stuart, corner East Main and Griffin, has sold his grocery stock to J. McPherson, who comes recently from Providence, Rhode Island. N. Smookler, who conducts a small grocery at No. 900 Sunset boulevard, was recently buncoed by a stranger who presented a check for $8.80 and which Smookler cashed. The check was drawn by Thomas Culberson on the First National Bank and was made payable to and indorsed by W Durant. The bank refused payment.

Ocean Park—W. C. Mushet has been appointed receiver in bankruptcy for W. F. Hewitt grocer. The amount of Hewitt's debts is $1597.16. The United Wholesale Grocery Company, the Globe Grain & Milling Company and Crombie & Co. are the principal creditors.

Pacific Grove—A E. Oliver and W. D. Lowe have purchased the grocery store of M. R. Stansbury & Son. Mr. Oliver is a young man of unimpeachable character who has spent the greater part of his life in Pacific Grove and Monterey. He entered the employ of C E. Tuck when a mere lad and worked for Mr. Tuck until he sold to Mr. Preble. Since that time Mr. Oliver has been in the employ of the Preble Grocery Company. Mr. Lowe has resided in Monterey for upwards of a year past. For a time he was in business for himself in New Monterey, but of late he has been in the employ of the Preble Grocery Company in Monterey. The new firm merits and will no doubt receive a continuation of the liberal patronage heretofore accorded Messrs. Stansbury and son.

Pasadena—D. W. Herlihy, of the Model Grocery Company, was recently given a verdict for $200 in the case against the Pacific Electric Railway Company for the killing of a horse of the grocery company a few months ago.

Red Bluff—Vernon McMaster, who recently graduated from the Red Bluff Union High School, has returned from an Eastern trip and has taken a permanent position in his father's grocery store Vernon is a bright young man and well adapted to a business career.

Redlands—The grocery store of S. L. Gregg has been moved from its old stand at 227 North Orange street to 120 East State street in the Ford building.

San Pedro—J. H. Kitterman, who was formerly in the grocery business at the corner of O'Farrell and Mesa streets, has moved his stock of goods to the new store at the corner of Pacific avenue and Sepulveda streets. Mr. Kitterman has greatly enlarged his stock of goods.

Santa Barbara—J. C Mann will open a grocery in the Oak Park suburb.

Sawtelle—The grocery store of William Driggs was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of September 1st. The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline tank and caused a loss of $5000 with insurance on the stock and building.

Upland—Henry Klindt, who recently purchased the grocery stock of the McCulloch Co., has taken possession and will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Klindt came to Upland, then North Ontario, in 1896, since which time he has been engaged in business here, excepting the last two years, when he has resided at Long Beach and Los Angeles.

IDAHO.

Moscow—J R. Bridges & Son are opening a grocery store.

Post Falls—E. J. McSherry, who recently closed out his grocery store at Garfield, Wash., is engaging in the same line of business in this place.

Rupert—W. D. Crocker has opened a grocery store.

Stites—Thomas F. Oliver is opening a grocery store.

OREGON.

Barrett—The store of Laman & Dunn has been enlarged and a new stock of groceries put in.

Independence—The big grocery store of McCready & Earhart has been sold to A. W. Cooper. Mr. McCuen, of Albany, will occupy a part of the building with a stock of dry goods and clothing.

Portland—C. E. Wallenstein is opening a grocery store. Cassou & Denny have succeeded Cassou Bros., grocers. Fire recently damaged Keats & Young's grocery store $1000; insured.

WASHINGTON.

Anacortes—A. Allen, recently from Battle Creek, Mich., has purchased the grocery department of E. S Cook's store and is arranging to add lines of dry goods, furnishings, stationery, etc. Mr. Cook retains his extensive hardware business, and will continue to handle hay and feed.

Centralia—C. C. Borchers has opened a tea and coffee store.

Davenport—D. G. Lorenzi is reported about to open a grocery store.

Granger—J. M. Hutton, of Anacortes, and Chas. Vinup, of Linden, have started a grocery store here.

Mabton—Joseph Boudray, formerly of the Hub Mercantile Company, has purchased Frank Albert's grocery store.

Medical Lake—E. B. Copeland, grocer, is reported to have discontinued.

Orting—T. R Kenny is opening a grocery store.

Seattle—Howard Wheeler has purchased C. H. Gouley's grocery store. H. Thomas has purchased G. Hughes' grocery store.

Spokane—The Indiana Grocery Company has dissolved. F. W Callow & Co. have purchased E. E. Woodward's grocery store.

Tacoma—Babcock & Tully, grocers, have dissolved partnership, S. T. Babcock continuing the business.

WORDS OF APPROVAL.

Los Angeles Herald Comments on Southern California Grocers' Association.

In a recent special number the Los Angeles Herald refers to the organization of the retail grocers of Southern California, Cal., as follows:

"The Southern California Retail Grocers' Association, chartered as an auxiliary of the California Grocers' and Merchants' Association, has an office in the Tajo building, in charge of Secretary Paulding

"The organization of the association and the rules governing it has resulted in bettering the condition of the grocery business generally. The system adopted has weeded out unprofitable patrons, as a list of all irresponsible, slow, or non-paying customers has been made for ready reference. The system has resulted in giving merchants value for their goods, and the smaller dealers who run close are now enabled to a larger extent to meet their obligations when the collector for the wholesale houses comes around.

Sharp Competition.

"There are very few strictly cash supply firms in Los Angeles. More or less bookkeeping is necessary, due largely to sharp competition. The grocers state that they have no trouble worth mentioning with residents who own property, or with heads of families who have regular employment in the city. The transients and improvidents are the people who cause most of the losses.

"The retail trade of the city is in a very healthy condition and with the expansion of the residence districts in every direction plans are being made for the opening of new stores for the convenience of the public."

ONCE USED, ALWAYS WANTED.

Snider Catsup predominates all over the West as well as throughout the East.

Grocers are aware of the fact that they have no trouble in disposing of Snider condiments. The name "Snider" is a household word—and why should any grocer experiment with an unknown quantity for the sake of a little increase in profit, when the genuine Snider goods can be purchased of every jobber's salesman.

Snider's goods are always uniform in quality, and grocers never have to exert themselves in order to sell them. It requires no force nor extra time on his part to sell.

Besides, Snider's goods are sold on a satisfactory margin of profit, and on the basis of quick sales and fair profits. One bottle sells another.

Amusements

THE TIVOLI.

The finest grand opera company evet offered the San Francisco public at popular prices is now presenting the standard grand operas at the Tivoli with seats ranging from $2 to 50 cents. The singers are exceptionally strong and music lovers are enjoying a genuine artistic treat. On Saturday evening Tetrazzina sings in Rigoletto. On Sunday night "Il Trovatore" is played. Next week the offerings include "Lucia," "Manon Lescaut," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci."

THE MAJESTIC.

"The Sea Wolf" has been drawing splendid houses to this theatre. The play is a dramatization of Jack London's great novel and carries into reality the wonderful swing and excitement of that great book. The cast is a strong one and the staging is wonderfully effective. The piece is one of the strongest seen here in a long time and is well worth an evening. "Alabama" is promised for next week. Elaborate preparations are being made for the first production on Monday, Sept. 25th, of "His Honor, the Mayor," a new play in which Barney Bernard is to star. The Grocers' Association is to have a theatre party on the opening night of "His Honor."

THE ALCAZAR.

"Villon, the Vagabond," a tense and picturesque romantic drama of the fifteenth century, is the Alcazar's attraction, with White Whittlesey as Francois Villon, the dissolute poet. His adventures and escapes, his fights and his love affairs all lend themselves to a picturesque and busy drama of romance, aglow with life and color and resounding with the clash of steel. Villon is precisely suited to the Whittlesey temperament and method. The production is an elaborate one. There will be fine contrast between the splendors of the French Court, and the revels of Villon's ragged, roystering companions in the wine room of the Fir Cone Tavern. Next Monday Mr. Whittlesey will appear in Richard Mansfield's original role of the romantic German musician in "The First Violin," played for many months at the Garden Theatre, New York. This delightful play has much of the peculiar atmosphere that made "Old Heidelberg" so fascinating. For his third and last week Whittlesey will present James K. Hack·tt's romantic comedy "Don Caesar's Return."

THE CALIFORNIA.

Edmond Hayes and Battling Nelson have been the chief actors at the California this week in a musical extravaganza termed "The Wise Guy." The entertainment is varied enough to suit the most restless minds. It rang all the changes of polite vaudeville from burnt cork dialecticians to prima donnas. Some very pretty and effective work is done by the chorus. A number of their songs are very tuneful, while brightly colored costumes and clever dancing add to the attractiveness of the show. The play has been roundly applauded by crowded houses. Battling Nelson, the world's champion lightweight pugilist, plays the lead in a three-round bout. He is supported by "Bobby" Lundie, the Olympic Club scrap artist; George Siler, the veteran referee from Chicago; and Frank E. McNish of the Brigadiers Burlesque Company, who did the announcing. The Dane does some clever boxing. "The Wise Guy" gives its last performance on Sunday evening. "Kentucky Belles" open on Monday evening.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"York State Folks" has drawn crowds of people who like the realistic farm style of drama. Myron Cooper, the leading personage of the play, is a simple, honest old man, whose life is simple yet full of a romantic interest. Opposed to him is Simon Peter Martin, the strongminded president of the village, whose temper and stubbornness furnish the stumbling block of the story. He forms a vivid contrast to the old village organist, Cooper. These people one feels he has known always, and it is the same with the lighter characters which add to the comedy elements. It is all a simple tale of village life with plenty of heart interest, a few tears and a great many laughs. Two weeks of melodrama follow, beginning on Monday evening with "The Queen of the Highway."

CENTRAL.

In "Wedded But No Wife," the struggle between vice and villainy is cleverly portrayed at the Central. It revolves around a young minister and his bride who are beset by enemies who seek to part the young couple in order to secure control of a fortune that has been left to the minister's wife. The bride is falsely accused and with every circumstance against her, she is driven out from her husband's home. After a time the minister relents and seeks his wife. The villains try to keep the young couple apart. There are many intricate situations and exciting scenes but in the end everything is made clear and the villains are punished and those they have wronged are reunited and made happy. Herschell Mayall and Edna Ellsmere have the roles of the minister and his wife. Little Ollie Cooper, the child actress, who was last seen in this city with Florence Roberts at the California Theatre, plays the part of the minister's child very effectively. Next week "The White Negress of Japan" is to be produced.

FISHER'S.

They are living up to their motto: "If it's at Fisher's it's good." Their bill this week includes several short sketches, some good singing, a clever monologist, two burlesque magicians with some really good tricks, supple acrobats, a marvelous trick dog and new moving pictures. This is hard to beat at 10, 20 and 30 cents. There are two performances each evening.

THE CHUTES.

Chiquita, "The living Doll;" a 1½-pound baby in the incubators; the plump lady who measures 7 feet 4 inches around the waist; the circle swing; the free theatre with its big bill; the zoo; the numerous other free attractions and the crowd keep up the interest in this big pleasure ground.

A ROCHDALE EXPANDS.

Pixley, Cal., August 29.—The Rochdale Co of Pixley has bought out Mrs. M E. Dayton's stock of general merchandise and have moved their stock of goods into the store that she occupied on account of having more room

Put some of the "new" groceries in the window and call the attention of the trade to them. This is the time when the grocer can have in a number of fresh lines, such as canned fruits, cured fruits, canned peas and beans, strawberries, etc., new mackerel, and other 1905 pack goods They will be attractive to the trade because of their freshness.

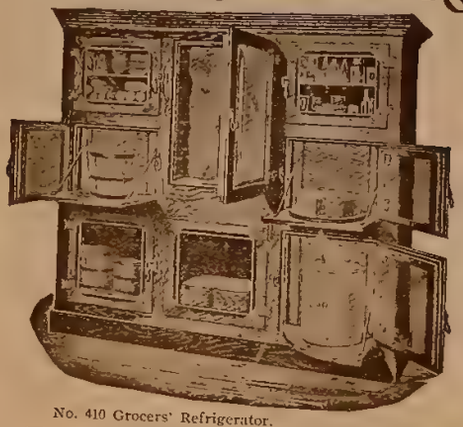
A MARVEL OF EFFECTIVENESS.

Grocers Can Save Time and Money and Keep Their Books Properly and Without Confusion.



We would call the attention of our readers to the letter of H. N. Edlin, the Devisadero street grocer, on page 4 of this issue of the Advocate.

In this letter Mr. Edlin says that the McCaskey Account Register has, in a short time, become as necessary to him in keeping his accounts as his cash register in keeping track of his cash sales. That it saves him several hours time each day and several days' work at the end of each month, and that it has given him a simple and effective system of bookkeeping.

Coming from a successful business man, such a letter carries great weight. Every grocer needs system in his business. A simple system for keeping track of his accounts and helping him keep in thorough touch with details of his business that he could only learn with difficulty if he did not have the system, is a very valuable thing to have.

The McCaskey Account Register is sold on easy payments. Dealers who want to know more about it should write for circulars, etc., to Hawley & Frank, the Pacific Coast agents, at the James Flood Building, Powell and Market streets.

Clerk's Corner

A Bunch of Early Risers.

The members of a flourishing metaphysical sect believe that in rising and setting to work with the sun and retiring when his beams vanish lies the smooth and easy road to the universally desired success in one's chosen work. Early rising, of course, must be relative, regulated by common sense and the hour of retiring, but there are many who believe that the early hours of the day are those in which good work may be most easily performed. Gladstone rose and began work early, as did Bacon. Everyone knows Franklin's homely couplet about "early to bed and early to rise." "Sleep little," says Locke; "great sleepers become brutalized."

Frederick the Great, feeling that he lay too late in bed, issued orders that a wet towel should be thrown over his face at a given time. Until the end of his life he rose at 4 o'clock every morning, as did Henry IV of France.

John Quincy Adams always rose early. Rockefeller, Russell Sage and Mrs. Hetty Green are invariably up betimes, while several of the world's greatest money makers confess to an "unlucky feeling" if they lie late or oversleep Thomas Edison can scarcely be said to rise early, since he only retires by snatches and can pass a remarkably long period of time without rest.

President Roosevelt often astonishes less "strenuous" individuals by his early morning habits. Stevenson woke and got to work early, even if he wrote in bed. And was not Carlyle given to hard tasks in the early morn? And Ruskin and Douglas Jerrold and William Morris and the elder Astors, Vanderbilts, and Jay Gould? And Xenophon and John Randolph, and Henry Clay and President McKinley, and Plutarch, and Alexander Severus, and the great oriental, Saladin; and William Penn, and hosts of other great and famous workers of and for whom the world has been grateful and proud? Milton did his best work early in the day.

The Argumentative Clerk.

There is no man that I cordially dislike more than the argumentative clerk, he who always knows better than you what you want, who understands merchandise much better than you and insists on reminding you of that fact, says a writer in the Business Man's Magazine.

I watched one the other day. "My dear man," he was saying to a customer that did not think a pair of gloves fitted him; "I know more about gloves than you do."

One of the largest shoe concerns in this country is hurting its own trade considerably by the policy of always selling a pair of shoes whether they fit or not, whether they are the style wanted or something very different. Their clerks are instructed from headquarters to make a sale at all costs, to persuade and argue with the customers until they get the cash. They dissatisfy a great many that they succeed in selling to, and offend a great many who refuse to be deceived.

The clerk and the customers do not stand on equal terms. The clerk is in his place to please the customer, to serve him properly and to have respect for his views and even his whims—to make purchasing a distinct pleasure rather than a disagreeable task.

Gratifying Ambition.

"In your railroad department I observe," says an observer, "that M. E. Ingalls, occupying a high position in the railroad world, makes the statement that he has succeeded in gratifying several early ambitions, and that he really enjoys it. He wanted to be able to ride in a 'hack'—I suppose he meant a cab, and it's a costly business—whenever he wished; to have all the kid gloves he could wear, and, finally, to do as he pleased, and never have to hurry to the office.

"The first two are mere whims. I myself for forty years have had a strong desire to take a day off, and eat all the bananas I wanted. From boyhood I have had a hungering for bananas As a matter of fact I could purchase for fifty cents more than I could eat in a day—more than could satisfy that unfulfilled longing, but I have never done it. It's a great satisfaction, however, to know that I still have the desire, that I have the money and that the bananas are there whenever I want them. Perhaps I shall bring them all together some day.

"But the other of Mr. Ingalls' achievements! O, it's mighty fine to be able to do as you please—to never have to 'hurry to the office' and still to be in the fray and have an office to hurry to. There's only one thing better and that is to be on the sunny side of forty and to be steadily climbing up the ladder to the point where you know you won't have to hurry to the office some day. That last of Mr. Ingalls' is an ambition worth any man's best efforts.

A Clerk Who Knew How.

A couple of years ago a man opened a grocery in one of the cities of a neighboring State. He was what is called a good fellow, but he had never learned the story of the value of little things. He continued along in business for a couple of years, most of the time hanging on to the ragged edge of despair, uncertain whether or not another week would find him still in business. Luckily for him he had a newly employed clerk who knew how to take advantage of opportunity when it came knocking at the door. Within half a block of the store was situated the high school. Several times on rainy days, some of the pupils had run into the store during the noon hour and purchased a few cakes for lunch. On one of these occasions a pupil while making his purchase, remarked to the clerk that it rained too hard for him to go to the regular lunching place. The clerk began making inquiries at once, and soon ascertained the fact that a great number of the pupils lived too far away to get home for dinner, and that they were accustomed to going to a lunch counter three blocks away for their noon luncheon. This bright clerk immediately saw great possibilities in this condition of things, and before the next noon came around he had a small gas stove and a coffee pot doing active service. It took but a single day for the pupils of that school to learn that they could get an excellent lunch close by. The ultimate result of that clerk's quick wit and prompt action was the saving of the proprietor from bankruptcy. The pupils are eating at that store to-day; and the profits from their patronage not only pays the rent of $30 a month, but a great part of the clerk hire as well.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

SARDINES.
The French sardine pack has been bad, and importers are looking for higher prices as soon as present stocks in this country are diminished.

MAPLE SUGAR.
The 1905 crop is already out of the growers' hands in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Vermont, and higher prices are predicted before 1906 sap is sugared.

CANNED TOMATOES.
A sale of 3000 cases of California standard tomatoes to a St. Louis firm is reported at 80 cents. Local owners have practically withdrawn prices.

WALNUTS.
A ig Eastern dealer insists that the opening prices on walnuts will be the lowest of the next twelve month.

CANNED SALMON.
Jobbers paid 85 cents for thin Red Alaska salmon and are selling it at all sorts of prices from 87½ cents to $1.20 a dozen. It will never be cheaper.

CODFISH.
The Atlantic catch is still short. This means a continued Eastern demand for Pacific cod and higher prices.

OLIVES.
According to the "Grocery World" there will be decided advances in olives owing to crop shortage and poor quality.

A MODERN NECESSITY.

In these days of close competition the grocer cannot afford to lose profits through careless leaks. One of the necessities of the modern grocery store is the Money Weight Scale, which helps the grocer to give the customer exactly as much as is purchased. With the old scales, when the goods are put up by a clerk who has no immediate interest in weighing accurately, the grocer suffered to the extent of hundreds of dollars every year through overweight and wrong calculations.

The Money Weight Scale enables him to obviate this evil very materially. Its factory is the largest of its kind in the world, and it is said that 90 per cent of the computing scales on this market are produced by the Money Weight Scale Company. Pierce & Co. are the Pacific Coast agents. They have offices in the James Flood Building, Market and Powell streets.

BUILD A WAREHOUSE.

Butte, Mont.—The Butte Wholesale Grocery Co. will erect a warehouse to cost about $30,000 in the near future.

Convention Was Valuable.

'Frisco Delegates to Stockton Report About Good Work Done There.

The principal events of the meeting of the San Francisco Retail Grocers, on Wednesday evening, was the report of H. W. Burmeister for the Theatre Party Committee and the report of the delegates to the State convention.

Mr. Burmeister said that the theatre was to cost $450. He told of the excellence of the play in which Barney Bernard was to appear as "His Honor, the Mayor." A large part of the tickets had been sold.

Mr. Connolly reported that nearly all the orchestra seats had already been taken and that all the boxes had been sold.

J. P. McGuire, chairman of the Grievance Committee complained that Joseph A. Stulz was employing a premium device. Geo. B. Doyle protested against attention being directed towards Mr. Stulz when other members were giving premiums and trading stamps without any attention being paid to it.

Mr. Connolly insisted that the Association would lose members if they made it a practice to single out individuals for censure while overlooking the same thing in others. He insisted that it was not wise to make fish of one and flesh of another. He added that he thought it unwise for Mr. Stulz to give premiums and not consistent with his past work for the Association. H. W. Burmeister advised that no action be taken for thirty days.

The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. Stulz and ask him to reconsider his actions as to giving premiums, and to notify the Association within 30 days as to his intentions.

Delegates' Report.

H. W. Burmeister was the first delegate to the Stockton convention called on to report. He told of the value that accrues to grocery merchants from coming in contact with the successful working forces of other cities. Mr. Burmeister reviewed the resolutions that he thought best pointed the way to better trade conditions

He pointed out how much more the little grocers received from associations than the big grocers and told of the big men who were at the Stockton convention.

In conclusion he said, that the chief lesson he had learned was the value and necessity of being a 'booster" rather than a 'knocker."

John P. McGuire told his idea of how some of the political wires of the convention had been pulled and that he had a good time.

H. Wolking spoke of the lesson taught by the splendid feeling existing among the grocers of Sacramento and Stockton, where the grocers were not bickering among themselves, and the results that were secured in consequence.

J. M. Sullivan said he had attended

Jobbers Called Down.

Manufacturers Do Not Desire Their Goods Used as Bait for Suckers.

Big department stores are always looking for suckers. They offer them "something for nothing," and then rob them when they get a chance.

The "bait" the Broadway Department Store of Los Angeles is offering its "suckers" is the offering of a few grocery staples with whose price all housewives are familiar, at prices that leave no profit. They are under heavy expense with big rent, an expensive salesforce and large advertising, and this expense together with their losses on their "grocery" baits, they tack on to other goods and make the "suckers" pay in directly for what they are told is a "gift."

Many wholesalers are not willing to help a department store work this rotten and dishonest game of advertising at the expense of the retail grocers.

All the wholesale grocers in Los Angeles have taken the stand that they will not lend themselves to the schemes of a firm that avows openly its intent to disrupt trade conditions for the sake of luring gullible innocents into its other departments where they will make up on the dishonest advertising in the grocery departments by equally dishonest high prices on other goods.

Two wholesale grocery firms in San Francisco have declared themselves as opposed to aiding and abetting the methods of these dishonest advertisers. They are:

Haas Bros.
J. H. Newbauer & Co.

Several wholesale houses who owe their wealth to the retail grocers have been willing, for the sake of a few orders, to sacrifice the welfare of the retail grocery trade.

The Advocate does not give them the publicity they deserve now, because the Retail Grocers' Association of Los Angeles has not asked for it. The Los Angeles grocers evidently think that the wholesale grocers of San Francisco have enough sense and decency to realize that it pays to do what should be done without being forced to be decent.

The Advocate would like to see such a state of affairs, but hardly hopes for it. There are several wholesale grocers of San Francisco who say: "What is the welfare of the Los Angeles grocers to us?"

They are like the man who spat out of the window of an office building. When a friend remonstrated that he would annoy the people on the pavement below, he said: "Oh, they're no friends of mine."

But the manufacturers of the big staples realize that they have much at stake. They realize that inactivity on their part would mean the loss of trade and prestige. They have warned the San Francisco jobbers that the Los Angeles retailers are their friends and that they will not stand by to help rob them for the sake of a faking department store, who would be willing to ruin the 600 retail grocery stores of its city if that would help them to get a hold on ten gullible 'suckers" they could rob in their other departments.

It is the fault of the grocers themselves that more manufacturers have not taken this step.

All Boxes Sold.

Large Advance Sale Guarantees Success of Grocers' Theater Party.

"HIS HONOR, THE MAYOR," PLEASES.

The advance sale of seats for the Grocers' Theater Party on Monday evening, September 25th, insures a successful evening both socially and financially. Every one of the boxes on the orchestra floor have been sold. Those who have not yet exchanged their tickets for seats will find it necessary to act promptly if they do not wish to be forced to accept seats in the dress circle.

"His Honor, the Mayor" is a very funny farce-comedy. It is the story of a diminutive but hustling German theatrical manager named Adolph Slitz, who is a member of the Broad of Aldermen. In the absence of the Mayor, Mr. Slitz becomes Mayor pro tem., and his brief reign as the chief executive of the City of San Francisco gives opportunity for a great deal of fun and laughter.

Barney Bernard plays the part of Adolph Slitz. It is different from any role that he has ever appeared in in

BARNEY BERNARD.

San Francisco. He impersonates a German, and it would be hard to recognize in him the Hebrew caricaturist.

There is a long list of characters, all of which are strongly cast. Lillian O'Neil, a very beautiful woman, plays the part of Lillian Hustle, a successful prima donna. Irene Outtrim, a very pretty girl with a beautiful voice, has the part of Pauline Lucky, who wishes to be a prima donna. The masculine part of the cast is in strong hands, and the play is splendidly costumed and presented with interesting stage effects.

Everyone who goes to the performance will not only be helping a good cause, but will also be having a particularly jolly evening.

The committee has been working hard in selling seats. In this regard, State Secretary Frank B. Connolly and J. M. Sullivan are the star performers, both of these gentlemen having sold several hundred seats apiece.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Keep the barrel of fish covered.

Be prompt with the delivery. It pays.

Try to become a tea and coffee expert. It will pay.

Cured fish is selling again in good quantities. It is high, as a rule.

Something doing every day in the canned salmon market. Red Alaska will never be cheaper.

Now is the time to repaint the interior of the store and rearrange the stock. Then for the heavy fall run

Get rid of strictly warm weather items as fast as ever you can. Delay to move such goods is apt to prove fatal.

The show window is wonderful as a help when it is properly utilized. It is a sad handicap when it harbors dirt and dead flies.

Can you walk into the store in the dark and put your hand on any line of goods? If you can, you know the stock as you should know it.

Now is the time to work up enthusiasm on that new line of coffee. People will take more interest in it as soon as the weather turns cool.

Tea is steady to strong. The peace between Japan and Russia eliminates some of the uncertainties that were constantly present in the tea situation.

The first consideration in the window service should be cleanliness. After that constant change of design and goods. After that the nature of the design.

Use plenty of window cards and put price cards freely about the store. They need not be elaborate. They should simply tell their story briefly and clearly.

The world's visible supply of coffee on September 1st this year was 12,102,496 bags, against 11,465,641 bags on August 1st this year, and 13,492,498 last year.

The show window is one of the greatest aids to success when properly used. In nine out of ten business failures the cause should be writ large: "Didn't properly use the show window."

Let the window tell your story to the public—the story of good goods, honest dealing and good service. The truth cannot be disguised when the observer is interested enough to look closely.

Use plenty of mirrors in the window, strips of them, horizontally and perpendicularly. They will attract people, add to the apparent size of the window and make a few goods look like many.

Get the new groceries out. Be the first to offer the new canned tomatoes, corn, etc. When the new raisins and prunes come in give them a front position. New rice is now to be had. Advertise it.

All cured fruit is high. This has been noted from time to time, and is no particular news. However, apples and apricots have both been marked up this week about a cent a pound. And the end is not yet.

The dried apple crop will be short and in New York State the bulk of the supply will be low grade fruit Dealers are now paying a little more for prunes than they would have paid had apples been a full crop.

Better get a new tank for the kerosene this fall. The season of the heavy demand is coming and it will be time and money saved to have an up-to-date self-measuring pump. It may save a fire in the store, too.

Reports indicate that there may be a decline in canned corn, owing to the large pack. Although it is too early to speak with assurance, it is very evident that the production of corn will be large and that a lower level is not impossible.

There is no class of trade that is not attracted by cleanliness—or at least no class worth considering. Once a week is none too often to give the store a thorough scrubbing, and twice a week would be better in the spring, summer and fall.

When the stock is small and the selling force is limited to one or two men, there will be excuse if the window is neglected, but we do not see how the owner can excuse himself. The welfare of the business demands a well-kept window.

Some people say the show window service is exaggerated as to its influence upon sales. Probably their window service is of little influence upon their sales. But that proves nothing, except that they are missing valuable opportunities.

Its low cost is one of the greatest merits of the window service. What other advertisement costs so little to maintain? Probably if it were more expensive there would be more desire to make every day count in the window service, and then the changes would always be frequent

The tea and coffee question becomes ever more pressing to the retail trade at large. The delicatessen dealers are making a big bid for the trade of the coffee and tea drinkers of New York, and it behooves the grocers to be up and doing. Premiums will not do as a substratum for a fine tea and coffee trade. Quality must be the foundation.

A St. Louis shoe dealer covered the window floor with sawdust dyed green and upon the sawdust he placed mats of white cotton-batting for the shoes to stand upon. How would green sawdust suit the grocer who wishes to make a striking floor upon which to exhibit fresh fruits? Oranges and lemons would show up finely upon a green ground.

When business is so good as it will be this fall it is the time to devote more energy to the expansion of the fancy grocery department. When the trade has plenty of money it will buy these lines with freedom Some extra nice bottled goods or something different in the way of canned food may be a fine thing to add to your line. But it must not be left to sell itself. Advertise and demonstrate it.

A form of grocery advertising that is not extensively used and yet is effective is the plan of taking up some one article of foodstuff that is not well known and explaining about it. If told in a crisp, talky style such an ad is interesting to every housewife. Something of the history of the product can be told as well as the best methods of preparing it. A list of prices, together with the different size packages it comes in—if it is cartoned goods—should follow the descriptive matter.

If a lot of candies or prunes are dumped down upon the floor of the window and ticketed at a low price, the sale may be small, for the cavalier or rough treatment of the goods will inevitably suggest suspicions of inferiority of quality. But let only a few pounds be shown, spread upon strips of delicately colored satin, a handful upon each, and then ticketed at the same low price, they should sell well because their treatment and surroundings would suggest that the quality was better than the reality.

This is the time of the year when the retail catalogue house gets the farmer's order for enough groceries to last him through the winter. Why not go after the farm trade on the same scale? Make prices on cases of tomatoes, corn, canned fruits, etc. put up combinations of canned goods, dried fruits, sugar, and other necessities, pricing them a little under the regular small lot figures. The chances are that when you have done this you will find that your prices are lower than the mail order house figures, especially when freight is added.

Salmon has become a staple food product in its various preserved shapes, yet doubtless there are grocers who are not posted at to the various kinds. Salmon is salmon, but all salmon does not bring the same price. Prices range from the royal Chinook at the top to the chum or dog salmon at the bottom. These are the varieties: Royal Chinook, Sockeye, Blueback, Tye, or Red Salmon; Silver, Cohoe or Medium Red Salmon; Humpback or Pink Salmon; Steelhead, Chum or Dog Salmon. It is not safe to judge canned salmon by its color. The oiliness and flavor are safer tests.

RICE CROP CONDITIONS.

Department of Agriculture Explains Reason For Shortage and High Prices.

The following interesting and important bulletin was printed in the August "Crop Reporter" of the U. S. Department of Agriculture:

"The unusual and unprecedented low range of values for all styles and grades of edible rice, prevailing during the fall and winter of 1904-5, and even up to April, had a demoralizing effect upon the entire rice industry of the United States. Prices remaining below the cost of production not only resulted disastrously to a large number of planters, but were calculated to delay the preparation of the soil for the coming crop of 1905-6. As a consequence, many farmers held back from planting.

"The extremely low prices for American rice induced a greater movement in the way of distribution than was ever known and as early as April it was evident that not only the surplus stock carried over from last season would be consumed, but that the crop of 1904-5 was scarcely sufficient to meet the average requirements of the trade up to the coming of the new crop.

"As soon as these conditions became generally known a sharp advance in the prices of all grades of rice become general, and the improvement in values naturally added great strength to the situation.

Rains Prevent Planting.

"April, however, was accompanied with excessive rains, extending well into the month of May, which prevented plowing, and where last season on May 20 over 86 per cent of the crop was planted and sufficiently far advanced to enable this Department to pass upon "the stand," this year (1905-6) at the same date not exceeding 30 per cent of the intended rice area was planted, and not exceeding 50 per cent of the plowing was done.

"The acreage for the season of 1905-6, by necessity of late field operations, and for other reasons before referred to, is largely reduced. An excessively dry spell in early June made the land in the Gulf Coast section so hard as to make further plowing impossible, and this, succeeded by excessive rains and floods, carried the planters over the planting period, though this season, throughout the Gulf Coast section, it was extended to the first week in July.

"Upland" Cultivation Declines.

"In North Carolina, and the section of the State where the cultivation of upland rice is confined, the rice industry has continued to diminish for several years, until now, the cultivation of upland rice is confined to "small patches."

"In the tidewater section of the State, along the Cape Fear River and its tributaries the reduction in acreage is even greater.

"In South Carolina there is a marked reduction in acreage. In Georgia the reduced acreage is not less than 21 per cent.

Less Than Half Acreage.

"While the acreage of the two Carolinas and Georgia last season was estimated at 44,100 acres, this season (1905-6) it is estimated to be about 24,100 acres, or a reduction of about 55 per cent.

"In Louisiana and the alluvial district along the Mississippi River and its tributaries we are advised of a marked reduction in acreage. In Texas we find a reduction in acreage. Much new land is, however, taking the place of abandoned acreage. The reduction in acreage will scarcely exceed 16 per cent.

"In Florida, Alabama and Mississippi a reduction of acreage of about 25 per cent is most likely.

"The total area devoted to the cultivation of rice in the United States last season was estimated to have been 662,006 acres; this season, 1905-6, the acreage will not exceed 490,000 acres, which indicates a total net reduction in acreage for the United States of 26 per cent."

NATIONAL PRESIDENT PLEASED.

Results of California's State Convention Cause for Approval.

Mr. F. B. Connolly, 456 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Mr. Connolly: I read the account of your State Convention in the Grocers' Advocate with much pleasure.

The gentleman whom you have elected president, Mr. Warnke, is a man of great ability and if the other officers are of the same strength, with yourself to help keep up the enthusiasm, there is no doubt that you will accomplish much during the next year.

I am much pleased to read your resolutions, because they embodied mostly what I had written you in what would have been my speech, had I been with you.

The Pennsylvania Convention was also a very great success. I think it was the best convention that I ever attended. They have not affiliated with the National for three or four years through a misunderstanding with Mr. Mason, but I am pleased to say that I have already received some of the per capita tax and no doubt before long that I shall receive the whole per capita tax for the State of Pennsylvania.

Before the time of the convention at Niagara Falls I think we shall have passed through any experimental stage and shall have placed the National on a self-sustaining basis.

The bills that are coming before Congress need a great deal of work by some one. I have not concluded yet just how to manage our part of it before the Congressional Committee. Before the time comes we shall have everything prepared and will keep the grocers of the country, from one end to the other, well posted.

The next few months will slip away very fast when we shall again meet in convention at Niagara Falls. I hope to see a goodly company from the Pacific Coast and I do not think I shall be disappointed, from what I can learn.

Your convention taking the stand it did in regard to the per capita is very assuring. It makes me feel that I want to do still more for the Association at large than I have done in the past. Every resolution passed of that kind places me under greater obligations.

I thank you again and again for your kindly words of appreciation and I assure you my sympathies shall always extend to the grocers of California and the Pacific Coast.

Let me hear from you again soon.

Very truly yours,

JOHN A. GREEN, President.

A SATISFACTORY GELATINE.

It Gives Profits to the Grocer and Pleases His Customers.

Fred. F. Hobbs & Co. are introducing to the Pacific Coast trade the Plymouth Rock Gelatine. This gelatine is granulated and can be measured with a spoon. Every package is divided into two parts, each of which makes one full quart of gelatine. It is positively free from odor and each package also contains a small package of pink coloring to be used for fancy deserts. It requires no cooking or straining. It dissolves quickly and readily, and can be made ready for serving in an hour by using ice. This gelatine has been endorsed by physicians, cooking experts and good housekeepers everywhere. With each carton of Plymouth Rock Gelatine containing one dozen 10-cent packages, a dozen sample packages are given, each of which contains sufficient gelatine to make a pint of jelly. The excellence of the goods is such that the distribution of these samples invariably results in numerous orders, and wherever it has been placed repeat orders have been the rule.

CONVENTION WAS VALUABLE.

all the State conventions and that the one at Stockton was the best of all. He said that if the plans approved at the convention were carried out by the directors, the next convention would be a hummer.

J. W. Offermann took exception to the criticisms made of some of the big men at the convention. He insisted that Mr. Newberry of Los Angeles was showing his sincerity by his work for the grocers. Mr. Fancher of Sacramento had shown the necessity of good fellowship if results were to be secured. This, he thought, was the most valuable lesson of the convention.

Mr. McGuire at this juncture paid a handsome tribute to Mr. Newberry.

Geo. B. Doyle gave the details of the meeting of the convention and how every plan was submitted to committees and then to the convention. He insisted that no attempt was made by any one person to "run" the convention, the idea of all being to consider the desires of every delegate in the cause of harmony and results.

Frank S. Connolly said that he was satisfied that the convention had already brought about a better feeling in San Francisco. As State Secretary he would see that the Association plans were carried out. Since San Francisco had six out of the eleven directors, the interests of the local grocers would not be neglected.

Under "Good and Welfare," Mr. Connolly suggested the appointment of a "Committee on Entertainment and Instruction," who should provide a program for each meeting night with the understanding that the entertainment should be the "special order" for 15 or 20 minutes, beginning at 9:30. This matter was laid over.

A committee was appointed to arrange for another hall.

WASHINGTON IN LINE.

Look Forward to Closer Affiliation With Other Pacific Coast Grocers.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 14—The convention of the State Grocers' Association at Tacoma on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 12th and 13th, was a splendid success. There were delegates represented from Seattle, Spokane, Everett, Port Townsend, Centralia and Tacoma. Oregon was represented by F. Dresser and California by J. R. Newberry and J. D. Campbell.

Jobbers Help Retailers.

The sentiment of the Washington grocers was well expressed by their president, Lieutenant-Governor C. E. Coon, who expressed appreciation of the possibilities of co-operative effort on the part of the grocers in the three Coast States. He also spoke eloquently of the help accorded the Washington retailers by their jobbers, saying:

"In our effort to better retail trade conditions in this State, we have been very ably assisted by the Washington wholesale grocers and manufacturers as a whole. I have made inquiry of members in different parts of the State and find that the wholesalers and manufacturers have vied with each other in rendering financial and moral support. This, when contrasted with the antagonistic and indifferent position of the wholesalers and manufacturers of Oregon and California is all the more striking and should be a source of gratitude and encouragement for the work we are trying to do.

"Recent events in Oregon encourage the hope for better conditions there in the future. Our California friends are making substantial progress in impressing upon the selfish and indifferent wholesaler and manufacturer there the injury to trade resulting from their action and for which we, in this State, are made to suffer.

"It is well known that some of our cutters would have to go out of business were it not for the piratical aid extended by those outside of our borders.

"Another wonderful help to the Association is the trade press of the State and. I might say with truth, of the United States."

Good Resolutions Adopted.

Resolutions were passed covering the following matters:

1st—Endorsing the Dixon bill now before Congress, compelling Government employes to pay legitimate accounts.

2nd—Against the using of trading stamps and other gift premium schemes.

3rd—Against putting out short weights and measures whether by manufacturers, producers, wholesalers or retailers.

4th—Condemning the Parcels Post law.

5th—Declaring positively in favor of the manufacturers fixing and maintaining retail prices on their products and promising preference to manufacturers who take such steps.

6th—Thanks to J. R. Newberry.

7th—That the per capita tax of all local Associations shall be computed on July 1st, and shall be due and payable at that time.

8th—Thanks to Lovett M. Wood, delegate to the national convention.

9th—Favoring a national pure food law.

10th—Favoring preferential support to those jobbers who refuse to sell to cutters.

Numerous interesting addresses were delivered which will be printed later.

Officers Chosen.

Officers of the Washington State Grocers' Association were elected as follows:

President—Chas. E. Coon, Port Townsend.

Vice-President—Chas. H. Plass, Tacoma.

Treasurer—C. H. Buelow, Spokane.

Secretary—J. J. Higgins, Seattle.

Directors for Washington for Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association—C. H. Plass. C. Anderson and A. F. Bickford.

The following nine gentlemen were elected trustees for the State Association: Spokane, E. E. Parmeter; Sprague, Walter J. Gray; North Yakima, E. Maillious; Seattle, A. F. Bickford; Tacoma, J. H. McDonald; Everett, J. A. Myers; Port Townsend, Chas. E. Coon; Aberdeen, Eugene Shelley; Centralia, Wm. Scales.

Pacific Directors Meet.

Pursuant to the requirements of their constitution and by-laws, a meeting of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association was held at Tacoma during the State convention. Those present were.

California—J. R. Newberry, Los Angeles; J. D. Campbell, Stockton.

Oregon—F. Dresser. Portland.

Washington—Chas. H. Plass, Tacoma; C. Anderson, Spokane; A. F. Bickford, Seattle.

F. B. Fancher of Sacramento was elected president for the ensuing 12 months; H. Hauch of Alameda, treasurer; J. R. Newberry of Los Angeles, first vice-president; F. Dresser of Portland, second vice-president; C. Anderson of Spokane, third vice-president.

The directors approved the steps already taken and authorized the publication of the "Actual Costs" letter.

TO PROTECT PRICES.

New Plan to Make Cutting by Retail Grocers Impossible.

In his last "Bulletin" of the Southern California Grocers' Association, Secretary J. F. Paulding makes public the following plan by which A. Schilling & Co. expect to protect the grocery trade in their profits:

"The most elaborate plan ever devised for the protection of retail prices has been outlined by Mr. Schilling, of the firm of A. Schilling & Co. of San Francisco. The plan undertaken is remarkably simple after the original details have been mastered, but it takes a master mind to figure out the amount of detail matter necessary to put the plan into operation. Those who read the plan as outlined below will not realize how difficult a problem it is to master all the details, until they try for themselves. By simply reading the plan, it will seem simple, yet the detail work necessary in order to make it simple, caused many days of study on the part of not only Mr. Schilling but others who were conferred with from time to time. The plan is as follows:

"Each case of goods has a certain case number and every can in the case is numbered the same as the case. Inside the case is put a profit draft ready for the signature of the retailer who bought the case of goods. This profit draft bears the same number as the case containing the baking powder.

"The goods go to the dealer charged at full retail price and the case number is recorded together with the name of the purchaser.

"The retail dealer upon receiving the goods which have been charged up to him at full retail price, opens the case and finds a profit draft for his profits, and can indorse the draft and use same in payment of the goods just received, or he can indorse it and pay to any other wholesaler, and is not out anything by him having had the goods charged up to him at full retail price. In indorsing the draft the retailer signs an agreement not to sell the goods at a less price than established by the firm of A. Schilling & Company. This draft cannot get into the hands of any other persons than the one to whom the goods are charged, and if it should it would be no good until indorsed by the party receiving the case numbered as charged on the books.

"When the goods are sold through the jobber the numbers of the cases are taken and the jobber receiving the goods are held responsible for continued cutting, for he is notified by the firm of A. Schilling & Company not to sell to anyone who does not maintain the retail price. He must also agree to furnish the name of retailer who bought case number corresponding to those that might be cut at any time.

"This plan is almost identical with that which was submitted to several manufacturers by the Pacific Coast Association last January. About the only different is that the price charged the retailer is full retail price, whereas the Coast plan contemplated withholding about half of the profits. Also that the returns were to be paid with a rebate certificate to be signed by the purchaser in place of a draft.

"We think there is no doubt that this plan will succeed and every retailer who desires a profit should lend every assistance possible to help make the plan a success."

A DESIRABLE INNOVATION.

Progressive Idea to Lessen Waste of Handling Mill Products and Increase Profits.

Every retail grocer has been annoyed by the necessity of breaking small packages of meals. What with leakage, down weight, careless weighing by thoughtless clerks, and what not, it is seldom that a sack of meal can be broken without ultimate loss.

To this should be added the annoyance of a dirty corner Meals, under the most favorable circumstances, are not cleanly goods to handle. They attract moths and flies. Even when the sack is not opened, they are liable to develop weavils and suffer from dampness and the absorption of foreign odors. When opened once, the likelihood of loss in this way is largely increased.

Many careful grocers have noted this and so many of them spoke about it that the Del Monte Milling Co. recently put up an entire line of meals (about twenty-five varieties) in two-pound and five-pound cartons, sealed so as to be entirely air tight. These new packages, which are all put up under the "Peacock" brand, have proven enormously popular and also highly profitable for the grocers handling them.

A Boon to Housewives.

They are right in line with the spirit of today when housewives use gas stoves, families live in flats and have telephones with which to order frequently. The smaller packages are a great boon to such housekeepers since they enable them to have variety in their breakfasts without their shelves being cluttered up with a great mess of sacks that are in the way and grow stale unless the household is kept down to a uniform diet.

The Del Monte Milling Co. have ever been in the forefront of progress in this regard. They were the first of the California mills to present their trade with buckwheat flour and whole wheat flour. And now they have come into the market with a line of package goods that will tend to make the grocery business easier and pleasanter.

They do not propose to leave all the work of popularizing these packages to the grocers. An active advertising campaign will be instituted at once. Trained canvassers will be sent from house to house to tell the ladies of the innovation and its merits. These canvassers will distribute beautifully illustrated booklets, carrying numerous valuable recipes and describing the various goods that can be bought in these packages.

Carry Good Profits.

In addition to this, the profits of the grocer will be carefully protected Whereas, the profits on bulk meals is usually from 20 to 30 per cent, the profit on the package goods will be from 30 to 50 per cent. What is more, the manufacturers will fix the selling price of each package and insist that it be maintained. They will not supply these goods to a firm that will not agree to maintain their established prices and a firm that may cut them will find itself saddled with troubles galore.

The grocer need not "load up" on these cereals—as they usually have to do on those of Eastern manufacture in order to get a profit. Meals are in the list of perishable goods. Even those that have been sterilized are likely to deteriorate through age and dampness if kept too long. Buying from a Pacific Coast concern, the grocer can get his goods as he needs them and can insure to his trade freshness and freedom from weavils or other animal life since the meals will be sterilized before packing and the cartons will be made of heavy cardboard.

When a firm like the Del Monte Milling Co. guarantees that it will not let its prices be cut, the retail grocers may feel safe in putting the goods in stock. The trade should also lend encouragement to a manufacturer who seeks to supply a need along new lines, especially when this firm also plans to protect the grocer in his profits

WANT BETTER COFFEES.

"The farmer should be a good customer for a higher-priced coffee than he ordinarily uses, say a thirty-cent line," said a Minneapolis retail grocer recently.

"Instead, most of the farmers drink coffee that retails around 15 to 20 cents a pound. The average farmer nowadays has a bunch of cows and markets his cream, many drawing a check of perhaps $50 a month regularly from the creamery. Then he has his chickens, garden produce and his annual crop.

"He is thus well fixed and can better afford a thirty-cent coffee than the laboring man in the city a twenty-five cent grade which he frequently buys

"We find that the tendency of the farm trade is gradually working towards better coffee, but it is not as rapid as it should be.

"In these days of high coffees the quality of the eighten-cent coffee or the twenty-cent is not what it was a few years ago and the retailer who works his country trade up to a higher priced coffee is doing his customers a favor and making a better profit for himself."

NEVER HAS COMPLAINTS.

B. J. Brophy & Co. of Butte, Mont., one of the firms that received a $60 gold watch from the Porto Rico Co. for being one of the four firms outside of San Francisco to sell the most Ponce de Leon coffee between April 15th and August 15th, in a letter acknowledging the receipt of the watch said:

"We are getting along very well with your Ponce de Leon coffee. It goes steadily in a non-diminishing stream, and we never have a complaint of it. It has, of course, a flavor particularly its own, which requires two or more trials to popularize itself. But after those trials the coffee is established strongly in the consumer's favor.

"We have an order for some now on the road, which we wish you would forward as promptly as possible."

MANUFACTURED BY Computing Scale Co.
DAYTON, OHIO

1—They give the correct value of the article being weighed.
2—They prevent loss from errors in calculation.
3—They save time required in making calculation.
4—They are made better than ordinary scales.
5—With proper care they will last an ordinary life-time.
6—The pivots are of hardened tool steel, and with agate bearings inserted at the proper point, are practically indestructible.
7—They are sensitive to the very small fraction of an ounce.
8—They are an ornament to any store.
9—They are the only scale that is mechanically honest.
10—Customers, knowing them to be an honest scale, like to have their purchases weighed on them.
11—Sold on easy monthly payments.

With the Money Weight Scales you at once weigh goods AT THEIR MONEY VALUE.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The Weekly Report of the United States Department of Agriculture says:

"Conditions have been generally favorable for maturing of late fruits. The first crop of raisin grapes in the San Joaquin Valley are curing steadily. If fair weather continues, raisins will be ready for the packing houses in a few days. Raisins are reported excellent in quality, but yield in some sections is below the average. Prune harvest is almost completed. The yield is lighter than was anticipated, but the fruit is of good size and quality. Apple crop will probably be the best for several years both in quality and quantity. Almonds are yielding large crop. Bean harvest is in progress in all sections, and reports indicate that the crop will be very large."

SUGAR.

There have been two declines of 10 cents each since our issue of last week

New York, September 19th—There was another decline of 10 cents in Federal sugar to-day, now at 4.75 net cash; others unchanged. Raws continue dull and unchanged.

New York, September 18th—Federal, 5 points lower to-day, at 4.85 cents net cash; others, 10 points lower, at 4.90 cents net cash. The week has been a dull one, with raw sugar neglected. There was a decline of 10 points for Federal, to 4.90 cents net cash on Thursday, September 11th, followed by the decline noted above.

New York, September 12—M. G. Wanzor & Co report.

"Raws—Conditions this week show no improvement over last. The uncertainty regarding the state of the raw market is cutting off the demand for refined.

"Refined—The market to-day is virtually on a basis of granulated 5.05 cents with all discounts deducted, less 1 per cent. As this leaves a difference of 111 points between the cost of centrifugals and the net cash price of granulated, a decline is confidently expected."

New Orleans, September 9th.—G. Schwartz reports:

"The disposition of holders to unload before a new crop comes in shows a marked increase. The prospects for a large crop were never more promising."

MOLASSES.

New York, September 12th—N W Taussig Co report.

"The market is a little firmer on low grades of goods and black strap. No changes have taken place in price, but the market is quoted considerably firmer."

Cairo, Ga, September 9th—W B. Roddenberg reports:

"The sugar cane acreage in Georgia and Florida is fully 25 per cent short of last year. Condition of cane is about the same. Prices will undoubtedly rule higher as the supply will not be sufficient to meet the demand."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, September 9th—F. N. Johnson Co report:

"About the only holders of maple syrup in Ohio, Pennsylvania or Vermont that have anything to offer are the jobbers and retail grocers. Markets will be cleaned up entirely before any of the crop of 1906 is harvested. Higher prices will surely prevail."

TEA.

A. Schilling & Co say:

"Prices in the Orient are very firm and much higher than last year, owing to the shortage in the Japan and China crops. Undoubtedly we shall see a very strong market in this country before the next season's crop comes in."

New York, September 12th—John B. Brown & Co. report:

Green Teas—Cable advices from Shanghai advise advance of 1 cent per pound, which brings the price of teas in that country to a higher basis than those ruling in America. A large number of orders to fill and scarcity of stocks due to the wet wheater explain the situation. No lower prices are expected this coming season.

Japans—Since peace was declared a strong competitive demand has arisen in Japan which has tended to increase prices. The market in Japan seems to be continually advancing.

Oolongs—The entire Formosa crop has been placed at continued steady values and slight rise of price.

Congous—The market in Shanghai has advanced 1 to 2 cents per pound for moving crops, owing to the large export demand especially for teas available for Corea, Manchuria and Siberia.

Home Market—Prices are slightly advancing. Some grades, particularly Ping Sueys and low grade Congous, have advanced within the past ten days. There seems to be no immediate prospect of lower prices.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"There has been no notable change in the coffee situation since last week. Roasters are buying little at present on account of having purchased heavily in August, but greater activity must follow shortly as existing stocks in roasters' hands are being rapidly depleted. Prices are down another quarter-cent."

New York, September 12th—Volney Green & Son report:

"Brazil coffees have ruled irregular, showin ⅛ to ¼ cent decline. Options have also ruled irregular, but now show no change. Mild grades continue fir and unchanged, except Mochas, which show ¼ cent advance."

New York, September 8th—M. J. Brandenstein & Co. report.

"The receipts of Brazil coffee to date are about 350,000 bags less than at the same time last year and about 750,000 less than at the same date the year before last. The world's visible supply is nearly 1,500,000 bags less than at the same date last year. On these statistics, and especially with the high rate of sterling exchange now ruling in Brazil, it looks as if present prices are reasonable, and unless something unforeseen happens should gradualy harden from now until the end of the season. Mild coffees in comparatively short supply and all grades are strong."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market is firm, but unchanged. Buyers are awaiting reports on the new crop."

Portland, Ore., September 14th—Captain Mentzenhin of the steamship Arabia reports:

"The rain has been so excessive in Japan of late that the rice crop is almost ruined. It is feared that a rice famine will result."

New York, September 12th—Dan Talmage & Son Co. report:

"The market has been strong since local prices are somewhat under the parity of primary markets. Mills at New Orleans are selling output daily at full values, which shows a decided advance over last week."

New Orleans, September 9th—G. Schwartz reports:

"Prices on both rough and clean are decidedly higher. The whole country seems to be bare of rice and orders are far in excess of any previous year."

Charlestown, S. C., September 9th—Samuel G. Stoney reports:

"New rice is coming in slowly, as planters are not disposed to rush their small holdings on the market this season. A comparatively small amount of Carolina rice will be produced owing to the greatly reduced acreage. The mills are entirely cleaned up of all old rice, both rough and clean, and the new season wil open up with "swept decks." It is confidently expected that good grades of Carolina rice will easily bring from 4½ to 5 cents."

CANNED FRUITS.

There has been a strong demand from the East for everything in the way of cheap peaches. Most of the business is being declined, however, as packers are heavily sold. The pack of late peaches will be completed in a short time. Most canneries report that indications now are for full deliveries in all grades of canned friuts.

California canneries are devoting themselves to tomatoes almost entirely. A sale of 3000 cases of 2½s standards in St Louis at 80 cents is reported. These goods were sold subject to quality, being like sample submitted. The canners have all practically withdrawn prices.

Baltimore, Sept. 7th—The "Trade" says:

"California will get an opportunity this year such as she has never before had of entering the Eastern market with canned fruits. Peaches she usually has a field in, but this year she will have the field to herself, except in so far as Michigan may supply that local section."

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, September 8th—Paul Taylor Brown Co reports:

"A letter from Singapore, dated August 3d, says: 'We do not anticipate lower prices in the future, owing to the important rise in exchange, together with higher prices for tin plate.'"

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, September. 20—Canned tomatoes are easier at 95 cents. There have been many rejections on account of quality.

New York, September 19th—Tomatoes are strong. There are many buyers at 95 cents, with sellers asking $1.00.

New York, September 15th—The tomato market is quite excited. Several sales have been reported at $1.00, with 95 cents offered for 50,000 cases.

Aberdeen, Md., September 9th—Straus baugh, Silver & Co. report:

"Tomato patches and vines, especially in low places, suffered irretrievably from being flooded by heavy rains from Saturday to Monday. Raw stock is averaging 70 cents per bushel ($20 to $25 per ton), against contract price of $6.00 per ton."

Baltimore, Md., September 9th—Thomas J. Meehan & Co. report:

"Growers and canners were given another set-back by the irregularity of the weather this week. The cost of raw tomatoes for canning purposes continued all the week at the highest price of the season, averaging 70 cents per bushel.

Noutville, Va., September 9th—Layman & Bishop report.

"The tomato crop has been the nearest approach to a complete failure we have ever seen. There are not over 15 to 20 carloads where there should be nearly 200. Our market is firm at 62½ cents for 2's and 85 cents for 3's, and is sure to be higher in a few days."

Baltimore, Md., September 8th—The "Trade" says.

"The tomato situation depends largely upon the extent of the crop of Missouri Valley. That section planted about double its usual acreage of tomatoes. It seemed for a while as if it would prove a valuable auxiliary to the Indiana tomato canneries in this remarkable season. But the last reports are that it is doubtful if they will have more of a crop than any other section of the country. Standard tomatoes of gallon size are greatly missing. They advanced 15 cents in the week. Another advance in general quotations is expected. Everything regarding tomatoes now depends upon the weather for the balance of the month."

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., September 11th—Wm. G. Michael & Co. report:

"The corn market continues dull, although the prospect is for only half a crop in this section compared with last year. We quote: Sugar corn, 52½ to 55 cents; standard sugar corn, 60 cents; Lancy shoepeg, 65 to 70 cents."

Baltimore, Sept. 8th—The "Trade" reports.

"The most of the sugar corn packed that will be secured by canneries has been harvested by this time. It will probably be enough to carry the country over until the beginning of another season. The market is quiet, with no interest as yet in actual purchases."

Philadelphia, Pa., September 8th—The "Grocery World" says:

"Corn is unchanged and very dull. In some sections the pack will probably be below the first estimates, but, nevertheless, will probably be large enough to cause great weakness. There is at present no pressure to sell corn, however."

West Poland, Me., September 8th—B. M. Fernald, of Fernald, Keene & True Co., reports:

"The dry weather in August has cut down the pack of corn materially, so that we now anticipate only a fair average pack. The quality will be the finest for many seasons. The market is very quiet. Packers have little to offer, most of them having been well sold up on futures early in the season."

RAISINS.

Fresno, September 15th—The raisin combine to-night fixed prices on bleached goods. The prices are about 2 cents higher than ever before. They are:

Bleached Thompson Seedless—Extra fancy, 10½ cents; fancy, 9 cents; choice, 8 cents; standard, 7 cents.

Bleached Sultanas—Fancy, 7 cents; choice, 6 cents; standard, 5½ cents.

The above prices are f. o. b. common shipping points and on condition that the raisins are paid for before shipment; discount for cash 1½ per cent.

These prices are for goods packed in fifty-pound cases. The combine is holding off remaining prices as long as possible in order to prevent the outsiders from cutting under. They held off the prices on bleached goods until they were in the packing houses ready for shipment. It is understood that the prices on muscats will not be announced until well into October. The prices named will depend largely upon the number of outside growers who come into the association in the meantime. The combine has decided to bring suit against any grower who sells his goods to outside packers in violation of his contract.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY

New York, September 19th—The trade are not taking the California Seedless Sultanas at opening prices, but are buying imported, which are relatively cheaper than the California fruit.

New York, September 15th—Outside packers are offering new loose at following prices: 2 crown, 5 cents; 3 crown, 5½ cents; 4 crown, 6 cents. There have been no takers.

Hanford, Kings County, Cal., September 13th—A canvass of the raisin crop of this county by the Raisin Association would tend to indicate that only about one-third of the crop of the county is in the association. The work of canvassers has not yet been completed. The results so far show that outside vineyardists interviewed expect 3138 tons of muscats, 73¾ tons of sultanas and 386¼ tons of Thompson seedless. The crops of those in the association total only 1166 tons of muscats, 24¼ tons of sultanas, and 7 tons of Thompson seedless.

New York, September 9th—Last year at this time there were about 18,000 tons of loose muscatel raisins on the Pacific Coast. To-day there is not more than 1000 tons all told. Although the association has not fixed prices, outside sellers are said to have taken many orders, and are now quoting f. o. b. Coast as follows: 2 crown, 4½ cents; 3 crown, 5½ cents; 4 crown, 6 cents. At the present cost of goods in the sweat box these are considered low prices, since 4 to 4½ cents is being paid for raisins in the sweat box. Owing to the shortage of the crop a further advance in the near future is expected.

San Diego, Cal.—The crop of raisins in this section will not be heavy, although the quality will be excellent. The light crop is thought to be due to the fact that the strength of the vines this year has gone into the wood growth under the influence of the wet winter.

PRUNES.

New York, September 16th—There is a fair demand in spot goods for 40s at 7¼ cents, 50s at 6 cents and 60s at 5¼ cents, in 25-lb. boxes, New York.

New York, September 15th—Offerings are being made of 50s, October shipment, at 3⅜ cents, Coast basis, with no takers.

Salem, Ore., September 15th—Clinton J. Kurtz reports:

"Dried prunes are eagerly sought by dealers. Most of this year's crop has already been contracted for and there are not enough to fill orders."

Bordeaux, France, August 17th—United States Consul D. J. Murphy reports.

"The prune crop of this district will be even larger than that of last year. Conditions for a good crop have been favorable, the warm dry weather promising an excellent quality of prune, large and sweet."

DRIED APRICOTS.

New York, September 8th—A large packer has informed Eastern correspondents that the quantity of apricots on the Coast is small and held at high figures. In Southern California only about 300 tons were found, mostly poor, with holders asking 7 to 7½ cents. In Ventura about 500 tons were unsold at the end of August, with 7 cents as an inside figure for any grade fruit. In Santa Clara Valley and the North there were practically none left in growers' hands outside the large lots in strong hands. The entire stock in growers' hands is estimated at not over 1000 tons.

DRIED APPLES.

New York, September 12th—Del Marle Bros. report:

"The market in future evaporated apples has advanced during the past week, and sales have been made at 7¼ cents for November, and 7⅛ cents for December."

Middleport, N. Y., September 11th—R. T. Chase reports:

"Nothing can save us from a shortage of evaporated apples except heavy windstorms which might braise them to such an extent that they could not be shipped green."

Wolcott, N. Y., September 4th—Johnson & Northrup report:

"Such high prices are being offered by the green apple dealers for reasonably good apples that apples to evaporate must be poor in quality and small in quantity. Probably about 20 per cent of last year's make will be manufactured. Prices must range higher than present New York quotations."

WALNUTS.

New York, September 9th—A prominent concern declines to book further orders for California walnuts subject to approval of opening prices because they have already sold on that basis more than their expected share of the crop. This firm said: "Instead of the crop of 1000 to 1200 cars of walnuts for 1905 we think the actual figures will be about 450 cars, at the outside 500 cars. The crop is very short and prices are bound to rule strong. The crop of foreign walnuts is also short and will be high, and the trade that hold off this season expecting to buy cheap walnuts pay for their expectations. The first price named will be the lowest, as the States west of Chicago are capable of absorbing every pound of California walnuts raised this year; consequently it is reasonable to expect the Atlantic seaboard and Eastern States will have to depend on foreign supplies this season."

Bordeaux, France, August 17th—D. J. Murphy, United States Consul, reports:

"Owing to the warm and dry weather walnuts have fallen from the trees in such quantities as to seriously alarm the growers. Even should favorable weather prevail during the balance of the growing season, the crop will fall below that of last year. It is impossible to quote prices now."

ALMONDS.

New York, September 16th—The trade are taking hold of almonds with fair interest at the opening prices.

NUTS.

New York, September 9th—Hills Bros. Co. report:

Almonds—A fair demand, at 12 cents for spot. New crop October shipment are offered at the same figure.

Walnuts—Spot stocks show an advance of ¼ cent for the week.

Brazils—An exceptionally heavy demand has resulted in the advance of ¼ to ½ cent. Pospects are for somewhat higher prices in the immediate future.

PEANUTS.

Weldon, N. C., September 11th—Carolina Peanut Co. report:

"Spanish peanuts firm at the highest price of the season. Stocks are entirely cleaned up out of hands of farmers and merchants. The new crop will come on a bare market."

LIMA BEANS.

Ventura, September 16th—Considerable damage has been done to growing lima beans in a few sections by the late hot spell. Estimates of loss vary from 25 to 60 per cent. The hot weather caught the beans while they were still small and forming and shriveled them up to a point of uselessness. The damage is confined to a few sections. A record-breaking lima bean harvest is still the prediction.

Pinckney, Mich., September 9th—Thomas Read reports:

"The quality of beans in this district will be fine and the yield above the average of former years."

Pontiac, Mich., Sept. 9th—O. M. Carpenter reports:

"I do not look for nearly as large a yield of beans as in 1904. Very few beans are left in this section. Grower is now getting $1.35 per bushel."

Rockford, Mich., September 4th—Dockeray Bros. report:

"A two days' rain has soaked everything, including beans already pulled. Even those unpulled cannot fail to suffer some damage. Prices range from $1.50 to $1.55 f. o. b. More rain will certainly cause some advance."

Albion, N. Y., September 8th—Tilden & Scharping report.

"There will be a short crop of early planted beans. The late planted beans are better and will turn out three-quarters of a crop if they do not get hurt by frosts. We think there will not be much less than half an average crop."

Scottsville, N. Y., Sept. 8th—J. C. McVean Jr., reports:

"The bean crop of this State will be about 70 per cent of last year. The shortage is caused by blight due to excessive rains."

Cigars and Tobacco

McGovern & Smith is the name of the new firm conducting the well-known Semaphore stand at 1032 Market street.

H. L. Polack, San Francisco representative of the Cuban-American Manufacturing Co. of Tampa, Florida, and Havana, Cuba, is doing a very successful trade with the Elite imported cigars, which are exclusively handled in this market by Sam Newmark, importer of fine cigars, of 213 Montgomery stret.

One of the most popular cigar stands of Oakland is that of H. Scharman, at Fourteenth and Washington streets. Mr. Scharman is an extensive handler of the El Modelo cigars, and has his own brand, the Del Monda, also made by the Cuban-American Manufacturing Co.

J. L. Jerichau has just taken the San Francisco agency for the Publicos, clear Havana goods, of the Jose Lovera Co. Mr. Jerichau has made a ten strike with the Rough Rider, which is now one of the best-known nickel cigars in this market, and is on sale at over 500 stands.

George G. Shaffer is one of the most progressive dealers in the far-out Mission section, and his stand at Twenty-fourth and Mission streets carries a large and varied stock. Shaffer's does a big trade in high-grade as well as nickel goods. He handles the El Modelo in case lots.

J. M. de Bare, of 2520 Mission street, has one of the most important stands in the Mission district. One may find here almost any cigar he calls for and a selection of pipes without a superior in San Francisco. A handsome electric sign adorns the front of the store and informs passers-by that the El Modelo is the leader.

An Eastern cigar dealer is after the "trust" with "a sharp stick." He recently placed in his show window an elaborate cartoon advertising one of his cigars through the medium of ridicule and denunciation of the "Trust." The principal theme was the coupon. Lurid illustrations depicted the ultimate fate of those that enticed by the bait of premiums consume "trust" goods, while contrasted was the beatitude of the smoker of the brand advertised. Well, there are several opinions concerning the value of this kind of advertising, and there is a proverb prevalent in mercantile communities that every knock is a boost.

Conditions in the manufacturing end of the cigar business are badly congested in some localities. A trip through one of the principal manufacturing centers showed that numerous factories are in the same condition, says "Tobacco." Orders are piled up so badly that shipments are made in smal lots, just to keep the dealers supplied, in the hope that it will be possible to catch up and get something ahead before the fall rush actually begins.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" says: "Senor Antonio Santaella, of Optimo fame, arrived from Cuba Sunday, having completed his purchase of a big stock of the best Vuelta Abajo leaf. The Senor left at once for Chicago to be absent two months or more. During his absence the factory addition will be nearly completed. It is now up to the second story. The enlarged Santaella factory will be 265 feet long and will have twenty-three windows in a row from end to end, making this the biggest individual cigar factory in use anywhere."

Paterson, N. J.—Price cutting, inaugurated by the trust stores, has caused disturbance in the retail trade. Paterson is a fair trade center, though so much of the population is made up of mill operatives that in numerous localities only the low-priced grade of goods are handled. Retailers in the better districts of the city complain that the trust stores began to cut prices and that they were compelled to do likewise or lose business. The effect of it all is that business is on an unsatisfactory basis and steadily getting worse.

Chairman Freeman has returned from his trip to the West in the interest of the great tobacco exposition in October, bringing back a number of contracts and promises of a good many more. In a number of instances the only thing that stood between Chairman Freeman and a contract was the fact that the concerns were incorporations, and nothing short of the full board of directors could authorize an appropriation to defray the expense of an exhibit. He found some firms who had heretofore misunderstood the proposition entirely, and when Chairman Freeman made a personal explanation of the movement, and demonstrated what the exposition is going to be, it changed matters so completely that it will be necessary for boards of drectors to reconsider the matter.—Tobacco.

STAMPS A CURSE.

The Retail Merchants' Association of Pennsylvania opened its ninth annual convention at the Continental Hotel in Philadelphia Tuesday by an attack on trading stamps. About 400 delegates from every part of the State were present, and Grocer Thomas Martindale voiced the sentiment of the gathering on the coupon evil. Said he: "One thing I am glad to say I think has run its race, and that is the trading stamp business. Trading stamps are the greatest curse that has ever fallen on our business. They are an unmixed evil. Many who used them at first have seen their danger and dropped them, and those who are mixed up with them now are anxious to get out. The trading stamp scheme is an unnatural way of doing business. It can't last long, and it should not have lasted as long as it has. I hope this convention will do much toward hastening the end."

YOU GIVE IT AWAY.

Where Some of the Grocer's Hard-Earned Profits Go to.

No matter how good a hand scale you have you give overweight. It is not the fault of the scale, but of the man who handles the scoup. If he didn't give overweight, the time he lost would cost more than the goods saved.

Heretofore this has been an evil without a remedy, but the Bond Automatic Weigher has solved the difficulty, and insures exact weight and increased speed.

NIAGARA DRAWS CROWDS.

Threatened Destruction of the Great Cataract Quickens Desire to See it Before it "Dries Up."

More pilgrims have gazed upon the beauties of the picturesque Niagara Falls region this year than ever before in its history. This, it is thought, is largely due to newspaper talk about the possible destruction of the falls in the near future.

Instead of detracting from its beauty and grandeur, the harnessing of the cataract to many industries has added greatly to the popular interest in it. The "show place" among these industries is the beautiful "conservatory" in which shredded wheat is made. Not only the industry itself, but the noble building in which it is housed is singularly fascinating to the popular mind. Its location in the heart of the choicest residence district in Niagara Falls is the result of a search for cleanliness and beauty. There are wheat foods and wheat foods, but only one shredded whole wheat food, and the thousands who visit the falls never seem to tire of going through this "castle of light" and noting the extraordinary provisions made for the welfare of the employes and witnessing the process of shredding wheat.

Here are made every day in the year 1,250,000 shredded wheat bicuits—and, of course, the company would not make them if the people did not eat them. It is not known how many people have passed through "the home of shredded wheat" this year, but so great have been the crowds that it has come to be an interesting question as to which is the greater attraction at Niagara Falls, the cataract itself or the conservatory into which pours every day a constant stream of golden grain which emerges in the form of shredded wheat.

No pilgrim to the falls should consider his trip complete without a visit through this unique establishment

Talk is still rife of the proposition to put an import tax on coffee when congress meets in December. Whether this will be done or not is a question, but apparently it would be a bad thing for the grocer. He would almost invariably have to absorb anywhere from a part to all of the tax and it would simply cut down his profits on coffee—already small enough—to that extent. A tax on tea would not be felt so much, although it would have the same general effect.

IN LINE FOR BEST TRADE.

A light palatable article for lunches is always in season.

At almost anytime the grocer is likely to have a call for something suitable for a light spread, and what more appropriate for such purposes than Pim-Olas and "White Label" Queen Olives.

They are put up of the best olives of Spain, and make a very attractive package for the show window and the display counter.

The dealer who carries this class of goods is in line for the best trade.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—The grocery of Gosliner & Magner, 228 O'Farrell street, was visited by a burglar early Sunday morning, September 10th, and $18 stolen from a small tin box that had been hidden in a show window in front. W. Eppey, a clerk, informed Policeman Harry Hook that when he locked up late Saturday night there was a young man in the store who told Eppey he had bolted the rear door. When Eppey reached the store on Sunday morning the rear door was wide open and the small tin box had been emptied of its contents.

Carlsbad—C. E. Kreutzkamp has removed his shoe store and repair shop to his place from Oceanside, and will conduct it in connection with his grocery here.

Fresno—W. D Wiley, manager of the grocery department of the Kutner & Goldstein Company, and a party of friends recently spent three weeks in Mono canyon, near the summit of the Sierras. They found excellent fishing and hunting, and were especially impressed by the beautiful scenery of the South Fork canyon.

Ocean Park—W. F. Hewitt, grocer, has been forced into bankruptcy by the United Wholesale Grocery Company, the Globe Grain and Milling Company and the firm of Crombie & Co., whose cleams aggregate over $1500. W. C. Mushet, secretary of the Wholesalers' Board of Trade, was appointed receiver by Judge Wellborn, on petition of the creditors.

Petaluma—S. H. Ross has vacated the grocery recently injured by fire at the Washington street bridge The burned portion will be rebuilt. Mr. Ross is uncertain as to his future movements, but will "lay off" for a month.

Pomona—E. J. Merriman is moving his grocery store from 418 West Second street to the room formerly occupied by the Pomona Tea store at 171 West Second street. He has secured a lease of his new store for five years and is now putting in shelving and other fixtures.

Santa Rosa—E. J. Spellacy of San Francisco has opened a new grocery store at 14 Main street, and he will also have the agency of the well-known Hibernia Brewery of San Francisco, the largest steam beer brewery on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Spellacy is an old hand at the grocery business, and is said to understand it thoroughly.

Sebastopol—Geo McFarlane has had a gallery built in his grocery store for the purpose of storing goods. He has also made other improvements about the premises.

Stockton—J. E. Williamson, grocer, has filed a voluntary petition to be declared a bankrupt. His schedule shows his liabilities to be $4022.75 and his assets $1324.15.

Ventura—M. L. Stahl, proprietor of the Ventura Grocery, recently returned from his trip to Portland and the Fair, whither he went in search of muchneeded rest and change. He was greatly pleased with his visit, and comes back much improved in health and ready to get into harness with his old-time vim

Butte—Vroom & Montgomery reported discontinuing grocery business.

WASHINGTON.

Bellingham—Geo. Smith has been appointed trustee for Hans Pearson's grocery.

Medical Lake—E. B. Copeland, grocer, reported to have discontinued.

Meyers Falls—C. W. Nelson, groceries and hardware, is adding dry goods stock.

North Yakima—J. J. McDonald's grocery is reported closed under foreclosure of mortgage.

Seattle—H. Wheeler has purchased C. H. Goudey's grocery. H. Thomas has purchased G. Hughes' grocery store.

Spokane—W. P. Smith has succeeded Kenny & Smith, proprietors of the Indiana Grocery Company. Mary J. McIntosh has sold the Eureka Grocery store to M. A. Allen, for a consideration of $1000.

SUPERB SANITARY CONDITIONS.

The Joseph Campbell Company, Camden, N. J., is composed of a band of expansionists. They are so active in pushing ten-cent soups that the demand, which took 16,000,000 tins last year, is regarded as the forerunner of requirements that must reach 50,000,000 tins, when the peg will be advanced to the 100,000,000 mark. And that would simply mean one tin of soup for each family every two months.

We were astonished at the changes made in three years in the plant at Camden and the superb sanitary conditions under which concentrated soups are now made. The list of raw materials used in one day was a revelation. Automatic processes are followed, and so superior are methods that it is no wonder the company believe in the open factory door as being the key to public confidence.—N. Y. American Grocer.

SIMPLIFIES BOOKKEEPING.

A Sstem That Records Accounts as the Cash Register Does Cash Payments.

Every retail grocer can be benefited more than he realizes by a system that will enable him to save time in his bookkkeeping and at the same time keep in better touch with the actual condition of his business. This fact has helped the success of the McCaskey Account Register. It is well to consider the following things:

The courts say: "We don't want the ledger, we want the original entry." You have it on the McCaskey Duplicating Pad, and the customer has a copy of it.

The McCaskey Account Register keeps accounts, don't draw any salary and will pay for itself in the saving of clerk hire before you know it.

Keeping accounts in books is unkeeping them in many cases, as every time they are copied there's one more chance to make a mistake; it is like a story, every time it's told it's a little different. But keeping accounts in the McCaskey Register is right, because you only write them once, and they are correct.

The McCaskey saves many hours of labor and expense.

When accounts are kept by the McCaskey systerm, your customers get a copy of each and every purchase at the time it is made, showing the date, the clerk that sold the goods, the items comprising same, the amount, the balance brought forward and the grand total down to the minute. There is no chance for dispute.

Hawley & Frank, James Flood building, Market and Powell streets, are the Pacific Coast agents. They will gladly forward any information desired. The McCaskey Account Registers are sold on easy payments.

GROCERY MARKETS.

CANNED SALMON.

New York, September 19th—There are reports of sales of sockeye talls at $1.22½, but these are not confirmed. It is also reported that the unsold balance of the Puget Sound pack is now controlled by the large packing interests.

Bellingham, September 18th—The meat of the sockeye salmon caught on Saturday night did not cook up properly. As a consequence the canneries will put up no more of the belated run after to-morrow. This is a source of considerable disappointment since the canneries expected the second run to swell the size of the pack. The second run is phenomenally late and has proven overripe for canning.

Victoria, B. C., September 14th—J. B. Babcock, Fish Commissioner for British Columbia, reports that the spawning of sockeye salmon this year was very satisfactory. As a consequence the run four years from now will be exceptionally large. Circumstances point to a small run for the next three years.

Bellingham, September 14th—A fair catch of fish was brought in from the traps to the Pacific-American Fisheries last night for the first time in many days. The majority were silversides. Some of the cannerymen are of the opinion that the run of fall fish will be light, while others believe there will be plenty of them.

Seattle, September 9th—The "Trade Register" says:

"The sockeye market remains firm at opening prices and some local brokers estimate that as much as 60 per cent of the pack has been sold. It is reported also that the heavy sales in red Alaska have resulted in nearly cleaning up the market of both spot and future stocks of that grade."

CODFISH.

C. P. Overton, of the Union Fish Co. says:

"The few vessels of the Berhing Sea fleet that have already arrived have made short catches owing to the scarcity of fish. The remainder of the fleet will probably get an average catch if the weather will permit the vessels to remain out later than usual."

SARDINES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The catch of sardines on the coast of France is practically over, and the result of the catch has been a great disappointment. We will see higher prices as soon as stocks in the United States are somewhat diminished."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, September 12th—B. O. Bowers Co. reports:

"Large quantites of goods sold under contract have been delivered during the past two weeks since the run of fish began. Some of the cheaper standards in quantity lots can be bought as low as $2 for both oils and mustards. Higher grades of standards bring from $2.10 to $2.15."

FISH.

New York, September 11th.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Irish Mackerel—Autumn fishing in Ireland has been very light. Prices are very firm and there is a good demand.

Norway Mackerel—Catch in the North Sea very good so far, but fish run very small.

Imported Oil Sardines—Catch in France continues nil. In Portugal no catch at present. In Spain there is nothing doing.

Sprats—Stocks are getting low and prices have been advanced all along the line. Remaining stocks are in firm hands.

Stock Fish—Prices are higher than they have ever been before. Buyers are holding off waiting for holders to reduce their unreasonable demands.

Holland Herring—Catch poor and prices higher.

Scotch Herring—Large falls very scarce and prices advancing.

New York, Sept. 8.—Thos. Woodward & Sons report:

Imported Herring—The market was weakened by hot weather and heavy receipts. Owing to shortage in catch of both Holland and Scotch herrings, we now look for higher prices.

Codfish—The catch is short and prices will probably rule high through the season.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 8.—Thos. M. Shriver & Co. report:

Irish Mackerel—Up to this writing, fishing in Ireland has been very discouraging. Indications are that prices will be higher. The stock of fall Irish mackerel is about exhausted.

American Mackerel.—There is but little stock on the market. It is possible a few more may be caught but not many.

Canadian Mackerel—The catch is almost a failure and quality very poor.

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. report:

"The market is firm at present quotations."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Martin's cheese is firm at present quotations."

OLIVES.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 8.—The "Grocery World" says:

"All importers of olives have refused to take their usual orders for delivery throughout the season. They have authorized their representatives to sell at present prices only up to October 1st. Advices received from Spain are extremely discouraging, and it is now even said that the crop will be inferior in quality as well as quantity. There are very few spot olives about and it is as sure as anything can be that prices will advance during the next few months."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Aspegren & Co. report:

"Increased offerings of new crop crude oil at 23½c with not much demand and light demand for refined from abroad, caused a decline of about 1½c this week. The market remains weak."

SPICES.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 7.—McCormick & Co. report:

"Consumption of peppers has been greater than ever before known. Owing to the shortage in primary markets indications point to higher values."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"In most districts everything is under cover, many raisers having profited by their experience of last year by starting to market or house their crops immediately after baling.

"Owing to the scarcity choice hay will be called out of storage immediately.

"As we write 500 tons of cheaper grades are being shipped for the Russians and it is hoped that more will be moved westward during the winter to relieve us of our surplus crop.

"Except for a growing scarcity of straw on the market, which is helping sales at somewhat higher prices, quotations continue as last week:

"Choice wheat hay, $12.50 to $13.50.
"Other grades same, $9.50 to $10.50.
"Other grades wheat, $7.50 to $9.00.
"Wheat and oat, $8.00 to $10.00.
"Tame oat, $7.00 to $10.50.
"Oat and clover, $5.50 to $8.50.
"Wild oat, $5.00 to $8.00.
"Barley and oat, $7.00 to $9.50
"Stock hay, $4.50 to $5.50.
"Alfalfa, $5.50 to $9.00.
"Straw, per bale, 25c to 40c."

ALCAZAR.

White Whittlesey appears this week in the Mansfield role of a young German noblewoman in the "First Violin." This is the story of a high-minded young man betrayed by a woman, ruined in fortune and unjustly suspected, who begins live anew as the first violin of an orchestra. He falls in love with a pretty English girl who is studying music in the conservatory and it is the bringing of right out of wrong and the developing of the best that there is in the noble people of the play that makes up the story. Miss Lawton is the English girl, and does her work well. The scenes are laid in Cologne and the atmosphere of the play is very German. Mr. Whittlesey's farewell week begins Monday next, when "The Last Appeal," a romantic drama dealing with the pomp and glitter of the Austrian Court, is to be presented. A new stock company follows with an elaborate production of Hall Caine's "The Eternal City."

MAJESTIC.

Jas. Neill and his company are presenting Thomas' famous play, "Alabama" this week. Mr. Neill takes the part of Colonel Moberly, a relic of the Confederacy. The rest of the company is strongly cast and the play is well staged and is being well produced. Burney Bernard follows next week in "His Honor the Mayor," and on Monday evening the grocers and their friends will occupy the entire house.

CALIFORNIA.

Jimmy Britt is the brightest particular star at the California this week. He spars three rounds with Frank Rafael at the conclusion of the show, and the entire house waits to see his performance, which is full of ginger and gives people a chance to understand what the little ex-champion looks like in action. The burlesque company of the week is known as the Kentucky Belles. They have a piece known as "Murphy's Mistake," which is full of vaudeville stunts and horse play with the usual bevy of chorus girls.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

High-class melodrama well staged and with an exceptionally strong cast is the bill at the Grand for this week. Their first production is "Queen of the Highway," a story of the frontier and a band of highwaymen of whom a daring woman is one of the leading members. Aileen May fills the title role most satisfactorily. Loretta Taylor also does some very good work as the outlaw's daughter. The piece is full of thrilling incidents which are produced in a very realistic manner. Beginning with Sunday afternoon, "Held for Ransom" is to be put on by the same company.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

Packed houses continue to reward the Tivoli for its daring to bring out such a band of splendid singers as that with which it is presenting its grand opera this season. On Friday and Saturday evening "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" are to be sung, and on Sunday night "Rigoletto." Next week's repertoire includes "Traviata," "Masked Ball," "Barber of Seville," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci."

CENTRAL THEATER.

The Central Theater has a winner in the "White Tigress of Japan." There is a thrill for every minute and there seems to be about one hundred minutes to the hour. The story of the drama deals with the wrongs done to a Russian woman who escapes from Siberia and goes to Japan. She rises to high rank there, and because of her hatred for the Russians is called the White Tigress of Japan. The management say that they have been making preparations for this play for many weeks and the wonderful scenic effect would show that this is true. Edna Ellsmere plays the Tigress and scores a very decided hit in the role. Herschel Mayall as an American naval officer arouses the house to enthusiasm by helping those in distress at critical moments. The stage is crowded with people and the mob scenes are very effectively done. The piece is to followed by "Escaped from the Harem."

FISCHER'S.

They have the usual strong bill at Fischer's. The program is a varied one and up to the high standard established by this house. There are two performances every evening and a matinee each afternoon.

CHUTES.

They have a new "shocker" at the big pleasure grounds this week. Zarrow coasts down a narrow plank on a bicycle and in the course of his descent jumps a gap in the pathway about twenty feet wide. This exhibition is given in the open air both in the afternoon and evening. The free show in the big theater has several new features.

A JOURNALISTIC TRIUMPH.

A splendid account of the sixth annual convention of the Washington State Grocers' Association was printed in the "West Coast Trade" of September 14th. Since the convention occupied Tuesday and Wednesday September 12th and 13th, it is easy to understand that the paper had a very busy time. The publication will be of great value to the Association members of Washington, who should keep it for reference.

TURNING DOWN FUTURES.

"In the West several influences have worked toward a big subtraction from the volume of future canned goods business," says the "Commercial Bulletin" of Minneapolis, in discussing why the sale of futures is less this year than before. 'One of the most prominent is the retailer's discovery that with few exceptions there is nothing in future caned goods buying for him. Another is the fact that many retailers are just getting square on big bills contracted two and three years ago. The sensible advice of the sensible jobber to his retail customer is another factor. There are too many people in the trade who forget that the educated and up-to-date retailer is a thinker and a mighty influence in the distribution of merchandise."

MARQUAT-ELLIOTT COMPANY... Los Angeles, Cal.—The Ward-Elliott Company has been reincorporated under the style of the Marquat-Elliott Company.

Clerk's Corner

Didn't Know His Customers.

Our friend of the Uncle Sam physique was caught napping one day this week, and his various assistants were accessories before the fact, says the "Inland Grocer." A personal friend of his, who had recently moved his family into the neighborhood, stopped to speak to him as he stood in the front end of his store.

"Hello, James," he remarked. "I have not seen you since you told me you were coming to live in God's country. Why don't you come around?"

"Fact is, old man, that I get away from home while you are down at the market and get home after you close up," said the visitor. "I guess my folks are around once in a while."

"That so?" queried the old man. "I'd like to make their acquaintance. Bring them around and introduce them. We will treat you right."

"Sure, Mike," was the response. "Wait a minute."

Whose Children Are These?

Two children, a boy and a girl, were engaged in making purchases inside the store. They had filled a basket and were waiting for their change when they caught sight of the newcomer and waved hands to him.

"Whose kids are these?" he asked, in a low voice of the proprietor.

"New to me," was the response. "They have been coming for some time, but always take their goods home and pay cash, so I have not learned who they are."

"Good customers?" asked the other.

"None better—guess I'll have to get acquainted with them," said the old man as he started to speak to the older one.

Before he could reach her she ran up to the visitor, whom she greeted as "papa," and of whom she demanded that he carry home the full basket.

"My daughter, Mr. Colonialwaarenhandler," laughed the visitor. "We have been your customers for three months and you don't know us yet."

The old gentleman passed off the incident jovially, and made friends with the children with his usual tact, but the employes of the store were quick to observe that the incident did not please him.

Hunting the Remedy.

"We must devise a way to know everyone who calls here," he said at the weekly council which he held with his clerks the following Monday night. "I have noticed more than once that we have regular customers whose names and addresses we don't know, and whose trade might be increased if we could get at them. We must try to get the names of all the people in the neighborhood. It is worth a good deal to each of you to be able to speak to a customer by name, and I would like to be able to send goods to the home of each, on order, without asking the address, which we ought to know. Each of us should know the children's first names, their parents' surnames and their addresses. If we can get their credit rating also that will be of value, but we ought not to neglect those who pay cash."

"That litttle girl you were introduced to at the door the other day is a bargain hunter," interjected a clerk. "She hunts around and asks prices to beat the band before she buys anything."

"She may have the making of a business woman in her," responded the proprietor. "Anyhow, she is expected to buy according to her available cash, and I prefer that to a credit beyond what the family can afford. It does not make much difference, anyhow, on the general argument. We ought to know our customers, and I hope never to see a regular customer enter or leave the store again without recognition by our people here."

Attracting Trade

Information for Auto Tourists.

The Mint of Hints has frequently called attention to the cash value of a reputation as a bureau of information. Such a reputation brings many transient callers to the store that possesses it, and few of them depart without making some purchase, so that the increased sales foots up a respectable figure in the aggregate.

There is a comparatively small store near New York, on a road much traveled by automobile tourists, which has built up a most profitable connection within the past few years, by gaining a reputation for cheerfully furnishing information for these tourists.

The proprietor of this store and his assistants have become perfect encyclopedias as to the geography of the surrounding country. They can give a tourist correct and explicit directions as to the best roads to take to reach any desired point within a radius of many miles. They know all about the roads leading in every direction, what ones are sandy or hilly, and what ones are best adapted to automobile traffic.

Further than that they not only know the locations of every garage and repair shop along the different roads, but they know all about the hotels and houses of refreshment, and direct tourists as to the best places to stop for a luncheon or dinner. In fact the store carries a considerable variety of business cards, of hotels, restaurants, and automobile repair shops, which are distributed to tourists.

As a result hundreds of automobiles stop at this little store in the course of a season, and the amount of business which it derives from this source is large and profitable.

Applicable in Many Places.

Now there would seem to be a hint in all of this which might be utilized by scores of dealers in suburban localities in many sections, and they might go even further than the dealer above referred to has done in making known their ability and willingness to furnish information to tourists. They might display small but conspicuous signs, reading:

Automobile Tourists Bureau
of Information.

Then too, they might get out some special cards On one side they might have printed their regular business card and on the other something like this:

"Information for automobile tourists cheerfully furnished. We know all about the roads in this section, and can tell you the best and shortest routes to all points of interest, as well as the best hotels, garage and repair shops. We also have a public telephone, and keep the most varied stock in this section."

These cards could be widely distributed. It would be well to leave a number of them at all of the garage and automobile repair shops in the cities and large towns within a radius of forty to fifty miles, as well as at all of the hotels which make a specialty of catering to automobile tourists.

Cards would naturally be given to all tourists who call and they would naturally pass the word to others whom they met upon the road that the store was a reliable place to secure information.

The expense for printing and distributing the cards would be trfling, and it should not be difficult for a bright man to acquire the necessary knowledge as to roads and other matters in a comparatively short time, while the additional business that could be attracted in a short time should prove a considerable item.

The Booklet as a Trade Bringer.

The booklet is the ideal form of descriptive advertising. It is the only medium for telling the advertiser's story in his own way and in detail to the prospective buyer. It permits him to tell it—the newspaper or poster permits him to only hint it.

The booklet is an exclusive announcement. Yours should have an individuality of their own which will cause them to stand out distinctly and secure instant recognition.

In most cases it would be well for the dealer who advertises to employ some distinctive feature that shall appear in all of his newspaper advertising. If a peculiar type is selected, it should be so far out of the ordinary that it will stand out from among the other type faces in the paper, and a hard and fast agreement should be made with the newspaper publisher that no other advertiser shall be permitted to use the same style of type in his columns.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

HOLLAND HERRING—
The catch of Holland Herring has been extremely short.

DRIED APPLES—
The shortage of Eastern crops becomes more pronounced as the season progresses.

COFFEE—
Salvador coffee is selling in San Francisco for less than it can today be bought in the country of production and laid down here.

AMERICAN SARDINES—
Packers have agreed to close their plants a month earlier than usual this year in order to curtail the pack. Prices will be advanced.

RICE—
Read the price reports on page 20. Prices are advancing, and weather conditions have been and are such as to make still higher prices almost certain.

CRANBERRIES—
The Massachusetts bogs will be about 150,000 barrels short this year; the Wisconsin crop is also short. Boston advises an advance of $1.00 a barrel and foretells more.
